MELBOURNE, — (CP). — In the far north of Australia the danger second to the Japanese, is "jungle juice." One recipe is to put an inch or two of rice in a pickle jar, the same quantity of raisins and sultanas, fill with canned fruit juice and allow to ferment. Methylated spirit may be added, but in any case, pink elephants follow.

TORONTO, Aug. 26 — (CP). — The good citizens of Lethbridge, Alta., are biting their nails over a rumor that only one R.C.A.F. hockey team from each air command will be permitted to compete for the Allan Cup this year. The Lethbridge fans figure the only Alberta R.C.A.F. team would be located in Calgary and that Lethbridge would be without big-time hockey for the first time in years. The rumor, however, is entirely without confirmation.

Old Stuff:

Amateur hockey's play-for-pay plan is not new. Johnny (Vancouver Province) Park says Si Griffis, one of the famous old Vancouver Millionaires, collected $1,000 plus return transportation from Vancouver for a season with Kenora, Ont., Thistles nearly 40 years ago. Park says $20 a game was not an uncommon payment for a soccer player's services in B.C. cities around the turn of the century.

One-Man Gangs:

Herb (Winnipeg Tribune) Manning suggests the National Hockey League might solve the manpower shortage with one-man hockey. The schedule might appear: Jan. 15.—Patrick (New York) vs. Ross (Boston), Adams (Detroit) vs. Irvin (Montreal), Tobin (Chicago) vs. Selke (Toronto).

Incidentally:

The former professional hockey player, Conny Tudin, made his amateur boxing debut in Ottawa the other night and trimmed Johnny Myrenich of Barriefield, Ont., in the 175-pound class. Tudin played junior hockey with Ottawa Rideaus and wound up his professional career with the New Haven Eagles before joining the R.C.A.F. a year ago. He was with Ottawa R.C.A.F. Flyers last winter.... New York Rangers were the first wartime Stanley Cup champions in 1940. Of that team's 15 players, only three remain— Ott Heller, Bryan Hextall, and Phil Watson.. The others have all been traded, enlisted or retired. Eight members of the Ranger team which lined up for last season's first game have enlisted. The latest was Bob Kirkpatrick, former Regina, Flin Flon, Man., and Lethbridge amateur

Eastern Ontario Regiment Won Battle Honors At Sicily

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY, Aug. 26 — (CP). —Four infantry battalions — the Royal Canadian Regiment, the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, the Seaforth Highlanders and the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry — established the Canadian bridgehead on the Pachino Peninsula when the 8th Army descended on Sicily in the darkness and the developing light of dawn on July 10.

Despite a sandbar stretching across the whole length of the beach and despite a heavy sea, these battalions splashed ashore in waist-deep water, broke through barbed wire and overcome comparatively light Italian opposition on the shoreline.

On the immediate left of the Canadians were special Service Bridage Commandos, under Canadian command. They had been landed shortly before the Canadians to attack coastal guns there.

On the right flank the 51st Highland Division assaulted the tip of the Pachino Peninsula with the same astounding success.

Simultaneously, the British Malta Brigade went ashore northeast of the town of Pachino, and the rest of the 8th Army— the 5th and the 50th Divisions— landed in the Avola area and struck north to capture Syracuse and Augusta.

North of the 5th and the 50th Divisions, British airborne formations came down. Around Gela on the south coast the Americans struck with assault divisions of their 7th Army.

That was the general picture.

Naval, Air Bombardment

On the Canadian Beach, the R.C.R.S. and H.PE.S went in on the right, the Seaforths and Patricias on the left As soon as they reached shore they were supported by naval and air bombardment, with landing times varying from about 4 a.m. to dawn. Shortly after 5 a.m. they thrust inland

The R.C.R.S. played the leading role, overrunning a coastal battery three miles fom the beaches and then capturing Pachino airfield during the morning. This was the first airfield captured on the island, and 48 hours later Spitfires were flying off it, thanks to the job done by a British airfield construction unit.

Then the R.C.R.S. stormed an Italian gun position a mile northwest of Pachino and knocked it out. The first Canadians killed in Sicily fell in this brief but fierce fight.

There are now three graves at the foot of the hill leading to the former enemy position.

The H.P.E.S. pushed inland on the left flank of the R.C.R.S., cleaning up pockets of Italians and taking prisoners as other battalions were doing.

Commandos on Flank

The Seaforths and Patricias had a brief scrap on their beach, but got ashore and after cleaning up the beach area swung northwest to Ipsica, with the Commandos on their left flank.

It was a freakish war at this stage, with the Commandos at one time fighting a squadron of Italian horsed cavalry. A monitor and six destroyers lay less than a mile off shore, shelling targets inland, with the monitor paying special attention to Ipsica.

The axis of the Canadian advance was northwest toward Ipsica and Ragusa, with the westerners leading. During the morning of July 10 the 48th Highlanders and the Edmonton Regiment landed and were followed by four other units.

About noon the Carleton and York the West Nova Scotia and the Royal 22nd Regiments came ashore with a Quebec tank regiment. The support unit followed the assault battalions in groups.

Also in support of the Canadian advance was a self-propelled British field artillery regiment with 25-pounder guns mounted on Valentine tank chassis. This regiment had a notable record during the entire push straight through to Adrano.

The Edmontons were first into Ipsica and their patrols were practically mobbed in the streets by cheering Italian civilians. A company of the Seaforths occupied Pozzallo, south of Ipsica on the coast, and the R.C.R's got into Rosolini, north of Ipsica.

Capture General and Staff

The three Western units shared in the push on Modica which surrendered July 12. It was here the Canadians captured an Italian divisional general and his staff.

By this time, Canadian tanks were working with the infantry. There were only a few skirmishes and snipers were the one serious problem.

A group of the Edmontons with some tanks went on to Ragusa and linked up with the Americans there.

Then Maj.-Gen. G. G. Simonds swung the Canadians due north for Vizzini, 18 miles away over mountain roads. His troops had half a day rest just north of Modica where Gen. Montgomery came to see them, and then they were away again on forced marches with the R.C.R., the 48th and the H.P.E. leading.

They passed through Giarratana and Monterosso, where it seemed fantastic that the enemy did not attempt to defend the mountains, and went up a long valley toward Vizzini.

There were some brushes with the enemy on the hills southwest of Vizzini, but the 51st Division on the right shelled the town thoroughly and captured it as the Canadians gained the hills to the west.

Again the Canadians changed direction, and they knew they were heading for Enna, in the heart of Sicily.

The H.P.E.'s went west along the road from Vizzini to Caltagirone, and on July 15 hit German opposition for the first time. A Bren gun carrier patrol with a tank reconnaissance patrol and some other troops ran into an ambush outside of Grammichele.

Fired Down Road.

Several German tanks and pompoms on half-track vehicles raked the carriers and knocked a number of them out. German and Italian infantry in the town fired down the road on the Canadians.

The Canadians spread out on the ground as the H.P.E. advance guard commanded by Lt.-Col. Lord Tweedsmuir came up and attacked Grammichele. The infantry worked into the town in close fighting, and a small force of Canadian tanks drove off German tanks and pompom vehicles.

The Germans were driven back along the road to Caltagirone. The 48th Highlanders were sent through to continue the advance and occupied Caltagirone without a fight.

In six days the Canadians had advanced more than 60 miles with the infantry marching most of the way. The troops suffered from sunburn and the dust was stifling.

Clever Planning.

The supply organization worked like clockwork due to the good planning and the industry of the R.C.A.S.C. The prisoner of war problem was becoming acute at this stage. There were so many Italians who had surrendered that they were a definite deterrent to the advance.

The physical endurance of the Canadians was an outstanding feature of these early days. They stood up magnificently under the gruelling marches, the nervous tension and the fight at Grammichele.

MRS. MARGARET HEMPSTOCK

Tells Of Great Benefits From Using Syntona

"Brought Blessed Relief From Pains in Arms, Shoulders and Limbs, Also Stomach Troubles, Nervousness and Constipation After Many Other Things Had Failed," Says This Lady.

"It is quite a long time since I first took Syntona, but I am always glad to tell my friends and neighbors how much it helped me, and even now I occasionally use it," said Mrs. Morgaret Hempstock. 146 Avondale Avenue, Hamilton, in a recent statement:

"When I first began taking Syntona, I had been in poor health for a long time. My nerves were very bad and my stomach was weak and easily upset I continuously suffered from gas distress, shortness of breath, and a nauseated feeling after meals. I had been troubled with constipation for years, would get frequent headaches, and had such terrible pains in my arms, shoulders and limbs. In fact, my shoulder hurt so much that I couldn't raise my arm to comb my hair. I often had a feeling of dizziness and couldn't sleep at night.

"I tried various things without results, but when I got Syntona I soon knew it was going to help me. After a little while I could digest my food with no gas or distress after meals, the aches and pains left me and my bowels were moving nicely every day. Since then I haven't been troubled with dizziness or headaches and even now I have a grand, restful sleep at night. But if ever I do feel upset or not just as I should, I take Syntona for a little while and soon everything is all right again I am glad to endorse Syntona and recommend that other people suffering like I did try it, too."

The action of Syntona is often surprising to many people, but there is a good reason for this. Syntona contains 12 herbs, roots and barks and acts on stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels. It aids assimilation of food for increased energy and resistance and in ridding the system of excess acid and poisonous waste.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.

New Rental Order Affects Sub-Tenants

OTTAWA, Aug. 26— (CP). — The rentals administration of the Prices Board announced yesterday that after October 1 tenants of housing accommodation will no longer be able to perpetuate their leases in favor of sub-tenants or assignees of the leases. This provision is contained in the recently-announced rentals order, which becomes effective October 1.

If a tenant assigns his lease or sub-lets the entire accommodation for the balance of the term of the lease, the landlord is entitled, under provincial law, to recover possession at the end of such time.

"In the past," the Board's announcement said, "it has been possible for the tenant to assign his lease to another or sub-let the entire accommodation and, at the termination of the lease, renew it for the benefit of his successor. This will not be possible on and after October 1."

The Real Thing

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP)—Several hundred Waves, training at Hunter College, were roused from their dormitories for a routine fire drill which turned out more realistic than scheduled. There was no fire —but up to the school rolled two engine companies, two hook and ladder trucks, the fire patrol, two battalino chiefs and several police cars. It seems one of the Waves, assigned to a nearby fire alarm box, misunderstood her orders and pulled the lever.

R. Kennedy Returns Absent 33 Years

MARMORA, Aug. 26 — (ENS).—After an absence of 33 years LAC Roy Kennedy revisited his native village Marmora for a few hours on Tuesday evening With a keen eye for old landmarks all he seemed able to fully recognize was his former home and the old stone building which was known for so many years as the St. James Hotel. With only a short time at his disposal he was only able to locate three old schoolmates in the persons of Carl and Flossie Boyd and Harry McWilliams. He was successful, however, in locating a comrade of 1919 who with him was engaged in clerical work in the Regimental Depots Group at Witley Camp in 1919. This comrade was ex-Sergt. W. J. Cottrell. The two had not met since their demobilization period.

LAC Kennedy, who has been on the Pacific Coast for the past two years, is taking a course at Trenton, which provided the opportunity to visit the scenes of his boyhood days. His father, Thomas Kennedy, who will be 80 in October, resides at Guelph, his brother Harry whom he has not seen for four years is in Alaska, and his sister Jennie lives with her husband on a farm in Alberta.

Lord Louis Mountbatten Faces Gigantic Task As Commander

LONDON, Aug. 26 (CP)—Appointment of rough and ready Lord Louis Mountbatten as Allied Supreme Comander in southeast Asia was interpreted generally here today as promising a combined sea, land and air assault on the Japanese in Burma.

London newspapers greeted the announcement of the appointment with big headlines, such as "Lord Louis will lead offensive on Japs" and "Eisenhower of east will lead attack on Japan."

Reflecting the popular interpretation placed upon the appointment was the view expressed by Brig. Horace Sewell, military expert of the British information service with headquarters in New York, who said Mountbatten's first task probably would be a combined operation in Burma.

"The first step of the campaign," he wrote, "must be the obtaining of complete control of the Bay of Bengal—a major naval undertaking which will probably involve the reoccupation of the Andaman Islands.

A Young Man

"Once naval supremacy in the Bay of Bengal has been achieved, the way will be open for a descent on the Burma coast from the south and west. This attack will probably be combined with extensive guerilla-type warfare in the hills separating Assam from Upper Burma."

Lord Louis, who in recent months has been chief of combined operation in Britain, is the first Britain named to a post of supreme Allied command since the United States entered the war—and, at 43, by far the youngest.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Mediterranean area commander-in-chief, is 53. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, top leader in the Southwest Pacific, is 63.

High-born Lord Mountbatten already is well on the way to becoming a legendary figure in Great Britain.

As head of the Commandos, he has the distinction of holding high rank in the army, navy and air force, although his status as a lieutenant-general and an air marshal is of an honory nature. In naval rank he is a vice admiral.

A succession of breath-taking adventures in the navy, in which he commanded a destroyer flotilla at the time he became chief of combined operations, has added to his fame.

Guns Were Hidden

TORONTO, Aug. 26. — (CP). — Capt. James A. Catto, who was with the Royal Regiment of Canada in the raid on Dieppe, said in an address to a service (Kiwanis) club yesterday that cunningly concealed German gun emplacements — not spotted in time by the British Intelligence Service—were responsible for more Canadian losses than the five pillboxes and reinforced houses occupied by Nazi soldiers.

THE EXPLANATION why WHITE SWAN TISSUE may be "out of stock" at your dealer's.

You go to your dealer for your regular supply of WHITE SWAN and find him temporarily out of stock. Naturally you are disappointed, but please don't blame him, as he is only too anxious to keep on supplying you with Canada's most popular toilet tissue.

It is simply a question of supply and demand. He cannot keep enough WHITE SWAN in stock because we cannot supply him fast enough. We cannot supply him fast enough because our mill, in turn, cannot meet the increased demand from Government, war industries and the public.

We would like to be able to make more WHITE SWAN than we are turning out now, but war needs come before our requirements for new equipment. So, until the present crisis is over, we ask you to bear with us. We will do our utmost to see that any dealer out of stock for the moment will soon receive his supply.

United Nations Not Intending To Play Santa

LAKE COUCHICHING, Ont., Aug. 26.—(CP).—The United Nations will play neither Santa Claus nor Simon Legree in helping liberated peoples in this war and afterward, it was indicated today by Eugene Staley, technical expert of the United States Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation.

Staley, speaking before the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs, said the program would be "directed toward rescuing people, by soup kitchens and handouts where necessary, but above all by helping them to become self-sustaining again as quickly as possible."

The problem will be the oldest in economics, Staley said—to go as far as possible with limited resources toward meeting almost unlimited needs.

Some 540,000,000 people, he said, are under the rule of the Axis, for whom relief and rehabilitation will be necessary, for three reasons:

1. Humanitarian and moral.
2. Military—to help efficient military occupation and operations.
3. Long range political and economic reasons—to restore liberated peoples quickly to a self-respecting, self-sustaining basis—"in their interest, and our own, too."

"The problem is how to make too little food do the job, and how to make too little shipping and too few railway cars do the job, how to make too little money do the job," Staley said.

This would be attacked three ways, he said:

1. All available resources must be mobilized—the job is too big for any one country to handle alone. All countries must contribute what they can.
2. Distribution must be efficient and equitable—where it will do the most good.
3. Rehabilitation—helping people to help themselves.

Measures should be taken to restore public utilities, provide repair parts for productive machinery, seeds for agriculture, and rebuild credit and currency systems.

Getting liberated peoples back on their economic feet, Staley said, would provide "the best kind of customer for the products of the new world."

Theft Of Truck Sends Two To Jail

Pleading guilty to a charge of having stolen a truck belonging to the Wonder Bakeries from the yard of the local plant, Carl Northey, 16, Simcoe street, was sentenced by Magistrate E. A. Gee this morning to a year in the Ontario Reformatory, the sentence to date from the beginning of a two-month term imposed on Northey in Stratford police court for stealing gasoline.

The youth was represented by Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., this morning.

Northey told Magistrate Gee that they had taken the truck to go to Windsor looking for work.

Gunner Albert Selmes, member of the Canadian Active Service force was also charged with theft of the truck but pleaded not guilty and the charge was dismissed when Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., announced that he was not offering any evidence.

"This boy was in Toronto and the others picked him up there" Mr. McElderry stated, adding that a military escort was waiting to take the soldier in charge for being absent without leave.

Juvenile Also

Later in the juvenile court a fifteen-year-old boy who pleaded guilty to stealing the bakery truck was also sentenced to a year in the Reformatory.

It was stated that he had already served sometime in the Bowmanville Boys' School.

"There is no use sending him back there" commented the Magistrate. "They would place him out somewhere and he would get into trouble again."

Northey and the 15-year-old boy had taken the truck here, driven to Toronto where they picked up Albert Selmes and the three proceeded to Monroe, near Stratford. Near that place a farmer surprised Northey and the younger boy as they were stealing gasoline and the bakery truck drove off, leaving Northey on foot. The farmer followed the vehicle and notified provincial police with the result that Northey was picked up some miles away and the 15-year-old boy and Albert Selmes were arrested later by Toronto police.

Two bombers were lost over the target areas.

Pilots reported that at least 80 per cent. of the bombs struck the target areas, smashing hangars and the workshop sections, while fragmentation bombs raked the aircraft disposal areas, hitting grounded planes.

New Rubber Fabric Produced In Canada

OAKVILLE, Ont., Aug. 26—(CP)—The first Canadian commercial running of butyl-coated fabric, believed the finest mustard gas repellant ever perfected, has been produced at the Barringham Rubber Company plant here.

Edward Barringham, president of the firm, said Butyl is a by-product of gasoline refining. "It is designed as a fabric-coating material only and is not the enduring type of synthetic rubber to be used for tires.

"Our first supply of crude btyl has come from the United States; but soon Canada will be producing its own butyl at our new plant at Sarnia, Ont."

Butyl will stand temperatures of 40 degrees below zero before cracking and doesn't begin to show stickiness until about 180 degrees above zero.

The first order of the Barringham Company is for use of men in the Canadian Navy, the president said, adding that the new protective garments are to be provided for all armed forces.

3,920 Ration Books Distributed On First Day At The Lyceum

Headquarters for the distribution of the new No. 3 ration books has been doing a land-office business since Lyceum Hall on Simcoe street was opened to the public for this purpose Wednesday morning. No less than 3,920 books were exchanged on the first day and up to noon today approximately 2,000 more.

By far the largest number Wednesday was handled in the morning, it was stated by Mrs. W. E. Fanning, Ration Convener for the W.V.S. and Distributing Chief for the local Ration Board. There were queues on the street, and inside the hall people were standing three and four deep before the staff workers' tables awaiting their turns.

A staff of 40 women is working on each of three shifts through the day, of whom some thirty attend to the writing and recording details and the rest serve as deputies or supervisors. A large number of the workers are members of the W.V.S., and practicaly every women's organization in town is represented on the roll of helpers. A Telephone Committee, Mrs. Fanning said, has been busy for the three weeks preceding the firing of the opening gun arranging the details of the lists of helpers, finding out who could serve when and for how long, and fitting the pieces of the puzzle together.

Despite the mailing out of circulars prior to distribution time, and the prominence of posters and announcements about town, some trouble was occurring through books being brought in mistakenly prepared for the transfer, Mrs. Fanning said. Chief of all headaches was difficulties in connection with children's books, where the book is supposed to be signed by the parent with his or her own signature, but was often filled out by the parent with the child's name instead.

The public is advised by the distribution center to check the books they receive with close attention before leaving to see that all pages and coupons are in order. Some books have been found defective through printers' errors.

"Inestimable assistance," Mrs. Fanning said, "has been provided by the Auxiliary Police of the A.R.P." They stand at entrances and glance at the books of holders coming through to see that application cards are reasonably well prepared. In this way time and effort are saved staff workers, who have quite enough to do as it is.

The distributing centre will open daily, including Saturday, this week at 9:30 in the morning and remain open until 8 o'clock in the evening.

His letter mentioned that he had not received any word from home in two years, although Mrs. Guiry had written to him at least three times within the last year. Market Efforts Net $27.60 For War Victims

It has proved to be a fortunate circumstance which through the kindness of the Mayor and members of the city coupncil made a stall available for use free of charge, for the purpose of raising money to help the sufferers through air raids over Britain, through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund.

This is probably unique in the annals of any charitable fund, for with very few exceptions it has been in almost constant use every week since this facility was afforded to the fund, and in the aggregate must have raised a considerable amount of money.

Today's report on behalf of the fund chiefly concerns activities on the market for the past two Saturdays, and the fact that the sum of $27.60 was raised at this week-end hive of activity, is in itself real evidence of just what value it can be made to be through the work of those interested.

On August 14, Mrs. J. E. Parker of Norwood was in charge of the stall, supplying a great part of the produce offered besides acting as sales clerk, which was supplemented by donations from Mrs. V. Sweet- of R.R. 1, Peterborough, and by flowers given by William Shearer.

A Splendid Effort

In all, Mrs. Parker turned in the sum of $8.50, which included fifty cents in cash given by Mr. Renwick at Westwood, making a total of $1,095.65 that Mr. and Mrs. Parker have now raised on behalf of the fund to help air raid sufferers in Britain, and still they keep happily on at this great work, for this coming Saturday Mrs. Parker will again be on hand to take charge of the stall.

Last Saturday, Mrs. Sweeting was in charge with the assistance of Mrs. J. Thompson who lives in the same vicinity, and Mrs. J. E. Parker giving a hand as well. To assist this particular effort they sold tickets for a draw on a jar of wild raspberry jam, which in itself raised $5.85, and with the sale of produce amounting to $5.00, the total credit for this effort amounted to $10.85. The draw was made that same afternoon and it gave the prize to Donald Thompson of Millbrook.

The fruits of another effort on last Saturday's market is also included in today's returns, made possible through the sale of plants and flowers donated by William Harvey of No. 4 Lansdowne street, which were auctioned off by J. H. Miles, auctioneer, who has given his services for the fund in like manner on many occasions. This was quite a sizable contribution for Mr. Harvey to make, for they produced the nice sum of $8.25.

Keene Red Cross

The 6th Line Branch of the Keene Red Cross is another contributor in today's list, the amount of $5.00 having been sent in by Mrs. Ernest Fife of R.R. No. 1, Indian River, and this is actually the donation which actually places the fund above the $62,000 mark, another milestone passed in the humanitarian objects the city and district fund seeks to serve.

60 Volunteer To Go West To Aid Farmers

Sixty applications were received Monday and Tuesday at the office of National Selective Service for volunteer farmhands to go West and help in the harvesting of Western Canada grain crops, it was stated Wednesday by W. H. L. Mellis, local manager.

The list of names has been forwarded to Ottawa to await final formulation of the Government's plans and announcement of the date of departure, Mr. Mellis said, and meanwhile many other patriotic volunteers were coming forward with offers of their services.

Only recently announced, the plan is a measure of reciprocal aid in return for the help given farmers in this part of the country in the harvesting of their crops earlier in the summer. "Their help was greatly appreciated," Mr. Mellis said, "and the group of 15, mostly young men, who came to this district was an exceptionally fine bunch."

Must Be Able For Job

Volunteers are accepted from among those who ordinarily work on farms and who are physically fit to perform arduous farm work. Warrants for free rail transportation in coaches will be issued them to whichever division they are assigned to, and with their tickets they receive receipts to be handed in when the harvest work is done, entitling them to return fare home at a cost of only $10, the labor officer stated.

No announcement has been made of the number of farm hands probably required by farmers in Western Canada but, Mr. Mellis said, the following provinces are included in the plan: Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, with Winnipeg the center point for distribution in Manitoba, Regina and Saskatoon for Saskatchewan, and Calgary and Edmonton for Alberta.

Volunteer farmers will receive from $3.50 to $6 a week, board included, depending on their skill and the type of work performed. On days when weather conditions make work impossible, they are to receive board only, Mr. Mellis said.

The work in the West will be over some time early in November, and according to present plans, return tickets will not be sold before October 31 nor later than November 15.

H. McDougall Hockey Star Dies In Toronto

One of the greatest hockey stars developed in Peterborough, Harold "Shrimp" McDougall died in the Toronto General Hospital this morning after an illness of several months.

Peterborough citizens in general and hockey fans in particular will be saddened by the news.

Harold McDougall, born in Cornwall but a resident of this city since his early years, began his hockey career here as a member of the late L. W. LeBarr's Lakeviews team in the City League. He weighed under 100 pounds at that time and was barely fourteen years old but his fast skating and especially his tricky stick-handling made him a star among much older and heavier players.

Later Harold became a member of the Peterborough O.H.A. junior squad and soon attracted attention by his clever work. One of the greatest games he ever played for Peterborough was against the Brockville juniors in a fixture which Peterborough won 2 to 0 and McDougall got both goals on sensational solo efforts.

Owen Sound scouts at that time when the Grays were dominating the junior hockey picture got after the clever youngster and he became a member of the Owen Sound team and a star among stars. 'Shrimp," playing centre ice for the Grays when they won the Memorial Cup in 1927, was a sensational performer in the playdowns, scoring five goals in one game when his ability to hit the nets kept Owen Sound in the running.

Later he played professional hockey with Teddy Oake's Millionaires and also with Calumet, Mich.

"Shrimp" finally wound up his hockey career in his home town, playing intermediate and senior B hockey here and also serving as a coach.

When he became ill several months ago he was taken to Toronto for diagnosis and treatment and had been there ever since. It had become known in town that his illness was serious but the end came suddenly and will be a shock to his host of friends in Peterborough. His wife has been in Toronto since he was taken there.

Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed yet but it is expected that it will be held on Saturday.

Penicillin Given Great Praise

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 — (AP). — The National Research Council, in its first clincial report in Penicillin, gave high praise today to the new bacteria-killing agent, calling it a "most potent weapon."

The Council's committee on chemo-therapeutic and other agents of the division of medical sciences outlined in the journal of the American Medical Association the results of 500 cases of infection treated with Penicillin.

"Penicillin has been found to be most effective in the treatment of staphylococcic, gonococcic, pneumococcic and hemolytic (blood destroying) streptococcus infections," the report said.

"It has been disappointing in the treatment af bacteria endocarditis (inflamation of the membrane lining of the heart). Its effect is particularly striking in sulfonamide resistance gonococcic infections."

It related that out of 129 cases of gonococcic infection — all of which did not respond to the sulfa drugs — 125 were free from symptoms and no bacteria could be found within nine to 48 hours after treatment with Penicillin.

In a statement Patterson noted that the United States is producing more than 7,000 planes a month. And he pointed out that "growing striking power" is being sent to the South-west Pacific war zone.

De Marigny Wed Girl Secretly Attorney Says

NASSAU, Bahamas, Aug. 26. —(CP).—A Palm Beach attorney testified Wednesday that Alfred De Marigny married Nancy Oakes, daughter of the man he is charged with killing, without the knowledge and consent of her parents.

De Marigny then was 33 years old, Nancy 18.

Walter W. Foskett, who had been Sir Harry Oakes' friend and counsel for many years before the multi-millionaire baronet was bludgeoned and burned to death last month, told of accusing the handsome De Marigny of "taking advantage of a child" when he married the red-haired girl in May, 1942.

Foskett was the only witness today at the continued preliminary hearing for De Marigny, who is charged with murder.

Nancy, seated in the courtroom, winked at her husband while Foskett was describing De Marigny's complaints over the treatment De Marigny received from the Oakes family.

Near the end of the testimony Foskett said he had prepared Sir Harry's last will and testament on Feb. 15, 1943. He did not reveal the terms of the document.

Foskett said De Marigny came to his office at Palm Beach last February and "told me that there was some estrangement between him and the Oakes family."

"He said he was staying at the Oakes home," the attorney continued, "but that he was not properly received. He said he was being ignored and treated with indifference, in a manner quite annoying to him.

"He said he felt that as Nancy's husband he should be accepted in the family and entrusted as a member."

De Marigny asked Foskett, the lawyer contiuued, "to use my influence with Lady Oakes to establish more cordial relations between them."

"I told De Marigny that it was a personal matter which he should attend to himself," Foskett added.

"I told him that I disapproved of the manner in which he married Nancy. I felt he had taken advantage of a child and married her without the knowledge and consent of her parents."

Roosevelt Speaks From Ottawa

President Franklin D. Roosevelt speaks to the world from Parliament Hill, Ottawa, following Quebec conference. "It is no secret," he said, "that at Quebec there was much talk of the post-war world," pointing out that absolute victory in this war would give greater opportunities to that world. At the LEFT is Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

War Labor Board Stymies John L. Lewis

By JOHN A. LOFTUS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP) — Aggressive John L. Lewis is on the defensive.

On successive days the United States government turned back a batch of 53 mines to their owners, in disregard of his Union's terms, and then refused for second time to approve portal-to-portal pay for the miners.

But the United Mine Workers' president, with a reputation for making and exploiting opportunities, is keeping everybody guessing about his next move by keeping silent.

The statutory status given the War Labor Board, which Lewis once defied, the penalties for striking under the new War Labor Disputes Act and the W.L.B. compliance sanctions approved by President Roosevelt apparently have forced Lewis to revamp his entire strategy. He may await the W.L.B's decision on the anthracite wage dispute before determining upon his next move.

Oct. 31 Deadline

The interpretation that a turnback of the mines to private ownership automatically meant a strike is unofficially disclaimed in U.M.W. circles. The policy committee's statement in June directed the miners to return to work until Oct. 31 with the proviso that this arrangement would "automatically terminate" if the government relinquished its custody of the mines before then. U.M.W. sources now say this was a reservation, not a threat.

They say, in effect, that no general work stoppage is contemplated.

The W.L.B.'s refusal to approve portal-to-portal pay of $1.25 a day in a proposed agreement between the United Mine Workers and the Illinois Coal Operators Association pointed up the Board's reasoning on the underground travel pay question.

Chairman William H. Davis told a press conference that the $1.25 was a "hidden" wage increase.

Bette Davis' Husband Dies From Injuries

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26.—(AP).—Arthur Farnsworth, husband of screen actress Bette Davis, died today of mysterious injuries received Monday.

The injured man was found lying unconscious on Hollywood Boulevard. Dr. Paul Moore, his physician, said there was still no explanation as to how he was injured, other than the presumption that he fell and struck the base of his skull on the curb.

Dr. Moore, who with Miss Davis was at the bedside when death came, said Farnsworth suffered a basal fracture of the skull.

Farnsworth never regained consciousness sufficiently to tell what happened, the physician said.

3-Year-Old Boy Drowns In Pond

MILLBROOK, Aug. 26—(ENS).—Carl Graham, 3, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Graham, who live a mile south of the village of Millbrook, on the old Campbell farm, wandered from the immediate vicinity of the family home on Wednesday afternoon, and was later found drowned in a small pond back of the barn.

Mising for some hours, the small child's body was eventually found by Johnston Roland, a neighbor, when a search was instituted at tea time. The pond, little more than a depression in the ground where water had gathered, was only two feet deep.

Called to the scene, an attempt to revive life was made by Dr. Hobbs, but resuscitation efforts failed. No inquest will be held.

There are three other children in the Graham family: Loretta in Peterborough, Ray overseas with the R.C.A.F., and Donald at home.

A year ago the father was badly hurt taking a threshing machine down a hill. The coupling between the tractor and thresher separated and Mr. Graham was struck by the thresher.

Canada Paying Last War Debts

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 — (AP). — Canada is the only one of the United Nations that has not found it necessary to accept lease-lend assistance from the United States C. C. McLaurin, Supreme Court Justice of Alberta, said in a speech Wednesday at a meeting of the American Bar Association.

"Canada is now the only debtor nation that has maintained payment of first Great War debts without interruption," he said. "It is gratifying to assure you that you have a solvent partner.

"Last year Canada made an outright gift of $1,000,000,000 in war supplies to Great Britain, and this year another $1,000,000,000 has been allocated for assistance to United Nations who cannot pay."

Justice McLaurin said the current annual Canadian budget approximated the American budget of 10 years ago, although Canada has only 11,500,000 inhabitants. He said that heavy taxation and direct borrowing from the public have been the Canadian means of combatting inflation.

McLaurin said Canada is eager to join in the ultimate direct assault on Japan itself.

"It is hardly necessary for me to assure you that Canadians stand prepared to persevere with you . . . In preparations, whatever the cost that will inevitably bring about the utter collapse of the unspeakable Japanese regime."

Supremacy Of Law Safeguards British Liberty

WINNIPEG, Aug. 26— (CP). — The safeguard of British liberty is the supremacy of law which can only be changed by the act of a free and responsible Legislature, said Rt. Hon. Lord Wright of Britain in an address to the annual convention of the Canadian Bar Association here last night.

The British jurist compared life under Hitler domination with that of countries with common law. Under Nazi rule, Lord Wright said the people are slaughtered daily in crowds and held in forced labor or worse. Such conditions should be an object lesson of what may happen when the supremacy of law is abolished, he said.

He said the essential aim and object of the common law are to obtain justice and liberty for the individual.

After his address, the Association made Lord Wright an honorary member.

TeacherShortage Becomes Serious

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 —(AP). —Thousands of class rooms in the United States will be closed and others will be consolidated when school opens this fall because of a teacher shortage.

A recent check by the National Education Association showed 75,000 fewer teachers than usual for this time of year had been signed up by elementary and high schools in the United States.

Benjamin W. Krazier, United States Education Office analyst, expressed belief in an interview that even late sign-ups would leave a shortage of perhaps 15,000 to 25,000. He warned there almost certainly would be a "substantial" increase over last year's 13,000 classroom closings.

School officials throughout the country driving to overcome their teacher shortages are using these methods:

Increasing salaries; reinstating married women; replacing men with women; using college but non teaching trained persons; increasing the number of pupils and of courses per teacher; recalling retired teachers; discontinuing courses; transferring teachers to subjects where the shortage is most acute.

F.B.I. Reports Toronto Lady Spy

DETROIT, Aug. 26 — (AP). — The story of the activities of two women held as enemy aliens, the Federal Bureau of Investigation indicated yesterday, will figure prominently in the prosecution of two other women and two men arrested on Tuesday on charges of violating the United States Wartime Espionage Act.

The names of the enemy aliens, both of German nationality, still were officially withheld by the F. B.I. One was said to be a countess, the wife of a German language instructor; the other a Detroit housewife, with a daughter married to a high Nazi Party official.

In jail here yesterday unable to furnish $50,000 bond each on the espionage charges remained Toronto-born Miss Grace Buchanan-Dineen, 34, described by the F.B.I. as the key figure in the conspiracy; Mrs. Thesera Behrens, 44, and Dr. Fred William Thomas, 44, a surgeon. En route to Detroit to join them was Bertrand Steuart Hoffman, 27-year-old member of the United States Merchant Marine, and a native of St. Thomas, Ont. He was arrested yesterday in New York.

All were accused of furnishing or attempting to furnish vital information concerning war production and war plans of the United States to the German Government. Accused under the Wartime Espionage Act they face a possible death penalty or up to 30 years' imprisonment.

The two enemy aliens are held in separate quarters at the Immigration Detention Station awaiting a hearing before the Enemy Alien Hearing Board at an unannounced date. The Board may recommend their release, parole or internment.

Book Vital Clue

John S. Bugas, head of the Detroit office of the F.B.I., declined today to predict whether other arrests are likely, but the F.B.I. has in its possession also a small green and black book containing the names of some 200 persons in approximately 30 cities throughout the United States. The names, it said, were given to Miss Buchanan-Dineen before she left Germany for the United States in 1941.

The persons named, the F.B.I. said, were supposed to be able to give her entree into circles where she might obtain information of importance to the Nazi espionage.

Neighbors of Miss Buchanan-Dineen described her today as a charming hostess in her East Jefferson Avenue apartment overlooking the Detroit River and the Canadian shore. They described her as of aristocratic bearing, with beautiful clothes, religious devotion, a large collection of jewels, and a fund of accounts of what she called "the amusing side" of wartime life in Europe.

Although much of the F.B.I. activity preceding yesterday's arrests centred around Miss Buchanan-Dineen's apartment, the group's headquarters, it was said today, was the home of one of the enemy aliens described as a housewife. She was said to have been referred to frequently as "Mamma" by others in the group detained. Her name, an F.B.I. man said today, was on a list found in the possession of eight Nazi saboteurs landed on Long Island by a submarine last year.

The other woman, whose name was withheld, was said by F.B.I. agents to have furnished Miss Buchanan-Dineen "with an accommodation address in Switzerland for use in forwarding espionage information to the German Gestapo," and to have introduced Miss Buchanan-Dineen to various potentially caluable contacts.

The F.B.I. said after Miss Buchanan-Dineen's arrest yesterday that she had operated after her discovery, under its surveillance, and that for a considerable period all the information furnished her was cleared through the F.B.I. and scrutinized by the army and navy intelligence services.

MADE ONE REQUEST

BELFAST — (CP). — Patrick O'Donnel of Mullaghduff, Kincasslagh, Donegal, bequeathed a farm at Castruse to his brother Michael "provided he shall, when circumstances permit, forward to the old home at Mullaghduff a ton of oats every year."

Charged As Spy

Bertrand Stuart Hoffman, 26, of Detroit, a native of St. Thomas, Ontario, shown after his arrest on wartime espionage charges which carry a maximum penalty of death. A merchant seaman, he was picked up in New York shortly before two men and a woman were arrested in Detroit on the same charge.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

NO ONE CAN HELP WOMAN WHEN PROSPERITY CHANGES HUSBAND.

Stranger Dare Not Intervene When Man Turns to Girl Workers for Evenings of Pleasure.

Dear Miss Dix: Why doesn't someone come to the aid of the poor wives of the defence workers? We hopelessly wait, night after night, for our husbands to come home, while they spend their time in beer joints drinking and carousing with the women they have met on their jobs. Of course, we know that these defence workers need recreation, but they used to get it by taking their wives and the kiddies to a Saturday night movie, but now they leave us at home and step out with a cutie, and think nothing of spending $25 or $30 on showing her a good time.

There is always the divorce court but a wife who loves her husband doesn't forget the wonderful man she once had— one who puttered around the house— painting, mowing the lawn, or just enjoying his family. Instead she now has a "droop" who won't talk at home, who flops across the bedspread and goes to sleep, who is so tired he can't even read the daily paper without taking a nap and, after he gets it, goes out again, for he has plenty of "B" card gasoline in his tank to ride other women around.

One of the Unfortunate Wives of a WWW (Wild War Worker).

Prosperity Balances Such Men.

ANSWER: I am afraid that no one can help a wife whose husband has had his head turned by sudden prosperity and who has gone on a binge. That is between him and her, and a stranger dare not intermeddle. One can only be sorry for the wife and urge her not to do anything rash; not to let her hurt heart and pride rush her into the divorce court; to be patient and give her prodigal time to get fed up with unaccustomed gaieties and tired of gold-diggers, and ready to come back repentant to home and Mother and the children.

What is happening to your husband is what happens to nearly every man who has been poor and hard-worked all his life and who suddenly hits it rich. You have read hundreds of stories in the Sunday supplements of clerks who made a killing on Wall treet, or men who found oil or gold, or in some way were transformed almost overnight into millionaires, and you will recall how they went haywire and forgot the wives who had toiled so faithfully by their sides, and forsook them for chorus girls and predatory women who lay in wait to fleece rich men.

You never thought that could happen to you, but it can happen to any woman whose husband gets in the money. And it explains why divorce is so much more common among the rich than it is among the poor.

But because your husband has lost his head, don't you lose yours. The wilder he gets, the more need for you to keep your feet on the ground. Don't give your husband an excuse for running around by quarrelling with him about his conduct, or weeping and complaining and making things uncomfortable for him at home. Don't plug the other woman's game by looking like a martyr and sounding like a moral lecture, while she is a gay companion.

Keep your home together for your own sake and that of your children. When your husband finds out that his money isn't as much as he thought it was and doesn't go so far, and his stomach won't stand drink, and that he can't carouse all night and be fit for work the next day, he will return to his senses.

Dear Miss Dix: I have known a girl since we were classmates at high school and we have been close friends, but never more than in a platonic way. I am now a freshman in a medical school and have fallen in love with one of my classmates, but I feel somewhat guilty about the other girl.

I have tried to show her without hurting her feelings that I have really fallen in love, and that our old friendship must end, but I do not want to hurt her more than I must. So how can I painlessly sever our relations?

C.E.W.

Boys May Misjudge Girl's Sentiment.

ANSWER: If you have never been engaged to the girl, she has no claim upon you, morally or otherwise. You have never told her that you were in love with her, and if she has read a meaning into your friendship that it never had, you are not to blame for it. A man can't very well go around telling girls that they mustn't think he is in love with them because he takes them to the movies or buys them a box of candy.

Perhaps you are deceiving yourself about the girl's sentiments and that she is no more in love with you than you are with her. Certainly in these days, when the two sexes are thrown together so continually in their work and play, there are many cases where boys girls enjoy a friendship that has in it no tinge of sentiment. You can be very fond of a girl as a friend, yet have no desire to marry her. And a girl can be equally devoted to you as a friend, yet not want you for a husband.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Happily married and blest her whole life, my mother has had a distressing situation arise within the last two or three years, which is just about to get her down mentally. It concerns her husband, who is devoted to her and has been a wonderful stepfather to me.

Next door to us lives a rich widow with a younger companion. For the six years they have been our neighbors they have run in constantly, invited us to meals and been on friendly terms. However, the relationship has now gotten to such a state that these two women have practically taken possession of my stepfather. They drive him to his office. Ask his advice. Go out of their way to plan to see him.

My mother has simply gone to pieces over this, yet she doesn't think she is jealous. She just recognizes the fact that they are two lonely women. She has tried to overcome this feeling for six years, wakes up at night with it choking her.

My stepfather realizes, of course, how she feels about the matter, but wishes to steer a middle course. What should we do?

DAUGHTER.

ANSWER: The practical, sensible thing to do would be to move away form your too friendly neighbors. It does not matter whether they really have designs upon your stepfather, or are just kindly busybodies, if it makes your mother unhappy and she believes that they are about to rob her of her husband, it is time to put an end to the situation.

Probably your neighbors are just two lonely women who enjoy the society of a pleasant and intelligent man, but if they are giving your jealous mother what the doctors call "globular hysteria," it is time for action.

Pearl Diver Polka Dots

Eisenberg, Chicago.

Bracelet length sleeves, restrained lapels, a skirt with stride width aided by a centre front kick pleat, are details of this polka dotted rayon crepe suit.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

Big white coin dots are strewn over the dark ground (several colors) of this rayon crepe two-piece suit which can be worn as a frock, shown here, or with a blouse or gilet, suit fashion.

The pearl diver notion of this fabric is carried further by the enormous mother of pearl buttons which detail the jacket top. Accessories will dress up this costume, or bring it down to well groomed, everyday smartness.

Price Control and Rationing News

The Women's Regional Advisory Committee, Consumer Branch of Central Ontario, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, answers questions put to this paper regarding price control and ration regulations.

Q.—I expect to enter a hospital for a few days. Can tea and sugar coupons be taken from my ration book, if my stay is less than two weeks? Also, may the hospital detach coupons not yet valid?

A.—Unless you stay in the hospital two weeks, the management is not entitled to detach your tea or sugar coupons. The hospital may remove coupons not yet valid if there are not sufficient valid coupons in your ration book.

Q.—A plumber charged me $4.65 to install a new water lead pipe in my cellar. Isn't this too much to pay for the material and the labor?

A.—That all depends on whether the charge made for the total time and material is the same as during the basic period Sept. 11 to Oct. 15, 1941. If you have reason to believe this plumber has raised his rates since then, please write us again and the matter will be investigated at once.

Q. — I have seven ration books and received 60 lbs. of canning sugar. I sent my coupons back telling them there must be some mistake. They were returned with 10 lbs. added. Is this right?

A.—The local ration boards in the various districts determined the amount of canning sugar per person in their region according to the amount allocated to them. In most cases, the allowance was 10 lbs. per person . . . In some districts, rural dwellers were allowed one or two lbs. extra. As we have no track of your name and address, we cannot tell you exactly how much canning sugar you should receive . . . The only place that can set you straight on the matter is your local ration board office or the nearest office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board . . . However, since you have seven ration books and were sent coupons for 70 lbs., it would appear that the allocation in your district was 10 lbs. per person.

Small Things Count In Stocking Care

OTTAWA, Aug. 26 — (CP). — A pulled thread or snag in a stocking should be fixed at once. A run-stop liquid that can be bought in the ten-cent store can be carried in the purse. Later the hose can be mended or taken to a re-knit shop.

Nail polish as a run stopper can be used in emergencies, but should never be used on acetate rayon fabrics as it may damage the fabric.

Be sure your garters are not too short or buy longer hose. This will help prevent runs and holes in the top of the stockings. One way to determine proper hose size is to stand on a ruler and measure the foot from the heel to the tip of the toe. Then add ½ inch to this foot measure—except for woollen hose, when at least an extra inch should be allowed for shrinkage.

Pretty Pillbox

By ALICE ALDEN

With the trend of forward-tilted hats firmly developed in the new millinery collections, the pillbox comes into its own. Becoming to most women and most attractive, this well-done model is easy to wear and an ideal fall and winter hat. Madame Pauline, famous for her pillbox hats, comes through with this most attractive one in red with a gold and green parrot trim beautifully arranged. It is made with a long back section that hugs the head.

Touring Ontario, Cyclists Come to City

Thirteen members of tre Canadian Youth Hostel Association from Montreal and Quebec City, spent Wednesday night in Peterborough, accommodation being found for them by the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. An Association was recently formed in Peterborough, but so far a hostel has not been established. The group is on a two-weeks trip and came through the Ottawa Valley Trails to Ottawa, from whence they took the train to North Bay, returning on bicycles through the Muskoka district to Peterborough. This morning they left for Kingston to continue their trip, with a tour of the eastern part of the province, which will finish at Ottawa.

Miss Jane Beatty, leader of the group, said that the Association has been strongly established in Quebec for about ten years and that they had found the Ontario Hostels very well organized. She said however, that whereas in Quebec the hostels are established on the highways, those in Ontario are often as much as five miles from the highway, and the party often had to cover quite bad roads to reach them.

Apart from that, she said, the only trouble they had experienced on the trip was a number of flat tires, though they had found our highways rather hilly in places. She said that by the time they returned to Montreal the party would have covered about 300 miles on their bicycles.

Nursing Sister Williamene Allan, R.C.A.F., Trenton, spent a few days of the past week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Allan, Ranney street.

The engagement is announced of Helen Evelyn, youngest daughter of Mrs. Robert Cochrane and the late Mr. Cochrane of Campbellford to Spr. Wilfred Frederick Coleman, R.C.E., Cornwall, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Coleman, Victoria, B.C. The wedding will take place in Sepember.

LAC Arthur Abernethy, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Abernethy, Hastings Road, received his wings and was commissioned as pilot officer at Malton this week. Art, who was seriouly injured in a flying accident at Rockcliffe this spring lost considerable time while convalescing and his graduation was postponed. He has been posted as an instructor at Malton.

LOCH NESS MONSTER

"Corn Off the Cob" Saves Butter

SAVING BUTTER—Corn on the cob is delicious but hard on butter. The consumer section of the Agriculture Department offers this recipe for corn off the cob which doesn't use so much butter.

To make corn pudding, which makes an excellent main dish for lunch or dinner when served with a garden salad, cut two cups of cooked corn from the cob (four or five medium ears). Beat three eggs thoroughly, add two cups of milk, the corn, two tablespoons melted butter or mild-flavored fat, one tablespoon sugar, one teaspoon salt and one-quarter teaspoon pepper.

Turn into a greased casserole and bake in a moderate oven—350 degrees Fahrenheit—until the pudding is set, which will be in about 45 minutes. A little grated cheese or left-over chopped meat, finely-minced parsley or a few chopped mushrooms may be added for variety.

The Experts Say . . . .

By The Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Aug. 26 (CP)—Pointers from the experts for housewives busy with wartime duties:—

MEND AND SAVE—The Prices Board suggests that housewives keep needles and thread at hand these days, when conservation of cloths and furnishings is so important. If, so far you haven't discovered needle and thread, the board suggests you look for some mending tape, which can be pressed on with a hot iron and will save time, in addition to prolonging the life of clothes and household articles.

"Mend it and save it," says the board, is today's conservation slogan.

SERVE VEGETABLES—For the next few weeks, suggests Marion Harlow of Nutrition Services, housewives would do well to go one better than Canada's official food rules by using more than the two servings of vegetables the rules recommend for each day.

The fresh vegetables now being gathered from victory gardens and abundant on Canadian markets now are at the very peak of their goodness in nutritional and flavor values. Consequently, the recent order "freezing" stocks of canned vegetables is working no hardship on the average housewife, says Miss Harlow.

VERSATILE CHEESE—Delicious cottage cheese—so good with salads and a grand base for lunch box sandwiches—can easily be made at home from freshly-soured milk.

Laura C. Pepper of the Agriculture Department's consumer section tells how it's done:—

Only freshly-soured, clean-flavored milk should be used. The milk is placed in the top of a double boiler and heated until it separates into curds and whey. It should be stirred occasionally while heating.

The milk will separate when it reaches a temperature between 100 and 110 degrees Fahrenheit—a drop of milk placed on the wrist will feel lukewarm at this temperature. When the milk has separated, place a double layer of cheesecloth in a strainer and strain off the whey.

Wash the cheese under running cold water and squeeze dry. Put the curd in a bowl, mix well with a fork, season with salt and pepper and moisten with a little top milk or cream.

The whey, says Miss Pepper, contains valuable food elements. and can be combined with fruit or vegetable juice to make a satisfying nutritious cold drink.

Lakes and river are more numerous in Finland than in any other European country.

Set For the Season

By ALICE ALDEN

Hats matched up with bags or gloves or belts appear frequently in the new fashions. Such sets are nice to give charm and interest to a basic frock or to spike up a suit or dress that has already seen service. Hattie Carnegie, who enjoys doing accessories as much as she does designing magnificent gowns and suits, shows this most becoming ensemble. The bonnet, which hugs the head, is of black satin as is the matching belt, also the bag, both of which are trimmed with black soutache braid. Youthful and charming with a simple dress or soft suit.

Native Sicilian Cooking Is Worth Giving A Trial

By MARY MOORE

Our friend, The Doctor, on a 7-day leave from his ship, when doling out the little mementoes of his travels to all present pulled out a crumpled paper napkin for me, full of what looked like hieroglyphics—but what actually were recipes for Sicilian dishes he had eaten during the campaign of July 1943.

Naturally I could not get the paper in my typewriter fast enough to pass them on to you.

He says the people on the whole are miserably poor and their staple food is macaroni paste of one kind or another. He ate in a Sicilian farmhouse, being a curious man, who was jiggered if he'd eat at his own mess when he could scrape up a few hours leave and by a little adroit enquiring and bargaining eat at the table of a native Sicilian.

He timed his arrival to coincide with an average meal time and this is exactly what he got:

Pasta Colle Acciughe
(Tagliatelle with Anchovies)

The "pasta": 2 cups of flour, 2 whole eggs, the yolk of 1 egg, a pinch of salt. Mix the eggs and the flour and work into a firm dough. Roll out paper thin and let stand for about 1 hour to dry thoroughly. Then cut into strips less than ½-inch wide and cook in a large saucepan of boiling salted water for a few minutes. Drain thoroughly.

Serve a large mound of tagliatelle on each plate and pour over it this Tomato Sause: 1 lb. tomatoes, 1 small onion, 1 clove garlic, 1 sprig sweet basil, 1 sprig parsley, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 oz. cooking oil (olive oil in Sicily), grated old cheese, salt and pepper. Put the oil in a saucepan with the butter and when hot, add the onion chopped, and cook to a golden brown. Now add the tomatoes, chopped, basil and parsley and garlic and season with salt and pepper. Bring to boiling point and simmer gently for about one hour or until the tomatoes are reduced to a pulp. Strain. Reheat and pour over tagliatelle. This should be served with 10 or 12 pounded anchovies added to the sauce, but these people said they had none in an apologetic way.

I tried my hand at copying it and used a little 2 oz. jar of rolled anchovies I've had on my emergency shelf for over four years. He says mine was a fair reproduction but not so hot with pepper hotness as his Sicilian host's.

Marvor O Gratte
(Tomatoes au gratin)

Enough tomatoes to serve one to each diner, anchovies (again!) salami, capers, breadcrumbs, oil, sale, and pepper.

With a sharp knife make a neat round incision on the top of each tomato and remove the pulp with a small spoon. Chop the anchovies (I used 3 Canadian sardines for this dish), the salami and the capers, (I used chopped sour pickle), mix well in a bowl with a small quantity of breadcrumbs, and moisten with a little oil. Season with salt and pepper, stuff the tomatoes with the mixture, sprinkle with breadcrumbs on top put on a buttered dish, pour a little oil over each tomato, and bake in a moderate oven for about 25 minutes.

(You will see that a good reason for giving you this topical food article is because they feature tomatoes too and our season is at its height.)

Maccheroni Al Pomodoro
(Macaroni with Tomatoes)

Although this dish has become international it is seldom as creamy when served by Canadian cooks as it should be. Follow the recipe closely.

One-half lb. Italian macaroni (long and unbroken), 1 lb. tomatoes, 1 small onion, 1 sprig sweet basil, butter, ol, Parmesan (we have to be content with using old white cheddar), salt and pepper.

Put the macaroni in a large saucepan of boiling salted water. Boil till it is tender,—about fifteen minutes — do not boil it until it is so soft it will break. Drain. Mix with the following sauce: put two tablespoons oil in a saucepan with just over two tablespoons butter, and when hot, add the onion, coarsely chopped. Cook to a golden brown crushing with a spoon so that the oil and butter are well flavored; remove the onion. Add the tomatoes chopped, the sweet basil, and season with the salt and pepper. Simmer gently for 1 hour. Then rub through sieve, replace in a saucepan, and when quite hot pour it over the cooked macaroni with 2 oz. melted butter and 4 tablespoons old cheese finely grated.

While the next little offering can't be called strictly Sicilian it is very commonly eaten there.

I Gnocchi Alla Piemontese
(Potato dumplings a la Piemontese)

One lb. potatoes, ¾ cup flour, 1 whole egg, 1 egg yolk, salt and pepper, 3 or 4 tablespoons butter, 2 cups grated Parmesan cheese (again you will have to be content with old Cheddar). Boil or steam the potatoes and while still hot, rub through sieve. Mix the remaining ingredients except cheese form into round small cakes, poach in boiling salt water for 10 minutes. Drain and serve with a little gravy and the grated cheese.

Question: I notice that you say not to can beans unless a pressure cooker is used.

I have been canning wax beans by preparing as for the table, then precooking about 10 minutes and processing in pint jars in my automatic over for two hours at 300 deg. Fahr. One-half teaspoon salt is added to each jar and ½-inch space left at top of jar. The beans have been delicious.

Of course I boil them 15 minutes before tasting or using. Do you consider this method safe from poisoning as I understand poisoning from home canned vegetables is very serious. Last year I did not have a single spoiled jar.

I have also read that beets could be done the same way but omitting the salt. What is your opinion? I have not canned any vegetables except beans and tiny carrots.

I have already canned 16 pints of beans this year but think I will try brining a few as you suggest.

Also how would I can elderberries for pies? I do all my fruit in the oven either hot or cold pack. Thanks so much for your trouble.

MRS. I. D. A.

Answer: I'll give you the method for elderberries first.

Canned Elderberries

Wash elderberries well before removing from stems, then remove from stems, pack into sterile jars not too tightly, cover with a sugar syrup of 1 cup sugar to each 3 cups water which has been boiled 5 minutes. Seal at once with sterile rubbers, tops and rings and process at once in hot water bath for 20 minutes for pints—25 minutes for quarts. Tighten seal when time is up and invert jars. Elderberries float when done like this but are too soft for precooking in sugar syrup which would prevent floating.

Beets require salt when canned:

Canned Beets

Select young, tender beets preferably of regular size. Trim off tops, but leave on at least 1 inch of the stems and all of the roots. Wash well and scald in boiling water or steam for about 15 minutes until the skins slip off easily. Pack into containers, add 1 teaspoon salt to each quart, and fill with hot water. Process, after sealing, in hot water bath 3 hours, or in pressure cooker at 240 deg. Fahr. for 35 minutes.

Fifteen minutes boiling after beans are opened would kill botulinus which is the bacterium that is dangerous and sometimes found in home canned beans. However what I said a few weeks ago about homecanned beans still stands—we do not recommend home canning of string beans unless pressure cooker is used.

Question: Would you be good enough to forward to me a meatless wedding breakfast menu and also a meatless reception menu and suggestions. The reception is to be buffet style so any information you may be able to give me would be greatly appreciated. Would you also give me a recipe for a good wedding cake frosting or decorating type of frosting. The cake is a white fruit cake so probably this information would help you select a recipe for me. Any suggestions for serving receiption could be used also.

MRS. A. H.

Answer:

Wedding Breakfast Menu (Meatless)
Fruit Cup or Chilled Honeydew
Melow Crescents
Creamy Scrambled Eggs
Small Tomato Quarters
Small Hot Parkerhouse Rolls
Jelly (Grape or Black Currant)
Ice Cream
Wedding Cake Coffee

Wedding Breakfast Menu No. 2 (Meatless)
Grapefruit Cocktail
Waffles and Maple Syrup
Coffee and Hot Chocolate

Wedding Reception Menu (Meatless)
Devilled Hard Cooked Eggs
Toasted Cheese Dreams
Assorted Cut Cheese and Fancy Unsweetened Wafers
or
Mushrooms a la King in Patty Shells
Celery Sweet Pickles Olives
or
Jellied Vegetable Ring with Tomato Roses (see method)
Hot Fresh Parkerhouse Rolls
Lemon or Orange Ice
Coffee Tea
Mint Wafers Salted Nuts
Reception Punch (see method)

Jellied Vegetable Ring with Tomato Roses

(These amounts will only serve 8 so make 3 or 4 rings for a wedding where there are 25 or 30 guests.)

Two cups tomato juice, 1 cup bouillon (canned will do), 3 tablespoons gelatin, 1 can peas, 1 can asparagus, 4 or 8 whole small tomatoes, 2 or 4 hard cooked eggs, cress and inside lettuce leaves.

Soak gelatin in ½ cup bouillon until moist. Dissolve in 1 cup hot tomato juice, add remaining cool juice and bouillon, then the peas including their juice. Mix and pour into 6 or 8 cup oiled ring mould, and around the edge arrange the sticks of asparagus with bottoms up level with top of mould. Chill.

When ready to serve turn out on chop plate or tray and surround with greens dotted with Tomato Roses: Cut small cored tomato from the top almost to the bottom in 6 equal sections and spreading them out slightly without breaking them loose at the bottom. In centre of each place a teaspoon riced egg yolk. Place small glass of mayonnaise in centre of ring.

Reception Punch (serves 25)

Two cups sugar, 1 pint water, 2 tablespoons crushed mint leaves, 4½ cups orange juice, 1¼ cups pineapple or grape or berry juice, 1 pint lemon juice, 1 pint iced tea, ½ gallon water, 1 quart ginger ale, orange and lemon slices and mint sprigs for garnish.

Boil sugar with the 1 pint water about 5 minutes. Add crushed mint, cool and strain. Add fruit juice, tea, and remaining water. Just before serving add ginger ale. Pour over ice in punch bowl. Slices and sprigs float on top.

Have efficient and amiable ladies pouring punch and tea and coffee —people you can depend on to see that cups and glasses are kept filled and that quiet guests are drawn into conversation.

Use the punch for toasts. If ice cream is served at the reception the toasts can be drunk while the first course plates are being taken from guests and replaced with dessert.

If waffles are used for wedding breakfast someone should be making them constantly in the kitchen to keep supply hot.

Ornamental Icing

One egg white, 2¾ cups confectioners' sugar, ½ teaspoon lemon juice. Beat egg with 1 cup sugar until stiff. Add lemon juice and beat in. Add remaining sugar, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition. Cool. Any desired coloring may be beaten into this icing.

Evening Interest

By ALICE ALDEN

The street-length dinner dress has become the major war fashion with most women since it is simple enough to be worn in the afternoon and yet looks in place for almost any evening activity except of the most formal character. Barbara Britton models her favorite short dinner dress fashioned of black crepe with unpressed pleats to give fullness to the skirt. It has a deep square neckline and yoke of embroidered blue pearls in various sizes. Blue lame piping is used on the sleeve.

Soap and Water Sweaters

The crew neck sweaters above are classic in shape, and are washable with soap and water. One has short sleeves, the other long, and both have dickies. Celanese rayon and wool yarn.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

Dry cleaning isn't the presto, inexpensive job it used to be, so wool sweaters which can be washed and dryed overnight at home, without losing shape or quality, are good news for the coming seasons.

Celanese rayon combined with wool in the knitting yarn makes sweaters with this comfortable talent. They are comfortable in general, for they are as warm as toast as well as close to shrinking not at all, though wet washed. Many colors, various styles, are available.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Mary Moore Readers

DEAR MARY MOORE: I am the wife of a gentleman who has been moved to Canada by an American firm for the duration and I enjoy your cooking very much. However I think we have some nice dishes too that you miss entirely and among them is Baked Gumbo Succotash which is a favorite August dish in the part of the States I come from—Arkansas.

Baked Gumbo Succotash
(Contributed by Mrs. Hartrich)

One and one-half cups shelled fresh or soaked lima beans, 3 small tomatoes, 1 pint sliced celery (we use okra at home), ½ teaspoon thyme, 2 bay leaves, 1 cup sweet corn browned in butter, 1 small onion, ½ clove garlic sliced finely, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter, 1½ cups water. Mix all together and bring to a boil, then keep hot in slow oven or fireless cooker for at least 4 hours.

When I serve this it is usually at a meatless meal for it is so full of flavor no meat is needed.

Thanks for the help you have given me, I shall look forward to seeing this printed if you think it good enough.—Mrs. Hartrich.

Dear Mrs. Hartrich: If I think it is good enough! I think it's great! We tried it on Meatless Tuesday and it was lucky I doubled the recipe, for we had to serve eight and the dish was cleaned right up. Come again with other Southern dishes.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, August 27

UNUSUAL activity, and in unusual lines, is forecast from the lunar and mutual configurations, especially of the inspirational and intellectual or intuitive faculties. These higher facilities may be safely brought to bear on perplexing or doubtful problems, with interesting solutions. Young people and their affairs are particularly favored. This stimulus may take them far afield with the happiest of consequences.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year bearing high fruits for their practical as well as idealistic ambitions and objectives. It is a happy time for youth to seek expression for their abilities and skills, in a constructive as well as inspired or intuitive way, even though the quest takes them into new fields and prolific pastures. Many surprising benefits may come from the move, or for giving expression to their high interior urges or desires. The original, the unconventional, as well as the psychic or occult are manifest under current vibrations.

A child born on this day may have many diversified talents and skills, born of an intuitive, inspirational or idealistic urge for expression, which should be heeded, though it may mean decisive changes and wanderings in strange places.

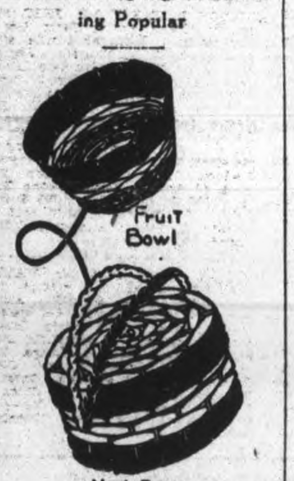
Art of Weaving Again Becoming Popular



MAKE USEFUL BASKETS

A useful hobby which can easily develop into a profession is that of weaving. Especially in wartime you will find that weaving your own materials is most practical!

The conventional threads used in weaving are wool, cotton, silk and linen, but many other materials can be used, as the weaving processes describe in our 32-page booklet.

Feminine fingers are rediscovering weaving as a pleasant and useful pastime. Not so many years ago it was a necessary skill in our grandmothers' homes. Years have passed and women are again weaving, mainly because of wartime exigencies.

There's an artist in every woman. That is why weaving is diversion of a superior sort.

There are dozens of attractive and useful items you can make, many of them from scraps.

For your copy of "HOW TO WEAVE USEFUL NOVELTIES," send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of the booklet.

Annual Picnic Great Success

SPRINGVILLE, Aug. 26—(ENS) —A splendid time was enjoyed by the members of the Springville United Church Sunday School at their annual picnic. It was held at "Sunnybrook Creek" on the farm of Mr. Sidney Fairbairn. Much credit is due to the superintendent, Reeve M. H. Johnston and the members of the various committees.

The following are the race results:

Girls, 4 and under — Beverley Lindsey.

Boys 4 and under—Kenneth Dunn.

Girls, 7 and under—Joan Dunn.

Boys, 7 and under—Howard Johnston.

Girls 12 and under — Eleanor Bowles.

Boys, 12 and under—Ivan Rowan.

Boys 16 and under—Harley Cathcart.

Mystery Person — Mrs. Ellwood Johnston.

Shoe kicking race—Mayme Cathcart.

Ladies' Race—Mrs. W. Cooke.

Men's Race—Walter Lord.

Time Race—Howard Johnston.

Girls' Three-Legged Race—Eleanor Bowles and Roberta Harrison.

Boys' Wheelbarrow Race—Mervin Rowan and Morris Lord.

A ball game was then enjoyed, while the ladies prepared a sumptuous supper.

CAUSED BY WAR

LONDON — (CP). — Much of Britain's increased prison population is due to wartime offences created by defence regulations, Home secretary Morrison said in a London address. He said the prison population in 1943 was 12,400, increase of 2,000 over 1939 — the year war began.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

RUSES FOOL THE SMART

SOME OF the artifices of tricky players stand a better chance of succeeding against pretty smart opponents than against those who are not very keen. They are more likely to apply the thinking process on which success of the maneuver depends, whereas the player governed purely by habits may make his accustomed play in the circumstances and thus foil the effort.

South: ♠K J 5 ♥A K 10 ♦A K 5 ♣K 10 9 8

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
2 NT	Pass	3 NT

At two tables of a duplicate game, the bidding was as given, and in each case the opening lead was the spade 3, the 8 being played from dummy, the 9 from East and the J by South. Both declarers counted up their tricks, finding two in hearts, five in diamonds and one already scored in spades, so that a ninth trick would have to be developed in some fashion.

Again, they decided upon the same effort, leading the club K with two hopes in view. One was that, if West had the A, no damage could be done by a second lead of spades. The other was that, if East had the club A, he might refuse to play it, preferring to hold up that card to kill off the dummy's club Q later and so prevent it from being a re-entry into the dummy to help score the diamond suit.

One declarer had a rather smart opponent against him in the East. That one played low on the club K. He felt sure, he said later, that South must have the spade A to chance such a play, and also had probably two diamonds headed by the A or K, but not both. If that was the case, his hold-up could beat the contract. But after the club K scored, the declarer went on to run his nine tricks, and then gave up the rest.

Where the East player was unimaginative, he did no such calculating. He promptly took the club K with his A and returned his partner's spade suit. As a consequence, the contract was set with spade tricks.

If you got into the crazy contract of 7-Diamonds on this deal, and West led the heart K, how would you play to make the contract?

19 NAZIS ESCAPE; 12 RECAPTURED

Flank Attack By Huns Thrown Back

Russian Advance Continues Toward Kiev City

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Aug. 27 — (AP). — German troops have struck at the flanks of Russian forces advancing through the Ukraine in an unsuccessful effort to check the Red Army's progress west of Kharkov, it was announced today.

A front-line dispatch to the army newspaper Red Star said the enemy concentrated infantry and tanks along the sides of salients which the Russians had driven in to their lines and launched a number of stiff counter-attacks.

The Red Army repulsed the attacks, the dispatch said and continued the advance which yesterday covered 3½ miles.

(A German communique, boardcast by Berlin and recorded by The Associated Press, said Russian troops supported by tanks and planes attacked south and west of Kharkov yesterday but were repulsed with the loss of more than 100 tanks.

(The Germans said their troops made a thrust against the flank of Red Army forces attacking on the Mius front, repelling the Russians and inflicting heavy losses, and halted Soviet attacks near Izyum with a series of counter blows.

(A Russian attack southwest and west of Morel did not succeed in achieving a breakthrough "despite the employment of extraordinarily strong air forces," the Nazi bulletin said. It added that altogther 218 Russian tanks were destroyed in yesterday's fighting.)

In addition to yesterday's westward advance which the Russians made in the Kharkov region toward the Nazis' Dnieper River defences, Soviet forces were disclosed to have struck due south in a new flanking manoeuvre.

306 Axis Ships Badly Battered

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 27 (AP).—Allied fighters destroyed or damaged a total of 306 enemy ships of various types evacuating German and Italian troops from Sicily between August 5 and 17, a joint British-American air report said today.

(R.C.A.F. squadrons were operating with the R.A.F. in these operations.)

Of the total, which ranged from barges to medium-sized merchant ships, 34 were listed as definitely destroyed, 47 as knocked out by direct hits and 225 severely damaged by near misses.

Coastal air force planes were credited with an additional four enemy ships sunk, 17 probably sunk and 31 damaged, during the Sicilian campaign in addition to destroying 40 enemy aircraft and rescuing 75 Allied airmen from the Mediterranean.

The report showed the combined Allied air forces flew over 50,000 sorties aggregating over 200,000 operational flying hours in the 38 day campaign. A record was set by the tactical air force on the first day of the invasion when its planes flew 1,400 sorties —1,200 of which were by fighters.

LONDON, Aug. 27 — (CP). — The Yugoslav War Ministry announced to-day that partisans had recaptured Jajce, 40 miles west of Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, and destroyed a German chlorine gas factory there for the second time in a year.

Multiple Saturation Raids In One Night New Bombing Technique Planned By Allies

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 27 —(CP)—The Royal Air Force, which developed the pathfinder bombing technique, the saturation raid and the repeat saturation raid, has more surprises in store for the Germans, as bomber strength mounts.

Observers here see the day coming, and in the not too distant future, when Bomber Command may carry out anything up to three or four raids on a single German city in a single night on a large scale, rather than on succeeding nights as was the case with Hamburg.

"Only one thing is essential and Bomber Command has it — the ability to organize," said Sanford Locker, air correspondent of the Sunday Graphic in suggesting multiple single-night attacks on a single target town.

"Given the necessary machines and aircrews, and both will be forthcoming, it can only be a matter of time before such raids take place," he said.

Locker foresees the night of the 2,000-bomber raid when 6,000 tons of high explosive and incendiaries will be dropped on a single city in a single night by clearing British bomber bases of one wave of planes and following it up with one or more waves once the R.A.F. has advantage of extra darkness.

Belgian Succumbs To Trick Brutally Killed By Nazis

By HENRY B. JAMESON, Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 27.—(AP).—How the Germans used his crying baby to trick a Belgian into a confession of espionage and then shot him was described in a booklet on "Punishment for War Crimes," issued yesterday by the Inter-Allied Information Committee.

The document depicted a mounting wave of terror and oppression throughout Europe as the conquered peoples prepare for the coming of the Allied liberators.

While the Belgian had not seen his family in many months, he refused to talk. Then the Nazis placed his wife and child in an adjoining room. He heard his wife talking and the baby cry "Daddy."

In an ecstasy of hope, the unfortunate man gave in. But instead of opening the door to the family, the Germans immediately jumped on the prisoner and beat him until he collapsed. Then he was dragged by the feet into the courtyard and executed on the spot.

Evidence The Same

The evidence against the Nazis, collected through underground channels, gives virtually the same story in every country—arrests, torture, hostages, wholesale massacres, mass deportations, forced labor, concentration camps and systematic starvation.

It said that in France from 50 to 100 hostages were shot for each German found dead.

The report said terrorism in Yugoslavia is continuing with the destruction of whole towns from the air by incendiary bombs, in one district of Siberia, more than 16,000 persons were reported killed in one month. The Germans were then said to have driven tanks over the graves to try and remove all traces of the crime.

"It's beyond all doubt that 500,000 Greeks died of hunger last winter," the publication added. "Infant mortality has risen to a point of national calamity and a whole generation seems condemned already."

The spokesman did not say when Mr. Churchill will leave for Washington, but he announced that the Prime Minister will make a world broadcast from Quebec, Tuesday, at 1 p.m. E.D.T.

The spokesman made the announcement in a prepared statement issued at a press conference here. The text of the statement read:

"The Prime Minister of Great Britain is spending a few days at a fishing camp in the Laurentian Mountains. He is in continuous contact by telephone and courier with Quebec. He will rejoin the President at Washington next week."

The spokesman said it could be officially stated that the Prime Minister's radio address will be made from Quebec.

Key Airports Smashed In New Raids

19 Enemy Planes Shot Down During Sweeps

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 27 (AP)—United States heavy and medium bombers in strong force renewed their assault on the Italian peninsula yesterday with a set of scorching attacks on key airdromes. Heavy bombers smashed the Capua airfields and medium aircraft raided the aerial installations at Grazzanise.

Large number of dispersed planes on the target fields were hit and 15 enemy fighters were destroyed in stiff running battles. Enemy planes shot down in the 24-hour cycle up to this morning totalled 19, Allied headquarters announced.

Use Blockbusters

While the heavy bombers hit Capua, 17 miles north of Naples on a rail line, and the medium bombers visited Grazzanise, in the vicinity of Naples, R.A.F. Welingtons also carried out night operations in the suburbs of Naples, roaring over Bagnoli again with blockbusters.

In other widespread operations over the Italian toe fighters strafed power lines, motor transport and buildings and destroyed three planes on the ground near Guspini, and bombed the harbor at Carloforte.

Medium raiders shot up the railroad junction at Locri, and others dive-bombed gun positions near Reggio Calabria. A British naval force bombarded a railway and bridges in the vicinity of Locri on the east coast of the toe of Italy Tuesday night, a naval communique announced today.

Enemy shore batteries made "some reply," the bulletin said, but their fire was inaccurate.

Locri is about 20 miles northeast of Cape Spartinvento on the tip of the peninsula.

Navy Active

A British cruiser also shelled enemy positions on the Calabrian coast toward the southern end of Messina Strait Wednesday afternoon. The communique gave no results of this attack.

(The Italian communique broadcast by Rome and recorded by the Associated Press reported Allied air raids on the city of Taranto and localities in the province of Naples. It was claimed nine of the attacking planes were downed.

(The communique said German planes had dropped numerous bombs on Allied targets in Catania and had scored direct hits on a medium sized merchant vessel.)

Enemy bombers shortly before dawn today made their first attempted raid on Algiers in two and a half months. Thre were shot down.

A few bombs were dropped in and near the city when a few bombers penetrated the heavy anti-aircraft barrage to reach the target area.

Seven Allied planes were missing from all operations.

Fighter-escorted bombers dropped thousands of fragmentation bombs and many tons of high explosives on Capua's air fields, in the same pattern of attack which laid waste the master air drome and its satellites at Foggia the day before.

Tunnel Under Ft. Henry Walls 1000 Searchers In Dragnet

KINGSTON, Aug. 27.—(CP).—Capture of three German prisoners at Barriefield camp, Ordnance Corps training centre, five miles east of here, near noon today brought into custody 12 of the 19 men who tunneled their way to freedom under the wide stone walls of Fort Henry here last night.

The men—Franz Karper, 25, Kurt Kroehnert, 26, and Friedrich Schmall, 24—were hiding in a ditch on the outskirts of camp and were found by patrolling soldiers who encountered no opposition from them.

Earlier the recapture of two men at Seeley's Bay, 22 miles north of Kingston on the highway to Ottawa, indicated that some of those remaining at large may have made their way out of the immediate Kingston district.

Their capture in a ditch by soldiers taken to the spot by a truck driver had brought the number recaptured to nine.

A thousand soldiers and city and provincial police were combing Eastern Ontario for the men still at large.

While military authorities did not disclose the means of escape it was reported the men dug an elaborate tunnel under Fort Henry's walls and upward to the crest of a small hill facing the St. Lawrence river.

Four of the Germans were picked up near Kingston last night, two by city police and two by soldiers. Five others were captured this morning. Their names were announced as: Walter Bartels, 21; Alfred Gunther, 31; Wilhelm Kruse, 27; Karl Schwatz, 22 Johann DeGraff 27. The names of those recaptured last night were not announced.

Earlier this morning two were captured by soldiers a Vimy Barracks, headquarters of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals here. At 6 a.m. another prisoner was found by soldiers in shrubbery along the highway limits of the Barracks.

Last Break April, '41.

Search for the prisoners in the largest break since 28 men tunneled to freedom from a northwestern Ontario camp in April, 1941, became international when United States coast guard detachments and U.S. army and civilian police took up the search along the south bank of the St. Lawrence. All the men who escaped in the 1941 break were recaptured and two were killed.

The search was the greatest ever seen in Kingston district, more sweeping than those staged to recapture prisoners who have escaped from the penitentiary here. Many summer residents of the district, warned to keep indoors and make their boats unuseable, returned to Kingston to keep out of the district being most closely searched.

The escape was first noticed when police reported they had arrested a man at nearby Dead Man's Bay after a Mrs. Hulbert had called to say a stranger was lurking near her home.

Found 19 Gone

Prison authorities, in the midst of a routine check of the prisoners, hurriedly completed the count and noted the absence of 19. A second man was recaptured by police in the Dead Man's Bay area.

Pte. L. G. Coutlee, whose home is in Brockville, Ont., a member of the Canadian Provost Corps at the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps Training Centre at Barriefield, captured the other two on No. 2 Highway east of Kingston.

Coutlee was patrolling the highway when he saw two men outlined in the headlights of an approaching car. The men jumped into the ditch as the car drew near and then resumed their walk. Coutlee grabbed

Among the 31 lieutenant-colonels and acting lieutenant-colonels the youngest is 29, and there are two aged 47, the oldest of the group. Only 12 of the 31 are over 40 years of age.

Churchill On Fishing Trip Deep In Quebec Province

By C. R. BLACKBURN, Canadian Press Staff Writer

AT A QUEBEC FISHING CAMP, Aug. 27.—(CP).—In a rambling, near-palatial log camp here on a lake in the Quebec area, Prime Minister Winston Churchill is resting and catching fish.

Accompanied by Mrs. Churchill and their daughter, Subaltern Mary Churchill of the Auxiliary Territorial Service and others of the Prime Minister's entourage, travelling in 17 army passenger cars and with nine army trucks, the party arrived early Wednesday afternoon.

It was made known early this week that, at the conclusion of his sixth war conference with President Roosevelt in the Quebec citadel, Mr. Churchill would seek rest, fish and meditate on the world broadcast he will make early next week, in a Quebec resort.

Gets 20" Trout

On Thursday a group of reporters, hearing that the Churchill party was at the lake, motored out to the vicinity. There was no interference until some miles away from the camp, reached by a rocky and narrow road, the way was blocked by a fence gate with a sign warning travellers that they continued at their own risk. It was signed by the limits owners.

From a cottage nearby an attractive young French-Canadian woman (Mrs. Turmaine) told reporters the Churchill party was camped on the other side of the barrier and no one could pass by without a permit from the owner.

She described their arrival Wednesday and told of Mr. Churchill's happy smile and his fingers lifted in the V sign.

The woman telephoned to the camp to see what could be done for the reporters. She was told none could enter.

Nevertheless her informant said Mr. Churchill and Mary were 30 miles up lake fishing from a motor boat and that Mrs. Churchill was just starting out. Mr. Churchill had caught one 20-inch trout and some smaller ones.

The camp was described as very comfortable with modern conveniences and telephone connections—in fact, a special instrument was being placed in Mr. Churchill's room.

Aerial Blows Weaken Japs

By WILLIAM F. BONI

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The Southwest Pacific, Aug. 27 —(AP)— The biggest concentration of Allied heavy and medium bombers yet to be employed in the Southwest Pacific, attacked Salamaua's supply base at Hansa Bay, New Guinea, Thursday with 180 tons of bombs, sinking a freighter, wrecking 45 barges and destroying installations.

There was no mention of losses in today's communique which reported the attack.

Low-flying bombers sank the ship, one of 6,000 tons described as a freighter-transport and destroyed or seriously damaged 45 barges and luggers. Ammunition dumps were exploded.

Targets attacked included Condor Point, on the north part of Hansa Bay, a plantation just south of Condor Point, Nubia, main settlement on the bay, Kronpriz and Eitel Freidrich Harbors along the coast toward Madang.

Half Million Italians Go To Rome

Badoglio Worried Citizens May Start Demonstrating

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ
Associated Press Staff Writer

MADRID, Aug. 27 — (AP). — A new worry has been given Italian Premier Pietro Badoglio in recent days, for despite all efforts of police and military authorities thousands upon thousands of the provincial Italians are moving into Rome.

Air travellers arriving in Madrid today estimated Rome now contains at least 500,000 more Italians than it did before the Allies landed in Sicily, and said the number is daily increasing.

So far this civilian "March on R...e" has been peaceful. It probably was inspired in part by the hope of many Italians the capital may escape being bombed in the future if Allies recognize it as an open city.

Travellers reported, however, that many of the newcomers to Rome came for political purposes and they comprise the element Badoglio most fears.

Police Over-Worked

It was recalled that when demonstrations for peace and anti-German riots got under way in Northern Italian cities, the police and military authorities at Badoglio's orders tossed into jail a number of anti-Fascist political prisoners who had been released after Mussolini's downfall.

When this heavy-handed system of restoring order became obvious, a number of these former prisoners of Fascism and enemies of Germany packed their bags

Sweden Protests Ship Sinkings

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 27 — (AP). —The Swedish foreign office announced today a protest to the German government is being drafted, shortly after a communique stated two German minesweepers had sunk two Swedish fishing boats without warning.

The latest protest, the second in 10 days demanding that Germany halt her attacks on Swedish commercial and military interests, will be presented shortly, it was said.

The 12 crew members aboard the two boats were presumed to have been lost in the attack on five Swedish craft in international waters off the northwest coast of Denmark two days ago.

The incident followed a formal protest August 18 against the firing upon of a Swedish naval torpedo boat and air force plane by German gunners aboard a Norwegian freighter off the Swedish coast August 6.

The government took a critical view of the sinking and the Stockholm newspaper, Dagens Nyheter editorially termed it "a brutal attack."

The paper said, "it is the general opinion that the government after a short discussion with the German government, cannot just cross over this incident and pass on."

Meanwhile eye-witnesses of an anti-Nazi outbreak in Helsingfor, Denmark, on August 25 reported German troops raced about the town in motorcycles armed with machine-guns and beat participants over their heads with rifle butts in attempts to break up a demonstration in front of the German consulate.

Few Nazis Get Clean Away

One Only At Large Of 112 Who Escaped

OTTAWA, Aug. 27.—(CP).— Before last night's mass escape of 19 prisoners of war from Kingston, Ont., only one prisoner who escaped from a Canadian camp was still at large, officials here said.

On the basis of a nnuofficial list of announced escapes, 112 prisoners had made a break from freedom prior to last night. The man still unaccounted for among the 112 is Eckherdt Brosig, who escaped from a camp at Monteith, Ont., Aug. 7.

Another German prisoner, Baron Franz Von Werra made his way back to Germany through the United States and Peru following his escape but he was subsequently reported killed in action.

Ottawa officials received word last night of the Kingston break. Direction of the search for the prisoners was concentrated in Military District No. 3 (Kingston) and officials here said Royal Canadian Mounted Police "would co-operate with members of the Veterans' Guard and other army units.

The Ottawa detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police patrolled highways in the Kingston direction during the night on the lookout for any men who might head northward.

Swedes Drifting Nearer To Involvement In War Against Nazis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Something red hot—something to watch closely for developments—is the announcement by the government of Sweden that two German minesweepers sank two Swedish fishing boats without warning off Denmark on August 25.

An angry Stockholm started an investigation. Should that inquiry establish the Huns have again perpetrated one of their cold-blooded acts of ruthlessness, it might be the explosive event which would bring Sweden into the war on the side of the Allies.

That's not a prediction. I'm merely pointing to a tendency which has been pulling a reluctant Sweden nearer and nearer to the brink of the European maelstrom recently. One wonders in particular what the effect would be on Stockholm if the western Allies should stage an invasion of western Europe in the immediate future. It certainly would put the Swedes in a much stronger position.

Relations between the Scandinavian country and her gangster neighbor have been increasingly strained for four months. For the past three months the Swedes have been standing at arms, ready for action if forced from their chosen position of neutrality.

Now comes this fresh sensation in which the German warships are said to have fired from a range of 50 yards on the little boats. The fishing craft were flying their country's flag, and had the Swedish blue and gold insignia painted on their sides. Stockholm regards this as the worst in a series of incidents involving Germany since the sinking of the Swedish submarine Ulven on April 16, with her crew of 34.

Tale Must Stick

The fact that the Nazis have been jittery in the expectation of an Allied invasion of Denmark scarcely could salve Swedish honor or indignation. That's an excuse something like the one the Boche gave after sending the Ulven to the bottom. The Hitlerites said they mistook the Ulven for an enemy craft—but they didn't make the tale stick in Stockholm.

It was last March 24 that Sir Alfred Knox, Conservative member of the British parliament, told the House of Commons that Sweden's attitude since the beginning of the war had been "definitely pro-Axis." Whether that represented the position exactly is something for history to decide. Perhaps it might be more accurate to say that some of Sweden's actions had been pro-Axis. We should remember that Sweden was right under Hitler's big guns, and in constant danger of invasion by the Boche.

Anyway, the Allied governments quietly but clearly made it known that those who are not for us are against us. This produced signs Stockholm was giving it thoughtful consideration.

A little later there began a long series of incidents for which the Nazis were responsible, and there has been a distinct cooling of Swedish-German relations. Stockholm's attitude now has stiffened as the Axis has sunk into the slough of defeat.

Bombers Bag 10 U-Boats

Air-Sea Battles Follow Patrols

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP.) — At least 10 German U-boats were sunk or damaged recently in 13 air-sea battles between United States' Army Air Force bombers patrolling far out into the Atlantic ocean, the Anti-Submarine Command announced to-day.

The Anti-Submarine Command said five supmarines were believed to have been sunk and five damaged and three forced under water and thereby prevented from attacking nearby Allied shipping.

None of these battles has been reported previously, the Command said.

The Liberator bombers, specially equipped for anti-submarine warfare, flew as far as 1,000 miles from their home bases to battle the submarines, the Command said, and all returned safely, although five of them were subjected to severe anti-aircraft fire from the U-boats.

"Five crew members in one plane were wounded when an explosive shell smashed through the nose," the statement said. "The same shell shattered flight instruments, the hydraulic system and other vital parts of the aircraft, but the pilot managed a safe landing at his base."

The statement did not say how many planes were involved in the fights and gave no dates.

Fierce Counters Beaten Back Across Donets Valley

MOSCOW, Aug. 27 (AP)—Russian troops of the Kharkov region have backed German forces three and one-half miles further westward through the Ukraine toward the Nazis' Dnieper River defences and also have struck due south in a new flanking manoevvre, it was announced today.

The southward column of Gen. Ivan S. Konevy's Steppe Army, pounding toward the key rail junction of Lozovaya, killed some 600 of the enemy and destroyed or disabled 22 enemy tanks, the Soviet communique said. Fighting was reported heavy.

Thus, the Steppe Army was moving into position to put ever-increasing pressure against the flanks of the German lines reaching eastward into the Donets River basin.

Kill 2,000

In the Donets Basin itself, the Moscow war bulletin said, the southwest army group commanded by Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky absorbed frequent Axis counter-attacks south of Izyum and southwest of Voroshilovgrad, killing 2,000 of the enemy and destroying 48 tanks. Whole trainloads of ammunition and other booty were captured in rapid lunges.

Yesterday's advances by Gen. Konev's troops west of Kharkov wiped out 800 enemy rearguards, routed two battalions and captured several villages. Numerous enemy counter-attacks were beaten down.

The communique gave no information as to how far the Russians had penetrated the Ukraine west of Kharkov. One big goal is Poltava, 75 miles to the southwest of the railroad leading to the Dnieper, which is another 75 miles beyond.

Poltava already has been by-passed to the north by one Soviet column which captured Zenkov Wednesday on a bee-line drive toward Kiev, Ukraine capital still 170 miles distant.

The Russians announced last night that Gen. Konev, whose troops captured Kharkov Monday, was raised from Colonel General to

Mrs. Roosevelt In New Zealand

AUCKLAND, N.Z., Aug. 27 —(CP Cable) —Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt arrived here today.

The wife or President Roosevelt, in extending her travels to the Antipodes, thus made the longest journey of the many she has made since entering the White House in 1933.

Like her famous husband, the most widely travelled president the United States has had, Mrs. Roosevelt has made many journeys in the 10 years she has inhabited the White House and has visited practically every corner of the United States. Last year she visited Great Britain.

Later, in a broadcast to the people of the Dominion she said she felt she must express appreciation at the great hospitality shown American boys so far from home by New Zealanders.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she hoped to see the work of New Zealand's women in war and would tell her own country about it.

The President, she said, would like to be with her but was unable to come. She conveyed his greetings to New Zealand.

Badoglio and his overworked police are worried particularly, the travellers said, about just how many of the 500,000 newcomers are beginning to get ideas about staging peace demonstrations and showing their displeasure with the government's policies in other ways.

Reports of another curious development which followed Badoglio's open city declaration were brought to Madrid. Travellers say many Romans promptly went to Ostia, nearest seacoast town, only 14 miles from Rome, on the theory the Allied forces would choose that point for a landing and a march on Rome.

Cigarette Butt Blamed For Fire

MILLBROOK, Aug. 27—(ENS).—A fire alarm was run in at 12:30 noon on Thursday, Mrs. Fred Scott, who lives in the apartment over the Ford Store, having noticed smoke coming from an apparently empty ice house back of the Eakins hardware store, and belonging to R. A. Ford. The fire started at the base of a post running from there up to the roof, and if it had made any headway, this being the half-holiday and none of the storekeepers around, a very serious conflagration would have resulted, as there are so many frame buildings in the immediate vicinity.

Mr. Ford was the first at the scene and threw on several pails of water, while the fire company made a prompt response with the chemical engine, and the fire was speedily put out. The wet sawdust gave rise first to the supposition that spontaneous combustion was responsible for the blaze, but there is a strong impression that a carelessly-thrown cigarette butt is the more likely theory. Just a few months ago a small building in the same vicinity was burned down, with similar danger to adjacent frame storehouses and other wooden structures, and boys noticed loitering about smoking were suspected of causing the loss. Owing to speedy action, practically no damage was done in Thursday's fire; ice is not now being stored in the building, its place having been taken by electric refrigeration.

the men and demanded their registration cards and when they failed to produce the documents, he took them to the Barriefield Camp. They were later sent back to Fort Henry.

The names of the four captured prisoners were not available but military headquarters early today released the names and descriptions of the 15 men still at large. It was believed the men who had escaped all wore prison clothing.

Throughout the night soldiers from the Barriefield camp scoured the countryside for the missing men while provincial and city police patrolled the St. Lawrence River in requisitioned boats to prevent any attempted flight to the United States.

Escaped At 9

Military officials said the escape was made bewteen 9 and 9:30 p.m. last night.

Fort Henry, built in 1812, was one of the first fortifications in Canada and is within sight of the city of Kingston across Navy Bay from the Royal Military College. Shortly before the war it was modernized as a museum but at the outbreak of war it was converted into a camp for prisoners of war.

In the April, 1941, escape from the northwestern Ontario camp, the 28 prisoners had tunneled from their bunk house through underneath the fence enclosing the camp.

It had been planned as a gesture of loyalty on the occasion of Hitler's birthday. Eleven men were recaptured the following day but two men had travelled as far as Medicine Hat, Alta., before being recaptured. The two men killed were with three others when they were surprised by a party of guards. When they refused to surrender, the guards opened fire killing two and wounding two more.

Huge Plane Fleet Active Again

Transformer Plant Blasted By R.C.A.F. At Guerdledan

LONDON, Aug. 27 — (CP). — American medium bombers escorted by Allied fighter squadrons attacked the enemy airfield at Poix in Northern France to-day in a continuation of daylight blows at Nazi concentrations across the Channel, it was announced authoritatively.

The formations roared across the coast of Kent at 8 a.m. (3 a. m. E.D.T.) flying at a great height in cloudless skies.

Meanwhile, an Air Ministry communique reported R.A.F. fliers had been busy during the night, laying mines in enemy waters and attacking shipping, damaging four enemy minesweepers in the English channel.

All planes returned safely, the communique said.

Last night was the third anniversary of the first big German air attack on London, but the night passed without a sign from Nazi raiders.

The Germans now presumably have enough worries of their own, particularly in bombed and burned Berlin from which the population is reported rapidly scattering to escape future raids such as the one staged by R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. heavyweights last Monday.

The BBC said Nazi government branches were preparing to move to occupied territory. Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler's Ministry of the Interior presumably was headed for Prague.

Distribute Them.

The broadcast said the Foreign Ministry of Education to Posen and Ministr yof Edlucation to Posen and the Labor Ministry to Krakow.

Yesterday R.A.F. medium bombers, supported by R.C.A.F. Spitfires, attacked an electric transformear station at Guerledan, while American bombers, also with a Canadian escort, heaped expolsives on Nazi airdromes at Caen in Normandy.

No Allied planes were lost in these forays, while the Canadains were credited with shooting down two enemy aircraft.

One fell to the guns of Wing Cmdr. J. E. Johnson, straight-shooting Englishman heading a star Canadian fighter squadron, to boost his total of enemy aircraft destroyed to 24½. The second plane—anME-109J—was credited to the entire Red Indian squadron led by Sqdn. Ldr. R. W. (Buck) McNair of North Battleford, Sask.

TIRED BUSINESS MAN GREATER MYTH THAN NEW SULFA DRUGS

Wife Gets Heavy End of Job But Males Clever Enough to Originate Universal Excuse

A woman reader of this column wants to know why bachelors are immune to the degenerative disease commonly known as being "a tired business man" whereas married men are almost universally afflicted with it. She says that up to the time that she and her husband were married he was so full of pep and energy and that, although he worked hard, he was always ready to step out of an evening to places of amusement and could dance by the hour without showing any evidence of fatigue.

Almost as soon as they were married, however, he fell a victim to this dread malady, and now, although he labors no longer hours than he did before his marriage, he suffers from such a case of chronic weariness that she finds it almost impossible to get him to take her out even to the neighborhood movies, or to do any little chore about the house. Also, his nerves seem strangely involved, for instead of being the good company and lots-of-fun date he used to be, he now requires to be constantly cheered up and amused, and his conversation, if any, has become little more than a series of grunts and uh-huhs.

Husband's Complaint Common

"I should be greatly alarmed at the state my husband is in," writes this young wife, "except that the older wives, whom I have consulted, tell me that he has only caught the married man's complaint—he has become a tired business man—and while this is hard on wives, it is never fatal to husbands."

I am glad to add my word of confirmation to that of the other wives and assure this bewildered wife that there is no need for her to worry over her husband's condition. She only has to get used to it, and find that while he is too feeble to walk the baby with the colic at night, or take of the children on Sunday afternoons, he is in fine fettle to play 18 holes of golf; that while he is too worn out to play

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 27 — (CP). — Wheat futures moved narrowly yesterday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange while rye scored substantial gains.

Trading was light in wheat with minor purchases attributed to the shippers and commission houses. Some local spreading involving purchases of the October contract and sales of May was reported.

Dealings in rye were mostly local, although American interests made scattered purchases. Values advanced in sympathy with gains at Chicago.

Trade was moderate in the cash wheat market, with shippers reported to have taken nearly 200,000 bushels of No. 1 Northern and a small lot of No. 2 Northern. Both mills and shippers took fair quantities of No. 3 Northern.

American interests were still inquiring for cash oats, but sales were modest in comparison with a 1,000,000 bushel business transacted on Wednesday. Domestic business included sale of small lots of barley for Eastern feeding reserves.

French Group Taken Into Allied Fold

Official Recognition Given Giraud, De Gaulle

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 —(AP)—The seal of Soviet Russia's approval was stamped today on one of the first announced diplomatic results of the Quebec Conference—formal recognition of the De Gaulle-Giraud Committee of National Liberation as "trustees" of French interests.

The Russians apparently went even a step further than did Prime Minister Churchill, Prime Minister Mackenzie King and President Roosevelt in welcoming the French Committee into the Allied fold as the representative of millions of Frenchmen fighting for freedom.

For the announcement from Moscow declared the group headed by Gen. Charles De Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud would be recognized as the "representative of the state interests of the French Republic and as the leader of interests of the French Republic and .... of all French patriots fighting against the Hitlerite tyranny."

The Soviet report, broadcast by the Moscow radio, said the Russian decision of recognition had been handed to the French committee on Aug. 25, or a day before the action of the British Canadian and United States governments was made public.

Canadian Units Eased Slowly Into War Action

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY, Aug. 27 — (CP). —Pressing the Germans back into Central Sicily, every regiment of the 1st Canadian Division was in action in the advance from Caltagirone. Each formation hopped through the other and battle inoculation was achieved without a heavy shock.

On the road to Enna the Canadians were initiated gradually, building up to bloody actions from Leonforte to Agira.

On July 16 the Edmonton Regiment was leading the division as it approached Piazzo Armerina when strong German positions were encountered in the hills south of the town. The Germans were holding out in machine-gun posts with mortar and artillery support and a couple of companies of infantry.

The Edmontons went methodically to work and their attack was completely successful. Outflanking the enemy they forced them out of their positions and drove them north.

The Seaforth Highlanders of Canada and the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry gave some help, but it was principally an Edmonton action.

The Royal 22nd, West Nova Scotia and Carleton and York Regiments then took the lead and caught up with Germans south of Enna, where the road branches off to Valguarnera and Leonforte. The enemy here was astride the only roads and his positions were stronger than any the Canadians had yet attacked.

The night of July 17 - 18 the Royal 22nd Regiment reached a branch in the road and the Germans opened fire. The French-speaking troops fought back determinedly and shook the enemy considerably.

Mounted Strong Attack

One regiment, however, could not throw the Germans off these hill positions and the divisional commander, Maj. Gen. G. G. Simons mounted a strong attack for the afternoon of July 18. All available artillery was employed and there were three regiments of Canadian Field Artillery, one British self-propelled regiment and a British medium regiment, totalling 120 guns.

In the early afternoon the barrage crashed down on the German positions and the area was covered with bursting shells. Concentrations lasted more than half an hour.

Then the Carleton and York Regiment attacked the enemy positions from the front with the West Nova Scotians sweeping around on the right flank and the Royal 22nd going in with the New Brunswickers.

By late afternoon the hills had been captured and the enemy was in retreat toward Enna and Leonforte.

Meanwhile, the 48th Highlanders, the Royal Canadian Regiment and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment had been sent far around to the right to attack Valguarnera.

By-Passed Enna

The Canadians went straight for Enna but, by this time, the Americans were in a better position to take the city from the west and the plan was altered, giving the Canadians the task of by-passing Enna and going through to Leonforte and Assoro as a prelude to the lefthook on the Mount Etna line.

There was some disappointment that the Canadians didn't go into Enna in force for that was the plum of the campaign in the central sector but they found their next battle at Valguarnera.

The Royal 22nd joined the Ontario regiments in this attack. Some infantry went along the winding road toward the town, coming under fire, while the other units went cross-country over the hills, meeting German opposition en route.

By this wide flanking movement to the east, Gen. Simonds hoped to trap a good portion of the German battle group opposing him and the operation was very successful.

Companies of the R.C.R. and H.P.E. regiments drove the enemy out of machine-gun posts in the hills southwest of Valguarnera and the 48th Highlanders were in action here for the first time, capturing one hill which was the key to the whole defense system before the town.

The Royal 22nd was pinned down for hours along the road with batteries of guns trying to get through but they joined in the fight finally and between the four regiments the town was captured on July 19.

The 48th Highlanders were the first to enter in strength.

With the Americans in Enna and Valguarnera in Canadian hands the stage was set for a thrust north to the mountain ridge strongholds of Leonforte and Assoro to which the Germans who escaped the Canadian trap at Valguarnera had fallen back.

The forces which had escaped were not strong but they were bolstered by other German regiments before the Canadian attack.

New Incinerator Requires Garbage Dried?

While the new incinerator is being gradually warmed up to its work of consuming the city's garbage, its superintendent, F. J. Tuggey, told the property committee yesterday afternoon that some preventive steps would have to be taken to exclude from the collection system such hampering and dampening materials as grass clippings, the stalks of vegetables, dahlias, hollyhocks, garden corn, stones, metals and other stuff in the incombustible miscellany that comes daily to the big fire pot.

Alderman Swanston, chairman, was authorized to inform the public of the limitations of the term garbage either by press advertising or cards or both. He was also appointed with City Engineer Parsons and Mr. Tuggey to try to effect some way of handling the garbage material that will expedite its incineration.

The emphasis of Mr. Tuggey's account of the operation of the new plant in its present stage was a criticism of thoughtless action by many citizens in sending to the plant refuse with a moisture content exceeding its specified and contracted limit. Grass clippings from the well groomed lawns of the city have been a bugbear to Mr. Tuggey. When it reaches the incinerator it has to be disposed of, and, thrown upon the fire, it just about smothers it and reduces the efficiency of the furnaces. And in addition to the green stuff already listed, Mr. Tuggey said he has seen a dozen or more cases of cabbages or cabbage leaves unloaded from the wagons, and causing more trouble and delay.

"People are not sending the wood and cardboard boxes that used to help the fire," the superintendent said. He explained to the committee that the new type of incinerator consists of three furnaces, with an exra one that can be provided in some furture expansion and need, and when the heat and the body of fire is developed in one part and then reduced by stuff with too much moisture, the plant as a whole is deprived of that consuming element.

"It seems to me that Herb McCannan was right, and we should have stuck to the type of furnace in the old incinerator," said Alderman Bradburn, who later mentioned the fact he himself had favored that design. It comprised one entire furnace with a heat and draft that burned up everything.

Mr. Tuggey said that a representative of the contracting firm of Francis Hankin & Company, had visited the plant last Monday, and estimated at 65 per cent by weight the moisture-content material unloaded that day as compared with the stipulated maximum of 55 per cent. Mr. Tuggey also touched upon certain other recommendations that were made, but returned to the complaint that the public, without realizing the difficulty they were creating for this municipal service, were setting out for the garbage collectors materials that were reducing the efficiency of the incinerator.

It was suggested that this objectionable stuff should be collected with ashes, a proposal which Alderman Swanston said he would promptly consider.

In his desire to get the advantage of other stoking and burning experience, Mr. Tuggey said he had spent some time in the boiler plant of the Quaker Oats Company.

"But, you can't expect the incinerator to burn pieces of iron, paint cans, branches of trees and a lot of other stuff like that," he remarked with a note of resentment.

Labor Shortage Cuts Nickel Output

SUDBURY, Aug. 26 — (CP). — Production of nickel has been reduced by 10 per cent in recent weeks owing to a lack of manpower, officials of International Nickel Company said yesterday.

"We are short of at least 1,400 men at present," a statement issued by the company said. "The reduction in output may run below the 10 per cent figure. The labor situation is again becoming critical. Coupled with the high rate of absenteeism it has been impossible to keep production at its former high figure."

According to figures supplied by the company, matte production is off about 2,500,000 pounds per month. Copper production has also dropped, but not as seriously as nickel.

Average employment during the first quarter at the big nickel production plant ran about 12,400, but this figure is said to have been reduced about 5 per cent in recent weeks.

Quebec Conclusions

In these stirring days we quickly become accustomed to events which are actually remarkable in themselves and full of meaning for the future. Conferences between Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt have become almost commonplace, and if another Nazi leader were to follow the example of Rudolf Hess and fly to England we should doubtless yawn and say, 'Old stuff'. There has been literally no big news from the Quebec conference, and the time has now passed when we might expect any. But we must not therefore permit ourselves to underestimate the conference; there can be no doubt whatever of its significance.

The statement issued by the two chief participators in the conference was about as undramatic as anything could be, but it contained its own explanation of its lack of punch: "It would not be helpful to the fighting troops to make any announcement of the decisions which have been reached. These can only emerge in action". That is the attitude which we all expected and which we can fully appreciate, in spite of our desire to know more.

We do not think that any good purpose would be served, either, by speculation as to the decisions made at the conference, or by elaborate structures of guess-work erected on the slender basis of hints dropped from Quebec sources. The official statement says: "The military discussion of the Chiefs of Staff turned very largely upon the war against Japan and the bringing of effective aid to China". That might mean a number of things; it might mean that intensely dramatic action is planned for the near future, or it may mean a long-term scheme, slow and painful in its working-out. It certainly does not mean that the war in Europe will be left simmering, or that the war in Europe is near its completion.

The fact that Russia, which is not fighting Japan, took no part in the conference, and that a Chinese representative was present, has led some commentators to conclude that great developments in the Pacific are at hand. It may be so. We do not know and neither does any other section of the press. We do not think that speculation on the subject is wise. After all, the principal duty of a newspaper is to record the news as it happens and to comment on it then, not to foretell the future; we leave that to dream-books and those temerarious gentlemen, the armchair strategists.

The news that another conference will be held before the year is out is good, as it gives further proof of the confidence of our leaders, and the rapidity with which they expect to put their decisions in action. We trust that Russia will be at the table at the next meeting. The U.S.S.R. is fighting magnificently, but diplomatic relations between that country and the democracies, though still close, are not as intimate as could be wished. The United Nations must preserve their unity if they are to preserve their strength.

All that we can confidently say about the Quebec conference is that it was a success. For further details, see your newspaper during the next five or six months.

A Lesson For Canadian Girls

Yesterday we printed an account given by LAC Don Mackay, a Peterborough man, of his flight with Miss Mary Churchill over Peterborough on their way to Brantford. He showed his passenger his native town, and pointed out all the landmarks best seen from the air. In the words of the movies, Don Mackay gave Peterborough a build-up.

But he made a remark which interested us very much when he said: "You would never know she was the daughter of such a famous father, for she is more friendly and unaffected than most girls here in Canada". That is a charming compliment to Miss Churchill, who deserves it, we are sure, but it is something which might make Canadian girls blink and think.

Is the average Canadian girl stand-offish and affected? We really do not know. We are asking for information. If she is stand-offish and affected, why is she so? Is it because there are fewer girls than young men in Canada, causing a shortage and a consequent increase in value? Affectation we understand to mean the assumption of graces which do not spring naturally from the girl's nature and upbringing. Why would a girl be affected, we wonder? Certainly not to attract young men, for nothing reveals itself so quickly and so cruelly as affectation.

Miss Churchill was heard on the radio last Sunday night. She certainly was not stand-offish or affected in her manner of speaking; on the contrary, she spoke with great charm and simplicity. From all that we have heard and read about her doings on her visit to Canada she appears to have been vivacious, friendly, and deeply interested in a great variety of things and people. Those are qualities which are much more attractive than an affected boredom, a tendency to be hard-to-please, and a lack of interest in anything or anybody except oneself. Perhaps Don Mackay's plain speaking will have a special meaning for Canadian girls. A word to the wise is sufficient.

The Horticultural Competition

The Peterborough Horticultural Society, we feel, should be congratulated on the Lawn and Garden Competition which was held under its auspices in the three Wartime Housing settlements in the city. Three prizes were offered in each settlement for vegetable gardening, and three for lawn-making and flower-gardening. The results of the competition were excellent. The improvements which some of the tenants of Wartime Housing have made in the surroundings of their houses are truly remarkable. They had to start from unpromising beginnings and make their gardens and lawns in places which were wholly uncultivated a few months ago; only real enthusiasm for gardening and very hard work can overcome such conditions. The improvements which have been made in the settlements reflect the greatest credit on the tenants, and the Horticultural Society showed a fine community spirit in fostering the competition. We hope that it will be possible to have another competition next year, and that it will be an even greater success than this one.

The city of Peterborough is fortunate in the number of charming gardens which are to be seen in every part. There are few streets on which some attempt has not been made to grow flowers or to make lawns. Like most Ontario cities, we cannot claim any special architectural beauties, and in winter the city is bleak and bare, but in summer it is handsome indeed. Trees, lawns and flowers are everywhere; the whole city seems to be wrapped in foliage and bloom. The sort of pride which keeps the city beautiful in the growing season deserves every encouragement.

Praise From The Post

We all know that the Royal Canadian Navy is growing at a great speed, and that it has done and is doing a fine job in the Atlantic. But perhaps we are not as impressed by our naval exploits as are our friends abroad. In the last issue of the Saturday Evening Post a generous and heart-warming tribute to the Canadian Navy appeared. In the course of its tribute, the Post wrote thus:

> The burden of protecting the freighters fell chiefly upon England and Canada. Britain, with a very limited amount of help from the Norwegian, Polish and Fighting French navies, supplied 51 per cent. of the escort vessels for the trade convoys; the United States contributed 2 per cent., and little Canada, amazingly, provided 47 per cent.
> This does not mean, of course, that the United States was drowsing during those long and critical months. We supplied aircraft for freight convoy patrol and extensive ship and plane repair bases on both sides of the Atlantic. We guarded the growing stream of troops on their way to a global war. And after the fall of Singapore and Java we held the line almost alone in the Pacific. Also, it should not be forgotten that long before Pearl Harbor we had handed over to the British fifty of our over-age destroyers.
> Yet the fact remains that we probably would have lost the war if the Canadian navy hadn't come through in a spectacular and heroic way. It is not surprising that Britain, with her great sea power and resources, should have been able to shoulder 51 per cent. of the job. But it is one of the marvels of this war that Canada, an agricultural nation of less than 12,000,000 people, could have contributed 47 per cent. of the vast fleet of fighting ships necessary to get the freighters across.

The article from which this extract is drawn is headed "Canada Saved The Day', a title of which we may be very proud; as it appears in a publication not easily inclined to praise British effort in any direction, although it is just toward what the Empire has done in this war.

How did the Post learn about the work of our Navy? We should not be surprised to learn that the much-abused Wartime Information Board had something to do with it. But whatever the source of the information, such recognition is sweet when it comes from one of the most widely-read publications of our southern ally.

New Wage Demands

By
R. J. DEACHMAN

ONE hundred and forty thousand Canadian railway men are asking for an increase of pay. The demand is for an extra 23 cents per hour. This is not a cost-of-living bonus, it is an increase in a basic wage rate. I have as yet seen no computation of the cost but it will be a snug sum. If we assumed that these men worked 6 hours a day, it would mean an increase of $1.38 per day. If they work 200 days a year, it will add $276 to the pay cheque of each. The total cost on that basis would be of the magnitude of $38,000,000. I form no conclusion as to the accuracy of that estimate, I hope it is far too high but the sum will be sufficiently large to provoke some reaction, even among the most thoughtless.

The railway men are the highest paid workers in the Dominion of Canada. J. B. Ward, Secretary of the Committee does not seem to think so. Here is his recent statement appearing in the daily press:

"It is the opinion of many thousands of railway employees, that they have been used by the government as 'guinea pigs' in this experiment of wage freezing and price control and that the employees have received shabby treatment.' This resentment has steadily increased to the point where they now demand remedial action."

Surely this statement exaggerates the situation. The railway worker has had the extraordinary pleasure of a steadily advancing income right through the long depression. To be exposed to that treatment would be a delightful experience even for a man, functioning as a guinea pig. To ask for it again, in the next depression, might strain the goodness of the experimenters and cause them to hesitate about making preparations so far in advance. Our railway men are playing a game, doing it well. It is extremely costly to the nation, to the general public, to agriculture and to other basic industries—costly too, as I shall presently show, to the railway workers. They are the victims of their own designs

IN the last war we had inflation. Prices went up and up—wage rates followed for a time—then jumped ahead of rising prices. Near the peak of this process came the McAdoo Award which fixed the rate of railway wages in the United States at more than double the 1913 level. This was a basic wage rate, it was not a bonus to meet the rising costs of living. Canadian railway workers asked for its application to Canada—it was put into affect. No one then anticipated what would happen. Even the railway labour union leaders had not the slightest idea of the rich harvest in store for them—their vision had not carried them so far.

I mentioned that between 1913 and 1920, wage rates had doubled—that is an under estimate—the increase in Canada was 121 per cent. For every dollar the railway worker received in 1913, he had $2.21 in 1920. In 1920 the cost of living on the basis of 1926—100 stood at 124.2. Then began a steady decline. The rate of railway wages was fixed. As conditions grew worse, the cost of living fell. As it declined, the real wages of the railway worker rose. The price of farm products was cut in two—the income of the railway worker kept going up. The farmer was the guinea pig, the railway worker was the darling of creation. I wonder how he would have liked to change places with the farmer in these trying years! Now the railway worker wants to repeat the process. A few figures tell the story. These figures are a flat-average of all workers from office boy to president but they reflect the changes of the years.

Nominal and Earnings
Basis 1926—100

	Nominal Earnings	Cost of Living Basis 1926—100	Real Earnings
1926	$1,448	100.0	$1,448
1929	1,546	99.9	1,550
1933	1,299	77.5	1,676
1937	1,447	83.1	1,741

IN 1939 the war came, the cost of living went up. Railway labour which had gained so much though the fall in prices now proposed to move upward with the rise. A cost of living bonus was provided. Labour was not satisfied. It wanted an increase in the basic wage. This would hold when prices fell—the bonus would not.

Two purposes would be equally served by this shrewd action. It would increase wage rates. It would break the price controls. With inflation wage rates would rise. Labour would then establish its basic rate at the top — real wages would rise later, with the decline in the cost of living.

The government had the opposite point of view. It was quite conscious of the after effects of the great inflation of 1920—to all, except the selected few it was an agony. Inflation cost more than the war. It was the father of the depression. To fight a war and avoid inflation was a matter of prime importance. For these reasons it attempted to control prices, as difficult a task as any government ever faced — the end may still be in doubt. If this recent ramp against the wage level succeeds, inflation will come. There would be a demand for higher prices of farm products. The dam would break, the surge of inflation would be on us.

HOW much did railway workers gain from these declines in the price level? Despite temporary cuts in wage rates, real purchasing power was increased between 1926 and 1933, by $228 per worker. The number employed in that year was 121,923. The gains therefore to those employed amounted to $27,808,448.

It is not difficult to see how this appealed to labour union leadership The figures given show the increase aboxe the 1926 level. It can be stated in a way which is even more alluring. The nominal wage in 1933 was $1,299, the real wage was $1,676, the increase therefore was $377 above what it would have been without the price decline or a grand total of $45,964,000. If labour could continue this process, it would be in a tremendously strong position but alas, the exploitation of one group by another is, in the long run, unprofitable.

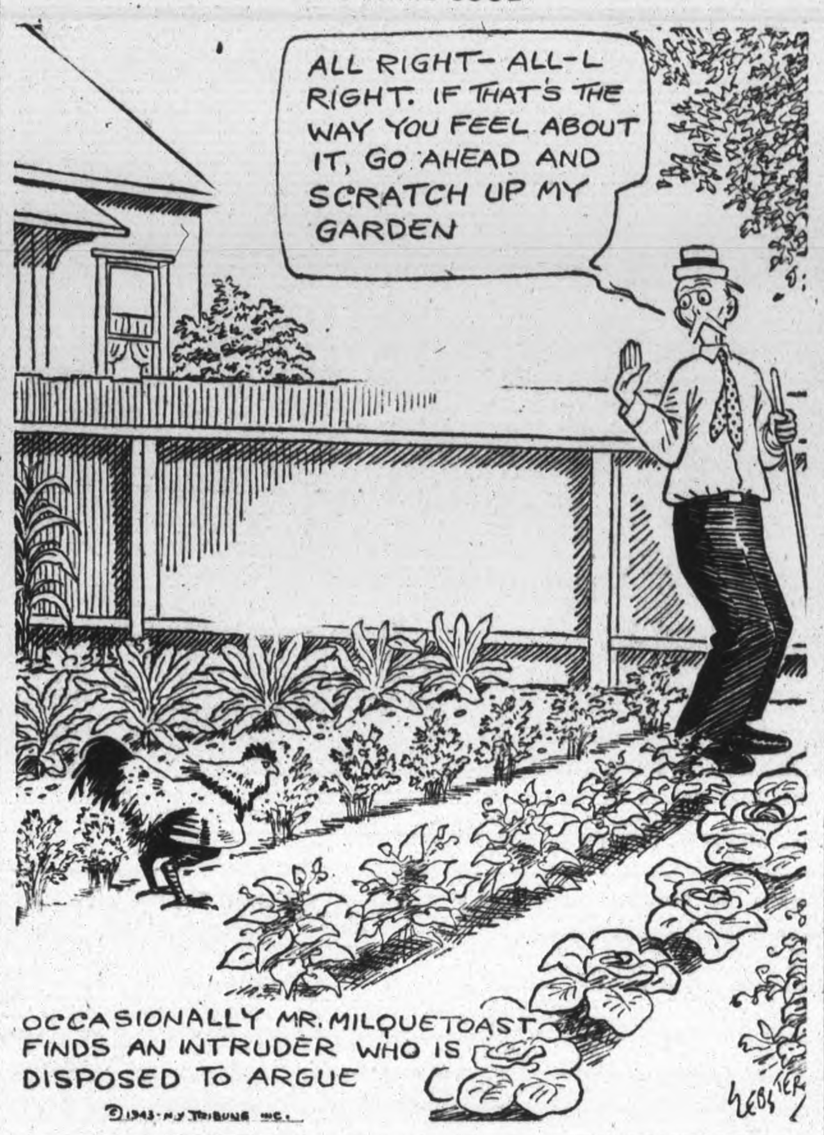
THE number of men employed on Canadian Railways in 1926 was 179,800—in 1929 it was 187,800 but in 1933 the number had fallen to 121,900. Labour may repeat its policy but in so doing it leads to the inevitable end. A smaller number of workers employed, a decline in the national income, lower total wage payments, these are the sanctions imposed, by economic law. High wages are all right when they do not cost too much—sometimes the price is too high. High wages lead to lower total wage and salary payments, reduction in employment and, "starvation in the midst of potential abundance."

Why does labour adhere to this policy when in the long run it is fatal to its real interests. The answer is that labour is led by old men. Seniority determines conduct and action. The men who control the unions decide, in their own individual interests, what should be done, the general interest is submerged. Young men are needed in our labour unions. The tendency to seek decisions by force or power instead of reasoned judgment is dangerous in the extreme.

THE TIMID SOUL



Is Mr. Cohen Consistent?

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

WHEN J. L. Cohen began his "sit down or slow down strike" as member of the National War Labour Board on August 18, he announced that he did not "propose to take any active part in controversial cases" until the Board's majority and minority reports—the minority his own—were received by the Government, and until the Government indicated its policy in regard to the recommendations made.

The Algoma and Sydney steel union locals are asking the Board for an immediate hearing of their application for wage adjustments. These unions belong to the United Steel Workers of America (C.I.O.). In a telegram sent to Mr. Justice C. P. McTague, chairman of the Board, by what is described as a national conference of basic steel locals, the statement is made that Mr. Cohen "is prepared and has been prepared to deal with the steel workers' case." Mr. Cohen himself confirms this. He is prepared to deal with the case "at any moment on a hearing being summoned by the chairman."

It rather looks as if Mr. Cohen is doing some picking and choosing. There are two sdies to the steel workers' case. Therefore it is controversial. If it were otherwise there would be no occasion for the Board to grant a hearing and, thereafter, render judgment. The conditions set forth by Mr. Cohen less than a week ago have not been fulfiled, but he is ready "at any moment" to resume active participation in the Board's business where the interests of a C.I.O. steel workers' union are concerned.

The Canadian Press dispatch from Toronto which tells of the telegram to Chairman McTague, refers to J. L. Cohen as "labour representative on the Board." The circumstances suggest that he considers himself a member only in that capacity. This, perhaps, is the explanation of his recent procedure but if that be so Mr. Cohen is not carrying out the intention of the Government.

The National War Labour Board was appointed on October 24, 1941, with the present but not then Minister of Labour Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, as its head. When Mr. Mitchell entered the Government he continued for a time as chairman and was then succeeded by Mr. Justice McTague. On the latter's recommendation the Board was reorganized and its status altered. Chairman McTague, in February of this year, recommended that the Board should function as an industrial court and on February 12 Prime Minister King announced to the House of Commons that the Government "have come wholly to agree with the view he has expressed." The Board as then reconstituted was to be "in the nature of an industrial court." its members chosen "with regard solely to the qualities they bring to their new duties."

The Prime Minister's statement implied very clearly that while each Board member was qualified by special knowledge and experience he was not to be a special pleader. Members of a court, even of something "in the nature of" a court, cannot act in that capacity and discharge a judicial responsibility with the complete detachment that is the essential requisite in any judicial or quasi-judicial tribunal. Mr. Cohen's present attitude, however he may regard it, appears to be at variance with the main principle upon which the Board was reconstituted six months ago, reconstituted in what the Prime Minister himself described as "fundamental particulars."

Washington Spotlight

(By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (CP)—When President Roosevelt was in Quebec, attending the strategic conferences with Prime Minister Churchill, the most frequent question put by Canadians to American newspapermen who accompanied him was this one: Will he run for president again?

The replies usually varied for the simple reason that no man, including Mr. Roosevelt, can answer the question dogmatically. It all depends on such factors as the progress of the war and the political situation prevailing next year.

Many Washington correspondents are convinced of two things: The last thing Mr. Roosevelt wants to do, if he follows his personal wishes and desires, is to run for a fourth term but he will if the war is still in progress and if he thinks he can win.

One of the forces driving the president toward a fourth term is a desire to attend the Peace Conference, to sit in motion his ideas of freedom, liberty and collective security. Another is a fear, perhaps not so much on his part as with his followers, that the middle of a war is no time to switch to an inexperienced president and commander-in-chief.

Mr. Roosevelt will be 62 next January, not an old age for the head of a state. Thre terms in the White House, one of the most exacting jobs in all the world, have aged him perceptibly but his health still is excellent, despite his physical limitations.

Just as it is impossible to say that Mr. Roosevelt will run again in 1944, it is equally impossible to say who his opponent might be. Various polls of public opinion have indicated that Governor Thomas Dewey of New York State, the racket buster, is the people's choice for Republican candidate, with Wendell L. Willkie fairly close behind him.

When Dewey was elected Governor last fall he announced he would not leave his Albany job for any other office and men close to him insist he favors 1948 over 1944. But queer things happen in politics and it may develop—particularly if he becomes convinced he can win — that Dewey will seek the nomination.

Before considering Willkie, there are three other possibilities for the Republican ticket. Governor John Bricker of Ohio enjoyed an early boom but it exploded to his lack of colour and, above all, his refusal to take sides on foreign policy. There have been several movements to draft General Douglas MacArthur, Allied commander-in-chief in the Southwest Pacific, despite his expressed opposition, but he isn't regarded as anything like a leading candidate. The same thing is true of Brig.-Gen. Harford McNider, former minister to Canada, one of MacArthur's staff officers.

Wendell Willkie, the 1940 Republican candidate is definitely in the race again, despite the opposition of the old guard Republicans. He is the most colourful of the candidates, the most positive on policy and perhaps the man who could give Roosevelt the tightest race.

A Bible Message

And Jesus walked in the temple in Solomon's porch. Then came the Jews round about him, and said unto him, How long dost thou make us to doubt? If thou be the Christ, tell us plainly.

Jesus answered them, I told you, and ye believed not: the works that I do in my Father's name, they bear witness of me. But ye believe not, because ye are not of my sheep, as I said unto you.

My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me: and I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand. My father, which gave them me, is greater than all; and no man is able to pluck them out of my Father's hand

I and my Father are one. (John 10: 23-30.)

Relics In Rome

We rgeret to learn from Relations, the Montreal French monthly, that the remains of two early Christian martyrs were damaged or destroyed in the bombing of Rome, but we feel compelled to point out that their custodians must have been extremely careless. People who have such relics in their charge in the capital of a nation which has—qutie voluntarily—entered into a great and devastating war ought at least to protect them with sandbags, if they do not resort to the more effective device of removing them from the dangerous vicinity. The idea that belligerents are required to abstain from the most ordinary military operations against an important enemy transportation centre, merely because there are religious relics in the neighbourhood, is entirely contrary to reason. We can sympathize with the feelings of the editor of Relations, but we think their indignation is directed against the wrong parties.

The authorities of the various churches in Rome (not including the Vatican territory, which is neutral and requires no precautions) have had ample warning to make any preparations which might be needed for the safe-guarding of their treasures. The British Government has made it clear from the first that Rome would be attacked whenever it was desirable in the interests of the United Nations to do so. We find ourselves rather forced to the conclusion that the ecclesiastics of Rome are less concerned about the fate of the relics of St. Stephen and St. Lawrence than are some of the ecclesiastics of the province of Quebec. There is of course this important difference, that the Roman clergy along with their parishioners are in some personal danger themselves, and may possibly feel that the lives of human beings, whether in Rome or in London or in Rotterdam or in Guernica, are of more importance than relics or works of art. —Saturday Night, Toronto.

Peterboro Pair Take Win In Lawn Bowling

TORONTO, Aug. 27—Colorful i the word descriptive of the Globe and Mail Seventh Annual Lawn Bowling Tournament for ladies which started yesterday morning on the lawns of Greenwood Park, Withrow Park, West Toronto and St. Matthew's.

The results in the preliminary round, which got off to a prompt scheduled start, revealed the fact that some of the players taking part will take some beating.

Games worthy of special mention: Old Mill pair, Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Kecher, at the end of the fifth in the preliminary had scored 6 to 2 by their opponents, Mrs. Hutchinson and Mrs. Wakelam, Howard Park, but did not again score during the game, the final score being 22 to 6.

At the end of the ninth preliminary Mrs. Merrin and Mrs. Lynn, Hyde Park, Niagara Falls, N.Y., vs. Mrs. MacKay and Mrs. MacCormack, Hamilton Argyle, the score was 10 to 8 in favor of Hyde Park paid, but they did not again score —final 18 to 10.

Ends of seven, five and four for Mrs. Killingbeck and Mrs. Arnold, Peterborough, made the road too hard for Mrs. Work and Mrs. Gallanough, Boulevard. The latter scored in seven of the 15 ends.

Six of the eight winners in the preliminary round on Withrow Park lawn defeated their eight opponents in the first round. It was the second game of the day for the victors, the final for the losers.

Mrs. Eagles, winner in 1938, lost the preliminary to Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Flowers, Kew Beach. The second round developed some surprises and many one-sided scores.

The sixteens will start at 9.30 this morning on the Granite lawn, 63 St. Clair Avenue West, with the following taking part: Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Hague, Morningside; Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. McBride, Whitby; Mrs. Sharp and Mrs. Blair, Wells Hill; Mrs. Gregg and Mrs. Jenkins, Dovercourt; Mrs. Curran and Mrs. Hawes, St. Matthew's; Mrs. Ives and Mrs. Baker, New Toronto; Mrs. Simpson and Mrs. Ballagh, Guelph; Mrs. Austin and Mrs. Corman, Windermere; Mrs. Shields and Mrs. Reardon, Withrow Park; Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Madill, Runnymede; Mrs. Allan and Mrs. Rowe, Earlscourt United; Mrs. Currie and Mrs. Thompson, North Toronto; Mrs. Budd and Mrs. Milner, Brampton; Mrs. Young and Miss Ellis, North Toronto; Mrs. Sholton and Mrs. Bunton, Hamilton Roselawn; Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Davis, Withrow Park.

The sixteens will start with 11 Toronto and five outside of Toronto rinks. This discrepancy is largely accounted for in the fact (due to the gasoline situation) that the Toronto entrants almost doubled the outside.

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money —(Advt.)

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

The transfer of a Canadian squadron in England to an R.C.A.F. bomber staiton commanded by Group Captain D. M. Edwards, A.F.C., aroused more than the usual enthusiasm for the reason that the new group had two softball players in its personnel.

The two acquisitions were a pitcher and a second baseman—just what the station team needed—and the prospect is almost a foregone conclusion of a championship which entails a special trip to London for the nine and a chance at the all-England diamond title of the armed forces. The manager of the team is Sqdn. Ldr. W. H. Swetman, D.F.C., Kapuskasing, Ont., whose father, Capt. W. H. Swetman, has had much to do with the entertainment of Canadian troops in both the First and Second Great Wars as a Y.M.C.A. auxiliary services officer in and around London.

Ontario members of the squad include AC. E. Genga, Windsor, Sgt. W. W. Kerchesky, Preston, and AC. E H. Dalgity, London.

2 More Enlist.

Two regulars of the Cincinnati Reds, Pitcher Johnny Vander Meer and Outfielder Bert Haas, yesterday received instructions to report for induction into the armed forces on Saturday at Fort Thomas, Ky. If they are enlisting in the Army, they can play three more weeks of baseball. If the Navy draws them, they will have one week's furlough.

Defeating a field of 692, James A. Sabata, 29-year-old farmer of David City, Neb., broke 98 of 100 clay pigeons yesterday to win the preliminary handicap of the 44th annual Grand American Trapshoot at Vanadlia, O., one target ahead of five other competitors.

Jockey Bobby Merritt, whose application for a riding license in New York was turned down last spring, yesterday presented an affidavit before the Supreme Court, New York City, denying he had pulled the horse, Peep Show, in two races at Empire City last season. The Jockey Club had accused him previously.

Players Fined.

Outfielder Vince DiMaggio and Catcher Lopez were fined $25 and $50 respectively yesterday for their row on the previous day while playing against Brooklyn when they disputed a called third strike. The penalties were imposed by President Ford Frick of the National League.

Prescott, Ont., was no matcht for the Cornwall Army Basic Training Centre team in the second clash of the semi-finals of the Eastern Ontario Softball Association, the Soldiers winning at Cornwall yesterday 23-2. Army will not meet the winner of the Ottawa-Smith Falls group.

Redmond Quain, star of the Ottawa Rideau Tennis Club, qualified for the final of the Quebec junior championship singles yesterday at Montreal by defeating Andre Lamalice 6-4, 3-6, 6-1. Quain meets Yvon Gauthier of Quebec for the title to-day.

Alabama Bows Out

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. The college had only "two or three" athletes remaining from last season.

Corn Roast Is Held By Omemee Young Folks

OMEMEE, Aug. 27 — (ENS). — Members of the Young People's Union, United Church choir, and others spent a pleasant evening at A. Wallace's cottage on Wednesday. Wood was furnished for the camp fire by Mr. Wallace, and while the corn was being cooked, the young folks enjoyed community singing led by Bill Weir with his banjo. The main feature of the evening was the presentation of a lovely gold bracelet to Miss Mary Faulkner, who will be leaving shortly to take up her new duties as teacher in Hamilton. Miss Faulkner will be missed in the community, as she was a member of Trinity United choir, and for the past year held the office of president of the Young People's Union. She also held offices in the Young People's work for the Lindsay Presbytery and the Bay of Quinte Conference.

Miss Faulkner expressed her appreciation for the gift and assured the Young People that she would always remember the fellowship of the young people of this community. Lunch of corn, sandwiches, cookies and tea was served.

Prize Winners Are Announced Wartime Housing Competition

Keen competition among the entries characterized the contest in the Wartime Housing Lawn and Garden competition, held recently under the auspices of the Peterborough Horticultural Society.

Seven judges, selected from the Society, were engaged for the competition, and their decisions were based upon a special scale of points supplied by F. C. Paterson of the Agricultural Department. The scale of points was helpful in eliminating doubtful entries, and each entry, furthermore, was judged twice before a final award was made.

The competition was divided into two classes, prizes being given for the best vegetable gardens and for beautification of home surroundings in the Jackson Park, Hatton Estate and Burnham Point areas. For the whole competition, George C. Laing, 3 Burnham Court, was highest in the vegetable class with a score of 95%; and tied with 90% each in the beautification division were R. H. Parker, 688 Gilchrist street and E. I. Gale, 30 Edgewater Boulevard.

New Ration Book No. 3 Ready At Havelock

HAVELOCK, Aug. 27.—(ENS). — The new ration books No. 3, for residents of Havelock and Belmont, will be distributed from the Havelock Town Hall on Aug. 27 from 2 to 5 and 7 to 10 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 to 12 a.m.; 2 to 5 and 7 to 10 p.m. Consumers are particularly cautioned not to surrender their ration books No. 2, nor to damage or destroy them until the validity of all coupons contained in them has expired. The new No. 3 books will come into use for the purchase of rationed goods on Sept. 2, and they are intended to last consumers for a period of 8 months, thus removing any necessity of a further distribution being made during the winter season. Another change is the disappearance of the word "spare" as applied to coupons, the extra sets marked 'C,' 'D', 'E', 'F,' whose use has yet to be designated.

Mrs. Dorothy McMillan, secretary of the local Ration Board, has distributed allotments of new books to Cordova, Trent River, Norwood, Westwood, Hastings and Warsaw. In Havelock, Mrs. C. Price has been appointed distributing chief, with Mrs A. Anderson and Misses Lucy Wing and Verna Buchanan as checkers and two dozen volunteer recorders from Belmont and Havelock.

Yanks Down Giants By 9-7 Score

Second-place Giants of the Catholic Junior Softball League took it on the chin last night at the Armour Hill Bowl from the Yanks to the count of 9-7. It was the first game of a 2 of 3 semi-final setto. A good game all the way, it was all it was expected to be.

Ray Spencer doing mound calisthenics for his winning team was cut for nine hits, walked two and fanned two.

On the opposing team Ray Fitzgerald did the hurling chores, allowing ten safe hits and gave four free passes to the base area.

In the pill hammering division for the victorious squad Frank Fitzgerald was out in front with a single and a pair of two-baggers for four. B. Leahy followed closely with a one-sacker and a double for three trips, and R. Plumpton recorded a pair of singles for four. For the vanquished squadron G. Sullivan chalked up a trio of one base hits in 4 trips, N. Plumpton a single and a homer in four, while P. Fitzgerald scored a triple along with a single in a like number.

Both teams displayed exceptional fielding in spots and good play all the way.

The second game of this series will be played tonight at 6.30 on the same diamond. These boys have improved their ball greatly since the beginning of the league and they should be all congratulated for their progress.

Stratford Gets Max Samuelly

HAMILTON, Aug. 27. — If Max Samuelly, former Toronto sandlotter and Pony League hurler, wants to finish out this campaign as an amateur he will have to do his hurling with Stratford Nationals. This was the ruling made here last night when members of the sub-committee of the Ontario Baseball Association gathered in the Royal Connaught Hotel to deal with applications made by Stratford, Waterloo and Hamilton for the former Galt hurler.

The committee ruled that in view of the fact Samuelly was a senior player and had played in the Intercounty this year, he must finish in the Intercounty. Hamilton also made a request for the right to use Walter Guditis of Niagara Falls, N.Y., as a military replacement for Frankie O'Brien and they were granted that right, providing the American hurler can get employment here and is given Selective Service and imimgration ratings.

At Hamilton September 4.

Playdown dates in all divisions were made as follows: Senior A—Niagara District winners at Hamilton September 4, if N.D. has the champion declared by that date. If not series will open in Welland or Port Colborne on Wednesday, September 8, and second game will be played in Hamilton on September 11. The third game will be staged on September 18, and the clubs must toss for home grounds.

Intercounty winners at Windsor on Sunday, September 5, with return game at Intercounty on September 6. If third game is necessary it will be staged on September 11.

Playdown Program

HAMILTON (CP)—The Ontario Baseball Association last night drew up a playdown schedule which called for the Niagara district seniors to play Hamilton commencing Sept. 4 and the Inter-County champions to open at Windsor Sept. 5. Niagara senior "B" team will play at Toronto Sept. 6, with return game Sept. 11.

WESTCLOX GIRLS DEFEAT AIRCRAFTS IN 7th GAME TO TAKE TITLE

Big Bens Score Seven Runs To Aircrafts 3

Marg. Hawthorne's homer in the first innings started the Westclox well on the way to another city championship in the Senior Girls' Softball League last night at the Bowl when the Big Bens defeated Aircrafts 7 runs to 3. It was the seventh and final game of the play-offs, with each team having won three starts.

Norma Strickland and Marg. Watson started as opposing hurlers and it was on them that most of the scoring was done. Marg. Watson was unsteady and retired twice to the shortstop's position, with the hurling being taken over by Isobel Bullock, who after two shaky starts settled down in the sixth and for the last three innings had the Aircrafts fanning the air. She struck-out seven, never allowed a hit and passed two.

Outside of the first innings, when Marg. Hawthorne's circuit swat came with Isobel Bullock on, Norma Strickland pitched good steady ball until the sixth when she was touched for two hits. Her support failed her in the third and after she had been touched for two hits her infield blew up and three runs were scored. Marilyn Low finished the game, and like the relief hurler for the Clockmakers, she pitched steady ball being never in difficulty and was only touched for three hits in the last three frames.

The crowd was one of the largest of the season and the supporters of both teams were out in full force. Westclox got their first two runs in the first, in the second Doris Walker was the only one to connect, in the third Aggie Anderson and Vi McLean were safe on singles, Isobel Bullock popped out to first and then Marg. Hawthorne and Marg. Watson were safe on infield fumbles scoring Anderson and McLean. Marg. Hawthorne scored on another infield miss for the third run of the innings. In the fourth and fifth Norma Strickland held the Big Bens right at the plate, but in the sixth she faltered with Marg. Watson singling and scoring on Beryl Dobbin's single. Marilyn Low went to the mound and struck out both Barbara Rome and Doris Walker, and Jean Castle lifted one to Eleanor Craig at first. She started the seventh by striking out Aggie Anderson, Vi McLean was safe on a single into left field and scored on Isobel Bullock's single to centre field. Marg. Hawthorne grounded to short and Marg. Watson struck out to retire the side. Beryl Dobbin doubled into centre field but was out at third trying to stretch it into a three bagger. Barbara Rome walked but Doris Walker and Jean Castle both struck out.

Threaten in Second

The Aircrafts first threatened in the second, two players going out in the first innings on a smart double play from McLean to Castle. Eleanor Craig first up in the second singled, Marg. Selkirk was safe when Marg. Hawthorne muffed, A. DeCarlo popped out and Norma Strickland lifted one to right. A. Patterson singled but Eleanor Craig was out trying to slide home. In the third Irene Stewart first up singled, Phyllis Bigelow was safe on an error at short, R. Hewitt singled, scoring Irene Stewart, and Marg. Watson retired to short with Isobel Bullock going to the mound; Marilyn Low struck out, Eleanor Craig popped one to short, Marg. Selkirk singled and Hewitt was thrown out trying to score.

Marg. Watson went back to the mound in the fourth and held the Aircrafts, but in the fifth Irene Stewart again started the fireworks, Phyllis Bigelow sacrificed, Hewitt was safe on a miss at first and Stewart scored, Low singled and Marg. Watson retired to short. Craig and Selkirk both singled scoring Hewitt. DeCarlo and Strickland both popped out. Patterson, Stewart and Bigelow struck out in the sixth with Isobel Bullock pitching. Hewitt and Craig struck out in the seventh and Low walked, but Marg. Selkirk popped out to the catcher. In the eighth DeCarlo struck out, Strickland was safe on an error at first, Patterson lifted one to third, Stewar was passed and Phyllis Bigelow struck out to retire the side. In the ninth Perdue batting for for Hewitt lifted one to short, Low was out on a fly to third and Craig out on a fly to left field.

With the 4th Battery in front of the parade by winning the last two games the Genelecs will have to apply the pressure tonight when the two clubs meet at Riverside Park or the Gunners will only be one victory away from the title. This tilt should be one of the liveliest battles of the final round for Manager Johnston's club cannot afford to let the Arillerymen make it three in a row while of course the Battery is just as anxious to win in order to set up a commanding lead. The two clubs played smart ball all the way and it was anybody's game until Eddie Starr wound it up by nipping George Hawks off first base. Hawks was on there with the tieing run when Starr with a snap throw to Jim Ellis cut him off. Manager Dormer will start young Bob Crowe in this battle. Crowe beat the Genelecs in Wednesday night's free-scoring affair and also took a mighty important game from the Soldiers last week and the Gunners are counting upon him making it three straight tonight. Manager Johnston has not intimated who will be sent to the mound for this vital fixture. Terry Woods has not been used in the series so far and Genelecs may elect to toss him in against the Gunners. The game which looms up as one of the best of the campaign will start at 6.30 o'clock sharp.

While the senior race in the Girls' Softball League is over there is still plenty of ball left in the loop for the playoffs for the intermediate title and the Knox Cup still have to be run off. The four teams in the running are the Brintons, Electrics, Generals and Johnson Motors. Electrics and Generals are in one bracket and Johnson Motors and Brintons in the other, each of these semi-final series to be a best two-of-three affair. The playoffs will get under way tonight when the Johnson Motors girls and Brintons will meet at the Bowl in the first game of their round and it should provide an interesting tussle all the way. The Outboards have been playing improved ball in recent games and they threaten to come up with their best performances of the season during the playoffs. On the other hand the Brinton girls who won the intermediate honors last season are anxious to repeat the feat and they will have their strongest team in action tonight, hoping to get the jump on the opposition.

Congratulations, Westclox

For the second year in succession the Westclox girls have captured the senior girls' softball championship. Pat Hayden's club who led the loop all season and finished in first place wound up the playoffs last night by defeating Aircraft 7 to 3, thus taking the series four games to three. The Big Bens have been worthy champions for they have played consistent ball throughout the campaign. They were fortunate in being able to field nearly all the club which won the championship last season and lucky also in picking up several useful recruits in Beryl Dobbin and Jean Castle and they have practiced faithfully and worked hard to repeat their triumph of last season. The Aircrafters made up for the most part of the players of the former C.G.E. club have battled valiantly all season to head off the Westclockers and provided them with formidable opposition, not only during the regular schedule but in the playoffs. The final series has been a real battle. They deserve credit for the fine showing they have made against an experienced and well-balanced club. The Westclockers now have a long wait before they enter the Ontario playdowns and will probably arrange a series of exhibition games to keep in shape for the provincial series. Incidentally Coulter's ladies' team of Toronto are anxious to play a game or two here and may be accommodated. They would give the Peterborough champs the acid test.

Genelecs and 4th Battery will carry on their softball warfare tomorrow Saturday at Riverside Park with a game called for 2.30 o'clock and if another fixture is necessary to decide the series it will be staged at 6.15 o'clock. This setup has been arranged because the league must declare a winner before next Tuesday. A Saturday afternoon game should be popular with the fans who have been complaining because there has been no week-end sport activity. Both teams will be at full strength and the afternoon fixture should provide sparkling ball.

This Was No Break

When John Katan refused to meet Gentleman Jack Clayborne in a return bout at Brock Street Arena Monday night it wasn't much of a break for the Colored Comet, no matter how you look at it. Katan's decision opened the door of opportunity for Housepainter Dick Hogan to get a main bout billing with Clayborne and if you think that is good news for the colored grappler, then you simply don't know Mister Hogan, neighbor. The Housepainter may lack the punishing chin locks that Katan depends on but when it comes to dishing out the rough stuff he doesn't have to doff his hat to the Palermo Panther. Hogan is poison-mean; he doesn't pay any attention either to the rules of wrestling or the ethics of sportsmanship. The one think that you can depend on is that he will give Gentleman Jack the works with nothing barred. It is safe to predict that before the bout has gone five minutes the crowd will be calling for the Housepainter's scalp, for the fans will undoubtedly resent the sort of stuff that Hogan is sure to hand out to the popular negro mat artist. Clayborne had better be ready to do a lot of leaping for the rowdy from the coast will certainly give him plenty of cause for jumping. It is a sure-fire riot, that bout and it will be augmented with a couple of other lively attractions.

From somewhere in England comes a letter to this column from none other than Leo Giroux, the big Ottawa boy who played defence for the Peterborough Soldiers the latter part of last season. Giroux, a quiet, likeable lad who played steadily and effectively in a rearguard post is overseas with a Canadian hospital unit. He sends his regards to Jim Ellis and the members of the club, through this column. He says: "I didn't get Jim Ellis' address yet but don't forget to say hello to him for me and also the rest of the bunch because it sure was nice to play with them last winter and I would be mighty glad, once the war is over, to go back to Peterborough. I made some nice friends in Peterborough and I am missing them." Leo adds that it looks like he might have to miss his favorite sport next winter because where he is he can see no chance of hockey activity. However he says that he took his skates, along with him just in case.

Baseball Show Sells Bonds Worth 8 Million

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 — (AP).— There was laughter and tears and treasured memories in the historic Polo Grounds today as more than 35,000 spectators turned out for an unforgettable baseball and vaudeville show that raised $800,000,000 in war bonds.

For the occasion seven of the 12 living members of baseball's Hall of Fame were present in uniform and took part in a tableaux in which Walter Johnson pitched again to Babe Ruth and the fat old Bambino lifted a home run into the upper deck of the right-field stands.

With Ruth at bat, George Sisler at first base, Eddie Collins at second, bow-legged Honus Wagner at short, Tris Speaker in centre field, and Connie Mack waving a scorecard, their ranks were filled out by other famous players of a by-gone era — Roger Bresnahan, catching, Frank Frisch at third base, Duffy Lewis in left field and Jack Murray in right.

A Moving Scene

Former Mayor James J. Walker introduced each of the oldtimers as well as the widow of John McGraw. She wept quietly and there was moisture in the eyes and lumps in the throats of many others as the oldtimers waddled around on the field.

Although the program included two hours of entertainment by famous orchestras and stars of the stage and screen, most of it strictly in fun, there were frequent touches of earnestness such as a short speech by Sgt. Barney Ross, who hobbled out to the pitcher's mound and expressed appreciation of the show for hundreds of wounded soldiers, sailors and marines who sat in a group behind one of the dugouts.

The show, climaxed by a game between the stars of three New York Major League clubs and the New Cumberland, Pa., Army camp team, augmented by prominent players from other army units, was sponsored by the New York Journal-American to promote the sale of war bonds.

The price for a box seat was a $1,000,000 war bond, for reserved seats a $1,000 bond and for unreserved seats a $25 bond.

Army Loses, 5 to 2

Although aided by Capt. Hank Greenberg, Lieut. John Beasley, Lieut. Birdie Tebbets, Cpl. Sid Hudson and Pte. Enos Slaughter, the New Cumberland team was no match for the Major Leaguers, and was beaten 5-2.

Hogan Hopes To Drop Black Comet

Hogan the Horrid vs. Clayborne the Classy—that's the main mat attraction at the Peterborough Brock Street Arena next Monday night. This Rough-house Hogan person is nothing if not cocky. In spite of his Negro opponent's great reputation, Rough-house Richard is already congratulating himself on the prestige that will be his when (?) he flattens Clayborne. Every wrestler in North America today knows something of how good Gentleman Jack Clayborne is, but as far as Dick Hogan is concerned, the Colored Comet is "just another punk." Hogan further claims that he hasn't been right "done by" here, and it is true that he has been disqualified in this town for his rough work. But if our eyes did not deceive us last show, Massuh Jack Clayborne wont need the help of any official to give him a win over even Diabolical Dick. And that doesn't mean we think Hogan is any pushover. He's strong and rugged and he knows plenty of the seamy side of mat technique, but Ebony Flash Clayborne is our idea of a high-class mat artist and on his showing against Katan he should give Hogan a thorough thrashing.

Speaking of Katan, the astute gentleman has taken a sudden and violent dislike to the fans of this city. Judging from the audience reaction last time he was here, that goes double. Popular Pat Flanagan will also wrestle here on Monday's show and his opponent will be the notorious Strongman Bunny Dunlop. A new-comer here, Flight Sergeant Ted Miller of Trenton will try out against Joe Maich, the Brantford Buzz-saw.

TORONTO, Aug. 27 — (CP). — Maurice (French Angel) Tillet almost caused a riot in Vancouver the other night when he refused to wrestle on an outdoor card at Athletic Park because it rained. Don't misunderstand. Maurice wasn't afraid of getting that angel face of his dirty. He was nervous lest he break a lef, or even a neck, in a fall on the slippery mat. As Alf (Vancouver Sun) Cottrell put it: "When Percy Hicks billed his show to go on rain or shine he forgot to ascertain if the Angel was a mudder." "The 1,000 fans were plenty burned when Hicks got up to say Maurice wasn't gonna play that day. Several hundred rushed for the wickets in hopes of a refund, but it was no dice. The house had the money and intended to keep it. Finally the crowd was herded back to its seats with a promise the Angel would be coaxed. Maurice definitely would not be coaxed but some high junks by other wrestlers on the card mollified the fans.

Nice pickings:
If Art Stevenson turns out with Dave Sprague's Ottawa Combines as expected the Combines will have struck football gold. Many Winnipeggers claim the greatest member of those fine Blue Bomber teams was not Fritz Hanson but Stevenson. Art went to Winnipeg in 1937 to study medicine at University of Manitoba. He had been an All-American halfback at Hastings College, Nebraska. His first couple of years in Winnipeg Art wasn't given much of a chance but by 1939 he was the mainspring of the Threlfall-coached machine. Stevenson was the finest punter and forward passer Winnipeg ever presented. And while he was not a spectacular ball-carrier like Hanson he was a consistent ground gainer, both through the line and around the ends. When Columbus Rams in an exhibition game. The gue champions, trained in Winnipeg in 1940, the Bombers beat the Rams in an exhxibition game. The Columbus coach gave Stevenson the credit, saying Art was the greatest exponent of the pro pass he had seen. As Bomber quarterback, Stevenson proved a master strategist. In the 1941 Western playoffs with Regina Stevenson, then at the very peak if his career after leading the Western Union in scoring, suffered a serious knee injury that kept him out of the national final which Bombers won by beating Ottawa. Last year, after joining the Army Medical Corps as a lieutenant, Stevenson coached Manitoba Varsity team but did not play. His future with Ottawa depends on whether his trick knee holds up.

Genelecs Lose 5 to 4 In Third Game

Coming from behind after being down 4 to 1 until the seventh frame, the 4th Battery shot out in front in the City Softball League final series by defeating the Genelecs 5 to 4 in a well-played battle last night. It was the second victory in succession for the Gunners and was won at the expense of Haddie Eakins, the Lindsay twirler, who had beaten them in the opening game of the series.

Eakins had been ruled by the League excutive as ineligible to play but Manager Johnston who claimed that he had not been so notified by the league until the umpires told him the ruling just before the game sent the Lindsay heaver to the mound.

Although he was touched up for thirteen hits and gave six bases on balls Eakins was tough to score on and he held the Battery to one run in the first six innings. They finally uncorked a barrage in the seventh to tie the score and pushed the winning counter over in the eighth when Joe Stewart pasted a triple behind a base on balls to salt the game away.

Dave Wilson went the route for the Battery and although he was unusually wild, walking nine batters, he too was stingy about allowing runs and getting errorless support from his teammates finally won the argument.

It was a peculiar game. Both teams had runners on in every inning but while it was easy to get them on the runways it was no cinch driving them over the plate. The result was a total of 28 players left on bases, 15 of them Gunners. Bun Kingdon with a triple and three singles and Joe Stewart with a triple, double and single led the Battery hitters and drove in all five of the winners' runs, Stewart supplying transportation for three of them. Playford, Cadd and Giardino each had two hits for the Genelecs.

Both teams fielded smartly although there were no sensational plays. Ned Vitarelli handled nine chances without a skip at third for the Battery and was the pivot in the only double-killing of the game. For Genelecs Playford had the feature play with a running catch having to sprint a long way to get under a fly to short centre.

Genelecs broke out in front in the second inning. Cadd doubled to left to open the frame. Hawks popped out but Giardino walked and Eakins lined a single to right scoring Cadd. McNabb bunted safely down the first base lines, filling the bases. Wilson could not get the ball over for Holmes and he walked, forcing in Giardino. Tucker struck out and Playford forced Eakins on a tap to Vitarelli.

The Gunners got one back in the third. Vitarelli walked. Crowe popped to Hawks, Burton drew a pass. Starr hit to Hawks forcing Vitarelli at third. Stewart singled to left, scoring Burton. Ellis was tossed out by Eakins.

Genelecs came back with one in the last of the fourth. McNabb struck out. Holmes walked but was forced at second by Tucker on a rap to Kingdon. Tucker went to second on a wild pitch and ran in on Playford's single to left. Mowry struck out.

Manager Johnston's team made it 4 to 1 in the fifth. Cadd opened by beating out a high bounder to Heal. Hawks forced him at second on a rap to Vitarelli but Giardino singled on a roller that Heal knocked down, Hawks going to third. Eakins' long fly to Stewart sent the run in after which McNabb fanned.

Battery threatened in the fifth and wasted singles by Kingdon, Wilson and Crowe in the sixth without scoring but they finally got an attack rolling in the seventh to tie the score. Eddie Starr opened with a double to right centre and Stewart doubled to left to send Starr across. Ellis got a life when Cadd missed Tucker's throw. Bun Kingdon lined a long one to right centre and when Playford was only able to get one hand on the ball and deflected it the blow went for a triple scoring Stewart and Ellis. Kingdon was right at the latter's heels trying to stretch the hit into a homer and was nipped at the plate on a relay. Holmes to Giardino to Mowry. Heal dropped a single back of second and advanced to third on Wilson's sacrifice and a wild pitch. Vitarelli rolled to Tucker ending the rally.

The Gunners tucked the game away in the eighth. Bob Crowe walked, went to second on a wild pitch and to third on Burton's long fly. Starr popped to Hawks but Stewart drove a vicious grounder past Giardino that went for a triple, Crowe going home with the winning run. Ellis rolled out.

Both had a chance for a run in the ninth. Kingdon opened the Battery half with his fourth hit but Heal flied to Playford, Wilson was out on a bunt and Vitarelli flied out to Playford.

Mowry started the Genelec end with a line single over Vitarelli's head but Cadd struck out and Mowry was forced at second on Hawks' roller to Heal. Then Eddie Starr picked Hawks off first with a snap throw to Jim Ellis and the game was over.

Montreal Balk Gives Toronto Game

By The Associated Press

The first-place Toronto Maple Leafs demonstrated last night they can win without hits in the International League. They won an uphill 6-5 victory over Montreal thanks to an eighth-inning balk by Barney Deforge, Montreal pitcher who took the mound in the seventh.

Montreal piled up a 5-1 lead in the first three innings, but the Leafs came back with three in the fourth and pushed over the tying and winning tallies in the eighth.

Jersey City, blanked for the 27th time this season on Tuesday, did an about-face and shut out Newark 3-0 behind the five-hit pitching of Bill Voiselle.

Rochester again thwarted Floyd Giebell's attempt to win his 12th victory, the Red Wings beating Buffalo, 3-2. The veteran Ira Hutchinson turned in a five-hitter.

Baltimore and Syracuse divided a double-header, Orioles taking the first 2-1, while Syracuse blasted out 17 hits to win the nightcap, 8-2. Van Harrington, Syracuse second baseman, was spiked and sent to hospital for treatment.

Chicago Cubs Beat Pirates

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer.

The fantastic schedule drawn up by the major leagues this year has dropped into another of its dead spots. Except for full programs tomorrow and Sunday the menu for the next few das is scant.

Over a three-day stretch in the American League next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, for instance, the total activity will be limited to one game between New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox. National League games also are rationed, though not quite so stringently.

The let-up began yesterday when only two teams in the senior circuit and four in the American League saw action.

Chicago Cubs edged out Pittsburg Pirates 3-2 in the lone National League contest with Paul Derringer pitching six-hit ball. It took a two-run homer by Phil Cavarretta in the sixth inning and a triple by Harry Lowrey in the seventh, however, to beat the Buccaneers.

In the American League Boston Red Sox beat Cleveland 4-1 and Washington halved a double-header with St. Louis Browns.

Mike Ryba, the Red Sox' Jack of all trades, officiated in the victory over the Indians with seven-hit hurling.

The Senators stopped the Browns in the first game 9-7 for Early Wynn's 15th pitching triumph, although he had to have help from Dutch Leonard to get the final out. In the nightcap George McQuinn hit a roundtripper, as he did in the first game, and the Browns won 4-3 when Milo Candini forced in three runs with walks while the bases were loaded.

Yesterday's Stars

By The Associated Press

Mike Ryba, Red Sox: Pitched seven hit ball to beat Indians.

Phil Cavaretta, Cubs: Hit two-run homer to help whip Pirates.

Jake Early of the Senators and George McQuinn, Browns: Early hit homer and single to bat in two runs to aid in winning first game and McQuinn hit home runs in both halves of doubleheader.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP) — Mike Jacobs has been absorbing a few blasts for setting a $16.50 top for tickets to tonight's Hank Armstrong-Ray Robinson fight, but Mike can take it as long as he can take it . . But some of the more solvent beachcombers point out that the customers all over the country are demanding ringside seats at any price and won't go for the cheap tickets . . . Record stuff: George Case, with 42 thefts so far, is a good bet to win his fifth straight American League base-stealing crown. Ty Cobb never won more than three in a row . . , Rudy York has hit 15 homers in August and needs only four more to bust his one-month record.

Surprised Fisherman Snags Loon On Hook Trolling With Minnow Bait At Marmora

MARMORA, Aug. 27 (ENS)—Two local anglers who have had all sorts fo experiences in their many years of experiences in their many years experience of all on Wednesday evening. They had been fishing without success down Crowe River below the bridge, and were returning about supper time with a live herring on their lines for bait. Alphonse Shannon, who was one of the pair, noticed a loon dive into the water ahead of the boat. A few minutes later, Harold Nayler, his companion. who had about twenty-five feet of line out behind the boat, thought he had the prize fish of the season on his line judging by the tugging that was going on. "I'll bet it was that loon I saw diving in the water" said his companion. "Oh, heck, it can't be" said the man who was the more occupied for the minute. It later transpired that it was the loon, who on reaching the surface of the water, released itself.

Allies Frame Squeeze-play Against Japs

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (AP) — The eastern end of a British American-Chinese-squeeze play against Japan—product of the Quebec War Strategy Conference—is being outlined here at meetings between Lord Louis Mountbatten, new Allied Supreme Commander in southeast Asia, and American military chiefs.

The itinerary of Britain's famed Commando Chief will take him through a round of staff conferences with United States Army and War Department officials today, and, after a trip to London, eventually to Chungking to plot the western phase of the war in Asia.

A four-fold objective appeared to dominate the developing pattern for the Allied effort in Asia: Re-open the Burma Road, unshackle southern Asiatic sea ports from enemy control, and, ultimately, dominate the China Sea and greatly augment Allied Air power in China itself.

Amphibious Job

With the whole program obviously involving amphibious operations, Lord Louis conferred yesterday with Navy officials. Navy Secretary Frank Knox remarked the choice of Lord Louis was an indication of "growing attention and interest" to the South-eastern Asia theatre and "to future operations there."

Speculation turned meanwhile on the identity of the American Army officers who will serve under him. It became known that an unidentified officer already has been chosen by the Commando leader as his deputy chief-of-staff and that the chief-of-staff will be a Briton.

The name most frequently mentioned for the deputy's job is that of Lt.-Gen. Mark W. Clark, former chief-of-staff of the United States Army ground forces now commanding the 5th Army in North Africa.

Also mentioned was the name of Lt.-Gen. Joseph L. Stilwell as a likely choice for Lord Louis' deputy command-in-chief, although it was understood no decision has been reached on a man to fill that post, and probably will not be reached until the British leader has seen Gen. Chiang Kai-shek in Chungking. Stilwell now commands all United States Army forces in China-Burma,India, and is Chiang Kai-shek's chief-of-staff.

Lord Louis probably will leave Washington tonight or tomorrow, and it is thought likely that while he is in London the British government will promote him from vice admiral to full admiral, in keeping with his new independent combat theatre command.

ence) so far as they affect the war against Germany and Italy will be furnished to the Soviet government."

Great Britain, Canada and the United States accorded the committee limited wartime recognition as administrative agency in French overseas territories which acknowledge its authority, but not as "a government of France or of the French empire."

The Canadian note, made public in Ottawa by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, said the government of Canada recognizes the committee "as the body qualified to ensure the conduct if the French effort in the war within the framework of inter-Allied co-operation."

It noted "with sympathy" the committee's desire to be recognized "as the body qualified to ensure the administration and defence of all French interests."

Statements issued by the British, Canadian and American Governments, on agreement reached at Quebec, specified that "later on the people of France, in a free and untrammeled manner, will proceed in due course to select their own government and their own officials to administer it."

The Russian recognition, broadcast several hours later, appeared to be full and without qualification.

Some Limitations

In President Roosevelt's statement the following limitations were imposed:

1. The committee is expected to "function on the principle of collective responsibility of all its members for the active prosecution of the war."

2. "In view of the paramount importance of the common war effort," the relationship with the committee "must continue to be subject to the military requirements of the Allied commanders."

3. The extent to which the committee may be recognized "as the body qualified to ensure the administration and defence of French interests" must be "reserved for consideration in each case as it arises."

4. The statement "does not constitute recognition of a government of France or of the French Empire by the Government of the United States."

An informed diplomat interpreted these limitations as meaning that the British, Canadian, American Governments merely had confirmed the situation existing in North Africa for the past three months. In that sense, he said, it brought de jure recognition of a de facto administration, without materially changing the relationship among London, Ottawa, Washington and Algiers.

No More Buns For Hot Dogs Or Hamburgers

OTTAWA, Aug. 27 — (CP). — The hot dog and the hamburger—as they're generally known—have become war casualties.

From Sept. 13 on, and probably for the duration, hot dogs and hamburgers will have to be dished up between slices of plain bread instead of the odd-shaped buns in vogue now.

The Prices Board, in consulation with the baking industry, decided there ought to be further simplification of bakery products as war measure. A new order goes into effect. Sept. 13 and hot dog rolls, hamburger rolls, Vienna rolls and parkerhouse rolls are wiped out.

G. Cecil Morrison, the board's administrator of bakery products, said it takes five times as long to turn a bag of flour into rolls as into plain bread.

Carried on through all the different varieties of buns and rolls and fancy cakes, a considerable increase in baking production without increased equipment or labor will be accomplished, he added.

The order of the prices board stipulates that housewives must pay on the line after Sept. 13 for a reduced variety of bakery products.

The Peterborough Examiner

VOL. LXXXVIII. No. 48 PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, AUGUST 27, 1943

Wood Shortage Is Estimated At 12,000 Cords

If you have a dead tree on your lot, start cutting it down and sawing it into stove lengths, because you are likely to need it as winter closes down upon all of us.

Of course, if you are in the oil burning class, you wouldn't be interested, except aloofly, in Mr. Metheral's statement to the finance committee of the council Thursday night that he has "rounded up a fair amount of wood," after motoring about 780 miles through the north country.

"Peterborough may be twelve to fifteen thousand cords short this winter," Mr. Metheral told the Examiner this morning, enlarging his statement to the council.

"From the information I received from dealer sources, Peterborough would need about 35,000 cords, and we have only 10,000 cords in sight. That's the story in a nut shell.

I have been looking for nothing but hardwood, and I am not sure right now about getting delivery of the wood I expect, or I'm hoping for, probably that would be more correct. The people who have wood in the north country will not sign a contract, but I have confidence in the men I have been in touch with.

Can Get Poplar

I can get 5,000 cords of poplar and other soft woods tomorrow and start it rolling into the city, but what good is it for winter use? The producers are cutting this stuff because they know they can sell it in the wartime emergency, but not when the fighting ends and the consumer gets back into a normal market. They'll tell you they can sell hardwood any time, but if they want to sell the poplar, now is their chance. And that is what some of them are doing. There is lots of it cut in the north country."

Mr. Metheral said that if he could have got into the bush country two months ago he might have got enough hardwood to forestall any local lack this coming winter.

"For goodness sake don't exaggerate whatever you write," Mr. Metheral cautioned the Examiner, but if the probabilities, and they are sharper than that, point to a scarcity of ten to fifteen thousand cords of fuel wood that is an estimate which simply cannot be blown up and away from facts.

Meantime, Parks Chairman Curtis has fifty cords of wood piled away for winter use in the skating rinks with some promise of excess. He estimates that he could get another fifty or hundred cords by cutting down dead trees throughout the city.

Along the top of the Victoria Park hill there are ten or twelve dead trees, most of them hardwood, and when asked why something wasn't done about removing them, Alderman Curtis said he remembered that the late Alderman Stocker had some difficulty with the county council about the park trees. From that friction he formed the opinion that the park and its ownership and its trees and its city use were phases of possessive "rus in urbe" was a delicate question, best to be avoided by city overtures, and preferably left dormant until the county fathers themselves took the initiative.

12 Dead In Park

The Examiner counted recently twelve trees, some of them dead from overcrowding, which should be chopped out of the Victoria Park scene.

One cold fact glares out of the Metheral statement,—Peterborough is not going to have enough wood for its winter needs, according to the information he received from local dealers.

Peterborough Couple Observing Golden Wedding On Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Maher, 270 Rubidge street, will observe the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding on Saturday. They were married in St. Mary's church, Lindsay, on August 28, half a century ago, by Monsignor Laurent, a priest long deceased who left such a deep impression upon this part of the Roman Catholic diocese of Peterborough that his name is still mentioned by the elders with affection and reverence. Mr. and Mrs. Maher were both born in Lindsay, but have resided in Peterborough most of their married life, and are widely known.

Mr. Maher's wide circle of acquaintances had its beginning here during his years in the men's clothing business, and especially in the long period of his partnership with the late James Lang. Apparently they were congenial associates in a retail business relationship that was one of the attractive stores on George street some years ago. Mr. Maher is now a member of the circulation staff of the Examiner, and in that work throughout the county and district he meets many of the old friends of those "Lang and Maher" days.

The matrimonial anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Maher will be quietly observed by them on Saturday. In the morning they will attend at St. Peter's Cathedral a mass which will be celebrated by their son, Rev. Gerard J. Maher of Cobourg, who is assistant to the parish priest, Rev. Dr. P. J. Kelly. The other members of their family are: James J. Maher of Toronto; Mrs. Rita Huffman, of Toronto; Miss Monica Maher at home, and Gunner Joseph D. Maher, who went overseas on active service three years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Maher will be home to their friends in the afternoon from two to five o'clock.

The Examiner extend to Mr. and Mrs. Maher as members of its family congratulations upon this occasion of the golden jubilee of their wedding, and extend to them best wishes for good health and happiness in their married years that extend beyond the half century mark.

Recently he harvested a 3½-pound tomato, measuring 15 inches in circumference, and a cucumber two feet long.

Quaker Oats Is Incorporated Canadian Firm

Incorporation of the Quaker Oats Company of Canada as an autonomously directed branch of the parent company was announced here today by its newly appointed president, Reg. R. Faryon who has been general manager of the Peterborough plant since he succeeded Laroy E. Cutting.

Following its custom of sharing its confidence first with its employees, the company enclosed the following informative statement in the letter received by each member of the entire staff this morning with the annual bonus of 11.4 per cent of salary:—

"To our Canadian Quakers:

Instead of continuing to carry on our business in Canada as a branch of The Quaker Oats Company of the United States, we have organized The Quaker Oats Company of Canada, Limited.

The business will be conducted under the same management and controls as in the past, and the policies and principles of doing business will not be changed in any respect. We will all be working together in the same old way trying to do the best job we can.

We send this letter at this time because in case you hear some change has been made we want you to have the facts.

With best wishes, Yours very truly, John Stuart, Chairman of the Board.

The officers of the emerging Canadian Company are:—Reg. R. Faryon, president and general manager; James G. Wharry, vice-president and assistant general manager; P. M. McCarrell, vice-president and assistant general manager.

Three head office representatives are also included in the executive personnel: L. F. Watermulder, treasurer; R. E. Coon, secretary; G. B. Whitfield, controller; all of Chicago.

L. H. Ingram, assistant treasurer and secretary; J. E. Sullivan, assistant controller.

40 Years in Peterborough

The Quaker Oats Company in Peterborough has been operating for approximately forty years as an unincorporated branch with plants in this city and Saskatoon. The parent company was incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey. During those years the Canadian mills have built up a large domestic and export business, and in recognition of this sustained expansion, its deep rooting in the industrial life of this country and the distinctly national features and character which it has acquired, the company decided to apply for a Dominion charter of incorporation. The change in corporative status takes effect on September 1 under the distinctive name of The Quaker Oats Company of Canada Limited, and under the direction of its new officers.

As briefly explained to its employees, the company remains a subsidiary of the parent Quaker Oats Company with some new elements of responsibility devolving upon Mr. Faryon and his assistants. As a wholly owned subsidiary of the American company, it will carry on all the operations heretofore conducted by the Canadian branch of the American company.

The Quaker Oats Company of Canada Limited now occupies a position of Canadian incorporation similar to some of Peterborough's other leading industries which are wholly owned subsidiaries of parent institutions in the United States.

BRITISH FILMS

A plan to show the best British films in occupied countries as they are liberated is being prepared by the British Films Producers Association in co-operation with the Ministry of Information.

Half-Hour Talk

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. — (CP). — The British Information Service announced here today that Prime Minister Churchill's speech at 1 p.m. E.D.T., Sunday, would be broadcast from Quebec. The information service said the speech would be carried on all United States networks and would last half an hour.

Plan Revision 48-Hour Week For Workingmen

Authority to alter the forty-eight hour week of the employees of the Board of Works to give them Saturday afternoons off was left by the Board Thursday night with the chairman, Alderman James Dutton, who will arrange the details of a new schedule with City Engineer Parsons and Street Commissioner Burgess.

The suggestion was made by Alderman Dutton who said the men had been intimating that they would appreciate the change without reducing their working week. Alderman Gordon proposed that a personal relations committee be appointed to provide an agency with which the employees could discuss any of their problems from time to time.

"I don't think that committee is necessary," Alderman Dutton replied. "I am satisfied that Mr. Burgess has the confidence of practially every one of our Board employees."

He also said that the men were receiving holidays on a basis of length of service.

Alderman Dutton was also directed to employ a fourth man at the sewage disposal plant to improve the working conditions of the present staff.

"The three men are working seven days a week," he told the Board. "That includes Sundays, and it must be unsatisfactory to the three men who have been on duty there for quite a number of years."

Employment of the fourth man, with incidental adjustments under the change, was left to the chairman.

Alderman Dutton said he and Mayor Hamilton had gone down to the Peterborough Lumber Company's plant on Monaghan Road and had seen there a building provided for lunch hour accommodation for the men. He said the men at the city yard should have some similar suitable place in which to eat their dinners, a convenience that had been mentioned for some time but without any definite action.

That proposal led to the general remodelling of the yard with a heating system that would extend to the lunch room, garage and probably other buildings. Finally, Alderman Bradburn suggested that City Engineer Parsons consider the question of building arrangements and prepare a plan to include the lunch room, and submit it to the Board.

C.W.A.C. Band Gives Concert Kiwanis Carnival

To the strains of martial music and the cadenced tramp of marching feet, the annual Kiwanis Carnival got under way Thursday night. It was a gala occasion and it seemed that most of Peterborough was out to watch and enjoy at least some phases of the evening's activities.

No little fillip was provided in the nature of a colorful opening by the presqence of the Canadian Women's Army Corps brass band, numbering 28, here on its recruiting tour celebrating the second anniversary of the founding of the Corps. The band was loudly applauded and made a real smart appearance.

A slight delay was caused at start as the truck carrying the band instruments to the city broke down.

Crowds lined the sidewalk and overflowed into the streets to watch the march of the band and the Kiwanis-sponsored Sea Cadets through the business district. The parade was joined at Murray and George streets, where some 150 Sea Cadets, dressed in their whites, fell in behind the C.W.A.C. band as it turned on to George coming up from the armouries. The parade proceeded down George street past throngs of citizens, young and old, and headed back up George to turn out Hunter street and go on across the bridge to Riverside Park.

There with the booths, the games of chance and the refreshment stands ready and manned for action as the crowds spilled into the Park behind the hundreds of marching feet, a concert of marches and other tunes was played by the all-girl band. Much interest was shown in their performance, in the ease and efficiency with which the girls played, and their selections were rewarded with applause.

Later in the evening the draw was conducted for the $200 prize in cash or victory bonds. This was won by a sea cadet, Peter DeLong of 219 Caddy street on a ticket sold him by his brother, Walter DeLong, who gets a $4.00 certificate.

Further draws will be held on the two remaining nights of the carnival, at 11 p.m., for a prize of $300 in cash or victory bonds tonight and $500 Saturday. Tickets may still be purchased for the second and third draws, either at the grounds in the evening or from any Kiwanian or Sea Cadet. Attendance is not necessary to win a prize.

Police Watch For Prisoners

Provincial and city police have been on the alert here since last night when a message was received shortly after 11 o'clock, telling of the escape of 19 prisoners of war from Fort Henry, Kingston.

No person in any way resembling any of the wanted men has been reported in this district and the police have so far found no suspicious strangers to investigate.

Citizens can co-operate by reporting the presence of foreigners whose appearance and actions would seem to justify investigation.

Gladiolus And Aquarium Draw Nets $155 For War Victims Fund

The first annual show of the Eastern Ontario Gladiolus Society, with G. H. Clarke as president and H. B. Hall as secretary, which united with the Peterborough Aquarium Society for the occasion, proved in every respect a real success.

Much interest was shown in the exhibition of the Aquarium Society, headed by C. H. Bacon, the president, and Al Warne, secretary, for this was the first time that a showing of these tropical fish had been made in this city. Close to 500 people were in attendance at some time during the afternoon or evening when the show was held in the Market Hall on Wednesday, August 11.

In connection with this event they sponsored a draw, on five prizes which had been donated by the Peterborough Fuel and Transfer Company, the Peterborough-Brinton Carpet Company, Ltd., H. S. Routley China Shop, Cripps' Studio, and T. F. Doughty, which was made by His Worship Mayor Hamilton at about 10 o'clock on the evening of the show.

These prizes were won by Mrs. V. Harrison of 534 Park Street, W. J. Welch of 140 Douro Street, William Drury, 359 Dobbin Avenue, Ken Pearson, 466 Glengarry Avenue, and W. Marlin of Yonge Street. In addition, two door prizes were given by the two societies for which free tickets were handed to all who attended as they entered the hall, and these were won by Mollie Thompson of Lakefield, and Edward Shaughnessy of 25 Braidwood Avenue.

Reg. Storey had charge of the distribution and sale of tickets on the draw, from which the splendid sum of $155.67 net was realized which is credited in their name today, giving a first-class start on the 63rd thousand-dollar total to be raised by the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund to help the victims of air raids over Britain.

Getting away to such a good start in their first annual show, these two societies should have every encouragement to forge ahead in the interest of their respective groups, and the fact that the first venture also did a lot to help others in need should prove of great satisfaction to them all.

Two personal donations are also included in to-day's list, one coming under the heading F.H.D., and the other from Mrs. Wilshaw of 178 Sophia street, who has a son now serving with the forces who have ben successful in the Sicilian campaign.

Paging All Betty's.

Bob Everett of Stamp Out Hitler Club fame, recently wrote to Bette Davis, movie star at Hollywood, and sent one of the forms to her in the hope that her friends would take the stamps needed to fill it up from which he fund would benefit to the extent of the usual .1.00 contribution that these make.

Instead, she forwarded her named cheque to him for $5.00 to be used for the fund, and it will be used to head a personal list in which there will be two sections, one to be filled with members of the Stamp Out Hitler Clubs, and the other by those bearing the name of Bette or Betty, if they can be inspired to be associated with her in this respect.

Those who wish to do so should get in touch with either the secretary of the fund at headquarters in the Examiner Office, or with Bob Everett at the Empress Hotel. The usual receipt will be issued to all participating in this manner. It is hoped that this cheque will be shown on the screen at the Capitol Theatre.

Saturday's Market.

This Saturday, the stall on the Market will once again be in operation to assist the fund, with Mrs. J. E. Parker of Norwood in charge. Those who wish to assist with donations in kind for this purpose may leave them at the stall, where every endeavor will be made to sell them to the best advantage.

Baking Industry Discusses Ruling

Temporary extinction of the 'hot dog' by Thursday's order of Wartime Prices and Trade Board suspending the making of buns, rolls and other forms of dough products except the bread loaf, may be receiving the attention of the national council of the baking industry in Montreal today.

Alderman Dutton told the Examiner he had received a telegram from his son, Tom Dutton, to the effect that the Board's new ruling, designed as a wartime simplification of the baking business, was being considered by the national council in Montreal. Alderman Dutton was working in the plant today, a frequent switch for him in these days of increased demand for bread products and shortage of help, and he said he did not have time to give the telegram a second reading.

One of the effects of the order announced from Ottawa would be to return the 'weiner' roll sandwich to the form which has borne the name of the English Earl who first and without special intention, conceived the idea of spreading meat between two pieces of bread.

Ed. Fitzgerald Dies In City

Edward Fitzgerald, last member of a well-known Peterborough family and life-long resident of this city, passed away at his residence, 168 Brock street Thursday afternoon, succumbing to a long illness. He was 56 years old.

Ed, as he was familiarly known, received his early education in Peterborough, attending the Peterborough Collegiate, and then, following the profession of his father, he studied engineering and was graduated from McGill University in 1913. Up until his resignation a short time ago due to ill health, he held the position of Regional Land Surveyor with the Canadian National Railways in Toronto.

Born in Rochester, New York, he was the son of the late J. W. Fitzgerald and Margaret Kearns, and was a member of St. Peter's Cathedral. His mother had predeceased him only seven months ago.

The funeral will be held on Saturday from the late residence, 168 Brock street, going to St. Peter's Cathedral for service at 9 a.m. Interment is to be at St. Peter's Cemetery.

Gas House Worker Wins $17,000 Bungalow Lives In One Of Scarboro's Smallest Homes

TORONTO, Aug. 27 — (CP) — George Ellis, a 47-year-old gas company helper who lives with his two sons in one of the smallest homes in Toronto's suburban Scarboro, last night won the $17,000 Mary Pickford bungalow, drawn for at a fair held to raise money for the Evening Telegram British War Victims' Fund.

Premier George Drew picked Ellis' number from the thousands representing purchasers in Canada and the United States of $1 tickets on the bungalow, built on a site in northeastern Toronto donated by Miss Pickford, Toronto-born motion picture star.

Ellis will sell the bungalow to the highest bidder in house-hungry Toronto and buy a small home for himself and his two sons.

The draw, from which all returns are not in, is expected to raise about $100,000, to be divided between the Telegram Fund, the Lions' British Child War Victims' Fund and the Maltese War Relief Fund. Cheques totalling $75,000 were distributed to the three funds at last night's ceremony.

This is Everybody's War

By MOLLY BROWN

A group of women, a church organization in the United States, has adopted resolutions condemning what it calls the indecent and immodest styles in women's clothes which, they say, "have grown progressively more offensive during the past few years and especially since the war began." The description of the offending styles is vigorous, but scholarly, "costumes for sport and play are shamelessly brief. Skirts have long been raised above the limits dictated by modesty and common, ordinary decency; fabrics are diabolically employed to creat sensual allure."

Unfortunately, the ladies failed to describe garments which they would describe as decent and modest, but it is reasonable to assume they would cover a larger area of the human epidermis than some of the current fashions.

It is doubtful, however, if the ladies will have any more success than their forerunners, and it would probably be just as well if they would turn their energies to something more constructive. Ever since a cave-woman first draped herself in the skin of a couple of wildcats and paraded before her neighbors, there has been a school of thought which considered prevailing fashions "indecent and immodest." Probably the only period in history when fashions were not branded immodest were the days when nobody wore anything. Those days have been gone a long time, and it is doubtful if we'll return to them this far from the Equator.

If the reformers would base their arguments where they really belong. on aesthetic rather than moral grounds, they might get somewhere. To tell a woman she is alluring in a brief play suit is to pay her a compliment; to suggest, politely, of course, that with her legs she'd look better in a knee-length skirt would be dangerous, but might bring results. Woman like to be attractive. Then there is the matter of time and place. A properly fitting bathing suit looks fine on the beach, away from there it is —not indecent or immodest—but merely ludicrous. Exposure to sunshine and fresh air is healthy, but that is no reason why women should so far forget their dignity, and their responsibility as civilized human beings, as to appear on the city streets in shorts, unless it is unavoidable. Beauty and order are part of a civilized way of life, and women in shorts and slacks are not beautiful unless they are doing the things for which those particular garments were designed.

Anyway, a mere covering up of the limbs and body doesn't stop women from being alluring. There have been periods in history, when women wore gowns, long-sleeved gowns, which began at their necks and swept the ground at their feet, as well as caps and veils which covered the hair, leaving the face exposed. As far as we can tell from history, feminine allure worked just as well in that outfit as it does to-day in a bathing suit. For those who weren't the bathing suit type it probably worked a lot better.

A woman's allure is one of her weapons in the battle of life. How she uses or abuses it is another story, and has little to do with what she wears. Now let's get on with the war and let our neighbor dress as she pleases. It's really none of our business anyway.

Camp Council In Session At Inglestane

The Ontario Camp Council, which is the girls' counterpart of the Older Boys' Parliament, is in session at the present time in Inglestane, Stoney Lake, near Peterborough. Forty-eight girls, 16-18 years of age, representing seventeen Ontario communities and all major Protestant denominations are at this camp. They are appointed by their Canadian-Grils-in-Training groups or their city Girls' Councils to which they report upon return the recommendations growing out of the daily council periods on activities for the coming year, Christmas Vesper Services, local group projects and findings growing out of discussions on how the church may assist in solving the problems of teen age girls, the responsibility of Christian citizens in a democracy, and relationships with other organizations. Included also in the activities are Bible study, swimming, hikes, singing, campfire programs and many other things which are full of enjoyment and relaxation.

The director of Camp Council is Miss Harriet Christie, secretary of the Ontario Girls' Work Board. Other leaders are Miss Norma Heakes, Toronto, Miss Druscilla Gilbert, St. Catharines, Miss Frances Dale, Stratford, Mrs. Hugh MacMillan, Toronto and Formosa, Miss Kathleen Shaw and Margaret Martin, Toronto, Miss Audrey Edwards, New Liskeard, Miss Margaret McCormack, Brockville, Mrs. Leland Gregory, Toronto.

The communities represented include Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton, Brantford, Sarnia, Belleville, Kitchener, Cornwall, Gorrie, Port Hope, Stratford, Port Colborne, Peterborough, Bruington and Fergus.

This, the twenty-sixtn Ontario Girls' Council, is the last of thirty Canadian Girls in Training Camps held throughout the Province this summer.

Peterborough is represented by Miss Barbara Sills of Trinity United C.G.I.T.

James Bedford Wed In Toronto

A wedding of local interest took place recently in the church of the Sacred Heart, Chapleau Ontario, when Rita Mary Florence Kruger, B.A. became the bride of Mr. James R. Bedford of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Bedford of Toronto, formerly of Havelock, Rev. R. Gascon parish priest officiating.

The bride was attired in street length costume of island torquoise crepe fashioned with gored skirt and brocaded jacket, accented with fine hand looping and matching accessories. Her small straw hat was trimmed with ostrich feather tips and a short veil, and she carried a torquoise pearl rosary, mounted in silver, the gift of the groom. Her bouquet was of Swansonia roses and Madonna lily petals.

She was attended by her sister Miss Lucretia Kruger who wore a dawn grey crepe dress with jacket accented with crisp eyelet embroidery, and a small grey hat with short veil and carried fuschia sweet peas, blue delphinium and briarcliff roses. Mr. Simon Kruger gave his daughter away. The groom was attended by Mr. Edward Downey of Chapleau. Mrs. Ovide Payette presided at the organ, and sang Schubert's "Ave Maria" and "O Perfect Love". After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to the immediate families. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in the afternoon, when Mrs. Kruger received about two hundred guests. She was assisted by the groom's mother. Afterwards the bride and groom left for a brief honeymoon at Muskoka and Toronto, the bride travelling in a costume of turquoise blue with matching hat and tuxedo coat of beige English flannel.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, August 28

THIS DAY presents openings for aiming at important objectives, with promotions, co-operations and substantial rewards for working in groups, public bodies or community interests, with adequate returns for work well done and skillfully organized. It may have unique or unusual angles, promising in certain quarters spectacular returns. The young also with fine ideals and speculative offerings may enjoy excellent success.

Those whose birthday it is are promised a year of excellent returns for clever ideas. Change and travel may combine to make it a progressive, productive and altogether happy year. The young with bright ideas and unusual ways and means are particularly favored by Lady Luck.

cards with the neighbors, when it comes to sitting up in an all-night poker game he is right there; that while he is too weary to sit through a serious play, he is miraculously refreshed by witnessing strip tease ladies pull off their stuff.

Talk about the miracles wrought by the sulfa drugs! They are nothing compared to the cure-all remedy devised by the man who first invented, and put across, the myth of the tired business man, which is the best all-around alibi that human ingenuity has ever concocted for permiting men to do what they want to do, and leave undone those things which they do not want to do. Especially around home.

Now, of course, being either a husband or a wife, and in particular being parents, is no picnic for either sex, but when you come down to brass tacks it is the female of the species who gets the heavy end of the work. Hence, if anyone has a right to complain of being overworked and having priorities in coddling, it is the wives and mothers.

Tired Business Man Gets the Breaks

But do they get it? Not so. It is the tired business man who arrogates to himself the right to act like a sore-headed bear around home and have his wife take it, and like it. It is for the tired business man that girl shows and musical comedies are run. It is the tired business man who is supposed to have the right to divert his weary mind by stepping out with cuties.

But nobody pays and mind to the tired housewife. Her husband doesn't try to cajole her into a merry mood afte she has done a hard day's work. He slams the door behind him and goes out where he will find more agreeable company. No chorus of handsome gigolos is devised to make her forget what a day she had with the children. Nor does husband excuse her for amusing herself with a little flirtation because she was worn out with the monotony of domesticity. He hauls her into the divorce court.

The indisputable proof that men really are cleverer than women is shown in the fact that they have beaten women to this tired stuff, which is a blanket excuse that covers every sin of omission and commision. Also they have not only originated the theory that man's work is harder than woman's work, and that it is more fatiguing to sit at a mahogany desk than it is to wrestle with a cook stove and sewing machine and vacuum cleaner, but made it stick. We might just as well have had the tired housewife, who had to be petted and catered to, as the tired business man, only men thought of it first.

Inspection occurs in balmy morning air 'neath palm trees. Ex-soldiers' Veterans guard protects vital non-combat zones, releases active army regiments.

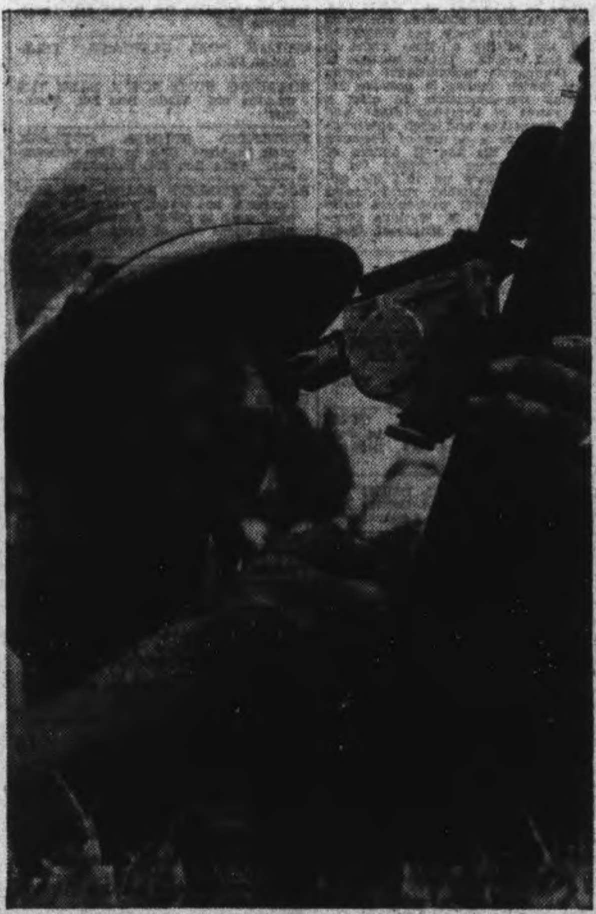
Changing the guard. These men, though veterans of the last war, are lean, tough and fit. They enjoy same rate of pay, rank and promotion as active army.

Privates E. E. Wilkie, La Have, N.S., and W. H. Jackson of Montreal go through mortar practice, part of their daily duties in the defense of the Bahamas.

Col. A. W. De Wolf of Halifax (at desk) is the officer in command of Canadian Veterans Guard and the Bahamian Forces on these Atlantic Isles.

The vets are ready for any attack. Every day they have gas mask drill, gunnery and mortar practice and defensive manoeuvres as part of their duties.

Sgt. G. E. Spencer, Edmonton; Pte. A. G. Fraser, Qualicum Beach, Vancouver Island; Corp. G. Breme, Listowel, Ont.; Pte. A. J. White, Timmins; and Corp. F. M. Middleton, Nanaimo, leave headquarters, Royal Montague Hotel, for swim.



Successful European offensive increases need for Veterans Guard to protect Empire outposts not in battle zones. Pte. W. Bell, Vancouver, aims mortar.

Corporal I. L. Parker of Shubenacadie, N.S., has nine children of his own. He gets a little homesick for them sometimes, and can't resist playing with the tots who gather on Bahamas beaches to admire Canadian soldiers.

These Immortal Love Poems Are Cherished by All

ROSE SYMBOLICAL

"O my luve's like a red, red rose
That's newly sprung in June:
O my luve's like the melodie
That's sweetly played in tune!"

—lyrical love words by Robert Burns, the Scottish bard, which have been sung over and over by those who like love songs.

When the poets sing of love, they sing most sweetly:

"Come live with me and be my love,
And we will all the pleasures prove," carols Christopher Marlowe in "The Passionate Shepherd to His Love."

Many of these poems you will recognize as old favorites, but all have their message of beauty to sing to you.

They may well be called immortal—for having thrilled and gladdened the hearts of thousands, they will endure forever.

For your copy of "IMMORTAL LOVE POEMS," send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and name of booklet.

CASH IN ON BAD LUCK

INSTEAD OF glaring at your partner for his bad bidding which has put you into a completely illogical contract, you will make out better generally by acting exactly as if his bidding was just right and concentrating on succeeding with the job which he has assigned to you. Many a time you will find that your bad luck in getting into a crazy contract may be turned into good luck if you do your job well enough.

South, who somehow avoided ever showing his five-card club suit, thought he was responding to the Blackwood slam convention when he bid 5-Diamonds and 6-Diamonds. The partners were new to each other, however, and hadn't discussed this point, so North did not know whether South considered the two bids of No Trump as Blackwooders or not. When South saw the dummy, he couldn't figure out just what was North's basis for putting him into the grand slam in diamonds.

West's lead was the heart K. After winning this in the dummy, the declarer built one of the most peculiar plans in many moons, which required an even split of the hostile trumps and also had to find the diamond 9 held by West, as well as spade honors. He won the opener with the heart A, ruffed the heart 6 with the diamond K, led to the club Q, ruffed the heart 7 with the diamond Q, led the spade 4 to the K and ruffed the heart 8 with the diamond J.

After all that high ruffing, he now had to finesse the trump 8 to avoid loss of a diamond trick. After that worked, he took in the diamond A and 10, then the club A and K. The latter squeezed West. The dummy still had the spade 7 and heart 9, and South the spade A-9 and club 8, which he discarded. West had a choice between setting up the dummy's heart by discarding the Q or throwing a spade from the Q-J and thus enabling South to get two spade tricks, which he did.

Many Ontario Soldiers Went To Kiska

In the following delayed dispatch, Herb Jones, Canadian Press war correspondent, tells of the reaction of Canadian troops before they shoved off from Alaska to take Kiska—which the Japanese evacuated without a struggle.

By HERB JONES
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN ARMY AT AN ADVANCED ALEUTIAN BASE, Aug. 9—(Delayed)—(CP).—Pte. Edward J. Rockwell, 25-year-old member of the Canadian Army in the Aleutians would like to see his seven-month-old daughter back in Kitchener, Ontario.

Typical of many another soldier, he has been in the Army a year now and has never seen his daughter. He's from Waterloo, Ont., himself, but his wife and daughter live at Kitchener while he's fighting the war.

This Canadian invasion force now tapering off training before moving against Kiska Island has men from all parts of the Dominion. There are former farmers like Pte. Rod Peratt, 24, of Walker's Point, Ont., and shoemakers and tanners like Pte. Arthur Bamber, 20, of Frankford, Ont., and Pte. Sockwell.

Former Athletes.

There are former athletes like Pte. Ralph Hammond, 25, Guelph, Ont., who pitched for the Toronto Maple Leafs in the International Baseball League in the season of 1940-41. Ralph says he was a left-hander "without much control."

There are fellows like Cpl. G. McFarland, 37, of Cumberland, B.C., who left "a damn good job" with the Finance Department of the B.C. Government to join the Army. And there are lots of young comparatively newlyweds like Pte. Bill Dickinson, 24, of St. Catharines, Ont., who thinks a lot about his wife and 16-month-old daughter back home.

Pte. Pete Davison, 24, would like to see his good old home town of Timmins, Ont. But the boys realize that they won't get home for a while yet. They have a job to do and prepared as any force can be for it.

Meanwhile they all agree the folks back home could do their part by writing often and to length.

PioneerPulpman Dies In Quebec

BATISCAN, Que., Aug. 27 (CP).—William P. Grant, 71, pioneer in the building of the newsprint industry in the St. Maurice Valley, died here yesterday at his home, following several years of poor health.

Willie Grant, as he was known in the St. Maurice Valley and to lumbermen and newsprint men throughout the province, entered the lumber business at an early age and rose rapidly to a prominent position in the industry. He was for many years manager of the Batiscan Mill of the Canadian International Paper Company.

He was elected as Liberal to the Quebec Legislature for Champlain in 1925 by-election. During his 10 years at Quebec, Grant had many a wordy battle with his nephew by marriage, Opposition Leader Maurice Duplessis.

He is survived by his widow, two sons and two daughters. The funeral will be held at Batiscan Saturday morning.

Helped Postman Then Stole Cheques

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 27.—(CP). An 18 year old youth, John Rauth, and two juveniles, charged with theft from the mails, will appear in police court to-day. All live in East Windsor.

Police said the trio had been helping their postman deliver his mail for the last month or so and had helped themselves to between 25 and 30 government cheques for surrendered war savings certificates.

No charge has been laid against the postman.

Inspector J. Stewart of London, Ont., superintendent of mail service in the Dominion Postal Service, said other charges may be placed against the youths upon completion of police investigation into the affair.

Victoria Cross Winner Reaches Ottawa

OTTAWA, Aug. 27 (CP)— Smiling young man with dull-red ribbon of the Victoria Cross on his tunic is in Ottawa, far more anxious to talk of Canadian hospitality than his raid on the Mohne and Eder Dams in Germany early this summer which won him the highest award the King can give for bravery.

He is Wing Cmdr. Guy Gibson, V.C., D.S.O., and Bar, D.F.C. and Bar—an enthusiast for his job, a fluent advocate of bomber aircraft and a real veteran of air war.

He is 25 years old, a Cornishman.

Prefers Bombers.

At a press conference he said that personally, having tried both jobs, he'd sooner be a bomber pilot than a fighter pilot.

Newspapermen asked him if he ever went over in a reconnaissance plane to see the damage done to German industry by his bombs.

"No," he laughted, "it might be a problem to arrange—and anyway, what point is there in going over with a reconnaissance plane when I can later see movies showing the results of the raid while I am sitting in a nice, safe cinema."

Wing Cmdr. Gibson said he believes bomber pilots will be good men for the civilian airlines that will span the world after the war.

He countered a mention of his own row of decorations by indicating that decorations were the common thing at the bomber station from which his Lancasters flew.

"There were two V.C.'s, six D.S.O.'s and 10 D.F.C.'s among the squadron and fight commanders at that station," he said.

Translator Indicted On Espionage Count

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 — (AP).—Roberto Lanas Vallecilla, 35, a foreign language translator for the Federal Co-ordinator of Inter-American Affairs in Washington, was charged in a United States Federal grand jury indictment on Thursday with conspiracy to commit espionage for the German Reich.

Vallecilla, a native of Colombia, said at his arraignment before Judge John C. Knox that he wanted to plead guilty to the charge, but the jurist refused to accept the plea.

The indictment stated the alleged conspiracy took place before the United States entered the war, making 20 years' imprisonment the maximum penalty upon conviction, Federal officials said.

Appoint Co ordinator For Post-War Plans

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 — (AP).—The New York Times in a Washington dispatch says that the "appointment of a co-ordinator of the plans which are being made by over a dozen different government departments and agencies for the reconversion of American agriculture and industry to peace will be announced early next week by President Roosevelt, it is understood."

The newspaper said the appointment "will be a corollary to the plans made at Quebec" and it was not known who would get the post.

Commerce Secretary Jesse H. Jones, chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production Board, and Leo T. Crowley, Alien Property Custodian and head of the Office of Economic Warfare, were being mentioned, the Times said, but it added that all three were said to have denied to friends that they were seeking or would get the appointment.

Miners Return

HALIFAX, Aug. 27 (CP)—Operations will be resumed today at the Standard Oil Company's Mine at River Hebert, N.S., mine workers decided at meeting last night. The pit was tied up Wednesday night and Thursday in a dispute between operators and employees over a proposed change in the mining system.

Civil Servants Seeking Right To Affiliate With Trade Union

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 27 — (CP). — The question of the right of civil service unions to affiliate with the trade union congress has reached a new stage with the withdrawal of the application by the post office workers union for affiliation with the T.U.C. and their reopening of direct negotiations between the civil service groups and the Government.

Official labor circles termed this move "hopeful". The decision removed the possibility that the post office workers application would be accepted by the T. U. C., and thereby under the provisions of the Trades Disputes Act of 1927 the union would be made illegal.

With the threat of illegality removed, the decks were cleared for negotiations, and it was considered possible the government would agree to amend the law early in the new session of parliament, opening in September, and make it possible for civil service unions to affiliate legally with other British unionists.

The Trades Disputes Act of 1927 —stormily passed by the Baldwin Government as a result of the 1926 general strike — bans members of the civil service from affiliating with any organization outside of the civil service on the penalty of losing all seniority and pensions rights.

Critics of the government declare that refusal to allow the Civil Service Unions to affiliate with the T.U.C. makes empty words of the clause in the Atlantic charter guaranteeing freedom of association.

Started in June.

A battle was first seen on the horizon in June, when the application was made. The T.U.C., recognizing its wide political ramifications, deferred judgment.

A recent statement from 10 Downing street pointed out to civil servants the provision in the Act that if T.U.C. affiliation is made any civil servant who does not resign from the affiliation within one month becomes, in the words of the Act, "disqualified for being a member of the civil service."

Informed Whitehall sources say this may not mean automatic dismissal, but in the forfeiture of pensions rights would be a considerable financial loss to many.

At least three other civil service unions are contemplating similar applications to the T.U.C.—the Civil Service Clerical Association, the Inland Revenue Association, and the Post Office Engineering Union.

Canadian Commander Thanks Tommies

Retaining Of Category 'E' Men Studied By Militia Officers

KINGSTON, Aug. 27—(Special).—"A close study" is being given to the retention of category E personnel in M.D. 3 whose services are definitely required and whose disabilities will not be aggravated by such retention, it was announced to-day by Lt.-Col. M. Isbester, M.C., A.A. and Q.M.G., at District Headquarters here.

Colonel Isbester said that a circular letter has been forwarded to all officers commanding Active Force units and formations in M. D. 3 advising them that such a plan is now being considered by the Department of National Defence.

The retention of such low category personnel is under study in view of the manpower situation and the desirability of salvaging manpower to the greatest possible extent. Colonel Isbester pointed out that instances have been noted where soldiers, despite their low category, have been doing excellent work and could be retained without endangering in any way their health or their usefulness. Many of these soldiers have had years of experience in the Army and others have special trade and technical qualifications.

"This policy was adopted some years ago by the Permanent Force," Colonel Isbester added. He said, however, that the retention of such category E personnel will necessarily be restricted to individual cases which, by virtue of the duties performed and the physical condition of the soldier, warrant special consideration.

American Chain Owes Over Eight Millions

TORONTO, Aug. 27 — (CP). — The William Randolph Hearst newspapers in the United States are dickering for a discount on their obligation to a number of Canadian newsprint producers, it is learned from an authoritative source.

The Hearst organization ran up a debt of about $8,500,000 for newsprint spread among 10 or more Canadian manufacturers and as temporary settlement, gave notes which are now outstanding about five years. Several companies recently received tentative offers of new notes at a fixed interest rate and redeemable in 10 years or a cash settlement at 50 cents on the dollar.

No uniform offer has been received by all the companies concerned, The Canadian Press is informed, but negotiations have been started with some of them individually. "So far the Hearst people could have been merely exploring the situation to find out what they could expect in the matter of concessions from the creditors," The Canadian Press was told.

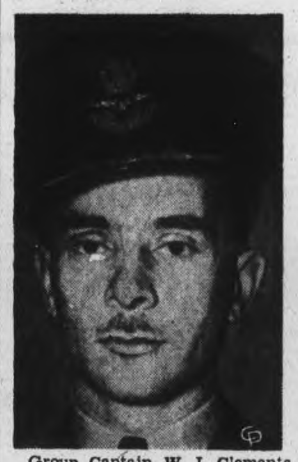
Wild Prairie Horses Sold To Butchers

CALGARY, Aug. 27 (CP).—Alberta horses are providing meat for human consumption in the United States, thus opening a new market in California for culls from horse herds in Alberta.

James Frew, a Calgary buyer, said last night he had sold approximately 100 head of wild broomtails to California interests the last few weeks.

Frew said the horses were shipped to a California processing plant where they would be processed into tinned meat.

On Mission



Group Captain W. I. Clements of North Devon, N.B., director of operational requirements for the R.C.A.F., is representing the Air Force on the Lethbridge mission, now discussing methods of maximum co-operation with the United States in operations against Japan. The mission will move to the Pacific battlefronts for first hand surveys after it has completed its studies in the U.S.

N.Y. Newspaper Seconds FDR Sentiments

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(CP).—The American people's high regard for Canada was well expressed by President Roosevelt in his speech at Ottawa, the World-Telegram said yesterday in an editorial.

"President Roosevelt's tribute to Canada in his Ottawa speech yesterday voiced the sentiment of all our people," said the World-Telegram.

"The relationship between the two countries is unique; toward no other people have we the same close kinship. And now the war has brought us even nearer together.

"Not that we talk about it much. Indeed, it is one of the things taken for granted, as among members of a family. Perhaps we should have more expression to this emotion."

The newspaper noted the closer military, economic and financial association between Canada and the United States and concluded: "That this relationship is enduring none can doubt."

Let's Face the Facts!

CANADA'S farmers have done their part—and done it nobly. With far too little help, they have sown extra land and brought it to produce more food than ever before. More food for our Armed Forces—more food for our Allies—more food for ourselves.

Yet in the midst of all this plenty, Canada faces a food crisis. Food in the fields is not food on your table—is not food in your son's mess-kit somewhere in Europe or on the high seas. The food in the fields must be harvested and then processed in the food factories, and there aren't enough people to do this job. THE SITUATION IS DESPERATE!

There is only one answer! YOU STOREKEEPERS, PROFESSIONAL MEN, RETIRED FOLK, INDUSTRIAL WORKERS, HOUSEWIVES AND YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN AT HOME—set aside your evening hours, half a day, a whole day, a week or more, to help harvest and process the food we'll need this winter!

THESE QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS MAY HELP YOU DECIDE:

Q. What work will be required of me?
A. Picking vegetables and tomatoes, digging potatoes, hoeing, haying and harvesting.

Q. Will I be paid?
A. Yes, at a rate that you can work out with the farmer with whom you work. A set wage is not in force and you may have had previous experience which makes you more valuable than a beginner.

Q. How many hours will I have to work?
A. As many as possible. A whole day is best, or a week. But even afternoons and evenings will help considerably.

Q. How will I get out to the job?
A. If possible, get a group of four or five to go together and alternate cars each evening. Cases will vary, but it will be part of your job to arrange your own transportation to suit your need.

Q. To whom should I apply to offer my services?
A. Read this:

THIS IS WHAT YOU SHOULD DO! ACT NOW!

1. Consult any special local committee or office established to deal with farm labour placements in your city or town; or
2. Write your Provincial Director of Farm Labour at the Capital of your province; or
3. Get in touch with your nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

RECORD FORCE BLASTS NUREMBERG

15 Prisoners Are Back In Fort Henry

Four Germans Remain At Large In Escape From Kingston Camp

By ROBERT R. ROBINSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

KINGSTON, Aug. 28 (CP)—Two more German prisoners were captured today, bringing to 15 the total of those caught since 19 men escaped from Fort Henry prison Thursday night. The latest to be caught were Domnick Heinz, 21, and Hans August Rhomberg, 21.

Their capture, shortly before 11 a.m., followed the apprehension before dawn today at Brewers Mills, 16 miles northeast of here, of Gerhardt Knoepfel, 22, and left only four still at large.

Heinz and Rhomberg were captured in a barn at Barriefield village, within half a mile of Fort Henry when a farm woman heard a noise in a barn and reported it to the authorities.

Meanwhile more than a thousand soldiers and police who have been on duty since Thursday almost without rest continued their search for the remaining prisoners, centering in the summer resort district north and east of Kingston.

Four of the men were recaptured the same night and eight more were arrested Friday but throughout last night the search continued up and down the country while patrols were operating constantly on the St. Lawrence river to prevent an escape by the water route.

Court of Inquiry

A military court of enquiry was started yesterday and it was learned the prisoners escaped through a unused sewer which led out under the four-foot thick wall and a 30-foot moat surrounding the Fort.

The 19 men made their escape while a concert was being staged by fellow prisoners. They made their way to a sub-basement in the Fort and removed part of a brick floor to reach the sewer, three feet below.

They burrowed a hole upward through 10 feet of soil to make good their escape.

More than 1,000 men from the nearby Barriefield training centre of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps and members of the Corps of Signals at Vimy barracks as well as men from the district army depot spread a dragnet across the countryside.

All roads near Kingston were blocked and cars entering and leaving the area were searched.

Summer residents in outlying areas were warned to make their boats unuseable and many left their cottages in the surrounding district and returned to Kingston.

100,000 Prisoners Of War In United States May Be Available To Work In Non-war Jobs

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—AP). Terms for increased use of the one growing supply of labor—prisoners of war—for non-war jobs have been worked out by the United States War Department and the War Manpower Commissions.

With a mounting number of requests for prisoner war labor in lumber cutting, pulp and paper industry work and farming, it was suggested authoritatively many prisoners could perform these jobs. The United States Army has reported there are around 100,000 prisoners in America.

Hitherto, the War Department has contracted directly with employers in a relatively few cases for the service of prisoners, but the new agreement is expected to expedite hiring arrangements and fit them more closely into the picture of general labor needs.

The agreement provides that prisoners—who cannot be used in anything contributing directly to America's war effort — may be hired only at prevailing wages and working conditions, and only where stipulated efforts to hire other labor have failed to meet the need of workers.

While employers must pay prevailing wages to prevent efforts to obtain prisoners as "cheap labor" competing with other workers, the money will go to the United States government and the Army will pay prisoners electing to work at the standard rate directed by international law.

The Army is to provide guards and security measures, and it will allow prisoners to work only in localities where it figures it is practicable to set up prisoner camps.

British Children Definitely Become Very War Conscious

By FOSTER BARCLAY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 28.—(CP).—British children, in the midst of war for four years, have definitely become war conscious.

They think about it and talk about it, though not, of course, in the grim manner of their elders.

You have only to travel about the country and speak to boys and girls in Britain who will be tomorrow's men and women to see how much the war dominates their lives.

The London Daily Mirror turned an eye to the wartime trend of children's thoughts and filled its "Live Letters" column with notes from parents which show in concrete fashion just what the kiddies are thinking.

There was a lad, for instance, who was travelling on a train with his mother and some home guards. The boy scanned one home guard with deepening interest finally asked "Are you a soldier?"

There was no reply. He tried again and the rather embarrassed home guard replied "Yes, I am."

The boy tuned to his mother and said just two words—"careless talk."

Some of the children's efforts to help finish the war off quickly are a little embarrassing at times. Johnny Gordon of Smethwick, whose daddy is in the Middle East, dropped his mother's axe into the letter box and said "I posted it to daddy to cut the German's heads off with."

The wartime child's idea of heaven is vastly different from that of the peacetime child. Two young children, asked to draw their idea of Heaven, presented their teacher with pictures, both of which showed a mass of blue, dotted with Messerschmitts and Spitfires firing at each other.

Everybody knows the war has affected children's taste for toys and when the three-year-old son of Mrs. William Eagle of Bedmondsey was asked to make a choice he didn't bat an eyelash. He wanted soldiers, a gun, a tank...and a crater please."

Big Pincer Move To Cut Off Japs

By PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Staff Writer.

NEW DELHI, Aug. 28 — (AP). — A vast pincer movement to cut off Japan from all her newly-acquired southern islands was regarded as a possibility here to-day as a result of the Quebec Conference decision to lay new emphasis on this theatre.

At one end would be Vice-Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, supreme Allied Comamnder for South-east Asia, and at the other General Douglas MacArthur.

A glance at the map shows the possibility. Part of the pincer operation already is under way from MacArthur's side. As it looks from this end, it would be the war's most widespread battle for air bases.

Lay one end of a ruler on Burma and the other end on the Truk Islands, big Japanese naval and air bastion north of New Guinea. It will give a picture of the obvious line of attack open to the Allies without undertaking the long job of recapturing 10,000 islands one by one.

Suitable for Airports.

Directly on the line is Canton, on the Chinese coast, with a hinterland highly suitable for airports. From such airports land-based airplanes coulyd attack Japanese supplanes could attack Japanese supall her southern islands, and make the holding of them extremely costly.

Japanese air bases along the coast of Burma and China and in the Truk Islands all are obvious targets.

Into this picture comes Lord Louis as the new South-east Asia commander. It gives the Allies their greatest opportunity of compelling Japan to spread her air force over an extremely wide range to fend off attacks which can be

Russian Army Launches 4th Big Drive

Reds Strike West In New Sector Overwhelming Huns

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Aug. 28 — (AP). — The Russian Army's westward drive across the Ukraine has pushed the Germans back another 15 miles and reached the Psel River, a tributary of the Dnieper, 100 miles west of Kharkov, the Red Army newspaper Red Star disclosed today.

This new advance placed the Soviet troops 15 miles west of Zenkov the farthest point previuosly announced as gained by the Russians in their westward push.

Only a few hours earlier a Soviet communique announced that Russian forces had struck toward the west in a new sector, overwhelming the German defences at Sevsk, midway between and west of Orel and Belgorod.

Germans Withdrew

Red Star said the Germans withdrew across the Psel to the west bank of the river after the Russians forced them to evacuate Lebedin, 25 miles north of Zenkov.

After blowing up bridges over the Psel and leaving the Russians in control of the east bank, the Germans appeared to be attempting to erect a powerful defence line on the west bank in an effort to halt the Red Army offensive there.

Russian occupation of the east bank of the upper stretch of the Psel exposed Poltava, German base 45 miles south of Zenkoy, to a flank attack. The Russians were reported descending between the Psel and Vorskla Rivers which have parallel courses less than 40 miles apart and flow southward into the Dnieper.

The new advances place the Russians almost 500 miles from Stalingrad, where last winter's far-reaching drive began, and has carried them to a point more than half-way from Stalingrad to the Polish border.

5,000 Wiped Out.

In captured Sevsk, the war bulletin said, the Russians wiped out more than 5,000 Germans and took 700 more prisoners. Soviet artillery, tanks, and airplanes all were massed in a gigantic attack.

The Sevsk attack, part of the general Russian program to push the Nazis back to the Dnieper River their main line of defence, is apparently aimed toward cutting the Kiev-Bryansk railroad in the vicinity of Zernovo or Makovo just inside the northern boundary of the Ukraine. Zernovo is 20 miles to the north-west and Kakovo 30 miles to the south-west of Sevsk.

From this point the column could continue westward, swing to the north to the support of the other Soviet divisions nearing Bryansk from the east or swing south toward Kiev.

On the Kharkov Front, 130 miles south of Sevsk, Russian units captured the town of Kotelvo, 33 miles from the German base of Poltava, the communique said.

Half Way to Border.

It was here the Red forces pass-

RUSSIAN ARMY

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE, Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 28 (AP)—Immense formations of British and Canadian bombers said by coastal observers to be the greatest force ever sent over Germany bashed Nuremberg last night, throwing down hundreds of tons of explosives on that southern German industrial city and centre of Nazidom. Squadrons from the Canadian bomber group were among the raiders.

The Air Ministry called it a "very heavy attack"—which meant the British and Canadians threw in an assault intended virtually to obliterate the targets.

It was a night of wide operations from this great air base—with R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Mosquito attacks on the Ruhr, fighter and intruder sweeps against railways and Axis airfields in France and the low countries. Thirty-six bombers, two of them Canadian, were reported lost from the night's activities.

The Naxi-controlled Vichy radio reported the R.A.F. was over Northern France again this morning, but there was no confirmation of this.

The Nuremberg attack was the second major assault of the week by the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F., Berlin having been blasted on a colossal scale Monday night, and with fire and bursting steel last night's raid answered the declaration of Nazi labor chief Robert Ley:

"Owing to its formidable position, Nuremberg is well-protected against air attacks."

1,100 Mile Trip

It was a round-trip flight of about 1,100 miles—an operation of such tremendous forces as to stir the whole of Britain and particularly coastal watchers who heard the unbroken, muted growl of bomber engines for more than two hours. There was wide unofficial agreement the R. A. F. and R.C.A.F. never before had thrown so much at the enemy across the channel at one time.

Nuremberg, which has great diesel plants and motor and electrical works, plainly had joined Berlin on the list of German cities to get the Hamburg treatment. It was last hit August 10 and after that attack it was estimated 45,000 had been made homeless and 2,500 had been killed.

In the August 10 raid about 1,500 tons of high explosives and incendiaries were dropped on the city. There was every indication last night's tonnage was much greater.

The German Radio in a second broadcast claimed 43 British planes were shot down over Nuremberg saying that "this number is expected to be increased." It added "damage was done to buildings and the population suffered losses."

A third series of Nazi bulletins—they were issued as thickly as on the day after the last Berlin attack—upped the figure of British plane losses to "at least 62."

Berlin spoke of "American terror planes" participating with the British and Canadians on the raid, but there was nothing in London to suggest the American air force actually took part.

Shortly before the British and Canadian formations swept out, United States' heavy bombers, and R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. fighters returned from large scale attacks against Axis airfields in France Sixteen fighters were reported destroyed in this daylight foray.

Nuremberg, in Southwest Germany 525 miles from Britain, has been raided seven times previously, the last on Aug. 10 when R.A.F.

A Word Of Commendation For Canada But US Grudgingly To The End New York Paper Says

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—(CP).—The language of the United States statement in which qualified recognition of the French Committee of National Liberation was announced this week came in for editorial criticism to-day by the New York Herald Tribune which had a word of commendation for Canada.

In a leading editorial captioned "Grudgingly to the End," the Herald Tribune remarked that "a diplomatic vacuum of peculiar idiocy has at last been filled, after a fashion—or rather after several fashions." It went on:

"The United States, Canada and Great Britain agreed upon one form of recognition. Each government made virtually the same points in its statement to that effect. Yet Canada succeeded in infusing a warm cordiality into her message to Algiers; Great Britain treated the subject with grave courtesy; and the United States simply sounded churlish."

The newspaper said that in comparison "with the broad and simple formula which the Soviet Union has adopted—recognizing the Algiers group as 'the representative of the state interests of the French Republic'—the elaborate qualifications deemed necessary by the western allies would benefit by a tone of cordiality."

Jap Garrison Of 10,000 Men Is Doomed On New Georgia

By WILLIAM HIPPLE, Associated Press War Correspondent

UNITED STATES HEADQUARTERS, The South Pacific, Aug. 28. — (AP). — American occupation of Bairoko on New Georgia Island leaves Bougainville as the only Japanese operating base in the Solomons and dooms the enemy garrison of possibly 10,000 men on Kolombangara Island, a United States Navy spokesman said today.

The spokesman for Admiral William F. Halsey, commander of United States South Pacific forces, said Bairoko "closed the book" on the 57-day New Georgia campaign except for minor operations.

He pointed to the fact the enemy is not putting up a fight against United States occupation of Vella Lavella, another in the chain of closely-spaced central Solomon Islands, and said the Japanese can't do much there or at Kolombangara unless they gain air and sea superiority.

The cut-off forces on Kolombangara, hemmed in between New Georgia and Vella Lavella, apparently have some food now but ammunition may run short first.

Asked whether it would be necessary for United States troops eventually to wipe them out, the navy spokesman said "it may be necessary for us eventually to go in and bury their dead," indicating plans are to starve them out.

Battle Attitude Of Japs Changes

GUADALCANAL, Aug. 26 (delayed)—(AP)—Japanese unwillingness to stand and die when trapped in a hopeless position was cited by Rear Admiral Theodore S. Wilkinson, commander of United States amphibious forces in the South Pacific today as a possible change in the enemy's battle attitude.

"They quit Kiska in the Aleutians and Bairoko, New Georgia," he said. "That may indicate their changed attitude because the enemy did not quit at Munda, New Georgia or at Attu in the North Pacific.

"The Japanese no longer stay and die when they are placed in a hopeless position," he emphasized.

Boris Expected To Abdicate

BERNE, Aug. 28 (AP)—A Sofia dispatch to the Gazette de Lausanne said today "it appeared certain" the illness of King Boris of Bulgaria "would have as a consequence his abdication."

It said Premier Bogdan Filov was already working on the problem of succession. The telephoned dispatch passed the censorship at Vienna. It guardedly declared the nature of the illness was unknown.

LONDON, Aug. 28—(CP)—The condition of King Boris of Bulgaria "continues to be serious," the Berlin radio reported today in a D.N.B. dispatch from Sofia.

A communique quoted by the broadcast which was recorded by the Associated Press said the 49-year-old sovereign "had a quiet night" but that "lung disturbances had not yet been eliminated."

Another D.N.B. dispatch reported that all members of the Bulgarian cabinet, high military officers and members of the king's civilian and military entourage attended services today at the Alexander Nevski cathedral in Sofia at which prayers were offered for the King's recovery.

An earlier Berlin report said the King was suffering from Angina Pectoris and was being treated by specialists sent from Germany by Hitler.

Victim of Assassin

A dispatch from Ankara said a brief announcement of the King's illness made in a Bulgarian broadcast led to the belief in some Turkish quarters the King may have been the victim of an assassination attempt.

Istanbul heard wholly-unverified reports that the King suffered a heart attack after an unpleasant two-day conference at the headquarters of Hitler during which the Nazi leader became enraged and attempted to strike the Monarch. Hitler was said to have demanded Bulgarian support in the war against Russia.

BBC said last night in a broadcast recorded by CBS that "the King's illness is causing a political crisis, as his departure from the scene would considerably embarrass Germany at the present moment."

Rail Yards In Italy Are Blasted

Sulmona And Caserta Heavily Bombed In Allied Air Sweeps

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 28—(AP)—Southern Italy's entire railway system has been disorganized by relentless Allied bombings, with train traffic brought almost to a standstill, it was disclosed at headquarters today.

The railroads are a kingpin in Itay's defences.

The announcement followed a heavy blast by United States heavy bombers yesterday at railroad yards at Sulmona nearly 100 miles east of Rome for the first time, and medium bomber attacks on congested freight yards and locomotive works at Benevento near Naples.

At the same time, other medium bombers bombed the railyards at Caserta also in Naples vicinity, and light and medium bombers including fighter bombers, attacked targets at Caanzaro, Sibari, Cetraro and Paola.

20 Enemy Shot Down

Enemy fighter resistance increased over the vital rail centres, and 20 enemy planes were shot down, Allied headquarters declared.

The worst beating was administered to the Germans by the medium bombers, which sent 16 Nazi planes crashing to the ground out of a total of 40 to 50 fighters which sought to turn back the bombers and their escort.

Almost two dozen fighters also pounced on the heavy bombers which likewise were escorted by fighters.

In the Casera attack, 35 to 45 fighters came up to intercept the bombers, but they were driven off by fighters.

The day's operations also included attacks by fighter-bombers on gun positions near Reggio Calabria from which the enemy has been shelling the Messina area of Sicily, and R.A.F. Wellingtons followed up last night by pounding the freight yards at Salerno.

Nine Planes Lost

All the day and night operations cost the Allies nine planes.

6 Officers Get New Commands

LONDON, Aug. 28—(CP)—New commands for six Royal Navy flag officers were announced last night, involving two of Britain's foremost aircraft carrier experts, Rear-Admiral A. W. La Touche Bissett and Vice-Admial Sir Arthur St. George Lyster.

None of the six new commands was specified but they were said to be important and probably to foreshadow new naval moves in the near future.

Admiral Bissett, formerly commander of the aircraft carriers Ark Royal, Glorisu and Formidable, and Rear-Admiral Clement Moody, a gunnery specialist, were given seagoing jobs while Admiral Lyster was given a shore appointment at home. Admiral Lyster, former chief of naval services, commanded the carriers which covered the North Africa landings late last year.

The other appointments included shore commands abroad to Rear-

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 28—(AP)—Denmark's "peoples revolt" against German occupation soared to new heights today as the Danish government and Nazi authorities reached a stalemate in their discussions on how to halt the riots and sabotage.

One hundred and twenty persons were reported arrested by Danish police yesterday as they broke up, with the aid of German soldiers a riot in the Raadhuspladsen in the centre of Copenhagen. An undetermined number of persons were reported to have been injured.

It was the second successive day that large crowds had demonstrated in the Raadhusplabsen, while sabotage, general strikes and clashes

LONDON, Aug. 28—(CP Cable)—Lieut.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian Army in Britain, has returned from Sicily, it was disclosed today. In Sicily he visited the Canadian 1st Division and conferred with Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery and other Allied leaders.

Naval Losses Small

London, Aug. 28 (CP)

THE Admiralty announced today British naval losses in the Sicilian campaign were two submarines, three motor torpedo boats and one motor gunboat.

The submarines were the Saracen and the Parthian.

"These were the only losses of His Majesty's ships during the whole of the Sicilian operations," the communique said.

One of the motor torpedo boats, the communique added, was commanded by Lieut. P. A. R. Thompson, R.C.N.V.R.

Attack On Burma Must Come From Sea

Mountainous Nature Of Terrain And Jungles Preclude Land Invasion From India

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The extraordinary enthusiasm being exhibited by the Allied nations over the appointment of Lord Louis Mountbatten as supreme commander for Southeast Asia is at once a tribute of confidence in his leadership and an expression of relief that, as the Chinese put it, "measures planned for the destruction of Japan are being implemented."

Specifically, the disignation of this 43-year-old expert in combined operations—invasions involving land, sea and air forces—is taken generally to mean that at long last the Allies are getting set to invade Burma from India, across the Bay of Bengal.

Small wonder the Chinese are elated at the prospect of reopening the Burma Road, to restore their lifeline to the outside world. They were terribly disappointed that the operation wasn't carried out last winter, as I learned on my visit to Chungking the first of this year.

The Chinese are in dire need of supplies of every description, both military and civilian. It's one of the world's wonders that they've been able to hang on so long. It would be dangerous to bank on their ability to continue indefinitely without the major assistance which can only be supplied by the re-opening of the Burmese backdoor.

Readers often ask why the Allies have to invade Burma by sea—why the invasion can't be carried out from India by land. The mountainous nature of the terrain and the heart-breaking jungles, along the Indo-Burmese border preclude big scale military operations. There are places where small contingents of troops can operate—on the coast, for instance, and up north where a military road cuts through the mountains at Imphal—but the main attack must be amphibious, supported by air.

The youthful new commander for Southeast Asia has, in his always vigorous way, flung his six feet four of hard muscle into his new job with a rush. That's good to see, but we shouldn't conclude from the announcements and the preparations that an invasion of Burma is going to take place next week, or next month.

The Monsoon deluge, which since April has been flooding Burma, won't be over until October. It then will be several weeks before things dry up to the point where one would expect the Allies to be ready for the attack. If indeed it's their intention to carry out the operation this year.

Mrs. Weinstein said she saw the prodigal canine stop in front of their home recently, sniff the ground and jump meekly up the front steps.

Improve Living Standard

Mrs. Roosevelt On Tour Arrives In New Zealand

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Aug. 28 — (CP)—Mrs Franklin D. Roosevelt told a press conference today that some type of post-war organization would obviously develop out of the present co-operation between the United Nations, but what form it would take she was not prepared to say.

"The world is growing to think in terms of a better world for all its people," she said, "and unless a great many people are going to have a better standard of living there will be no markets to absorb the increased production which will have taken place."

Mrs. Roosevelt, who arrived here from Auckland today on her tour of United States Army camps and Red Cross centres, was greeted at the railroad station by Prime Minister Peter Fraser and cabinet members. During her stay here she will be the guest of Governor General Sir Cyril Newall. Cheering crowds lined the streets.

Canadian Exports Hit Peak

Trade In July Four Times Greater Than In Peace

OTTAWA, Aug. 28. — (CP).—Value of Canadian exports reached an all-time high of $303,600,000 in July, Trade Minister MacKinnon announced to-day. The previous high figure for one month was $269,000,000, in December, 1942.

The July figure was approximately four times the value of any peacetime monthly trade and about 50 per cent. higher than July 1942.

Mr. MacKinnon said about 75 per cent. of July exports was war materials and the new record was "the direct result of the organized production of war needs from coast to coast."

"The effectiveness of Canada's participation in the war is seen in the spectacular growth of Canadian trade," he said.

The Minister's statement disclosed that in the first seven months of 1943 Canadian exports — mainly war products—reached $1,581,400,000, compared with $1,295,300,000 in the corresponding period of 1942, an increase of $286,100,000 or 22 per cent.

Of the seven-month total exports $574,300,000 went to the United Kingdom and $209,300,000 to other countries of the British Commonwealth. The amount to the United States was $612,700,000 and to other countries $185,100,000.

Drunk Driver Jailed For Ten Days

After Donald Baker, 28-year-old Toronto garage mechanic, had entered plea of guilty in Police Court to-day to a charge of having been drunk in charge of a car in Norwood on Friday, Magistrate E. A. Gee sentenced him to ten days in jail.

Baker's driving licence was cancelled for a month and his car was impounded for three months.

The accused told the court that he was in Norwood on a holiday.

Provincial Constable Arch. Grayling, giving evidence, stated that he had found Baker at the wheel of his car in a driveway of a Norwood garage in a very drunken condition. "He didn't know anything until I got him to Peterborough," the witness said.

Constable Grayling stated that he had found 39 pints of beer and two quarts of whisky in the accused's car.

Baker informed the court that the liquor was not all his. He and several friends had bought the supply in Peterborough yesterday.

Cheese Board Shows Decline

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 28 (ENS)—Though the drop in cheese production was less pronounced than it was two weeks ago here the total offerings continued to decline with a drop of 58 boxes to 2,267 being tabled at the Board meeting on Thursday. As compared to the preceding year for the same period it was a reduction of 3.04 per cent with one less factory being listed. Tractors Haul 36-Foot Silo

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 28 (ENS)—A few farmers down in the Menie section of Seymour East took time off yesterday afternoon to watch a silo being moved across a field and up a concession a distance of nearly three-quarters of a mile. The silo, which stood 36 feet high and was 12 feet in diameter, was moved intact by the Little Brothers, who were doing the job for Kenneth Milne.

It seemed the silo was a sort of white elephant for Barney Eagleson, who is more interested in chicken raising than silo filling, so he sold it to Mr. Milne, who of course wanted it moved to his farm. The Little boys took on the job of moving it and after reinforcing the inside they placed it in a horizontal position with the help of a gin pole and a couple of tractors which later played the main roll in skidding it across the field to its new site.

Any attack launched on Burma would draw Japanese forces away from MacArthur's end, or at least reduce the number of reserves available.

The reconquest of Burma can be only incidental to its importance in the vast pincer movement. With Burma air bases in Allied possession, land-based aircraft would be in a position to protect any fleet operations against the Malay Peninsula.

Such a move would virtually eliminate Singapore as a Japanese naval base conquest of Burma, or even the north part of it, also would afford wider protection for a supply airline from India to support the operations necessary to gain and hold air bases along the China coast.

C.G.E. Workers Surpass All Others In Offering Donations Of Blood

A survey of the figures of those who attended the Blood Donors Clinic during the past week reveals some very interesting facts. Of the 167 donors during the week 60 of these came from the Canadian General Electric Company and 54 from outside the city, leaving only 53 of the donors to come from the other industries and the citizens in general.

Hence it may be taken from the survey that for the past week the other industries and citizens in general have not been measuring up to the same degree as the men and women who are working in the Canadian General and Genelco.

The Clinic is open on Mondays and Wednesdays in the morning and on Thursday evenings. The need for blood was never so great as it is at present, and all are urged to come and donate.

Seeing the figures 3, 4 or 5 after the names means that is the number of donations given. Red Cross officials are asking to-day if there are not hundreds in this city whose names have never appeared on the lists.

15-Year-Old Girl Retains Title

SHAKAMAK STATE PARK, Ind., Aug. 28—(AP)—Joan Fogle, 15-year-old school girl of the Indianapolis national championship swimming team, came through in the pinch yesterday to give the Riviera Club a tie with the Multnomah Club of Portland, Ore., for the 1943 United States women's swimming title at the end of the second day.

Joan was the only one of three defending national champions to retain her crown and she did it in the 300-metre individual Medley by only a whisker over Suzanne Zimmerman of Portland. Five yards from the finish it looked as if they were neck and neck, but Joan found some unexpected reserve of strength ot finish ahead in 4:35.6.

Riviera and Multnomah tied for the team title with 10 points each. Next in line was the women's association of New York, with 8, and then Lake Shore of Chicago, 5; Medinah of Chicago, 4; Crystal Plunge Pool of San Francisco, 3, and the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company of Akron, O., 1.

The first national champion to fall was Miss Zimmerman, who was defeated in the 100-metre free-style by her teammate, the beauteous Brenda Helser of Multnomah. Ann Curtis of the Crystal Plunge Pool team was second and Miss Zimmerman third.

Diving Events

After Miss Fogle had successfully defended her title, Jeanne Kessler of the Lake Shore Club won the National Senior platform diving title, vacated by Margaret Reinhold of Lakefield, Fla., now a member of the WAVES, who was unable to compete.

Miss Merki who was expected to pick up valuable points for Multnomah in the metric mile, never was in the race. First place went to pig-tailed Florence Schmitt of the Women's Swimming Association of New York. A surprise second place finisher was the blonde Mary Ann Walts of Riviera, while Ann Hardin, also of Riviera and one of the favorites was third. Miss Merki finally wound up a bad seventh in an eight-girl race.

between Danes and German soldiers flared throughout Denmark.

Saboteurs were said to have caused damage estimated at 1,500,000 Danish crowns when they exploded bombs in the Lauritz Knudsen electrical appliance works in Copenhagen. (Before the German occupation the Danish crown was equivalent to about 20 cents in American money.)

Hear Explosions

Meanwhile residents of Helsingborg in Sweden reported they had heard terrific explosions across the three-mile stretch of water at Helsingor in Denmark.

Danish and German authorities have been conferring all week on the revolt, which started on Aug. 16, and the Nazi ambassador to Denmark, Werner Best, went to Berlin several days ago. It was reported Best would not return to Denmark and that Gen. Hermann von Hannecken, commander of the German occupation army, would institute some form of military rule.

It was understood here Danish government leaders told the Germans that the Danes would make no further concessions.

Already short of manpower, the Germans are reported to be hesitating about taking over full control because it would require more troops, and most of them now stationed in Denmark must be constantly on the alert against a possible Allied invasion.

The Nazis bitterly contested the advance, the bulletin reported, and 3,000 Germans were killed in the battle. At Aktyrka, 60 miles northwest of Kharkov, 2,000 more Germans were killed in a two-day battle. Russians advancing south of Kharkov were reported to be in the vicinity of Zmiev.

The Russians said the advance upon Bryansk, a major German bastion at the northern end of the central front, had been considerably slowed as the troops entered an area of forest and swamp land. In addition, Nazi troops were resisting strongly. The Russians were about 25 miles east of the city, the communique said.

South-west of Voroshilovgrad in the Donets Basin the Russians were advancing with the support of the Red Air Force which attacked the German base and rail junction at Kramatorskaya, the communique said.

It was also announced in Moscow last night that Col.-Gen. Andrei Ivanvich Yeremenko, hero of Stalingrad, had been promoted to the rank of full general.

Also promoted to full genrals were Col.-Gen. Vassiliy Sokolovsky, fomer Chief-of-Staff to Marshal Semeon Timoshenko and now in command on the Western Front, and Col.-Gen. Alexey Atonov.

Advanced to colonel-generals were Ivan Bagramin, Paval Kurohkin, and Ivan Petrov.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

Whistles blew on many fields in England and Wales to-day for the opening of the football season, with 74 teams pairing off in the initial matches of a campaign which will wind up with cup games and league championships next spring. Early indications were that great crowds of raid-free enthusiasts will flock for their fill of soccer once more.

The managers were having their worries, however, through migrations of players engaged in war work or in the armed services and, in some instances, the loss of playing facilities. The chief reliance is on over-age veterans and tender youths. Millwall, in the Southern League, had the most difficulty in the matter of accommodation, its grandstand having been destroyed by fire following Nazi bombing last Easter while Arsenal will be playing home matches at Tottenham through diversion of its grounds to wartime purposes. The pay of players has been boosted from 30 shilling $6.60) to £1 ($8.80 and there is an increased entertainment tax but the civilian spectator will continue to pay 35 cents admission, or 13 cents for a member of the armed forces.

There will be a sprinkling of star players from occupied countries who are now in the British Isles. One of the outstanding is Emile De Busser, a former Belgian forward who has been signed by Queen's Park Rangers.

Milner Is Sold.

Pitcher Al Milner, 29, has been obtained by St. Louis Browns from Cleveland Indians on waivers. When Manager Luke Sewell of the Browns was coachting Indians in 1940, Milner won 18 games and lost 10. Sewell moved to St. Louis and Milner won only six games last year, losing eight.

When he was severely wounded in the last war, Charles J. (Terry) McGovern of Pittsburg ruefsed to have his leg amputated because he wanted to play hockey after the war. He was a player of the Hornets who won the U.S. amateur hockey title in 1920-21 and eventually became a referee. Yesterday he joined up with the U.S. Maritime Service.

Purhase Two Players.

The purchase of Pitcher Rufe Gentry and Outfielder James Outlaw from the Buffalo Bisons was announced last night by the Detroit Tigers in apparent team-building move for 1944, bith players being fathers. Gentry is expected to round out a string of 20 victories before the close of the season with the International Leaguers.

Redmond Quain of the Ottawa Rideau Tennis Club went down to defeat yesterday at Montreal in the final for the Province of Quebec junior singles when he lost in straight sets to Yvon Gauthier of Quebec City. As many as 20 exchanges were made in some of the rallies by the finalists.

After a conference at Chicago yesterday on sending two picked major league teams overseas to entertain the troops, Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis declared he was "hopeful" but that a number of difficulties had to be overcome. With him were President Will Harridge of the American League and President Ford Frick of the National Circuit.

Bee Mack, two-year-old filly which took the Spinaway stakes two weeks ago, is fayored for the 39th running of the Hopeful stakes, the getaway feature of the Saratoga meeting at Belmont track to-day for which a field of 13 juveniles has been posted.

Calls For Recruits.

The New York Giants yseterday "called up" five recruits from the Jersey Ctiy Giants of the International League. Only one, however, Outfielder Charlie Mead, was ordered to report to the National Leaguers immediately, the others being instructed to join the team next spring.

Jimmy Bivins, Cleveland negro heavyweight yesterday wsa matched to take on Cpl. Melio Bettina of the U.S. Army for a 10-rounder at Cleveland stadium Sept. 15. Promoter Larry Atkins said Bivins had been given a guarantee while Bettina will receive a gate percentage.

Tommy Cooper, formerly with St. Catharines in the Senior O.H.A. left the Garden City yesterday to enlist in the R.C.A.F. Previous to coming east, Cooper had been top scorer in the Western Canada Hockey League with Moose Jaw Millers. Last winter he turned down an offer from the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Change Control Liquor Board

TORONTO, Aug. 28 — (CP). — Removal of the Liquor Control Board from the jurisdiction of the Provincial treasurer was announced yesterday by Premier Drew following a meeting of the Ontario Cabinet at Queen's Park. The Premier said the Board would be transferred to the Attorney-General's department.

The move was made because law enforcement and restrictions imposed by the Dominion government "fall more logically" under the Attorney-General's authority, he added.

"There will be no change in administration until there has been an opportunity for full consultation between the Attorney General and the Liquor Board," the Premier said.

An order-in-council cancelling the contracts of seven companies who had been granted timber rights in northwestern Ontario was another item of business completed by the Cabinet. The contracts were cancelled because the firms had failed to erect mills on the timber sites.

The companies are: Pulpwood Supply Company, Ltd., General Timber Company, Ltd.; Huron Forest Products, Ltd.; Soo Pulp and Paper Products, Ltd.; English River Pulp and Paper Ltd.; Vermillion Lake Pulp Company, Ltd.; and Western Pulp and Paper Co., Ltd.

New Apple Crop Shows Increase

TORONTO, Aug. 28 — (CP). — Production of apples in Western Ontario is estimated at about 373,000 barrels, a seven per cent increase over 1942, in the fourth Ontario Department of Agriculture crop report issued today. The estimate is 10 per cent higher than that made in July.

The cheery crop is now placed at 102,500 bushels, 61 per cent less than last year. The report says that earlier estimates of tree mortality will be increased as many trees are dying.

There is no change from the previous estimate of the grape crop— 22 per cent decrease from last year, which, however, still indicates a crop of about 28,150 tons. Vineyards are generally in good condition with heavy vine and foliage growth and berries sizing satisfactorily.

Despite excellent sizing of fruit the peach crop now shows an estimated decrease of 73 per cent from 1942 or five per cent less than the July estimate.

Pears are estimated at 282,100 bushels, down 31 per cent from last year, while plums are down 43 per cent.

Cheese, Produce and Livestock

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 28 — (CP). — Wheat futures slumped ¼ to ⅜ cent a bushel yesterday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. October finished at $1.08⅞.

Early in the session fair buying, believed to be in connection with a 250,000-bushel export trade to neutral Eire, was reported in the October contract.

Dealings in the pit were mixed, with buying credited to shippers and exporters and selling to American interests and locals. Some local spreading, involving purchases of October and sales of May, was indicated.

Cash wheat trade was featured by the sale of 750,000 bushels of No. 2 Northern to shippers and exporters. Transactions in cash coarse grains were confined to odd cars of oats and barley for eastern domestic feeders.

It was suggested that an increase of 4 cents in the equalization fees in the past two days had discouraged any United States buying in cash coarse grains for the present.

Rye was the only active coarse grain, but trading for most of the session was restricted to minor American buying in the May option.

Giants Winners Over The Yanks

Memorial Park last night was the scene of victory for the Giants who overcame their East City rivals the Yanks by showing a score of 17-11. Although the losers outhit the winners by four, they struck a streak of bad luck by having thirteen men left on bases to the other team's four.

The 2 of 3 semi-final series is now tied up with one win apiece. An announcement will be forthcoming as to the time and place of the third game of the setto. It will likely be next Tuesday at the above field.

Doing chores in the hurlers' box Bill Sullivan of the Giants was slugged for sixteen safe hits and walked six. Ray Spencer on the slab for the Yanks permitted only twelve safe trips to the bags but gave passes to seven.

Ray Fitzgerald was out in the willow department for his team with a pair of deuces and a triple for four trips. O'Heron came through with a single and a double for three while B. Sullivan chalked up the same for five sorties to the plate.

In the Yanks' lineup Condon went well with the willow by getting a pair of single and a triple for five. McGillen had a trio of singles for the same number and R. Spencer copped a like amount for six trips.

A Tough Marine

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 28.—(AP).—From beneath the seat of a freight train locomotive tender newly - arrived from Philadelphia, there emerged yesterday a potential marine with a proud Irish name. He was George Patrick McLaughlin of Philadelphia, who told detectives he planned to join the leathernecks and slap down the Japs after devouring large quantities of spinach and potatoes. Mr. McLaughlin is six years old.

Bracken Raps Talkers Who Slam Russia

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 — (AP).—Brendan Bracken, British Minister of Information, assailed at a press conference yesterday "unconscious fifth columnists" who he said fostered Nazi propaganda by spreading rumors that Soviet Russia might seek a separate peace with Germany.

"I don't think that Stalin's inability to attend conferences or the shifting of ambassadors to the United States and Great Britain implies any deal with Germany," Bracken said.

"There are a lot of unconscious fifth columnists who do grave harm in spreading rumors about a separate peace. Great Britain and Russia have a treaty governing this point, and Soviet Russia has never broken its word."

Bracken asserted "the greatest disservice that can be done to the United Nations is to spread the rumor that Russia may drop out of the war," and he added.

"I think that Stalin really cannot spare the time just now for conferences. It is highly insulting to Russia to suggest that she might drop out of the war. How indignant she would be if that suggestion were made about Great Britain or the United States. It is of the most importance that we maintain unity among the United Nations."

Catholic League Finals Start Monday

Monday night will see the final series in the Catholic Senior Softball League get away to a start when the Cubs of East City take on their old rivals, St. Peter's, from this side of the Otonabee. It will be a best three of five arrangement and forecasts to be a hotly contested setup.

For the past two years both teams have been the finalists in this league and in both years the series went the full five games. This year promises to be no exception.

In 1941 the Cubs were gunning for the title and trophy of the league, and scored successfully. 1942 saw St. Peter's reverse positions with them, bringing the coveted J. S. Sullivan Cup to this side of the city.

Coach Jack Condon is primping up his boys for the debut in the finals. They have been idle for two weeks and may be a little wobbly on their softball legs, but Jack figures it won't take long for them to get back into form.

Joe Garvey, pilot of the Cubs this year, has his players running smoothly. They have just finished the semi-finals with the K. of C. and are ready to take on the league champs of last season.

Locale for the initial fray will be in Monday night's edition of the Examiner. It most likely will be on the league's diamond.

Need of Personal Religion Is Never More Necessary

REV. E. R. JAMES.

The word of the Lord came unto me, saying: I ordained thee a prophet among the nations. Then said I; Ah, Lord God, behold, I cannot speak; for I am a child."

—Jeremiah 1: 6.

Many a prophet, a preacher of the Word of God, has been thrilled by these words. He has discovered a kinship with one of the greatest of the Old Testament prophets. As Bishop Westcott, himself one of the ablest of the New Testament prophets, points out: "To be a prophet to men who will not listen; what a call to a man who is sensitive?" "I am a child" means that he has never had responsibility; that he is a young man. To the Oriental of that age the young man's duty is to listen and not to speak.

Dr. Skinner, a famous Presbyterian scholar, reminds us that "to Jeremiah religion was a reality; a real fellowship with a real, moral Deity." To us this is an everyday truth. To Jeremiah and his generation this is a new and overwhelming thought. This is Jeremiah's contribution to a wider knowledge of God's character. This is in accordance with God's principle of a progressive revelation of Himself to men according as they are able to bear it.

Jeremiahs task was heavy and bitter. He was to tell his people that Jehovah would destroy the Temple. Some years earlier Iraiah taught the opposite truth and the destruction of Sennacharib's army by a plague was a proof that Jehovah had Jerusalem under His special care and that His Temple could not be destroyed by a heathen, no matter how powerful.

To prophesy that Jerusalem would be captured and destroyed was a horror to Jeremiah's own soul. The people would not believe in such a God; they could not worship Him. It needs little imagination to understand the hatred and persecution against Jeremiah. Today he would be called a Quisling.

Jeremiah spent his whole life in the religious opposition. The governing authorities looked upon him as a traitor to his country. "The princes said unto the King: We beseech thee, let this man be put to death for he weakenth the hands of the men of war. This man seeketh not the welfare of this people, but the hurt." (Jer. 35: 4.) .

As a man Jeremiah is sensitive to public opinion. He hates to be in the opposition. so he decides he will not speak. He will hold his peace. "Then I said: I will not make mention of Him, nor speak any more in His Name. But His word was in my heart as a burning fire shut up in my bones and I was weary with forebearing and I could not contain" (Jer. 20: 9.)

It was the Divine compulsion that compelled him to speak. What an ideal for the true prophet of the Word of God. He has thought meditated, and pondered upon the deep things of God. He is moved inwardly by the thoughts God has revealed to him in these Holy Scriptures. ancient yet modern —proving its inspiration. When such a man speaks his words are full of fiery eloquence. "Is not My Word like a fire? saith the Lord; like a hammer that breaketh the rock in pieces?" (Jer. 23: 29.)

Perhaps the most tremendous truth Jeremiah has to reveal is God's desire to speak to the individual soul. Jeremiah is the first in the old Testament to teach the need of personal religion. It is the key to the story of God's gradual education of Israel. Dr. Peake, the famous Methodist commentator, glowingly exclaims: "In Jeremiah religion became individual, spiritual, intimate, warm with the life blood of a warm, sympathetic heart."

It is our privilege to say AMEN—so be it Lord—as you read these prophetic words uttered more than twenty-five centuries ago: "After those days, said the Lord. I will put my laws in their inward parts and write it in their hearts and I will be their God and they shall be my people.".

WHEN THOU SAIDST: SEEK YE MY FACE. MY HEART SAID UNTO THEE: THY FACE, LORD, WILL I SEEK."

Israel's Sin and Restoration

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

"The International Uniform Lesson for August 29 is Exodus 32-34, the Golden Text being Numbers 14:18, "Jevovah is slow to anger, and abundant in lovkindness, forgiving iniquity and transgression.")

AFTER ALL the goodness shown to the children of Israel by the Lord: after being led from the land of Egypt and protected from all the perils they encountered by the way, they were not true to their God, and sinned grievously. It came about in this wise:

Moses stayed in the mountain of Sinai a long time, and the people did not know when he was coming back. Maybe they did not even care very much. At any rate, they went to Aaron and told him to get up and make them gods to protect them in their travels, for "this Moses, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him."

Aaron should have known better and reminded them of the many blessings they had received from the Lord, and that He would protect them if they put their trust in Him. But, Aaron, too, sinned. Just as children in school are apt to become unruly when the teacher goes out of the room, when Moses was absent they got into mischief. Aaron told them to bring him all the golden ornaments they had and he would make them a golden calf.

He melted the earrings and other ornaments, took a graving tool and fashioned a golden calf, and built an altar before it. Then he made a proclamation that they should make a feast, so they rose up early next day, offered burnt offerings to the calf and then all sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play.

Moses Learns of Wickedness

The Lord knew what went on and said to Moses: "Go, get thee down; for thy people, which thou broughtest out of the land of Egypt, have corrupted themselves: They have turned aside quickly out of the way which I commanded them; and they have made them a molten calf, and have worshipped it, and have sacrificed thereunto, and said, These be thy gods, O Israel, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt."

The Lord was very angry and wanted to destroy this "stiff necked people," but Moses pleaded with Him to remember Abraham, Isaac and Israel, and not destroy them. The Lord repented, therefore, and Moses went down to his people carrying the tablets of stone on which were written the commandments.

When, however, Moses, saw the people making merry and worshiping the golden calf, his anger broke forth against them and he threw the tablets of stone down and broke them. He also burnt the golden calf and ground it to powder and strewed it upon the water and made the people drink it.

Then Moses called on all those who were faithful to the Lord to stand forth, and all the sons of Levi so stood. He ordered them to "put every man his sword at his side, and go in and out from the gate throughout the camp, and slay every man his brother, and every man his companion, and every man his neighbour." About 3,000 men fell that sad day.

Moses Returns To The Lord

Moses then returned to the Lord and admitted that his people had sinned a great sin, but asked for forgiveness for them. The Lord forgave them, and told Moses that He would give them the land flowing with milk and honey, as He had promised.

Moses took the tabernacle far from the camp, and when Moses went to the tabernacle, the people stripped of all their ornaments, watched him from their tent doors. And all saw the cloudy pillar descend and stand at the door of the tabernacle.

Moses asked the Lord to show him His glory if he had found grace in His sight, and the Lord told Moses to stand upon a rock, "And it shall come to pass, while My glory passeth by, that I will put thee in a cleft of the rock and will cover thee with My hand while I pass by."

The Lord commanded Moses to make two more tables of stone like the first and to come up to Mount Sinai the next morning. He did as the Lord told him, and the Lord gave him further instructions as to the conduct of the people; and Moses stayed up in the mount for 40 days and 40 nights, neither eating nor drinking, but writing on the tables of stone.

When he came down from the mount his face so shone that the people were afraid and he put a veil over it while he talked to them.

"Verily, the Lord is slow to anger, and abundant in loving kindness, forgiving iniquity and transgressions."

New Bishop Bids Farewell To Parish in Nova Scotia

To the clergy of the diocese of Antigonish, N.S., Most Reverend John R. MacDonald, who was consecrated Bishop of the diocese of Peterborough in St. Ninian's Cathedral, Antigonish, on August 24, bade farewell at a luncheon in Gilmore Hall of Mount St. Bernard College, at which he was the parting guest, following the solemn ceremony of his investure with the authority and dignity of his new office.

In acknowledging the congratulations which were extended to him, and the gift presented to him by the clergy of Antigonish, Bishop McDonald rendered first his thanks to God "for the many blessings of my priesthood, and now for the wholly unmerited and unanticipated favor of its plenitude."

Bishop MacDonald expressed his appreciation of the presence of the Apostolic Delegate to Canada and Newfoundland, Archbishop Hildebrand Antoniutti, consecrating prelate, his assistants Bishop Morrison of Antigonish and Bishop P. A. Bray of St. John, and also to Bishop R. H. Dignan of Sault St. Marie, who preached the sermon.

"It was Bishop Morrison who ordained me, and we have lived together more than seventeen of the twenty-seven years since that time," Bishop MacDonald said. "It makes me happy to know that I leave with his friendship, his goodwill and his blessing. Bishop Bray has been a long time friend, a friendship cemented by my pastorate for some years in his native parish of St. Andrew's. I thank him most sincerely fo his unfailing coutesy on so many occasions in the past, and for the very special courtesy of his assistance today.

May I be permitted to extend a special word of welcome to the priests of Peterborough diocese (Rev. V. J. McAuley, Rev. J. T. Finn and Rev. V. J. Corkery) who are with us today. Everyone who knows the priests of Peterborough has an exceptionally good word to say for them. Since my appointment, the many cordial letters I received from them gave me courage when, I confess, encouragement was badly needed. I look forward with pleasure, mixed of course with some trepidation in my own regard, to working with them.

Finally, I come to a very difficult task—a few words of farewell to my fellow priests of the Diocese of Antigonish. But, first, I must express my gratitude to them for the over-generous words of the Address, read on their behalf by Father Boyle, and for the gift that accompanied it.

Dear Reverend Fathers, words will not express what I feel in leaving this Diocese. One's deepest thoughts are not easily revealed. I have recently read a very lovely little book from the pen of Monsignor O'Sulli-

Israel's Sin and Restoration ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 32-34.

Moses was in the mountain a long time and the people wearied and went to Aaron and asked him to make them gods, for, they said, Moses is gone and we know not what has become of him.

Aaron told them to give him their golden ornaments and he made a golden calf out of them, and the people worshiped it and the next day they proclaimed a feast and ate and drank and played.

When Moses came down from the mount with the tablets of stone containing the commandments, and saw the golden calf, of which the Lord had told him, Moses was so angry he broke the tablets.

Moses pleaded with the Lord to forgive His people. Then he met the Lord upon the mount, and when he returned to them his face shone so that they were afraid. GOLDEN TEXT—Numbers 14-18.

New Victory Loan Head

The Fifth Victory Loan is expected to take place some time in October, and the drive in Peterborough County will be headed by Gordon S. Matthews, who takes the position left vacant by the resignation of Vincent Eastwood. Mr. Matthews has been Vice-Chairman of the Special Names Committee during the past four drives, and it is generally agreed that a better man could not have been found to succeed Mr. Eastwood.

When the first National War Finance Committee was formed for this county, Mr. Eastwood was asked by the Hon. J. L. Ilsley to take the chairmanship, and he consented to do so. His experience in work of this kind during the first Great War, and his intimate association with the district made him the logical man for the job, and during four loans he has given the committee dynamic and wise leadership. But the strain of four loans takes its toll of the most devoted public servant, and Mr. Eastwood's decision to relinquish the burden to another will cause no surprise. This is the occasion, we think, to offer him the heartiest thanks of the community, and to express our pleasure that his experience and advice will still be available to the committee, of which in future he will be Honorary Chairman.

Mr. Matthews' ability as an organizer is well-known, and he has been a mainstay of the committee for some time. He has been active in promoting War Stamp sales since the beginning of that work, and has never slackened in his enthusiasm for it, even after taking on heavy duties in the War Finance Committee. We are sure that his appointment will give great satisfaction in the county, and that he will be given the fullest co-operation by everyone associated with the Fifth, and succeeding, Loans.

Mountbatten In Command

Lord Louis Mountbatten is one of the most colourful commanders engaged in the present war. Into the forty-three years of his life he has crammed at least four careers, for he is an Acting Air Marshal, a Vice-Admiral and a Lieutenant-General, as well as being a celebrated sportsman and bon vivant. His is a life of Elizabethan fullness. Nor has this distinction come to him merely because he is a cousin of the King. He has learned the arts of war in all three Services from the bottom; he has mastered every sort of tactic; he has made improvements on existing plans. A number of devices of his invention are in use in the Royal Navy. He is reputed to know more about Combineu Operations than any living man. Now that he has been made Supreme Allied Commander of operations in the Pacific we may expect some fireworks. With his knowledge of air, land and sea war the new commander should be able to spring a few surprises on the Japs in that area, and they will be hard pressed to find a commander on their side to match him.

Lord Louis was the son of a First Lord of the Admiralty, and he went into the Navy as a boy. It was his father who put the Royal Navy in trim for the First Great War. At the age of forty he became a Captain, the youngest on the lists, and he has shown ability as a sea-fighter both at Norway and at Crete.

An excellent valuation of Lord Louis as a Commando chief appears in Hilary St. George Saunders' book Combined Operations. He is a man whose genius is founded firmly on a passion for detail; schedules and timetables are meat and drink to him; we now have reason to believe that if his plan had been used for the assault on Dieppe, instead of the plan of frontal assault which was adopted, that operation might have been successful and certainly would not have cost so heavily in lives. This skill in organization and the mechanics of warfare he combines with a remarkable freshness of outlook; he has no patience with men who will not try new tactics, and is himself prolific in inventing them. He is that rare bird, the truly original commander.

Expert as they are, the Japanese have never been celebrated for originality. If Mountbatten can spring a few things on them which they have not foreseen he will have them where he wants them. Wingate's Mob have already given the Japs a great deal to worry about with their unorthodox tactics in Burma. When Mountbatten begins to harry them by land, sea and air the enemy will learn another new aspect of warfare.

"Waltzing Matilda"

We were amazed, the other day, to read this statement in a metropolitan daily, in an article on war songs: "One other popular war song is 'Waltzing Matilda', written by an Australian and sung by the Anzacs when they went into tank battle in Libya. It's a song, however, that can't be marched to". Whoever wrote that does not know what he is talking about. He has been listening to a "swung" version of the Australian song, which is rather like forming an opinion of Tschaikowsky's Fifth Symphony after listening to "Moonlight and Roses", or whatever the song is which pinches and distorts a theme from that work. "Waltzing Matilda" is a first-rate march.

It is also an interesting song. It was written by Banjo Patterson, a wandering minstrel of Australia, who composed a great many songs in his time, and sang them to his own accompaniment in barrooms and anywhere else that he could find an audience. Patterson was a modern equivalent of the folk-singer of an earlier day. He took his themes from the life which he saw about him and has left, in his minstrelsy, a striking record of the vigour of the Australian pioneers. "Waltzing Matilda" is probably his best-known work.

It has a simple story; it tells of a vagabond who stole a sheep, was captured by troopers, and drowned himself in order to make his escape from them. That bald outline gives nothing of the charm of the song. Despite its sombre story, it has a liveliness and a raffish charm which capture the imagination. Its steady and compulsive rhythm may be taken to represent the tramp of the vagabond, or "sundowner", himself.

To the non-Australian listener, "Waltzing Matilda" requires some explanation, for it is full of highly expressive Australian slang. What can a Canadian make of this description of the crime:

Down came a jumbug to drink at the billabong,
Up jumped the swagman and swagged him with glee;
And he laughed as he stowed that jumbug in his tucker-bag,
"You'll come a-waltzing Matilda with me!"

"Waltzing Matilda" is the phrase used by sundowners for their perpetual wanderings over the countryside. "Matilda" is the blanket-roll which the tramp carries on his back, and "waltzing", or "humping the bluey", describes his mode of progress.

Even a brief note on Australian slang would take too much space here, and we must leave the subject. But to say that "Waltzing Matilda" cannot be marched to—! As an Australian might say, "It's a fair cow!"

The C.W.A.C. Band

Hearing strains of martial music yesterday we hastened to our window and watched the C.W.A.C. Band pass by, playing lustily and tunefully. It was a first-rate band, and the C.W.A.C. may be very proud of it. But, stirring as the music was, it filled our heart with a certain gentle sadness, for the brass band—possibly the last stronghold of masculinity—has now fallen to the assaults of womanhood.

There is no reason why women should not play wind instruments. They have lungs, and know how to use them. We have seen women playing cornets in Salvation Army bands, and doing it well; we have seen a woman play a trombone; the Toronto Symphony Orchestra contains a gifted young lady who plays a French horn. But we had never expected to see a woman playing an euphonium; the rich, vainglorious "ompah, oompah" of that instrument has always had a strongly masculine tone in ou ears; we never expected that a woman could evoke it, however hard she blew. But in the C.W.A.C. Band we saw an euphonium, and it was oompahing as melodiously as though it were being blown by a grenadier with moustaches nine inches long.

The barber shop has gone; the blacksmith shop has gone; now the brass band has gone. What must a man join to get away from women?

The shorter the skirts, says a rowdy contemporary, the easier it is to get up stares.

Further Books About the War

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

ON Wednesday a group of books about various phases of the war was reviewed in this column; here is such another group. All these books are of interest, some to serious students of the war, and some to those who look for sensation chiefly in their reading. Let us begin with a book of serious intent; it is "Wings Of Destiny" by the Marquess of Londonderry, and it is an admirable history of the R.A.F. since its inception. Lord Londonderry knows the intimate history of the R.A.F. as few men do, for he was one of the determined small group which, after the demobilization of 1918, kept that fighting force in being, and fought for it vigorously when men of inferior judgment would have slighted it. The battle of the Air Ministry against stupidity and prejudice in the twenty years preceding the present conflict, was one of the important battles of our time, and we now know how lucky it was for the greater part of the world that the Ministry won.

THIS work contains a large amount of new, interesting and valuable information about the relations of Great Britain with Germany in the few months before the outbreak of war, and thus its importance is increased. Lord Londonderry's impression of Hitler as "forthcoming and agreeable" is a curious one; he found the Fuehrer ill at ease, diffident, and not at all the equal of Mussolini as an awesome figure. Londonderry met Hitler five times in all, and his first impression was borne out in each case. It may be that the paperhanger was not sure how he should treat a British peer; in any case he did not use the browbeating methods which he apparently adopted toward Mr. Chamberlain. This book is written in an intimate and informal style, and should have a wide sale among students of international affairs.

A VERY different book is "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo," by Captain Ted W. Lawson, who was one of the flyers taking part in the Doolittle raid over Japan's capital. Says he: "I helped bomb Tokyo on the Doolittle raid of April 18, 1942. I crashed in the China Sea. I learned the full, deep meaning of the term "United Nations" from men and women whose language I couldn't speak. I watched a buddy of mine saw off my left leg. And finally I got home to my wife after being flown, shipped and carried around the world." His fantastic and amazing story, and that of his plane, The Ruptured Duck, is guaranteed to thrill anyone; it is the unassuming story of a very brave man.

A WAR correspondent's account of MacArthur's first offensive is told by Pat Robinson in "The Fight For New Guinea." Robinson was the first newsman to set foot in that uninviting part of the world, just at the time when the long and painful months of defensive warfare had drawn to a close, and the great American commander was about to drive on Port Moresby. There followed the struggle over the Kokoda Trail, so slow that progress was almost measureable in inches, until the Japanese were cornered and destroyed at Gona and Buna. This is an account of jungle warfare—a sort of fighting of which it is impossible for us to form any adequate picture, so remote is it from our experience of Nature—in which cannibals, crocodiles and undergrowth as hard to penetrate as stone bar the way and hinder both attacker and attacked. This is a book for anyone who feels that the Pacific war is a sideshow; it is fighting of a special sort of grimness, taking a special sort of courage.

ANOTHER book for the student of our war is "Japan's Military Masters," by Hillis Lory, an American who was for many years on the faculty of Hokkaido University. In an attempt to understand Japan he became deeply interested in the Japanese Army, which he decided was the key to the life of the whole nation. It is upon this premise that he builds his book, and he makes a very good case. The Japanese Army is a people's army, and combines with purely military training a thorough indoctrination with one of those partially mystical and wholly barbaric systems of belief in which totalitarian peoples specialize. His advice is: don't underestimate Japan in any way.... And finally there is Pearl Buck's "American Unity And Asia," which is a sober discussion, including India, and the race-problem of the U.S. Mrs. Buck is a liberal in the broadest sense, and knows the Orient as few people do, but the gulf between what is desirable and what is possible has fewer terrors for her than for less gifted mortals. All these books are published by Macmillans.

Unconsidered Trifles

"I've been asked for references for our last maid. What on earth can I say in her favor?"

"Well, she has a good appetite and sleeps well."

She—"Now that we're engaged, dear, you'll give me a ring, won't you!"

He—"Why, certainly, darling. What's your number?"

"Go ahead and sow," scoffed the Germans, "we'll do the reaping."

"I hope so," replied the farmer, "I'm sowing hemp."

The teacher was giving her class a lesson on the virtues of obedience, and illustrated some of her points by telling the story of how a baby rabbit disobeyed its mother by straying away from home and eventually being shot.

"Now, if the baby had obeyed its mother, what would have happened?" she asked Tommy.

"The baby rabbit would have grown up, and then some day we should have had it in a pie," replied Tommy.

A Scot went on the wagon and the news spread rapidly.

Said a friend to him slyly: "D'ye mean tae tell me, Jock, that ye're no goin' tae have another drink ever?"

"Ay, that's so."

"D'ye mean tae say that if ye were standing in a lake filled with whisky richt up tae yer knees ye wouldn't be caught bending?"

"Na."

"Well, if it was right up tae yer chin—and it's real Scotch whisky I'm talkin' aboot—would ye no sip it?"

Jock wavered then: "Well, I'm no saying I would, mind ye, but I might make a we ripple wi' me hand."

"A" FOR ADOLF!

Now We Have Parapigeons

FROM an Army Co-operation aircraft a miniature parachute unfolds and flutters down over enemy lines. It is far too small to bear the weight of a man. But it may save many lives.

For the miniature parachute carries a pigeon in a container which will be picked up by a group of soldiers isolated behind enemy lines. They will be able to send the bird back to its base with a message giving an idea of their location, which may be the means of helping them to join up again with the main body of their unit.

Pigeons are "packed" ready for dropping by parachute in two kinds of containers. The single bird container is barrel-shaped, made from heavy cardboard and lined with corrugated paper. A small cardboard trough can be hooked on to the door and the bird gets what the Army Pigeon Service calls "Bed and Breakfast."

The double container is split diagonally, to house two birds, and fits into a waterproof pack. This floats, and is used if the pigeons are likely to land in water, because they can't fly if their wings get too wet.

The message the pigeon takes back to its base is packed in a tiny red container which looks—and unscrews—like a lipstick holder. The tightly-folded slip of paper is wound round the spindle in the centre, the top screwed on, and the whole clipped on the bird's leg. Then the bird sets off.

Often after a long flight against a heavy wind pigeons arrive home weary and underweight. They then have to be dosed up with cod liver oil and chemical food until they get big and strong again.

There's no sex discrimination in the Army Pigeon Service. Both cock and hen pigeons are employed and both work equally promptly and fast. There are few casualties on active service, but many pigeons lives have been lost in this country by amateur sportsmen who can't tell a wood pigeon from a carrier—which is about as bad as a gunner not knowing a Messerschmitt from a Spitfire.

The Army Pigeon Service has its winged aces, too. Preening its wings at the Army Equipment Exhibition in London is the bird which brought back the first operational message from Dieppe—in company with a cageful of other veterans recuperating before they go back to active service again.

Canada Closes the Gap

CANADA has strung a life-line of air-power across the Atlantic.

Now when a convoy including Canadian troop and merchant ships crosses the ocean it will do so under a cover of aircraft flown by Royal Canadian Air Force personnel to mid-ocean, where British-based R.C.A.F. and R.A.F. aircraft take over.

In the western sector of the ocean, the R.C.A.F. plays a dominant role. When a convoy starts moving eastward, R.C.A.F. Hudsons and Venturas guard it outward from the North American coast to the limit of their range. Next, longer-range Liberators and Catalinas take over the protective duties as the convoy progresses into mid-Atlantic.

Air Vice Marshal George C. Johnson, air officer commanding-in-chief, Canada's Eastern Air Command, has stated that R.C.A.F. aircraft from Canada have met R.A.F. Coastal Command flying boats over mid-ocean convoys. He added that R.C.A.F. "VLR" aircraft prevented by bad weather from returning to their Canadian bases had continued on to the United Kingdom.

Formerly the most dreaded section of the Atlantic was the gap which remained outside the range of aircraft, the most potent enemy of the U-boat. "Escort" carriers, which can provide air cover through this zone in all weathers have helped, together with the "VLR" planes to reduce the menace. Canadians in the Royal Navy's Fleet Air Arm have taken part in this task.

From United Kingdom bases, the R.C.A.F. has several squadrons engaged in convoy protection and anti-submarine work. So far the R.C.A.F. coastal command squadrons have not been equipped with VLR aircraft although squadrons fly out from the United Kingdom and escort convoys, carrying thousands of their own countrymen, on their way to Britain and other theatres of the war.

At the same time, when R.C.A.F. bomber squadrons attack the Nazi U-boat bases of Lorient and St. Nazaire they are making a tangible contribution to the Battle of the Atlantic. And when they participate in mass raids on the U-boat building yards at Wilhelmshaven, Kiel and Bremen, they are doing their part in the same battle.

Perhaps the most colourful of the R.C.A.F. squadrons in Coastal Command is the Demon squadron. It won its title from the fierce nature of its attacks on enemy shipping in the months before it converted to anti-submarine work.

The squadron was formed May 8, 1941, with all-Canadian personnel, and flying American-built Hudson aircraft. Just a year later, in May, 1942, the squadron was credited with an all-time record for damage to enemy shipping, 83,000 tons having been attacked in one month. From September 1 to December 1, 1941, the squadron was credited with damaging 150,000 tons.

It was with this impressive performance behind them that the Demons converted some months ago to anti-submarine patrol. Their crest consists of a wreath of maple leaves, surmounted by a crown, while in the centre is a devil's trident, a demon and wings, and a broken anchor. The broken anchor is a symbol of the shipping blasted by the squadron.

Capital Closeups

(By JOHN DAUPHINEE, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

OTTAWA, Aug. 27 (CP)—A battered old motor, with more than a touch of glory about its worn pistons, is part of a National Research Council Historical collection housed in Ottawa.

It is the engine used in the Silver Dart, first airplane to fly in the empire, piloted by J. A. D. McCurdy on Feb. 23, 1909. After the initial flights at Baddeck, N.S., the machine was taken to Petawawa (Ont.) military camp, where it made several hops.

It crashed just before a young man named Lieut. A. G. L. McNaughton was booked to make a flight. The young officer now is a lieutenant-general, commander of the Canadian Army Overseas and president of the Research Council.

The motor was salvaged from the crash and used for menial tasks. It found its way back to the Atlantic coast and was put into a fishing boat. The boat sank and the motor rested on the sea-bottom for a couple of years.

But it was ultimately located and salvaged Brought to the Research Council building here, it was overhauled. Mr. McCurdy, now living in Ottawa, went down to look it over, and entertained officials by recalling in detail the woes the pioneer endured with the old engine.

One of the notable sidelights of President Roosevelt's official visits to Quebec and Ottawa is the extreme protection provided to ensure his safety.

To the average Canadian it comes a bit odd to see heavily-armed plain clothes officers riding on the running board of the presidential car, running beside it as it moves slowly along a roadway, or taking up carefully pre-arranged guard positions whenever it stops.

The White House secret service men who accompany Mr. Roosevelt aren't just for show, either. They mean business. One of our colleagues watched the president change from one car to another while he was in Ottawa.

The change meant not only a transfer for Mr. Roosevelt but also one for a small arsenal of Tommy-guns and other protective weapons.

Mr. Roosevelt's references to the post-war period in his speech on Parliament Hill are widely considered a sure indication that steps will sooner or later be launched to form some permanent organization of the wartime United Nations.

The president mentioned that at his Quebec Conference with Prime Minister Churchill "there was much talk of the post-war world." He said that discussion was doubtless duplicated simultaneously by dozens of nations.

Then he spoke of the unanimity of the United Nations during the war, and the demonstrated fact that "concerted action can accomplish things."

"Surely," he said, "by unanimous action in driving out the outlaws and keeping them under heel forever, we can attain a freedom from fear and violence."

It is the phrase "Keeping them under heel forever" which is taken in many quarter as an indication of intention to establish some permanent United Nations set-up.

A Bible Message

And the people spake against God, and against Moses. Wherefore have ye brought us up out of Egypt to die in the wilderness? for there is no bread, neither is there any water; and our soul loatheth this light bread. And the Lord sent fiery serpents among the people, and they bit the people; and much people of Israel died.

Therefore the people came to Moses, and said, We have sinned, for we have spoken against the Lord, and against thee; pray unto the Lord, that he take away the serpents from us. And Moses prayed for the people.... And Moses made a serpent of brass, and put it upon a pole, and it came to pass, that if a serpent had bitten any man, when he beheld the serpent of brass, he lived. (Num. 21: 5-7, 9.)

And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of man be lifted up: that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have eternal life. (John 3: 14 15.)

Mr. King Playing Host To History

Now that the captains and kings have gone, it is fitting that a word be said for Prime Minister King's part at Quebec.

We think it was a fine part. Mr. King in this war has made mistakes, some of them grave mistakes, but at Quebec and in all that concerned it his part was one of high credit for Canada.

To begin with, we do not think that the choice of Quebec for this memorable conference was hit upon by chance. Mr. King, undoubtedly brought Canada this gathering, and in doing so he not merely showed his historic sense but brought for all of us an enduring recognition of this country's part in the war. Nor does The Journal see much in the criticism of some that although the conference was held on Canadian soil Canada's part in it was a minor one. Mr. King was host to Mr. Churchill and President Roosevelt and to the representatives of other Allies. In that capacity it was not his part to dictate the character or details of the conference; and it was less his part to push Canada too far into the forefront, or to put our place in the broader picture out of proportion. Mr. King seems to have sensed that accurately, and to have acted accordingly with measure and good taste.

It is something for which all of us, regardless of party, can commend Mr. King unreservedly.
—Ottawa Journal.

HE COULDN'T WAIT

The minister had preached for an hour and a quarter on the prophets—all the greater prophets and then the minor ones in turn.

"Now we come to Habakkuk," he said. "Where shall we put him?"

"He can have my seat," said a wearied listener, "I'm awa' hame!"

Scott-Stevens Bridal Vows Are Taken In London Today

The Metropolitan United church, London, Ontario, was the scene of a pretty wedding today when Doris Jane, daughter of Mr. Chester F. Stevens and the late Mrs. Stevens, became the bride of Sub. Lieut. W. Andrew Scott, R.C.N.V.R., son of Dr. and Mrs. G. Raymore Scott of Peterborough. Dr. W. E. MacNiven performed the bridal ceremony before a background of gladioli. The pews were marked with bows of white tulle. Mr. Castle Graham presided at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a long graceful gown of ivory slipper satin with a circular train. The bodice was fashioned on long torso lines with a sweetheart neckline, and both the long fitted sleeves and the neck-line were edged with net ruching. Tiny satin-covered buttons fastened the gown down the back. A veil of French illusion was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a cascade of gardenias tied with a white tulle bow.

Mrs. Stewart Stevens attended the bride as matron of honor, wearing a similar gown of white taffeta, but with no train, and having three-quarter length sleeves. Miss Norah McCormick of London, Mrs. J. C. Liddle of Windsor and Miss Ruth Woughton of Detroit, also attended the bride, gowned alike in frocks similar to that of the matron of honor, but having red and white striped skirts and white bodices trimmed with striped ruching. The matron of honor wore a cap of lipstick red, the other attendants striped caps. All carried muffs of red gladioli.

Mr. J. C. Liddle of Windsor was best man and the ushers were Sub.-Lieutenants J. B. Nash, James Shuttleworth, Ross MacLean, and James Preston.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the London Hunt and Country Club, after which the happy couple left for the east coast, the bride travelling in a two-piece suit of soft, beige-yellow English wool with matching hat trimmed with mink, and carrying a large mink muff.

HEALTH CHATS

By DR. R. A. KELLY, Acting M.O.H.

This is vacation—a happy, carefree time, with swimming and picnics, camping and fishing, and all the other things which make a holiday. But for some it may mean sickness and pain with paralyzed limbs and poor twisted bodies. For this is the time of year for Infantile Paralysis.

Infantile Paralysis or, by its proper name, Acute Anterior Poliomyelitis, is the greatest crippler of our children. It is one of the dread diseases which, without reason, strikes down well and healthy children and leaves them (for life) with misshapened bodies.

What, then, is this disease and what is its cause? It is an acute generalized infection due to what science calls a filterable virus. This is a minute organism somewhat like a bacterium but many times smaller. Poliomyelitis is a contagious disease and, like measles or mumps, it may be transmitted from person to person; it can be "caught" Also like these more common conditions, it is primarily a disease of childhood. 95% of all cases of Poliomyelitis occur under 10 years of age. However, no age is exempt—even grandfathers have had Infantile Paralysis. Single isolated cases in a community are the rule but on occasion, as here in Ontario in 1937, a regular epidemic results. Cases may occur at any time during the year but it is primarily a warm weather disease and is most prevalent right at this time during August and the early part of September.

The early symptoms of Poliomyelitis are neither constant nor regular. The most common signs are fever, often vomiting, irritability and stiffness in the arms and legs. These come on abruptly and sometimes the condition does not go beyond this stage and complete recovery takes place in four to ten days. However, in other cases, it proceeds with increased symptoms and finally paralysis. Occasionally the paralysis is the first symptom noted but this is very unusual.

Even after years of research medical science still does not know exactly how the disease is spread. Neither is there, as yet, any vaccination to protect one against Poliomyelitis as there is with Smallpox or Whooping cough.

Although many methods have been tried in the past, there is no treatment that will satisfactorily or completely cure the paralysis after it has developed. At the present time, new emphasis is being placed on the value of physiotherapy in paralytic cases, largely due to the work of Nurse Kenny. One thing is of importance—treatment must be started early if it is to be successful. Therefore, if your child is ill, if you suspect that it might be poliomyelitis—call your family physician. Let him decide. Don't take a chance. However, please remember that your doctor is especially busy now so don't call him unnecessarily and don't wait until night time if you can avoid it.

This is not intended to cause alarm. Its purpose is only to familiarize you with the facts and warn you so that you may be on guard.

So far this year we have had no cases of Infantile Paralysis. We sincerely hope there are none.

INVESTMENT IN HOME WISEST FOR WOMAN WITH INHERITANCE

Wife Unwilling to Put Money in Mate's Hands Creates Serious Break in Matrimony.

DEAR MISS DIX — We are a happy family, my husband, our three children and myself. Our married life of eleven years has been little short of perfect. But now a problem has arisen that I don't know just how to settle. It is the eternal problem of money.

For the past six or seven years I have been the chief handler of funds at our house, paid bills, bought clothes, and saved a little, for my husband has been very liberal, permitting our checking account to be in my name alone. He knows that in the past I have only spent what I deemed necessary for our comfort and welfare. But, of course, during the years, I have wished, as every woman must, that I had a little money of my own that I could spend as I pleased without feeling that I had to give an account of it to anyone.

Now that time has come. I have received an inheritance that will bring me in a considerable yearly income. Enough to clothe myself, and to provide a substantial sum for my children's education, or to buy a home. Now the question is: Should I turn all of my inheritance into our joint checking account, as my husband insists upon my doing, or should I maintain a separate account of my own and pay what I think is a fair share of the burden of financing our home?

MRS. C. R. B.

Monely in Home Salves Husband's Pride

ANSWER—In deciding that question there are two important things to take into consideration. The first is what sort of a business man your husband is. Is he one of the men who know how to handle money, or does he let it slip like water through his fingers? Has he failed in every business he has ever started in for himself? Is he one of the visionaries who is always going into wild schemes in which he is going to make a million

Is he the sort of man who can't say "no" and who would lend his last cent to an old friend or Uncle Joe if they put up a pitiful tale? Is he given to studying the stock market and talking about how he could make a killing if he only had the money to put in Wild Cat Preferred?

If he is any of these things, hang on to your money with both hands and your teeth and toenails. It isn't that that kind of a man means to cheat his wife out of her money. It is just that he lacks business acumen. But when your money is gone, it is gone, no matter which way it went.

The second point to consider is how much you love your husband. Nothing makes a break between a man and his wife so deep and unhealable as for her not to be willing to turn over her money to him. It hurts his pride because it shows him that she does not trust his judgment and because, to a certain extent, it deposes him from his post as head of the house. He is not any longer the one who has to be catered to and to whom his wife has to account for every nickel. She is independent because she has her own money.

Also, the husband feels that his wife isn't giving him a square deal, if heretofore, he has put all of his money in the pot, if she isn't willing to chip in hers, too. He feels she is holding out on him. If a woman wants to keep her husband, it is practically impossible for her to keep her money. And it is for her to decide whether he is worth the price.

You say you have had a perfect homelife so far. I think that is more to you and your children than any amount of money.

My suggestion to you is to put your money in a home. That will satisfy your husband's pride on every point and give you something that you can all enjoy. But keep a little of it for yourself and explain to your husband how every woman feels—that she would like to have something of her own that she can spend as she likes and without having to give an account of it. Tell him that you would like to make him a birthday or a Christmas present that he didn't have to pay for. And if he is the fine fellow that he seems to be, he will understand that.

I think men seldom realize, even the best and most generous of them, how it hurts a woman's sense of independence and dignity to have to ask her husband if she can buy a hat, or would he be kind enough to give her a few dollars to send to her poor old mother?

DEAR MISS DIX—I am married to a WAC. We have a child five years of age. I have a job in a defense plant which keeps me away from home the greater part of the day. Her duties keep her away for weeks at a time, consequently our child is being badly neglected.

I realize that my wife is doing her duty to her country, and I am proud of that fact, but our child is not getting the proper rearing. As I see it, my wife is ruining three lives. What do you think about this?

A BEWILDERED HUSBAND.

Mother Needed Home Rather Than In WACS.

ANSWER—It is certainly misguided patriotism that makes a woman think that she is serving her country when she wrecks her husband's and her child's life to do it. It is just as important to keep the home line intact as it is the battle front, and that is where a wife and mother should be serving, instead of parading around the country in uniform.

Surely a wife is failing grossly in her duty who does not make a comfortable home for her husband to come home to at night after his hard day's work in a factory, and who does not only have a good dinner waiting for him, but give him the cheer and companionship that he needs.

And a woman is worse than negligent, she is criminal, who goes away and leaves a five-year-old child to the care of a hireling, for how can she expect some other woman to do for a little money the task she would not do for love? That is the most impressionable age, when a child's character and habits are being formed and the whole pattern of its future life laid out. It is a time that calls for the infinite patience, infinite care, infinite tenderness and understanding that no one but a mother can give. That job cannot be relegated to another.

There is no service that a woman can render her country that is going to repay it for her having failed in her duty as a mother.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am an Englishman serving with the Royal Canadian Forces. When I left England I was engaged to a girl whom I thought at the time I loved, but since I have arrived in Canada I have met another girl whom I love much more. Do you advise me to break my engagement, or wait until after the war and see how things turn out?

A LOVELORN SERGEANT.

ANSWER—If you have found another girl whom you love better than the old one, it is nothing but cricket to tell her so and not let her keep on filling her hope chest in vain.

GENELECS VICTORS BY 10 TO 8 BUT GAME IS DECLARED FORFEITE

Eakins Again Used On The Mound

Although the Genelecs outscored the 4th Battery 10 to 8 in a loosely-played City League playoff game last night, the affair was merely running for Sweeney inasmuch as the league executive ruled that Manager Johnston's club by using Haddie Eakins, the Lindsay player already declared ineligible, had forfeited the game.

As the executive also tossed out the first game in which Eakins participated, declaring it no contest, the standing in the final series, according to the league officials is three wins for the Battery and none for Genelecs.

After the tightly-played battle of the night before Friday night's affair was a loose exhibition. The Battery gave one of their worst defensive displays of the season and Genelecs made some errors that hurt, too.

Eakins went the route for the Genelecs although he ran into stormy weather toward the end of the battle and was the victim of a six-run barrage in the seventh.

Genelecs were leading 10 to 2 when that big inning blew up but before Eakins could get the side out the lead had been cut to two runs and it might have been closer than that if Heal had not been cut off at the plate for the final out.

Bob Crowe pitched the first five innings for the Gunners and Ted Naish was sent in to finish the game. It was 6 to 2 when he took over and Genelecs picked up four runs in the first of the seventh when the Battery were guilty of some very loose ball. Genelecs moved out in front in the first innings when two errors in succession by Bun Kingdon paved the way for a pair of counters. Playford drove one run in with the only hit of the frame and the second came in on Cadd's infield out.

They got another in the fourth when Cadd doubled and Masterson scratched a single on a roller that Crowe deflected. Starr threw Masterson out stealing second but Cadd went home on the play.

Battery got their first run in their end of the same frame.

Starr singled to right and went to second on a passed ball. Stewart popped to Hawks but Ellis beat out a roller to short for a single and Kingdon bounced a hit over Eakins' head, scoring Starr.

Genelecs got three in the fifth on singles by Hawks, Playford and Cadd, Tucker's double and errors by Starr and Kingdon. They came back with four in the first of the seventh on Masterson's double, safe bunts by Mowry and McNabb, a passed ball, errors by Heal and Ellis and an infield out.

After Naish had rolled out to start the seventh singles by Vitarelli and Crowe, Burton's double, a pass to Eddie Starr, Masterson's muff of Stewart's fly to right, a single by Kingdon and Heal's double sent six runs across. Naish, up for the second time, also singled but Heal was out trying to score from second on the rap.

Henry Armstrong Beaten, Retires

HENRY ARMSTRONG RAY ROBINSON

For a long time boxing fans awaited a meeting between Sugar Ray Robinson, now a corporal in the U.S. Army, and Henry Armstrong, former holder of the feather, lightweight and welterweight championships. The bout finally was staged, in Madison Square Garden, last night. Armstrong began a comeback campaign about a year ago and has been unusually successful ever since. Robinson, however, was handed an easy decision and Armstrong announces his retirement.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 — (AP).— It's hard to blast a fellow who has given fight fans their money's worth as often as Hank Armstrong, but Hennery's announcement last night that he was through with boxing, except as a manager of Cecil Hudson was long overdue. We never saw Armstrong at his best, but we'd much prefer to remember him as the little fellow who won three world championships and lost them gamely than as the outworn prize fighter who shuffled around the ring swaying his head like a sea lion begging for a fish.

Cleaning The Cuff

George Strickler, the National Football League tub thumper, claims he's going to protest the Chicago All-Star game because 20 points for the Stars were scored by ineligible players. "Harder and Graham are the only college juniors,'" he insists . . . Manager Steve O'Neill of the Tigers recently received a cheque dated July 31, 1924 from the town treasurer of Bridgewater, Mass. Steve recalled that he had helped fight a forest fire when he visited the town 19 years ago, but he always figured it was just water under the bridge.

Commando Expert Is On Card

Flight Sergeant Ted Miller of the Trenton Airport will wrestle on Monday's card here against the little Brantford Buzz-Fly Joe Maich. Miller is a specialist in Commando attack technique and also a Jiu Jitsu expert. A fine looking, upstanding athlete the Airman will find Maich quite willing to meet him in what should be a splendid test of the two types of fighting technique.

In the semi-final to the Hogan--Clayborne tea-party (?) will be the well-liked Irish Pat Flanagan and the just as well-disliked Bunny Dunlop. Big and terribly strong as Dunlop is, the speed and brilliant science of the popular Pat should at least even this battle. One thing can be counted on and that is that there will be action every minute.

Gentleman Jack Clayborne is still smarting over the disputed fall awarded him in his bout here with John Katan. The statuesque Negro has a quiet confidence that he is a better man than Katan ever was and stated last night that he would try to demonstrate some extra special mat manoeuvres on Rough-house Dick Hogan as proof. Katan turned down Clapborne's request for a return bout in Peterborough on account of the "prejudiced" attitude of the fans. Such fears, however, don't seem to have occurred to Hogan who eagerly accepted this bout claiming that a win over the Clayborne is all he needs to prove he is the best of them all. It's one of the best wrestling cards ever promoted here and each bout promises something extra in the way of excitement.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

What had all the earmarks of an exciting and closely fought final series between two well-matched City League softball clubs is winding up in a welter of arguments and league rulings. The decision of Manager Ted Johnston of Genelecs to keep on using Haddie Eakins, Lindsay pitcher, after the league executive had ruled him ineligible has left the final round in this position that while Genelecs won two of the games in which Eakins pitched they have nothing in the official victory column. Using Eakins again last night they won out 10 to 8 but the executive has awarded the game to the Battery and the first game in which Eakins played has been ruled no contest. Permission had been given to use the Lindsay player in that game on the ground that he was a military replacement for a signed Genelec player who had joined the armed services. City League officials claim that when they authorized the replacement for the first game they were not told the full facts and when they were informed later that the player for whom a replacement had been asked for was still here they ruled that under the circumstances there could be no question of allowing another player to be brought in to replace a player who was still available.

* * * * * *

The executive at another meeting held last night decided that any further games in which Eakins participates shall be considered as forfeited. The two clubs were billed to meet this afternoon and the executive's ruling means that if the Genelecs send the Lindsay boy back at the Battery the series would be automatically over for it would mean the fourth victory for the Gunners. In other words the only hope of prolonging the round lies in the Genelecs defeating the Battery this afternoon using one of their eligible pitchers in which case another game will be played at 6.15 o'clock this evening.

The Oshawa Situation

Oshawa's representatives in the O.A.S.A. intermediate A playdowns were to be decided today when last year's winners, the Oshawa Colts, were scheduled to meet the Oshawa Laundry in the seventh game of the final series. The Laundry club surprised Soup Campbell's outfit when the round opened and the result has been that the Colts were behind all through the series until the other night when they finally caught up with their opposition by winning the sixth game and squaring the series with three wins each. Big Preem Whiteley was the hero. The veteran pitcher came through in the clutch with one of his best efforts of the season, holdir the Laundry to three hits as the Colts won 8 to 1 and he would have had a shut out had he not tossed a home-run ball in the eighth. Incidentally another veteran Peg Hurst is Whiteley's catcher and the pair and Red Jubenville of baseball fame were the big hitters in the game that pulled the Colts up on even terms with their opposition.

* * * * * *

George H. Campbell, Oshawa sports writer has been commenting on the matter of softball crowds and their attitude toward the collection box. While Peterborough enthusiasts do fairly well in their financial support of the game the Campbell article is interesting. Here it is: "Speaking of silver collections — we'd like to say a few things about it right now. There were nearly 1,000 people at Alexandra Park last night yet the collection didn't average 5 cents per person. True, there are a lot of children who haven't got a nickel but the funny part about it is that at least a third of these children always throw a nickel or a few coppers in the pot. What are the adults doing? It seems to us that sport fans, if they wish to consider themselves sport fans, would realize that softball teams cannot operate on air. It costs money for softballs ($1.70 each) and it costs about the same for a bat, then there's the cost of umpires, police protection—not to mention uniforms, injuries, etc. Now, one of the two Oshawa teams will be going into the Provincial playdowns next week and travelling expenses, meals, etc., that all mounts up to a lot of money. How do softball fans expect teams to carry on? These clubs provide entertainment for the fans and it's good entertainment, a brand of softball comparable to the best played in the Dominion of Canada and that's not bragging either. Softball teams cannot operate on a shoestring. That's why teams so often only operate one season—it's nearly always a financial loss. If a person walks two or twenty blocks to see a softball game—when he gets there, it should be worth more than a big nickel. If every sport fan who attended a softball game would give at least a dime, every softball team in Oshawa could operate successfully every season. Real sport fans never hesitate to toss in "two bits" for they rightly feel that a good softball game is worth that (and no fooling, if we had a smart closed park here in Oshawa that's what the charge would be) but no spectator should be so stingy as to give only a nickel."

A Rowdy Evening

It looks like a night of near murder at Brock Street Arena Monday night. Frank Tunney has not been satisfied with bringing one bad man in for the weekly card in the person of Rowdy Housepainter Hogan but to make sure the program is a riot he has booked Al Bunny Dunlop for the semi-windup and matched him with the popular Pat Flanagan. That may be a break for Hogan at that for the fans will be so hoarse from booing Dunlop that they wil not be able to put all the power they would like into the Bronx cheers that will greet the Housepainter when he starts to get nasty with Gentleman Jack Clayborne in the main bout. Tunney has also come up with a new exponent of the mat game in the person of Flight Sergt. Jed Miller who is matched with the slippery and agile Jumping Joe Maich in the curtain-raiser. That looks like one of the best-balanced bills of the season. The two boys in the opening bout will likely feature speed and cleverness but from then on, it will be commando stuff all the way. The fans will be pulling for Pat Flanagan to put extra power into one of his famous mule kicks and land it right in the middle of the Dunlop map while the strong man of course will be doing his best to make things unpleasant for the Toronto Irishman. As for the main bout Rowdy Hogan can be counted on to start in where Killer Katan left off and the Colored Comet is in for a busy and exciting evening. Local fans who have been enthusing over Clayborne ever since seeing him in action against Katan say he is too fast and smart for Hogan but the Housepainter has his moments and they spell trouble in gobs for the Black Flash.

The Belleville sport sheet has been digging into the past and comes up with the reminder that twenty years ago this week the Belleville team and the Petes met at Cobourg in the third and decisive game of their playoff series. Manager Solomon's outfit had won the first game in Belleville and then Peeney Mills and Company came back on a rainy Saturday and in a contest that was terminated at the end of five innings because of a heavy shower nosed out the Petes 1 to 0. That made a third game necessary and it was played at Cobourg before 3,000 fans. With Heckman and Oulette the starting pitchers Jake Solomon's athletes set up an early lead and in the seventh were still in front 3 to 2 only to have Belleville stage a rally that gave them five runs and the ball game by 7 runs to 3. Oulette was driven out early and Indian Jack Williams blanked the Petes with only one hit for the balance of the game. It was a great win for the Belleville fans and hundreds of Peterborough enthusiasts had a dreary ride home after it was all over. It was Al Heckman's second year in Peterborough and in spite of having to pitch nearly all the games he had a great season.

High Scoring Battle For Brintons

Scoring eight runs in the ninth frame after the Outboard Marines had staged a nine-run rally in the eighth to take the lead, Brintons jumped out in front in the Girls' Softball League intermediate playoffs last night by defeating Johnson Motors 19 to 16.

The rapid scoring in the later stages of the game made it a decidedly enciting finish.

Brintons opened up an early lead and were in front 7 to 0 at the end of the second. They were always in the van until the Outboards cut loose with their scoring barrage in the eighth.

The Johnson girls tried to say it with homers. P. Ferguson slammed one in the fourth with one on bases and in the sixth H. Mitchell poled another circuit clout with two on and Helen Mark the next batter also clouted a homer.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Aug. 28 — (CP). — Need in Canada for such athlete-building projects as Calgary Buffaloes' five-year plan was stressed by many sports columnists who commented during the past week on the Buffalo Club's announced intention to provide equipment and coaching for a six-team Midget Hoskey League.

Ralph (North Bay Nugget) Adams commented: "If this country had more clubs like the Calgary Buffaloes, who are not afraid to venture a little money for the sake of the coming generation of puck stars, Canada would not have to worry much regarding her sporting future."

Bill Gaynon of the Niagara Falls Review points to baseball building done by sports boosters in the Falls where senior baseball flourishes as a result. The Falls Baseball Association was formed in 1931 as a 10-club Junior League. Its popularity grew and for 10 years it has operated more than 50 teams through midget, bantam, juvenile and junior baseball. Many of the youngsters went on to star in senior ball and, until the war, the Falls had an over-abundance of high-class material. This year the association's name was changed to the Falls, Stamford and Chippawa Baseball Association.

Hiya, Governor:

R. F. McWilliams, former Mayor of Peterborough, Ont., returned to his old home town this week on a visit, and Fred Craig of the Peterborough Examiner recalled Williams was one of the fathers of rugby there. In youth he was one of Canada's fi rugby players, a member of t Osgoode Hall team in Toro which won the first Dominion se ior grid championship in 18 After going to Peterborough graduation, McWilliams bus himself in organizing a footb club with co-operation of oth kindred spirits. That was the b ginning of a great football era the Ontario city. Peterborough Dominion intermediate grid tit in 1899 and 1901.

In a letter to Capt. James Sut erland at Kingston, Ont., managi director Red Dutton of the Natio al Hockey League announced th executives of amateur and profe sional hockey organizations wou meet in the N.H.L. offices in Mo treal in September to consider site for a hockey Hall of Fame.. RAY ROBINSON TAKES TEN-ROUND DECISION FROM ARMSTRONG

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 28 —(CP).—For Lefty Flynn, coffee-colored kid who sails with Britain's merchant marine, this business of the "color line" looms as an impregnable obstacle to an otherwise excellent chance of wearing the British welterweight boxing championship crown.

Welter-titlist of Jamaica and improving every time out, Flynn can hold only the Empire title because the British Boxing Board of Control bars Negroes from holding a British crown. It's the same old rule that stopped Toronto's Larry Gains from taking British heavyweight championship although he held the British Empire title.

That same ruling, of course, has taken a beating from many sports writers at some time or another during this war. They hold that if a fellow is good enough to fight for Britain on the field of battle then he's good enough to compete for a British ring crown.

Lefty, a level-headed aggressive type who keeps himself in superb condition, showed a previous victory over the pride of Wales, Ronnie James, was no fluke by outpointing James over 10 rounds. What's more, the bout was held at Swansea before a 20,000 crowd who strongly favored the home-town boy.

On the same card, Tommy Davies of Ammanford beat Tommy Smith of Merthyr over six rounds to take the middleweight championship of Wales.

Jim Brady, British and Empire bantamweight boxing king, turned down at $8,800 offer from a Newcastle syndicate whereby he was to fight Jackie Paterson of Glasgow, world flyweight champ at Newcastle-on-Tyne. Brady's management want such a fight—but in Glasgow and on a percentage of the gate.

Brady has applied to the boxing board for a contest with Nel Tarleton, 36 year old ringmaster who holds the British and Empire feather titles.

Old Nel, incidentally is slipping—sad to relate.

Petty Officer Ben Duffy, Royal Navy toughy, who has survived two torpedoings, pulled one of the ring surprises of the year by outpointing Nel over eight rounds at Nottingham. The champion took an eight-count in the second round and was hard-pressed to keep away from most of Duffy's two-fisted attack the rest of the distance.

A couple of bouts later, Ernie Roderick of Liverpool, holder of the title for which Flynn is a strong challenger, gained a comfortable decision over Tommy Davies of Wales over 10 rounds.

FO. David T. B. Leader, whose death on active service in a flying accident in Canada was announced here, was a son of the late Colledge Leader, one of Britain's greatest trainers of race horses. The elder Leader trained for Lord Derby.

York Has Good Chance To Top His 1937 Homer-Hitting Mark

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Canadian Sports Editor

Early this season the status of Rudolph Preston York as a hitter was such that he was being put in course, the big German-Irish-Indian first sacker of the Detroit Tigers continued to draw the smirks from exacting fans for his fielding habits.

Time changes everything, and so it has Rudy York. Time and his big bat.

Today, York is the No. 1 baseball figure. Every day the same fans who were belittling his hitting prowess eagerly scan the papers for the Tiger box score to see if Mr. York has hit another home run.

Holds Mark

York's on another home run spree and come Sept. 1 the terrific Tiger should have racked up a new record for a month's home run production.

As you probably know, York himself holds the present mark, 18 homers in a month.

It was back in August, 1937, that York, playing his first full season with the Tigers as a third baseman-catcher, banged out 18 homers for an all-time mark.

Beginning the week of Aug. 23, York had connected for 13 round-trippers. With several doubleheaders on the week's schedule, York seems like a sure bet to top his all-time mark.

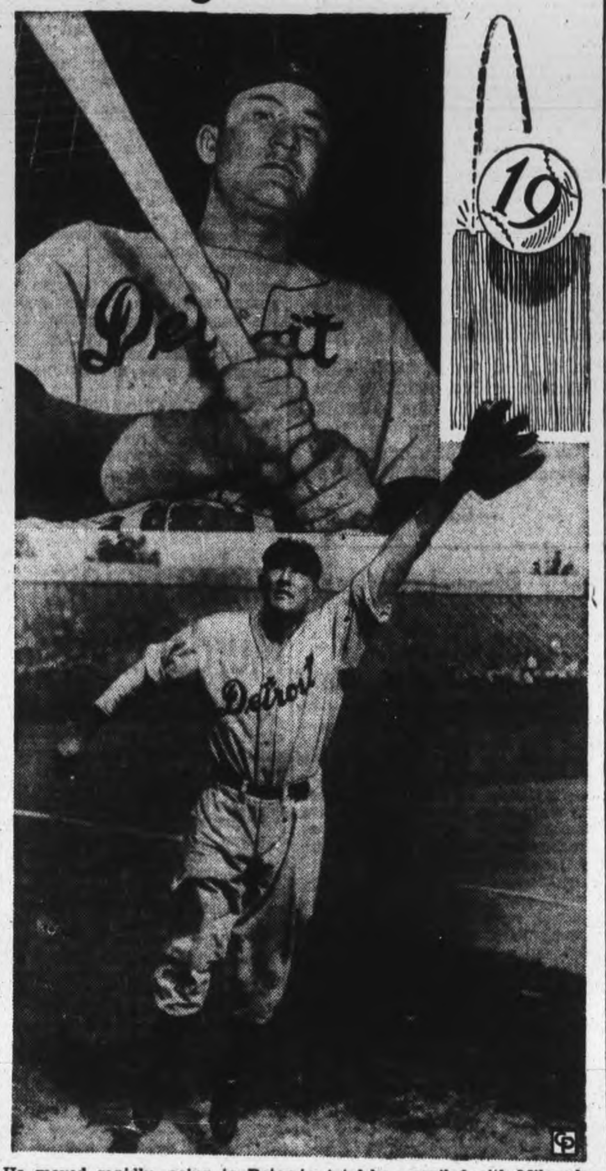
While York's baseball ability has been concentrated chiefly on his prowess at the plate, the Tiger first sacker also has been improving his fielding. At the present time he is on his way to a new major league record for assists for first basemen.

Other Honors

In addition to homers and assists, York also is in the race for runs-batted-in honors. In four of his seven years in the majors, the Tiger slugger has batted in 100 or more runs, his best figure being 134, made in 1940.

As for home run production, York now has 182 round-trippers in his major career. Prior to this season, he was fourth on the list of active homer hitters but should climb a couple of notches after the present season.

York began his pro career just 10 years ago, as an outfielder with Knoxville of the Southern league.



He moved rapidly, going to Baton Rouge, Beaumont, Fort Worth and Milwaukee before becoming a permanent member of the Detroit entourage.

His all-time homer record is 37, a total he compiled with Milwaukee in 1936. He hit 35 homers in his first season with the Tigers for his best mark in the majors. His present season's total is 26, which may mean he is headed for a new season's homer mark for himself.

Armstrong Ends Ring Career After Big Fight

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (AP) — The amazing ring saga of Henry Armstrong ended permanently at Madison Square Garden last night —and more's the pity it terminated amid boos and catcalls at the scene of some of his greatest triumphs.

The fabulous career of the 32-year-old former triple title holder came to grief against the flicking fists of youthful Ray "Sugar" Robinson who waltzed to an easy 10-round decision before 15,371. The gross gate was $60,789.31.

Armstrong retired once before in January, 1941, but changed his mind last year and started a comeback that has grossed him nearly $200,000 in 27 outings.

But after the drubbing he took in losing every round to Robinson, Henry didn't mince matters. He emphasized in the dressing room that he was hanging up his gloves for keeps.

"I'm through," he said wearily. "From now on I'll manage Cecil Hudson." Hudson, welterweight from Los Angeles, out-pointed Izzy Jannazzo, New York veteran, in a six-round preliminary.

The crowd, keen for the kill, didn't like Robinson's caution and booed lustily.

Scaling 140 pounds to Robinson's 145, Armstrong chased the Harlem youth from start to finish, but on only two occasions did he get close enough to land some good punches. His weaving tactics from a crouching position made Robinson miss repeatedly, but not enough to reduce his big lead on points.

Armstrong, who started fighting in 1932 and has engaged in approximately 300 fights, is the only man ever to hold three world titles — featherweight, lightweight and welterweight—at the same time. At one time he won 44 bouts in a row.

York Requires Four Homers

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

A tune most baseball fans would like to hear this week-end would be "The Broken Record" as rendered by Rudolph Preston York of Detroit Tigers. In August, 1937, the big Cherokee slugger hit 18 home runs, a record no other Major Leaguer has equalled, and he has been busy booming homers this month.

Time is closing in on the husky first sacker and now he has only three games in two days in which to get four homers and eclipse his previous performance.

This is not an impossible feat for York, and Sportsman's Park at St. Louis, where the Tigers are spending the week-end, is not an impossible barrier.

York was trying for the fence last night as Detroit opened the series and as the result was held hitless by Denny Galehouse while the Browns beat the Tigers 3-1.

In the only other American League game Cleveland Indians walloped Chicago White Sox 6-2 behind the six-hit hurling of Lefty Al Smith and moved closer to the second-place Washington Senators.

Two games also were played in the National League with the Cincinnati Reds edging out St. Louis Cardinals 3-2 and Chicago Cubs stopping the Pittsburg Pirates by the same score.

The Cards gave Bucky Walters some rough treatment in the first three innings, but after the fourth the veteran righthander allowed only one hit.

Claude Passeau held Pittsburg to five safeties and was given an early lead by his teammates.

Syracuse Chiefs Defeat Baltimore Orioles 8-2

(By The Associated Press)

Give Leo Miller enough cigars and he will wind up with a team in the International League playoffs.

His Syracuse Chiefs, candidates for the cellar championship early this season, right now are a healthy third-place outfit and give every indication of finishing in that position.

Miller, business manager of the club, spends most of his waking hours smoking big, black cigars and digging up the baseball players that develop into International League threats.

Last night his Chiefs dropped Baltimore Orioles, 8-2 in the Maryland city while defeating the Shaughnessy circuit's outstanding hurler, Ed Klieman. The verdict was the 18th for Tommy De La Cruz.

It was the only game played in the International League last night, Rochester-Buffalo game being postponed and the remaining four clubs having a scheduled vacation.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

One of the great right-handers of baseball, Jerome (Dizzy) Dean, was recalled by Chicago Cubs of the National League, three years ago today. Dean, who went to the Cubs from St. Louis Cardinals for $185,000, didn't stay long and turned from playing baseball to radio announcing.

Capt. J. O'Kelly Heads Can. Fire Chiefs

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 28 — (CP). — Capt. J. J. O'Kelly, Fire Marshal's Department, Canadian Army Headquarters, Ottawa, and Chief of the Ottawa Fire Department for seven years, Friday was elected president of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs as the 35th annual convention concluded.

He succeeds Chief Ernest Wood, York Township.

On Sunday, August 29, Capt. O'Kelly will complete 33 years' service with the Ottawa Department and will be superannuated. He has been on leave of absence for the past year serving with the Fire Marshal's Office and in September he will be retired from the Canadian Army.

Capt. O'Kelly's position as first vice-president was taken by Chief W. L. Andrews, Sudbury, and in the election for the second vice-president, Chief W. J. S. Walsh, Campbellton, N.B., defeated Chief Dan Boulden, Winnipeg. Chief James Armstrong, who assisted in the formation of the Ontario Fire Chiefs' Association in 1909 and in the Dominion organization in 1915 was re-elected secretary-treasurer for his 29th term.

Gimblett Reports.

Appointed to the board of directors were Chief Angus Michie, of Lachine, Que., Chief W. C. Moffatt, Regina, and Gordon Hall, Bilateral Hose Co., Kitchener.

A recommendation was placed before the executive that National Selective Service be requested to adopt legislation to provide for the deferment of key firemen who have been attached to a department prior to September 1, 1939, and that firemen be "frozen" to their jobs except for enlistment in the Armed Forces and service as firemen in war industries.

In addition the Legislation Committee report, presented by Chief George Gimblett, Peterborough, proposed that "a priority rating be granted for new firemen sufficiently high to enable Fire Departments to recruit men who have been turned down by the Armed Forces and who are under the age of 35 years, but who are still reasonably fit."

Having largely overcome the problem of bringing tea supplies from Ceylon and India the ration board has been quick to give relief to the Canadian consumer. Commencing September 2nd, two two-ounce coupons may be used every three weeks instead of four. Good supplies of 'SALADA', Canada's favourite tea will be available in all grocery stores.

Aerial Evacuation Of Injured

Here is the latest word in aerial evacuation equipment. Fitted to accommodate 18 stretcher cases, this huge transport plane was recently used to transport eleven R.C.A.F. casualties from the Hospital Ship which brought them to an Eastern Canadian port to the hospital at the R.C.A.F. station at Rockliffe, near Ottawa. Stretchers can be seen, ranged along each side, and Nursing Sister Isobel Hardwick of Armada, Alta., who accompanied the patients on their flight, is seen talking to her charges. The aircraft, used for other duties as well, can be fitted for this work in a very short time.

50,000 Pairs Of Shoes Ordered To Be Sent To Greek Children

MONTREAL, Aug. 28. — Urgent calls from Greece for atabrine, a quinine substitute, to combat malaria, which has increased from 25 to 100 per cent in some sections of the Nazi-occupied country, have led the Greek War Relief Fund to order all atabrine tables available in Canada. The fund has also ordered 50,000 pairs of shoes for Greek children between 7 and 14 years.

Drawing on $1,000,000 generously subscribed by Canadians in the recent country-wide appeal, executives of the Greek War Relief Fund have budgeted $150,000 for the children's shoes; $50,000 a month for food parcels for Greek prisoners of war, $23,000 a month for cod liver oil, and in addition, the sum that may be needed to buy the atabrine which is very difficult to obtain.

George Ganetakos, national president of the fund, and B. C. Salamis, national secretary, explained to-day what the fund is doing in Greek relief. Their statement:

"Mr. Jackson Dodds, president of the Canadian Red Cross Society and campaign chairman of our fund, has received from Prince Karl of Sweden, president of the Swedish Red Cross, an appeal both for the atabrine tablets and for the children's shoes. M. George Pasta, Greek Minister to Canada in Ottawa, has received an equally urgent appeal for atabrine from the Greek Red Cross in London.

"This anti-malaria remedy has been difficult to obtain because so much is needed for Allied roops tin the tropics. Since January we have been able to procure only 50 per cent of our requirements. Recently American Red Cross sent 500,000 tablets, and now that agency is working on another half-million for the Canadian Red Cross, which acts as purchasing agent for the Greek War Relief Fund. We will take all we can get and ship without delay.

"The Swedish-Swiss Commission, distributing relief in Greece, has warned that children there must have shoes before winter comes, or they will perish. They have to wait in bitter weather at the soup kitchens and food distribution centres. The Fund, therefore, has asked the Canadian Red Cross to buy for it 50,000 pairs of shoes for little Greeks between the ages of 7 and 14; average cost will be $3.00 a pair or less, and we are prepared to spend $150,000 on this emergency.

"Regularly each month, we are buying from the Canadian Red Cross 20,000 food parcels at $2.50 each for Greek soldiers in hospital, with preference accorded tuberculosis cases and amputations. That requires a monthly expenditure of $50,000.

"Each month, too, 20 tons of Canadian cod liver oil go to Greece. The Canadian Fund has budgeted $23,000 a month for that item; sometimes, however, American relief agencies serving Greece ask us to let them have the monthly consignment so that our Fund is not spending $23,000 each month for cod liver oil.

"This statement is made so that Canadians, who have shown so magnificently their sympathy for Greece, may know how their contributions are being spent. It is our intention periodically to render account in this fashion for the complete information of our supporters.

Mess Room Chatter

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Aug. 28—(CP). — Good athletes make good fliers, they say, and Canada's fighting airmen provide plenty of proof for the theory.

There's Charles Semple for example. A young Toronto athlete of more than average ability, he rose from a sergeant pilot in a Canadian Spitfire squadron to be officer commanding a fighter unit with the rank of squadron leader —and all in a few months.

Chuck, besides being a great fighter pilot, served his squadron with great distinction on the hockey rink last winter and is one of its outstanding softball performers.

To mention a couple more prominent airmen — athletes, there are Flt. Lt. D. M. (Bitsy) Grant of Watrous, Sask., and FO. Frank Hanton of Kenora, Ont. Two of the allied force's leading trainbusters, "they are standout ice performers and resort to all kinds of sport in their spare time as a means of keeping their shooting eyes well attuned."

Hanton had a budding career with Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League nipped through entry into the air force.

Little Hec Creighton of Toronto who blew a mighty whistle in Canadian senior rugby for 15 years, keeps a sharp eye for footballers these days — but only for the purpose of giving a cheery "hello."

Hec holds the rank of flight lieutenant with the air force auxiliary servises and travels extensively throughont the Canadian bomber group.

"I'm constantly running into footballers, many of whom I don't recognize," Hec said. "A lot of them are youngsters who often step up and introduce themselves."

Hec also had a good word for the energy that Cpl. Bobby Bauer, one-time Boston Bruin Kraut line member from Kitchener, Ont., put into his air force duties over here.

Another well-known figure in the Canadian football picture to be found in an overseas setting is Flt. Lt. M. S. Lynch, who as Father Lynch of St. Michael's college at Toronto was president of the Ontario Rugby Football Union. He is with the R.C.A.F. padre service.

A fellow whose name is a household word in North American skiing circles, FO. Doug Mann of Montreal and Toronto, spent a recent leave pumping a bicycle through Scotland.

Always attracted by big hills, the former McGill University racer and intercollegiate champion found no lack of scope because "It seems I was forever pushing that bike uphill."

W.I. Plans Layette For Red Cross

MILLBROOK, Aug. 28 (ENS).—The Women's Institute held its August meeting Wednesady evening, with the president, Mrs. Delbert Olan, in the chair, and a number of visitors in attendance by invitation, in view of the special feature of the program — a demonstration of a variety of brushes and cleaning fluids by Mrs M. Heigh, of Peterborough.

The treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Hilton reported a balance on hand in the general fund of $8.59; in the special fund, $26.45; and in the Red Cross fund $3.97. From the sale of tickets on the luncheon set donated by the president, $9.10 was brought in and more may be expected from this source; the draw was made by little Glenna Sloan and Mrs. Henry Blakely held the lucky number. Donations to the jam fund were received, $5 having been remitted for this purpose, since locally the making of jam for the soldiers cannot readily be done.

The short course on Accident Prevention in the Home will be at Millbrook on Tuesday, September 7, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., with Miss Helen Gardiner of the Department of Agriculture, Toronto, as the instructress; the general public is cordially invited to take advantage of this course. Those coming from outside will bring lunch with them, and boiling water will be provided for tea. On motion it was decided to make another layette for the Red Cross individual members to start work immediately; September meeting to be at Mrs. D. Lunn's home, the 8 p.m. with Mrs. H. M. Trick taking charge of the program, historical research being the theme of study.

Mrs. D. L. Lunn, hostess for the evening, introduced Mrs. Heigh, and later was presented with a covered pyrex dish for her courtesy in sponsoring the programme while the prize in the contest was won by Mrs. H. Stevens, of Trenton, Mrs. J. H. Barringer's guest. Mrs. Stevens succeeded in naming thirteen of the twenty articles placed on a plate and passed round for observation, the test then being from memory. Mrs. Hilton won th door prize when the names were drawn, receiving a pyrex pie plate. The demonstration Mrs. Heigh gave was of much interest; she was assisted by her daughter, Miss Lillian, and generously donated all but ten per cent of the orders received to the Institute's funds.

Unusual Escape At Kingston 105 Years Ago

TORONTO, Aug. 28 — (CP). — One hundred and five years ago the most sensational jail break in Canadian history took place at Fort Henry, Kingston from which 19 German prisoners escaped on Thursday night.

In 1838 John Montgomery, owner of the Yonge Street Tavern from which the rebel William Lyon Mackenzie, grandfather of Canada's present Prime Minister fled from police, escaped from Fort Henry with 11 other prisoners involved in the rebellion.

Under Montgomery's leadership the party made good their escape after a series of adventures with guards and others who scoured the country searching for them. The men had been condemned to death but their sentences had been changed to exile in Van Dieman's land.

During the First Great War a party of seven German prisoners tunneled under the old moat which surrounds the fort but when they believed escape was only minutes away they found they had tunnelled to a solid wall.

Judge Defers Murder Verdict

NASSAU, Bahamas, Aug. 28 — (CP).—Alfred De Marigny remained silent Friday when he was asked whether he had any comment to make on the charge against him that he murdered his millionaire father-in-law, Sir Harry Oakes.

Magistrate F. E. Field asked the question as the prosecution ended its testimony in a preliminary hearing which was opened July 12, four days after Sir Haarry's bludgeoned and burned body was found at his estate here.

"Anything you say may be used against you at the trial," Field warned.

Defence Counsel Godfrey Higgs interposed with the request that he be allowed to produce one witness for De Marigny, Dr. Ulrich Oberwarth, who he said may not be here in October—the earliest date that a trial could be held.

Field ruled that Higgs would have to give the prosecution notice of his request, and recessed the hearing until next Tuesday without rendering a decision.

The Magistrate must decide whether the prosecution has produced sufficient evidence to warrant holding De Marigny for trial by jury.

The final prosecution witness, John Herbert Anderson, managing director of the Bahamas General Trust, said De Marigny appeared "incredulous" when he was informed that Sir Harry was dead.

Woolton Saves Food Say Attack Near

LONDON, Aug. 28.—(CP).—Food Minister Lord Woolton told a meeting at Bolton yesterday he is building up reserves labelled "food for attack." For this reason, he said, he has no intention of increasing food rations at present.

Lord Woolton said nothing is so gratifying as the way in which the people of the British Commonwealth have expressed their urgent desire to make personal food sacrifices in order that the people of Britain "be sustained in their endeavour and fortitude."

"From Canada we have had wheat —as much as we could carry," he said. "The people of Canada have gone without bacon in order that we might have it, and scanty as is the amount of bacon the individual in this country has, we only maintained that ration with the greatest difficulty. Had it not been for the people of Canada we should long since have been without."

The Flying Ambulance

Seen above is one of the giant twin-motored transport planes being used by the R.C.A.F. for casualty transportation. The machine is fitted to accommodate 18 stretcher cases and has all facilities necessary for work of this kind. Recently, a plane of this type was used to transport 11 R.C.A.F. casualties from the Hospital Ship at an Eastern Canadian port to Rockliffe R.C.A.F. station hospital, near Ottawa. The ship carries trained medical personnel, usually a doctor and a nurse, and when not in use as an ambulance can be fitted for normal transport work in a very few hours. Here an ambulance is seen drawn up beside the open doors of the ship ready to rush the injured to hospital.

Court Of Inquiry Probes Escape

KINGSTON, Aug. 28.—(CP). — The 19 prisoners who escaped from Fort Henry Thursday night made their way out through a "well-planned tunneling job," an official at the prison camp said yesterday. Nine of the men were recaptured by noon Friday.

"A court of inquiry will be convened immediately to investigate the escape," the official said. A number of previous tunneling attempts were discovered by guards, he remarked, adding: "You can't pitch a no-run game in this guarding of prisoners. They are ingenious and we are bound by certain restrictions which prevent us unearthnig some of their attempts at escape."

Prison camp authorities report that it was "a clean break from the inside" and that the prisoners had no help from outsiders. Those recaptured were still in prison garb with a large red circle on the back of the blue denim uniforms.

"Everything is peaceful at the prison camp—no disturbances of any sort," Capt. F. H. Wooding, Public Relations Officer at Fort Henry, told reporters. "The search is thoroughly organized and we believe the rest of those who escaped will be picked up before long."

Canadians In Berlin Air Raid

OTTAWA, Aug. 28—(CP)—Last Monday's 1,700-ton air attack on Berlin was the major single operation for Canadian airmen overseas during the past week—but the week was one which saw fighter squadrons more active that bomber units.

A number of squadrons of heavy bombers from the R.C.A.F. bomber group took part in the raid against the German capital, said the weekly Air Force communique covering overseas operations.

"There was comparatively little flak but many belts of searchlights in and around the city co-operated with enemy night fighters which were up in great strength. Many combats between bombers and fighters took place and at least 12 of the latter were destroyed.

"Crews tell of huge fires, of several big explosions and of smoke three miles high. A heavy pall of smoke was still rising above the city when a reconnaissance plane flew over to take photographs the following morning."

During the week ended noon yesterday the R.C.A.F. lost eight bombers and three fighters. Besides the enemy aircraft shot down in last Monday's Berlin raid—the communique did not say how many were destroyed by Canadian fliers — R.C.A.F. aircraft shot down eight planes.

Continuous Work Features Aid For War Victims

One of the finer things that might be said of the help that the residents of this city and district have been giving to those who have suffered through air raid attacks over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, is that this help has been kept up on a daily basis ever since the fund began to operate.

In a district of this size, this is a remarkable achievemtnt, but it would have long ceased to continue on that basis, had it not been for the fact that many individuals and groups have caught the vision, and realized the necessity of keeping up the good work until the need no longer existed.

With other very important matters occupying the attention of the people of Britain in the prosecution of the war, there can be little hope of re-establishing those who have lost their homes through air raid attacks, and many will have to continue to live in temporary domiciles for some time until the main objective has been realized, in itself a sufficient reason why the fund should endeavor to keep up the flow of help that has been going from this city and district for over two and a half years.

Since the early part of this year, the Industrial Control Department of the Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. of which P. Killingbeck is the foreman, has been taking up a collection every Saturday morning to give a helping hand for the objects the fund seeks to serve, by which means they have been able to make five donations this year, the first of which was recorded on February 16, and their latest in an amount of $18.15 today, giving them a total credit in that time of $85.19.

This is a very good example of the continuous work which has been helping the people of Britain, and lives up to the true British tradition for steadfastness in seeing a thing through to the bitter end when the cause they seek to serve is one for the common good.

One personal donation for $5.00 is listed today from "E.T." who has given in like manner on former occasions to the fund.

Bridgenorth Primary Class

Another splendid example of this continuous help which stands almost in a class of its own, is brought to light through a further donation from the Primary Sunday School class taught by Mrs. W. J. Robinson at Bridgenorth United church Sunday School.

This class comprises very young children aged 6 and 7 years, and they started giving to the fund on August 30, 1941, from which time they have kept steadily on at the good work, sending money in at most regular intervals, which for children of such tender age is indeed something for which they deserve high praise.

High Praise For 'Classified'

A reproduction of a recent Examiner classified "ad" page is used as an illustration of good practice and style in an article published in the July issue of Canadian Printer and Publisher written by George M. Cootes. It is cited by the author as an outstanding example of what can be done constructively with classified on a provincial paper. per.

"H. L. Garner was classified manager of The London Free Press and naturally had a flair for securing this type of business. I am convinced," Mr. Cootes comments, "that the Examiner's classified page to-day is one of the most interesting pages of his paper. It proves that if a publisher will take a long range view on this want "ad" development and not lose patience in the process, results of volume can be achieved."

Stoker 1st Class William E. Brooks, son of Mrs. A. L. Brooks of 560 Charlotte street, is home enjoying a 28-day leave from sea duty.

Now only 19 years old, Stoker Brooks enlisted in the Royal Canadian Navy in April, 1942, and went to sea for the first time last September. Assigned to convoy duty in the North Atlantic, he has seen plenty of service in the stiff little corvettes which are Canada's own ingenious answer to the perils of submarine warfare in getting the goods carried by merchant ships across the ocean.

"The corvette is a bit rocky," Stoker Brooks admitted. In rough weather, he said, it can be drenched from stem to stern with waves, and he has taken pictures of his ship showing it caked in ice from deck to masthead after battling through a heavy storm in winter.

But he likes the spirit of a small ship where, with a ship's company of only 85 men, a feeling of informality and friendliness prevails.

From Halifax and Newfoundland, from New York and other ports he has made numerous trips across the ocean with his ship on escort duty, and has seen vessels fall prey to torpedoes from the subs.

Starting off as a 2nd Class stoker, he has reached his present grade and is ambitious to become a stoker petty officer, for which he will take a course next winter. The technical training he receives he feels sure will be of value to him after the war. Prior to enlistment he worked at the C.G.E. in the porcelain department and later in the payroll department.

Of his leaves ashore in foreign ports, Stoker Brooks did not hesitate to say that he has had some good times. To New York especially he took a sailor's fancy, and he has explored the charms of Broadway and taken part in the fun at the famous Stage Door Canteen.

He has a brother, Romauld, who is with the R.C.A.F.

Farmers Urge Check On Sale Of Sows

Alarmed by the number of sows that are being sent to market since the season's crop of grain became a definite disappointment, members of the Federation of Agriculture here last night affirmed that something should be done at once and officially to check this trend away from the volume of production required for the British bacon contract.

Some farmers have been inclined to throw up their hands since the grain harvest declined to a point that has been demanding purchasing feed grain from the west, and the situation has been decidedly disturbing to men like the members of the Federation who generally try to take both a broad and long view of their industry and its future.

The Federation is asking for some positive action that will stop this increasing flow of pigs to the stockyards.

The executive last night also discussed plans for a complete canvass of the county to explain to ratepayers the proposed one-fifth of a mill levy for the purpose of financing the Federation in this county and also in contribution to the provincial and Dominion association.

Township chairmen are being appointed who are expected to direct an organiaztion through every school section as a preliminary of information regarding the fairness and sufficiency of this tax plan as it has been suggested from constituent branches of the Federation and also generally endorsed by the central executives.

Corn was 30 and 35 cents a dozen, and tomatoes 50 cents the 11 quart basket. Cauliflowers were unchanged at 20 and 25 cents a head. Eggs were firm at 45 to 48 cents, and even the pullet size was up to 35 cents a dozen as compared with 30 cents quoted generally last week. Chickens were 37 and 38 cents a pound, and roasted chickens ready for the table were 50 cents a pound.

The market opened earlier than usual, and moved briskly through the morning. Huckleberries were $1.50 and $1.75 a basket.

Gordon Heads Committee On Annexation

Alderman Gordon was appointed chairman of the joint committee of representatives of the city and North Monaghan who were appointed to consider the preliminaries to proposed annexation.

City Clerk Outram informed the Examiner today that this first meeting was marked by goodwill and harmony, and discussion seemed to minimize some of the expected difficulties as the members actually began scrutiny of them.

No concrete progress has been made yet, but the impression from the meeting was that the intentions of the committee were quite distinctly concerned about rights of ratepayers, their desires and benefits, and also of the extent to which the two municipalities will be affected.

Ed. FitzGerald Laid To Rest

A funeral service for Lord Edward FitzGerald was sung this morning at St. Peter's Cathedral, of which he was a benefactor. Mr. FitzGerald, for many years Regional Land Surveyor for the Canadian National Railways, stationed at Toronto, died here on Tuesday after an illness of several years duration.

Last of his generation of one of Peterborough's oldest families, and one which practiced land surveying here for two generations, Mr. FitzGerald was widely known throughout the province of Ontario, his work taking him periodically to all parts of the province, particularly to the northern part. He was responsible for acquiring much land for the account of the C.N.R. when new right of ways were being laid out or building construction.

Born in Rochester, N.Y., Mr. FitzGerald, who was 58 at his death, was a son of the late James William FitzGerald, O.L.S., C.E., and was graduated from McGill University, Montreal, in 1913, entering the employ of the Grand Trunk Railway shortly afterwards and continuing in his position when the road became a part of the C.N.R. He was forced to leave his position because of ill health about seven years ago, and lived in retirement up to his death.

Celebrant of the funeral mass this morning was Rev. Fr. A. Malane; the service at the graveside was conducted by Rev. Fr. A. G. Wolfe. Pallbearers were: F. Shewell, F. J. Hickey, W. J. Grady, Arthur Clydesdale, Dr. R. A. Sheehy and E. G. Wolfe.

S. G. Smith represented the Land Survey and Legal Departments of the C.N.R., Toronto, at the funeral. Also representing the railway was J. J. Corkery.

Attending the funeral from out of the city were: G. J. FitzGerald, Montreal, a nephew; George McDonald and Mrs. F. Stephany, Rochester, N.Y., cousins; and George Langley, Montreal.

Henry said that his automobile was travelling around 15 miles an hour.

Board Rejects Space In New City Hall

The Board of Education at a special meeting on Friday night decided it would not require space for administration offices in the proposed City Hall. The meeting was called to deal with a letter sent the Board by the special committee of the City Council formed to make plans for the erection of the City Hall, and this committee had requested the Board if it would require space in the new building.

Seven members were present and the issue was only decided on Chairman Dr. C. M. Scott's vote. The motion of H. G. Walker and Fred Reed that the city be notified that the Board would not require the space was supported by D. V. Canning, while those opposed were T. J. Carley, K.C., Alex Sollitt, and G. Wilson Craw. It rested then with Chairman Scott, and he voted for the motion.

Those favoring the motion argued that the present old South Central School building was in good shape, it had been well fitted up and equipped for modern administration offices, and would in all probability suit the needs of the Peterborough Board for years. They also questioned the advisability of occupying offices more or less as tenants.

In opposing the motion the three members questioned the suitability of the old building in a number of years and were of the opinion that the city should be asked to provide space in the new building. They pointed out that the building was up nearly 100 years, and while considerable money had been spent in providing suitable accommodation, the Board should look ahead to the future needs.

Seven-Point Foreign Policy Program For Canada Outlined

GENEVA PARK, Ont., Aug. 28—(CP). — Although recent elections show "great division" in Canada, it is to be hoped that the "great majority" of Canadians see that there interest lies in supporting a seven-point Canadian foreign policy, Brooke Claxton, parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, said here last night in an address prepared for delivery to the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs.

He said Canadian foreign policy — as declared by Prime Minister King and other leaders— involved winning the war; promotion of friendship between Great Britain and the United States, and their association with the Soviet Union and China in leading the United Nations.

The Dominion's foreign policy objectives also included the establishment when possible of the organization of the United Nations —support for the organization of force against aggression; the defence of Great Britain and this continent; the creation of measures to promote trade, and the provision to nations of representation on administrative boards.

Were a clearly defined foreign policy lacking, there could be no unity in a nation, Mr. Claxton added. Canada has a "vital interest" in the friendship and cooperation of Britain and the United States.

There would be "disaster" after the war should Canada be unable to obtain American dollars to maintain her trade position. That could happen were Britain to adopt a bilateral trading policy, or if the United States adopted a policy of self-sufficiency.

The functional basis of representation was a compromise between representation of all nations, great and small, and domination by a few great powers. Under functional representation, those nations would be represented which could contribute most to the particular object being sought.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. asked for a week's remand for sentence so that the police might look up the accused record.

Object To Draw

KITCHENER — (CP) — Inter-County Baseball Association officials Friday objected to the play-off draw in the minor series of the Ontario Baseball Association. Under the new setup, Inter-county juvenile, midget and bantam champions would be faced with the necessity of playing three series to win the championship in each of the three divisions. Against that, Niagara District Association clubs would be playing two series and Toronto representatives would contest only the finals.

To Win at Dances Learn More Steps

Diagram Shows Gay Rumba Step

Having a glorious time at a dance depends so much on your being sure of the steps!

When you can REALLY rumba—not just follow the basic step but turns like La Habana, too—the best dancers seek you out! And you can easily follow these steps with dance diagrams.

Come, try La Habana Turn from our diagram—it's so simple! Get that rumba rhythm, 1 AND 2, 3 AND 4, into your hips and—on Count 1—take a short step back on left foot; AND—take a short step back on right foot; 2—take a short step back on left foot and pause for half a beat.

Counts 3 AND 4, repeat Counts 1 AND 2, starting with the right foot, and continue until the circle is completed.

Sway your hips whenever you transfer weight from one foot to the other, in the direction of the step—but smoothly, subtly!

Our 32-page booklet tells how to carry yourself, how to move your feet in every popular dance. Gives footprint diagrams, explains rhythm of rumba, Conga, tango, fox-trot, Westchester, waltz steps.

For your copy of HOME COURSE IN NEW BALLROOM DANCES send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Millbrook Women Get Ration Books

MILLBROOK, Aug. 28 (ENS).—The new ration books were given out at the Town Hall on Wednesday from 1 to 9 p.m., and will again be distributed on Friday, August 27, at the same hours. Mrs. Franklin Bannister was in charge of the distribution, and with Mrs. T. A. Campbell, acted also as examiner, seeing that all cards were filled in correctly before the applicants went on to the recorders to receive their new books. Acting as recorders were Mrs. W. W. Kennedy, Mrs. P. Handley, Mrs. Edmund Hall, Misses Jean Burnham, Ethel Belch, and Muriel Smith. Approximately 710 books were given out, a little over half the total of 1,275 at the last distribution; the number will likely be the same by Friday evening. Millbrook, Cavan, Ida, and Bethany are the distributing centres.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

PROTECT THE SITUATION

THERE IS no point in playing a hand in a way which requires that the six missing cards of a suit be evenly divided between defenders—that is, unless there is no more likely way to make your contract. If there is a method which will work if the six hostile cards are divided four-and-two between the opponents, that is by all odds a better chance to work for. This may entail ruffing a round of the suit as a safety play, and that incidentally may necessitate having an extra entry in the dummy. If the entry can consist only of the third round of trumps, it may be better to take only two trump tricks in the beginning and save the third for later on.

West		North / South		East
		♠A K 9 8 4 ♥Q J 7 ♦9 2 ♣10 8 3
♠7 6 ♥8 6 5 ♦K 8 4 ♣A K Q 9		N W E S		♠J 10 3 2 ♥3 2 ♦Q J 7 5 3 ♣5 2
		♠Q 5 ♥A K 10 9 4 ♦A 10 6 ♣J 6 4

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	1♥	2♣	2♠
Pass	3♥	Pass	4♥

After East ruffed the third round of clubs so as to make a diamond lead through the declarer, South had to take all of the remaining tricks. He should have, but was too much of an optimist, or else too careless, and as a consequence was set.

Deciding to discard his own losing diamonds on spades, he won the diamond Q with the A, disposed of all the outstanding trumps with the Q, A and K, and then went to work on the spades, taking first the Q and then the A and K. West discarded on the K, however, a small club, and this left East holding the high spade. South therefore was able to get no diamond discard except the one on that spade K trick, so had to lose the setting trick in diamonds.

How easy the contract would have been if South had protected himself against the probable four-two break in spades. After winning the diamond A, he should have taken only two trump rounds, then the spade Q and A, then ruffed a third spade with a high heart. After that, he could have returned to dummy with the heart J and scored the other spades, discarding both of his own diamonds and leaving himself no losers.

Your Week-End Lesson

Do you know the definite provisions of the new Laws of Contract Bridge on these before-the-bidding matters:

1. Reclaiming your own pack when an opponent has used it?
2. Changing the dealer or the pack?
3. When there cannot be a new deal?
4. When a new deal is optional during the deal?

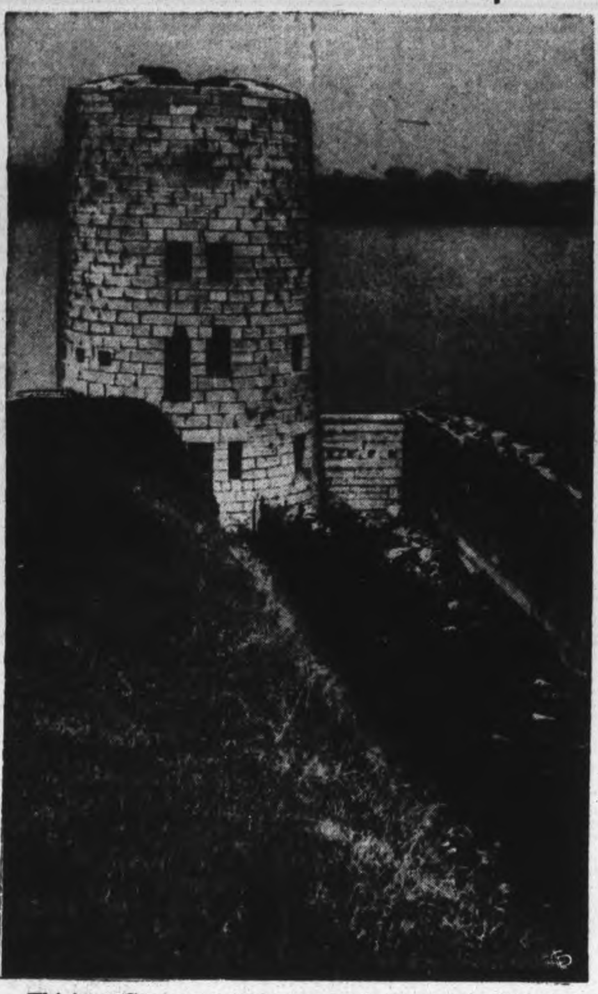
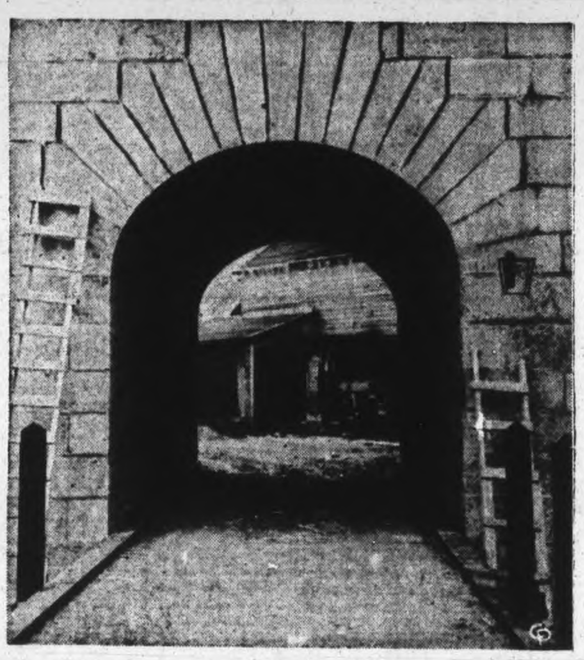
Nineteen German Prisoners Escape From Old Fort Henry, Kingston





Thirteen German prisoners, who took part in the mass escape from Fort Henry at Kingston, have been captured, leaving six still at large. LEFT, ABOVE, is the massive old gun tower connected to the main fort by a deep trench leading between earthwork and the stone wall. At the RIGHT is an aerial view of the Fort Henry prison camp. The belief of camp officials is that the 19 escaped Germans tunnelled their way under the heavy stone walls into an abandoned sewer and through this sewer into Kingston harbor. BELOW is the main gate of the fort showing the drawbridge.

Draftees To Go To New Posts; Bahamas, Alaska

OTTAWA, Aug. 28 (C)—Sending of additional call-up troops to Newfoundland and Labrador, Bermuda, the Bahamas, Jamaica, British Guiana, Alaska and the United States is authorized in an order in council dated Aug. 11 and made public here today.

Previously the sending of some troops called up under the National Resources Mobilization Act to these areas was approved.

The latest order says additional personnel are required and gives Defence Minister Ralston authority to send home-defence troops to units serving in these territories "as from time to time he deems necessary having regard to the military exigencies of the moment."

The order is thus a general authorization and differs from some of the previous orders which covered only particular movements of members of particular units.

Associated Press admitted "considerable damage to Salerno," and claimed Italian fighters shot down six Allied planes, the Germans bagged seven more, while three others were downed by anti-aircraft guns).

The heavy bombers concentrated their attack on Sulmona, vital link in Italy's east coast rail line extending down to the heel and toe, in 12 minutes, dropping many tons of high explosives on the freight yards, munition stores, locomotive sheds, repair shops, warehouses, railway cars and the station.

Many explosions rose from what bomber crewmen believed was a loaded train, and fires crackled in the target area.

The Wellingtons unloaded two-ton blockbusters on the Salerno yards crewmen reported "excellent concentration" of explosives on the target.

The entire length of the Benvento railroad yards was straddled by bombs from the medium bombers, with other explosives striking the locomotive works.

One formation of medium bombers destroyed 11 Messerschmitt 109s and two Italian fighters. Another formation got three Messerschmitts.

Set Off Explosions

R.A.F. and American medium bombers teamed up for their longest journey over Italian soil to hammer the road and rail junction of Catanzaro, the bottleneck linking the east and west coastal transportation systems in the centre of the toe of Italy. With Kittyhawk escorts they raked the road north of the town, and set off big explosions, going over in four separate formations. Ground fire was intense, but they met no fighters.

Three other Boston formations bombed gun positions and strongpoints at Reggio Calabria.

These two attacks were only part of a series of blows dealt yesterday in the heaviest raids of the northwest Africa tactical air force since Messina's fall.

Dive-bombers destroyed a railroad junction at Sibari, and also hit the freight yards in the west coast ports of Paola and Cetraro. Seven direct hits were scored on repair shops at Paola and a train with 15 cars was set afire.

Today's communique said it had now been established that the naval vessel attacked by invaders off Italy Tuesday was not a cruiser but a smaller warship. One pilot set the ship afire, and blew off its stern.

(A German broadcast recorded by the Associated Press claimed Nazi bombers raiding Algiers harbor Thursday night hit one warship and seven transports. Yesterday's Allied communique reported this attack, but said there was only slight damage.)

Fall Term
PETERBOROUGH BUSINESS COLLEGE LTD.
Tuesday, Sept. 7

It is important this year that enrolments be made earlier than usual. Our office is open daily for consultation. Phone 4861 for appointment.

Business firms and the Government need capable stenographers and accountants. Young people can serve their country by preparing for office positions, and when the war is over will likely hold these positions. Rather important, is it not?

and Canadian bombers struck, sixteen planes were lost in that attack, but all R.C.A.F. aircraft returned safely.

Important Centre.

The city, in addition to being a railway junction, is one of the most important strategic points in Germany's electrical supply system and an industrial centre whose factories produce Diesel engines for submarines and tanks. Nazi party rallies are held there in peace-time.

German radio stations, including Deutschlandsender, which serves the Berlin area, went off the air around midnight. The Daily Sketch said listeners reported that only Australian and Czech stations were on the air at 1 a.m.

The British and Canadian attack started shortly after dusk when large formations of heavy bombers escorted by R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Spitfires, returned from attacks on German airfields and factories in occupied Europe.

Dawn was breaking when the last of the R.A.F. and Canadian bombers crossed the Straits on their return trip. As they roared back for two hours, fierce anti-aircraft fire was sent up by the Germans from the French side of the channel.

Germans Very Jittery.

One eye-witness from a high spot on the English coast said the Germans appeared to be putting up everything they had and seemed "very jittery."

Returning fliers from the daylight raids reported 16 Nazi fighter panes were downed and that four bombers and seven Allied fighters were lost. All Canadian planes checked in safely, however.

The Flying Fortress attack was the second of the day by American planes. Earlier in the day R.A.F. medium Marauders, covered by R.C.A.F. Siptfires, attacked the Nazi flying field at Poix, in France. Two German fighters were shot down.

Other R.A.F. warplanes struck at targets in France yesterday. Mustangs damaged several locomotives in Brittany and an enemy ship off the coast of Dunkirk. Bombers dropped mines in enemy waters and Boston bombers, escorted by Typhoons, bombed a power plant at Gosnay.

van, at present Vicar Capitular of Peterborough Diocese. The author speaks of the kindness of his brother priests. I make his words my own:

"That kindness has endured throughout the years, has been one of my great supports in the labors of the ministry, and has personally convinced me of what is generally acknowledged, that, apart altogether from its Divine mission, the priesthood is the most wonderful brotherhood in the world."

I shall soon become part of, for me, a new section of that priestly brotherhood; but I cannot forget the old. For, here I first experienced the love of brotherhood among priests, and here I shared, in a small way, in the work of trying to make the spirit of Christian fellowship manifest in the every-day life of the people. These efforts were not without much anxiety and some misgivings, especially in the beginning. It was therefore with great joy that the approval of the Holy See of these efforts was received in 1939. Moreover, the Holy Father's recent Encyclical, Mystici Corporis, has made a deep impression on us all, and we are inspired by his statement that the Doctrine of the Mystical Body of Christ is "The sound irrefutable teaching for all those who will build the world of tomorrow, for all the leaders who will be called upon to re-establish, through the spirit of God, what has been demolished through the spirit of destruction." There is no general spirit of destruction for the sake of destruction alone. There is, however, a spirit of selfishness that destroys—destroys first the fellowship of the Christian life concerning which the Encyclical deals, and even the fellowship which is based on the natural law. This spirit of selfishness was exerting its destructive force universally before the war. World war and universal chaos are but its logical climax. The Holy Father has given us the key to the future. It is our special privilege and duty in these times to use it for the welfare of the Church and of Society.

Dear Reverend Fathers of the Diocese of Antigonish, to you I say, in conclusion, a thousand thanks for all you have been to me, and for all you have done for me. Though separated from you, henceforth, by distance, I will remain with you always "In fraternitatis amore."

Stresses Value Of Kiwanis To Men Today

Emphasizing the personal benefits to be derived from membership in Kiwanis, John Troke, Lt. Governor of the Kiwanis Club in this district and himself a member of the Peterborough Club, addressed Kiwanians at luncheon Friday on the "Aims, Ideals and Benefits of Kiwanis."

He said that the cost of membership was many times outweighed by the values and advantages, both tangible and intangible, that a man's membership would give him. "The one big business in life is to live," Mr. Troke declared, and happiness would result from the development of the individual, for which Kiwanis stood.

Increasing one's understanding of human nature, knowing people and making friends, were among the inestimable services that Kiwanis performed for its members, the speaker said. For many a man it meant the loss of a forlorn feeling of loneliness and aloofness and an increase of self-confidence that went far to justify the assertion that membership could not be valued in dollars and cents.

Speaking of the aims and ideals of its work, Mr. Troke said that Kiwanis stood for service, brotherhood and tolerance, and that in joining the club a man was subscribing to the highest ideals and yet ideals that were practical, in every sense.

The work of the organization in each community was kept attuned to the vital needs of that community, and whatever was most needed—whether vocational training, care of orphans, provisions for underprivileged children or a host of other possible needs—it was the aim of Kiwanis to do its best to supply. Its purpose, Mr. Troke reminded members, was to be of assistance to official and semi-official organizations in the community in stimulating social and business life and administering to health wants, but not to supersede them.

The speaker was introduced by William Richardson, and Stanley Longhurst moved the vote of thanks.

Qualified Recognition

AGIERS, Aug. 28 — (AP) — A spokesman of the French committee of National Liberation yesterday said it was hopeful that limiting conditions imposed by Britain and the United States in their recognition would not stand in the way of more complete acceptance of the committee as trustee of French interests outside occupied territories. Canada similarly granted qualified recognition.

Ontario Forms Relations Board

TORONTO, Aug. 28 — (CP). — Ontario Labor Minister Charles Daley Friday announced formation of an Ontario labor relations committee to survey existing labor legislation. He said the move implements the fifth of 22 points contained in the Progressive-Conservative platform during the Ontario election, August 4.

"In view of the fact that neither management nor labor are entirely satisfied with present labor legislation, it is intended the committee will be established so that the government may have information gathered," Mr. Daley said. "The committee will be asked to report and make recommendations, if it desires to do so, for enactment of new legislation to do with labor relations in industry and commerce."

He said that labor and employing interests would have equal representation on the committee, and that it would function "free from government influence."

It is believed that the committee will start to sit within a month, probably holding its enquiries at Queen's Park.

Franco Advised Change Policy

LONDON, Aug. 28 — (CP). — The object of ambassador Sir Samuel Hoare's recent discussions with Gen. Francisco Franco of Spain was a frank airing of British complaints that Madrid is biased in favor of the Axis and not to offer any assurances of non-intervention in Spanish affairs, it was learned on good authority yesterday.

The purpose of the interview, it was learned, was a frank statement by the Briton. The object was fully carried out and, in order to make the British position unmistakably clear, various specific notes and memoranda were left with Franco.

Some progress has been made in implementing Franco's new policy of equal treatment of belligerents by Spain, but the British government still is not satisfied on several points.

Soviets Take Taganrog On Azov Sea

Germans Claim Red Army Losses Heavy

By HENRY B. JAMESON,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, August 30 —(AP) — The Germans announced to-day the abandonment of Taganrog, Southern anchor of the 1,500-mile Russian front, in a retreat indicating the Nazis' entire southern front postions are crumbling.

The fall of Taganrog came as a surprise, since there had been no reports of heavy fighting in this region recently from either Moscow or Berlin, but the postion of the city had been obviously imperiled since the Russians captured the railway station of Dtnetsko-Amvrosievka just a week ago, cutting Taganrog's only rail line to the north and west. Donetsko-Amvrosievka is 40 miles north of Taganrog.

Evacuation of Taganrog makes it clear the whole right flank of the German army is compromised and indicates that a general pulling back started with the Soviet offensive in the Donets Basin a few days ago, has been stepped up.

Taganrog had been heavily fortified by the Germans, and its recapture by the Russians indicates the power of the current Red army drive. Last year's Soviet offensive, which began with the victory at Stalingrad, swept on past Rostov in this region but stopped short just east and north of Taganrog in the face of a violent Nazi defence of the city.

There was no immediate indivation whether the Germans would attempt to stand a few miles west of Taganrog on the west bank of the Mius River, or withdraw some 60 miles farther to the west to Mariupol.

The Berlin radio claimed the Russians had suffered heavy losses, mainly through mine fields left by the retreating Germans in the Taganrog area.

Hard-driving Russian troops advanced 3 to 7½ miles to recapture 50 villages, including the railroad junction of Lyubotin, 25 miles west of Kharkov on the Kursk-Kiev line, the war bulletin

Italians Angry At Ciano Move

At The Swiss-Italian Frontier, Aug. 30 (AP)—The reported flight of Count Galeazzo Ciano, former Italian Foreign Minister and son-in-law of Mussolini, to Germany, angered today the Italian people who considered him one of those most responsible for the Fascist regime.

A Chiasso dispatch to the Swiss Telegraphic Agency said Italians had assumed Ciano and his family were heavily guarded and therefore were surprised to learn he had been able to evade surveillance.

The Swiss Telegraphic Agency dispatch estimated the fortune Ciano built under Fascism at many millions of dollars.

The Italian people, meanwhile, awaited official announcement of the flight.

The Milan newspaper, Corriere Della Sera, which gave details of Ciano's escape, expressed a belief that he and his family had not yet reached the safety of a foreign country although unconfirmed reports said they were either in Germany or Spain.

Italy's recently-appointed minister to Switzerland, Massimo Magistrati, who arrived in Berne shortly before the fall of Fascism, is a brother-in-law of Ciano.

Beloved Archbishop Dies

His Grace Archbishop M. J. O'Brien, who for years was bishop of the diocese of Peterborough, died at 1.15 today at Kingston, following an illness of several months. He was born July 29, 1874, in Peterborough.

Most Rev. M. J. O'Brien Dies Following Heart Attack

Most Rev. M. J. O'Brien, 69, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Kingston, and from 1913 to 1929 Bishop of Peterborough, died in Hotel Dieu Hospital in Kingston at 1.15 this afternoon, according to word received in this city. He suffered a heart attack yesterday, one of several which have afflicted him during the past six months.

A Peterborough boy, His Grace spent his entire life in this city, until he went to Kingston in 1929, with the exception of about four years, when he was studying in Rome. For ten years he was curate at St. Peter's Cathedral, and in 1909 when the Sacred Heart Church was built, he became its first rector.

Born in Peterborough.

The eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James O'Brien, Archbishop O'Brien was born on July 29th 1874, at 769 George Street. His younger brother, William, died in 1895, at the age of eighteen. He received his early education at the old Murray St. Separate School and in the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, taking classical instruction in the private school conducted on Reid Street by the late Professor Lynch, a graduate of St. Michael's, Toronto.

Later, he attended St. Michael's College and the Grand Seminary in Montreal, before going to the Propaganda University in Rome. He held the degree of L. S. T. and B. C. L from the Seminary in Montreal and of Doctor of Divinity from the University in Rome.

Archbishop O'Brien was ordained to the priesthood in 1897 and two years later while in Rome received his D. D. degree.

In that same year on returning home he became the curate at St. Peter's Cathedral and occupied that charge for ten years. When the new Church of the Sacred Heart was built in 1909 he was ap-

War Cabinet Plans To Meet At Quebec

OTTAWA, August 30 —(CP) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King leaves this afternoon for Quebec to meet the British Prime Minister, it was announced to-day.

Members of the War Committee of the Canadian Cabinet will also go for a final session there prior to Mr. Churchill's departure from Canada.

The British Prime Minister has been taking a short holiday at a fishing camp in the Quebec area following his war conference with President Roosevelt. During the week-end he sent Mr. King a mess of speckled trout as a gift. Some of them ran up to 20 inches in length and they graced the table in Mr. King's bachelor household for week-end meals.

Heavy Planes Raid Orte, Naples

Allies Continue To Wreck Transport System

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 30 (AP).—Four-engined bombers struck at Orte, railway centre 40 miles north of Rome, for the first time, and two-engined bombers delivered heavy new blows at vital rail targets at Torre Annunziata on the Bay of Naples yesterday in the methodical daily destruction of the Italian communications system.

Last night R. A. F. and R.C.A.F. Wellingtons again smashed the Torre Annunziata railway yards which also received a heavy pounding yesterday by American medium bombers.

At the same time light and medium bombers, dive-bombers and fighters ranged far and wide over the toe of Italy, laying waste the enemy's gun positions and rail and road links and encountering only slight opposition in the area already reported nearly deserted.

A British cruiser and destroyer bombarded an enemy battery near Cape Pellaro on the southern Calabrian coast Saturday.

Admit Damage.

(Rome reported in its daily communique, recorded by the Associated Press, that Orte, the vicinity of Naples, Salerno and Catanzaro had been raided and that considerable damage was caused. Seven Allied aircraft were claimed shot down.

(Italian and German air formations attacked Allied naval units in the Port of Augusta, the communique asserted, adding that one oil tanker of 8,000 tons was seen to explode and another of equal tonnage set afire. An attack on Allied convoy in the wetsern Mediterranean by German bombers was said to have damaged a battleship and cruiser.)

Twenty enemy planes were destroyed in the day and night operations, 17 of them shot down by bombers and a fighter escort in the raids on Orte and Toree Annunziata. Three Allied planes are missing, said an Allied Headquarters communique.

British and American medium bombers and fighters participated in the concerted attacks on the Italian toe, hitting gun positions near Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni on the eastern shore of Messina Straits, railway junctions at Cosenza and freight yards at La Mezia. Dive-bombers also scored a direct hit on a temporary bridge over the Angitola River.

An official announcement said that return fire to the British naval bombardment near Cape Pellaro was "ineffective."

Allied fliers back from week-end aerial blows against Southern and Central Italy reported the Axis appeared to have withdrawn the greater part of its forces from the southernmost part of Italy.

A complete lack of defensive action around the Strait of Messina and deeper inland surprised tactical air force raiders as they gave the Calabrian coast another concentrated blasting. One R.A.F.

HEAVY PLANES

By JOHN COLBURN—Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 30 (AP)—Big fires blazed fiercely today among the scuttled hulks of Denmark's naval vessels in Copenhagen harbor, and offshore Nazi patrol boats and planes shot at Danes fleeing a new German military dictatorship claimed upon the rebellious kingdom after the Danish Government resigned. Refugees streaming into Sweden said scores of persons drowned as the Nazi gunners sank many small motorboats, sailboats and fishing smacks in the Oeresund, the narrow stretch of water between Denmark and Sweden.

The Germans ignored the usual Copenhagen blackout during the night. Street lights blazed brightly as patrols in tanks and armored cars toured the city enforcing the martial law decreed by the German military commander.

The fires in the harbor area could be seen from the Swedish coast. A series of explosions set them off at dawn yesterday as Danish naval forces sent the greater part of their small navy to the bottom.

The Germans' drastic action was the upshot of a series of violent disorders in the tiny country during the past two weeks.

Cabinet Interned.

Nine naval ships, two of them small destroyers, reached safety in Swedish ports yesterday. Another torpedo boat arrived at Landskrona last night, raising to 10 the number now docked in Sweden.

One of the latest reports reaching Sweden said members of the Cabinet, including Prime Minister Eric Scavenius, were in internment with King Christian at Sorgenfri Castle.

The Cabinet conferred with the King until the early hours Sunday before Gen. Hermann von Hannecken, German commander in Denmark, issued his proclamation at 4.10 a.m., announcing Nazi martial law.

The King threatened to abdicate if the Cabinet accepted a drastic ultimatum submitted by German Minister Werner Best on Saturday.

The Danish people received little information of the swift movement of events in their country, as no newspapers had been published for two days.

Marine and Royal Guard forces fought a brief but spirited battle with German troops who tried to invade the royal barracks and naval yard in Copenhagen as the scuttling was in progress, Danes who escaped to Sweden reported.

Forty-five vessels of various types, including two new destroyers and nine submarines, were sunk, ammunition dumps blown up, and harbor fortifications wrecked.

The Danish radio later announceded Von Hannecken had taken over all court and civil functions. The radio broadcast a warning that courts-martial would be established to impose the death penalty and other severe sentence for violators of martial law.

Will Revise Laws.

Danish laws will be revised along Nazi lines, in addition to "a new arrangement of the public life of Denmark," the Von Hannecken announcement said. It added loyal servants would be retained under German control.

Three more Danish naval ships carrying a total of about 75 persons reached Sweden this morning.

The military dictatorship was imposed as the climax of a rapid series of sabotage acts in the past two weeks throughout the reluctant German vassal state, overrun by Hitler's forces in 1940.

Three of 19 German Prisoners Still At Large 1,000 Soldiers, Police Redouble Efforts

KINGSTON, Aug. 30 (CP). — Search still was underway today for three German prisoners of war who escaped with 16 others by crawling through an unused sewer at historic Fort Henry here last Thursday night.

More than 1,000 men from nearby Barriefield Training Camp, men from the Vimy Barracks, Royal Canadian Mounted Police from Ottawa, Ontario Provincial Police and Kingston Police are combining to maintain close scrutiny of every road in the area.

The number of captures so far rose to 16 Saturday night when Heinz Stoerk was taken into custody by soldiers from Royal Canadian Corps of Signals training centre at Vimy. Four of the men were retaken the first night, eight were recaptured on Friday and four more were picked up Saturday. Still at liberty are Wilhelm Joesting, 41, 150 pounds, five feet, 10 inches; Ernest Muench, 24, 145 pounds, five feet six inches; and Heinz Wirtz, 140 pounds, five feet seven inches.

Churchill and Roosevelt Will Meet This Week In Washington

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—(AP).—President Roosevelt returned to Washington today and, as a direct follow-up on the Quebec war conference, scheduled appointments with diplomatic, State and military officials.

The list included Dr. T. V. Soong, Chinese Foreign Minister; State Secretary Cordell Hull, Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding army air forces.

Prime Minister Churchill is expected here within a week to pick up some of the loose threads of the Quebec meeting. There was reason to believe that this forthcoming meeting would centre mostly on political aspects of the war and on a post-war program.

Mr. Roosevelt, after delivering an address in Ottawa Wednesday, spent a few days resting before returning to Washington.

One of his first official actions upon reaching the capital today was to grant the commissioner of immigration and naturalization the authority to make exceptions, after investigation, for aliens who otherwise would be classified as enemy aliens. Previously the Attorney-General alone had this power, and he, too, will continue to exercise it, along with the others.

Prospects for a tri-partite meeting among representatives of Great Britain, the United States and Russia, mentioned as a possibility in the joint Quebec communique, may receive their attention, as well as political questions involved in administering temporary governments of liberated countries.

Some officials, however, are inclined to believe the Prime Minister's latest visit here will be confined largely to the gathering up of any loose ends or discussing secondary questions that may have remained unsettled at conference in the Canadian city in the last two weeks.

They based this on the phraseology of the joint communique which said that the Prime Minister and President "were able to receive and approve the unanimous recommendations of the combined chiefs-of-staff" and also had reached agreement on political issues "underlying or arising out of the military operations."

It has not been announced when Mr. Churchill would reach Washington.

Hitler's Dream Is Shattered

By JOHN COLBURN
Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 30.—(AP).—If Hitler still had any hopes that Nazi ideas and theology would attract free people, they were crushed by the peoples' revolt in Denmark.

Denmark was Hitler's "model protectorate." She was to be a pattern for treatment of occupied countries under Hitler's "new order." The German invasion of April 9, 1940, signalled the end of the freedom of the Danes, although Denmark was the best-treated occupied country in Europe.

It was just a year ago this month that a turning point was reached in Denmark which eventually led the Germans to impose a military dictatorship on the country of fewer than 4,000.000 persons in an effort to crush a revolt that was crippling German transport and supply lines and jeopardizing the output of materials for the German war machine.

Organized sabotage directed by Allied agents from Britain started in Denmark in August, 1942.

191 Jap Planes Are Bagged In Solomons

GUADALCANAL, August 30 — (AP) — United States fliers of the Solomons Air Force and American Ground Defences maintained a superiority ratio of nearly 14 to 1 in destroying 191 Japanese planes in the Solomons area during the past month.

Maj.-Gen. Nathan F. Twining cited these enemy losses at a press conference to-day and disclosed United States losses during the same period, between July 25 and Aug. 26, were only 14 fighter planes.

The general's figures showed U.S. fighters downed 100 enemy fighters, 16 dive bombers, one medium bomber and 15 float-type planes during the month. United States bombers felled 36 Japanese fighters while night fighters brought down two enemy medium bombers. Anti-aircraft guns accounted for one Japanese fighter, 13 dive bombers, six medium bombers and one float plane.

Canada Leads War Output Without Aid

Claxton Raps Socialism Lauds System

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 30.—(CP).—Canada has been able to contribute more munitions and food per capita to the war effort than any other nation and alone among the United Nations has done it without external loans or lease-lend, Brooke Claxton, parliamentary assistant to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, said to-day.

"We have even done this and decreased our external debt," he added in an address prepared for delivery to a service club (Rotary) here.

Reviewing the war, Mr. Claxton said the enemy's strategy was obvious. The main object of the Axis would be to gain time for war-weariness and propaganda and protestations of goodwill to divide the Allies and slacken the individual effort.

The enemy would make changes in his government set-up, representing these as showing a genuine change of heart.

Don't Be Fooled.

"The antidote to this poison is to keep fresh the realization of why we are fighting, and, as the course of the war permits, to begin to build a solid basis for the hopes of mankind.

"The people do not want Socialism or state ownership of the means of production but they expect private enterprise and government together to find practical means to continue total employment and a high national income in peace as in war."

Mr. Claxton said the most important agreement ever made between Canada and the United States was the Ogdensburg declaration of President Roosevelt and Mr. King in 1940. This agreement, which led to Canada and the United States pooling their resources to defend North America, was never signed "and it did not need signing."

Crash In India Kills 10 People

NEW DELHI, Aug. 30.—(CP).—Two Canadians were among the 10 persons killed in the crash of an R.A.F. transport plane at Allahabad last Friday, it was disclosed to-day. The crash also took the lives of a British major-general and a British brigadier.

The Canadians were Sqdn. Ldr. R. C. Cartwright, 33, of Vancouver, for the last year censorship adviser to the R.A.F. India Command, and Flt. Sgt. William Clayton Walsh of Leonard, Ont.

Maj.-Gen. Thomas George Gordon Heywood, 65, and Brig. Hugh Poyton Radley, 51, both British veterans of the last war, were among those killed, as was also Robert Rand, 25, director of the Calcutta branch of the United States Office of War Information. Rank was from Brookline, Mass.

Sqdn. Ldr. Cartwright was the son of a British Columbia physician and came to India from a censorship post in the Air Ministry, London. Walsh was one of the crew of three of the ship. All the crew members were killed.

The plane, en route from New Delhi to Calcutta, crashed in a landing failure. Eight persons were killed outright and two others died later. Two others were gravely injured.

Fierce Revolt Stirs Favorite States

Bulgaria, Denmark, Show Signs Of Breaking Away From Nazis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Hitler's empire of conquered and satellite peoples is breaking up before his anxious eyes, from the Balkan cockpit of eastern Europe clear across the continent to the other cockpit on the shores of the North Sea.

Signs of distintegration multiply. Latest among the crises to tear the foundation of the Hitlerian structure are the grave situations in the widely-separated states of Denmark and Bulgaria.

It's significant these two countries are among those which have been more favored by the Boche. They haven't, like Poland, endured the atrocities which today drew from Britain and the United States denunciation and a promise of retribution. Hitler has adopted an air of beneficence towards the Danes and Bulgarians, hoping to use them among the foundation stones of his new order.

An Invasion Spot

Still, it's not surprising that the liberty-loving Danes, hardy descendants of the Vikings, finally have broken out in fierce revolt against the Boche. That creates an especially grave danger for Hitler, since Denmark provides one of the several potential invasion coasts for the Allies, and the latter might take quick advantage of the situation if things looked particularly good.

Also a grave politico-military problem for hte master gangster is the situation in the Balkans—another potential invasion theatre for the Allies. Bulgaria, his buffer state against the unpredictable Turks and one of his chief bulwarks against an assault by the United Nations up the peninsula, is tottering in loyalty. King Boris has met sudden and mysterious death, and his people have been parading the streets of their sombre capital, demanding peace. Pro-German Premier Philov apparently is trying to hold the fort for Hitler, but his chances of success don't seem good as things now stand.

There's another aspect to the imbroglio in little Denmark. Relations between neighboring Sweden and the Reich have become so strained that the Swedes are walking close to war with Nazidom. If they came into the conflict under those circumstances, they would automatically become one of the Allies. That would make Hitler's western front a hot spot.

Plan Pile-Driver Attacks

U.S. To Employ New Aircraft Carriers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—(AP).—Powerful new blows against the Japanese, with carrier-based aircraft playing a dominant part, are being prepared in the Pacific war zone.

Vice-Admiral John S. McCain, United States deputy chief of operations for air, said yesterday, the 30th anniversary of the establishment of the United States naval air force, that aviation would "spearhead" an attack to smash the Japanese military machine.

"Naval aviation has become an extremely powerful weapon, possibly the most powerful," McCain said.

"Hugh task forces, spearheaded by carrier-based aircraft, are poising for new pile driver blows against the enemy. The navy has always sought to bring all its weapons to bear against an enemy simultaneously, believing that such co-ordinated attack is the most effective."

He predicted that the dozen or so new combat carriers launched since the United States entered the war will help bring about the "complete defeat" of Japan.

Sweden In Danger Spot

Premier Warns Changes Come Rapidly

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 30.—(AP). — Prime Minister Per Albin Hansson of Sweden said in a speech at Kalamar yesterday that swiftly-changing events in Denmark were a "warning to all of us always to be watchful."

Observing the Danish crisis was an example that "situations can change very soon," he added:

"Our hearts are beating for Denmark."

The Prime Minister and other Swedish government leaders have maintained that neutral Sweden is in a dangerous war position.

Commenting editorially on Denmark, the Stockholm newspaper Tidningin predicted difficulties for Germans handling Danes "who will not surrender freedom.' GOVERNMENT OF BULGARIA MAY BE OVERTHROWN IN NEW REVOLT

Italian Fleet Bottled Up By Allied Win

By EDWARD KENNEDY,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 30 —(AP) — The Allied conquest of Sicily has cut what's left of Italian naval power in two. One part of Italy's fleet is at the La Spezia naval base, 180 miles north of Rome, and the other part is at Taranto, inside the Italian heel.

With Allied domination of the Straits of Messina, these two big naval elements are severed and could get together only with great risk of disastrous Allied naval and air attacks.

Badly battered by the Royal Navy and American heavy bombers, the Italian fleet for more than a year has shown extreme reluctance to come out and fight.

Allied naval circles here regard this as a clever policy on the part of the Italians rather than cowardice. The Italian warships compel the Allies to keep a sizeable naval strength in the Mediterranean which otherwise might be shifted to the Pacific or some other theatre.

Fast Ships.

And despite losses, the Italian fleet remains an important prize which the Allies could turn to good account. In Allied hands, the Italian warships might prove exceptionally useful in any offensive on Japan.

Five of Italy's capital ships are said to be in operation. Her losses in light and heavy cruisers, destroyers and submarines are believed more than 50 per cent, and weaknesses in these craft, especially destroyers, make it difficult for her capital ships to operate effectively.

Before the war, Italy's navy was known as the world's fastest. All of her newer ships can steam 30 knots.

It is doubted here Italy will let her fleet fall into German hands if she possibly can avoid it. Her natural interest, if is said, would be to try to hold what remains of her fleet for bargaining with the Allies.

Though there have been reports of German officers taking command of Italian warships, Allied naval officers here say they have found no evidence to support these.

Hitler's Dream

that grew into an "international incident" gave the Nazis the opening they sought to make further inroads into Danish affairs.

Hitler sent the popular King Christian X glowing congratulations in a birthday message. King Christian replied with a curt "thank you" which Hitler considered an insult. He used the incident as a lever to demand a new Danish government more amenable to Nazi wishes.

Prime Minister Oria Buhl resigned and was succeeded by Erik De Scavenous, veteran Polish diplomat and Foreign Minister during the first Great War.

For eight months political peace reigned in Denmark, but the pace of sabotage acts stepped up.

Sabotage marked one of two major steps leading to the current revolt. The second was the activities of the German occupation soldiers.

The first contingents of troops were well behaved. But then Germany began to send nervous veterans from the Russian front who forgot all discipline. They became embroiled in rows with Danes, who accused them of molesting women.

Sweden's discontinuance of transport of German soldiers and war materials over Swedish railways between Germany and Norway and Finland gave the Danes a new wedge in their sabotage attacks.

Germany had to transport troops and supplies to Norway through Denmark. The Danes this month began blowing up railway lines carrying men and materials and sabotaging ships going to Norway.

Two weeks ago, Berlin demanded for a second time German administration of justice—with the death penalty—for saboteurs.

Neither King Christian nor the government would take the responsibility for permitting Germans to execute Danes and the request was rejected.

Policy Fails

Meanwhile the conduct of German troops became worse. More clashes developed between soldiers and Danes, and both sides compromised in an effort to restore quiet.

Behind the scenes, the Nazi military commander demanded that ruthless steps be taken to suppress the Danes as realization grew that internal revolt might handicap the Germans if the Allies invaded Denmark, which is on one of the shortest routes to Berlin.

Werner Best, the German Envoy, went to Berlin for further instructions. He returned after seeing Heinrich Himmler, who has taken over the strong-arm job of crushing unrest inside Europe, and with such drastic demands that King Christian threatened to abdicate if they were accepted by the government.

Scavenius flatly turned down the ultimatum..

Best remarked: "I'm a dead man in Berlin. My policy has failed."

Sixteen hours later on Aug. 29 Gen. Von Hannecken announced the military dictatorship for an awakened Denmark, which they began to fight for the first time in 79 years.

Trouble Flares

King Boris of Bulgaria died on Saturday, presumably after being shot by a pro-Russian agitator. His death has brought new turmoil to the country, now under rule of a 5-man regency.

American Units Occupy Arundel

By DEAN SCHEDLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The Southwest Pacific, Aug. 30—(AP).—Fierce Japanese counter-attacks along the entire front at Salamaua, New Guinea, have forced Allied troops to yield ground at some points while in the Solomons American infantrymen have landed unopposed on Arundel Island, just west of New Georgia, and within artillery range of Japanese-dominated Kolombangara.

Australian and American troops, powerfully supported by aircraft, slowly but methodically have been closing in on the Salamaua airdrome during the last few weeks. The airdrome is about two miles from the isthmus on which the town of Salamaua is located.

Supporting the Allied ground forces, attack planes made low-level sweeps against enemy barge hideouts and waterfront installations at Salamaua.

Near Lae, 10 miles east of Salamaua, heavy bombers dropped 29 tons of bombs, destroying three jetties and 20 barges at Voco Point.

Destroy 31 Barges.

The landing on Arundel took place last Friday. The island, on which Japanese troops were stationed until recently, is only three miles south of Kolombangara Island, and provides positions from which field artillery could shell the Vila airdrome.

A strong force of medium bombers last Saturday morning delivered a second heavy attack within a week against Hansa Bay, midway between Wewak and Madang on the northeast coast of New Guinea. A 2,000-ton ship, a patrol boat and 31 barges and luggers were destroyed. Roaring fires were started in fuel and ammunition dumps.

Allied reconnaissance planes attacked and damaged a 7,000-ton freighter-transport at Kavieng, New Ireland, while other reconnaissance craft hit a small merchantman in the Shortland Island area and destroyed six barges in Vitiaz Strait.

Medium aircraft bombed Dili, Timor, at night, leaving a spreading fire visible 45 miles away.

pointed as its first pastor in November of that year. Incidentally this was his first and only pastoral charge lasting four years until the death of the late Bishop O'Connor, when he was appointed as his successor on June 20, 1913.

At the age of thirty-nine, Archbishop O'Brien was consecrated as Bishop of Peterborough on September 24, 1913, by His Excellency Monsignor Stagni then Apostolic Delegate to Canada, the attending clergy included three archbishops and fourteen bishops as well as many priests representing altogether almost all of the chief dioceses of Canada.

Two years before that time his mother passed away and his father died a year later in 1912.

On May 5, 1929, while on a visit to Rome he was appointed Coad-Archbishop of Kingsotn and titular Archbishop of Armoria for at that time Archbishop M. J. Spratt of Kingston was then living but his health did not permit him to administer the archdiocese. Following the death of Archbishop Spratt in Feburary, 1938, he succeeded to the office which he held at his death.

Prior to his leaving for Rome in 1929, the priests of the diocese presented him with a purse of $2,400. He returned in August and in October left for Kingston.

In Peterborough Archbishop O'Brien identified himself with many activities and his leadership in connection with St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society was one effort remembered for his energy and initiative. In 1927 he was appointed chaplain for Ontario of the Knights of Columbus.

Enthronement of Bishop O'Brien as Coadjutor Archbishop of the Archdiocese of Kingston, the Mother See of Ontario, by Most Rev. Andrea Cassulo, D.D., Apostolic Delegate to Canada, took place on October 9, 1929.

Immediately Archbishop O'Brien pressed to completion several important construction enterprises of the Church On October 16, 1929, he laid the corner-stone for the new wing of the Hotel Dieu. Through his tenure of office he was deeply interested in educational matters. He was responsible for the building of the new St. John's School. His valuable assistance and keen business acumen was always sought. He did much to beautify the grounds about the Cathedral and the Archbishop's Palace. He was the special friend of the poor and afflicted.

He received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Queen's University.

Archbishop O'Brien was the ninth to head the Roman Catholic Diocese of Kingston, which comprises the territory from the eastern line of Dundas County to the western boundary of Hastings County, taking in the Counties of Addington, Dundas, Frontenac, Grenville, Hastings, Leeds, Lennox, and part of Lanark.

His nearest surviving relative is one cousin, Mother St. Bernard, former Superior of St. Joseph's Hospital, Peteborough, and now Superior of St. Joseph's Convent, Montreal.

The funeral will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday from St. Mary's Cathedral to St. Mary's Cemetery. The councillors of the archdiocese meet tomorrow at four p.m. to elect an administrator to run the church affairs until Pope Pius names a successor.

Berlin Rejects Swedish Protest

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 30 (AP). — Swedish protests over the sinking f two fishing boats by German minesweepers were rejected by Berlin in a reply to the Swedish foreign office yesterday which insisted the boats were operating in international waters the Nazis have declared blockaded.

At the same time the Berlin press opened an attack on the Swedish press, warning Germany "would not tolerate" what is described as the anti-Nazi attitude of certain Swedish newspapers.

The German minister in Stockholm presented his government's reply, which said Nazi minesweepers had fired warning shots before attacking the fishing boats which the Nazis said were operating in forbidden waters off the Danish coast.

The Germans contended the presence of the fishing boats in those waters constituted an act of "support to Germany's enemies."

The note warned the Germans would take "suitable steps against such fishermen in the future."

Saints and Cubs Meet In Finals

Tonight at Memorial Park the Catholic Softball League gets into swing in its three of five final series between last year's champs, St. Peter's, and the Cubs. These two teams were the finalists for the past two summers, and in each playoff they fought the full five games, so all indications history will repeat itself this year.

The services of Max Board, Nagle Phelan and Harry Fraser have been secured for umpiring the finals and should handle them very capably and efficiently.

Tuesday or Wednesday, to be announced, will see the second game in action, while the third game of the series will be Thursday night. All games will be played on the league diamond.

An R.C.A.F. communique said several barges were damaged by Canadian Mosquitos during the sweeps over Northwest Germany and France. All Canadian planes returned safely.

70 Men Are Going To Western Farms

Authority to send an additional twenty men from Peterborough for Western harvest work was received this morning by W. H. L. Mellis, who is in charge of the local Selective Service department.

This new directive increases from 50 to 70 the number of men the office here has been asked to accept for the seasonal assignment in the prairie grain fields.

Mr. Ellis said he had applications from 125 men from this area, and has already sent thirty of those who volunteered to help the Western farmers take off their crops.

Apparently the list of applicants has not yet been closed because seven or eight men, some of them farm youths from the district, were enquiring this morning at the office of F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative, as to their prospects of being accepted.

Five-Member Regency Now Ruling

Death Of King Boris Upsets Bulgarian People

By FRANK J. O'BRIEN,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

ISTANBUL, August 30 —(AP) — Bulgaria, unsettled by the death of King Boris, presented a potential problem to Hitler to-day as Premier Bogdan Philov strove to reconcile conflicting elements in the country which makes his position none too secure.

The five-member regency which, according to German broadcasts, will rule on behalf of the boy King Simeon II, apparently is dominated by an anti-German, pro-British Church leader— the Metropolitan of Sofia, Stefan, who has protested against Gestapo activity in Bulgaria and against anti-semitic laws passed during the last two years.

The Queen mother Ioanna, second member of the regency, also is regarded as decidedely anti-German. Prince Kyril, brother of the late king, and Philov are both pro-German but far from strong, while the fifth regent is a politically unknown supreme court justice.

Composed of such deverse elements, it seems highly unlikely the regency will be able to prevent the orphaned Philov Government from collapsing and being replaced with a military cabinet.

Army Pro-German.

In that event the leader of the Government probably would be selected from the military hierarchy which is enthusiastically pro-German. Such a Government doubtless would be pliant to German desires and might break off relations with Russia and agree to assume the chief burden of the defence of Greece or even participate in the Russian war.

The possibility of a popular uprising which would overthrow the monarchy and establish a republican or socialist government under the sway of Russia—upon which the Bulgarians have traditonaly looked as a friend—was not entirely discounted here.

However, such a revolt was considered possible only if the Germans are unable to send sufficiently strong forces into Bulgaria or to

Western Apples Show Big Gain

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—Production of apples in Western Ontario is estimated at about 373,000 barrels, a seven per cent. increase over 1942, in the fourth Ontario Department of Agriculture crop report. The estimate is 10 per cent. higher than that made in July.

The cherry crop is now placed at 102,500 bushels, 61 per cent. less than last year. The report says that earlier estimates of tree mortality will be increased as many trees are dying.

There is no change from the previous estimate of the grape crop—22 per cent. decrease from last year, which, however, still indicates a crop of about 28,150 tons. Vineyards are generally in good condition with heavy vine and foliage growth and berries sizing satisfactorily.

Despite excellent sizing of the fruit, the peach crop now shows an estimated decrease of 73 per cent. from 1942 or 5 per cent. less than the July estimate.

Pears are estimated at 282,100 bushels, down 31 per cent. from last year, while plums are down 43 per cent.

Play Exhibition Game.

Bobbie Gray, Bill Kerr. Gordon Brydson, and Les Franks, well-known golf pros, will play an exhibition game on the Cobourg Golf Course on September 4. The public is being charged admission and the proceeds are to go to the fund for the corvette H.M.C.S. Cobourg. It is expected that on Sunday, September 5, the four pros will play in matches with local golfers.

Shield Presented.

At a dinner held in the Baltimore Hotel on Saturday night, H. R. Stephenson, general manager of the Crown Life Insurance Company, presented the General Manager's Shield to Bob Mallory of Cobourg, manager of the Northumberland Agency. The shield is competed for annually by agencies in Canada and the United States, and Mr. Stephenson, in presenting the prize, expressed the hope that the Northumberland County agency would set a precedent by winning the trophy two years in succession.

Mr. Stephenson stressed the vital role being played by the insurance industry in wartime and of the double duty of every dollar invested in life insurance in protecting the home and the individual and at the same time providing the means for carrying on the war effort and acting as a real stop-gap to any inflationary trends.

E. G. S. Brown, superintendent of agencies, acted as chairman, and among those present were Mayor Jack Burnet of Cobourg, who extended a welcome to the town; Mr. and Mrs. C. Churchley of Warkworth, Mr. and Mrs. F. Peddlesden of Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. R. Mallory of Cobourg, M. Cannon of Belleville, and Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Richards of Cobourg. Present from the home office, Toronto, were I. W. Gilbert, agency supervisor, and C. Bragg, branch secretary.

Mr. Brown announced that Mr. Mallory had qualified for the Crown Leaders' Corps, senior agency club of the company, and that Mr. Churchley and Mr. Peddlesden had qualified for the Crown Life Club, which is composed of the leading writers of the company. They were presented with club insignia and certificates by Mr. Gilbert. They promised that they would not only renew their own membership in the club, but would make every effort to retain the shield.

Mr. Brown spoke of Mr. Mallory's long service with the company, which began in Assiniboine, Sask., in 1932, and of the growth of the company in the intervening two decades during which time the insurance in force had increased from 40 millions to almost 300 millions.

A toast to the Northumberland agency was proposed by Dr. Richards, who pointed out that the agency also included the Counties of Durham, Hastings, and Prince Edward, and wished them every success.

Mr. Bragg proposed the toast to the ladies and Mrs. Mallory, Mrs. Churshley, Mrs. Peddlesden, and Mrs. Richards replied.

Former Pt. Hope Principal Named Headmaster of Bermuda School

(From Royal Gazette and Colonist Daily)

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Aug. 30—Warwick Academy will open on September 20 with a new headmaster, William S. Blake, who has had seventeen years experience in the secondary schools of Ontario Province. He succeeds Dr. A. Renny, who was headmaster for two years.

The following statement was released yesterday by Warwick Academy's Board of Governors:

"The Board of Governors of Warwick Academy take pleasure in announcing the appointment of Mr. William S. Blake as headmaster of the Academy. Mr. Blake is an honor graduate of Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario, and has had seventeen year's experience in the secondary schools of that province, for nine of which he has been a principal.

"Mr. Blake is leaving Port Hope High School, Ontario, to come to Bermuda, and has been highly recommended to the Board by the Deputy Minister of Education, as well as those educational authorities with which he has been directly concerned in the course of his career.

"In addition to his scholastic duties, Mr. Blake has played an active part in the community life of the districts where his schools have been situated, and has taken a particular interest in adult education and cadet training.

Mr. Blake will bring his wife and family to Bermuda, and is expected to take up residence in the Headmaster's house early in September in readiness for the opening of the new term at the Academy on September 20."

It is learned by The Royal Gazette that Mr. W. S. Purvis, M.P.P., was instrumental in obtaining the services of Mr. Blake during his recent trip to Canada.

Warwick Academy is one of Bermuda's best known schools and many prominent Bermudians secured their education there. At the conclusion of the last term there were 147 pupils enrolled.

Miss Margaret Semple, M.A., an honors graduate in mathematics and English at Saskatchewan University, will continue as senior assistant at the Academy. It is understood that the Board of Governors would have appointed Miss Semple as temporary head of the Academy in the event that war conditions han made it impossible for a qualified headmaster to leave Canada.

The appointment of Mr. Blake is another indication of the growing liaison which is being forged between this Colony and the Dominion in matters of education and public health.

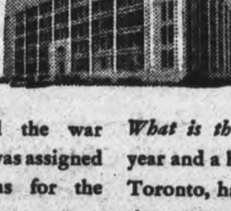
A Report to the Canadian People on the War Production Effort of TIP TOP TAILORS Limited



In 1939, when Canada joined the war against the Axis, Tip Top Tailors was assigned to its production job—uniforms for the Armed Forces.

As a leader in Canada's clothing industry, it was only natural that we should be in the forefront of this gigantic task of helping to outfit our fighting men.

Our entire plant facilities were at once radically re-arranged. Hundreds of thousands of dollars were expended in new plants and equipment. Additional hundreds of workers were employed. The watch-word at Tip Top Tailors became (and still is) "full speed ahead on war production!"

Naturally, we encountered many problems at first. However, our three decades of clothing experience, the collective skill and knowledge of our personnel, overcame all psoblems in short order.

What is the situation today? For over one year and a half now, our plant on Fleet Street, Toronto, has produced a military garment at the unprecedented rate of one every 8 seconds! Over 80% of our complete production is now ear-marked for our fighting men. These uniforms are made to rigid standards. Only the finest materials and the highest type of workmanship are permitted.

And what about civilian clothing? We are still helping to dress Canadian men and women in fine tailored-to-measure clothing—but in proportion to the facilities available. If you are in need of civilian clothing, the above paragraphs will help you to understand why you may be asked to wait a little longer than usual for delivery of your Tip Top garment. Victory comes first, and to ensure victory our armed forces must come first—every time.

The Youth Of Mr. Jolliffe

Although this paper does not support the views of the C.C.F., it is not impressed by the efforts of some of its contemporaries to discredit Mr. E. B. Jolliffe, the Ontario leader of that party, on the ground that he is young. Youth in politics is not a crime, and it may be a positive advantage. We understand that Mr. Jolliffe is 33 years old. Surely no one will maintain that he is too young to lead the Opposition in a Provincial Legislature? William Pitt entered the British House of Commons when he was 22, became Chancellor of the Exchequer at 23, and Prime Minister at 24. We do not imply that Mr. Jolliffe is another Pitt; we merely point out that a man ten years his junior was once entrusted with the fortunes of the United Kingdom during a highly critical period. If Mr. Jolliffe has the right stuff in him his youth will prove no handicap.

We do not attach great importance to considerations of youth or age. Ability is all that really matters. We are always annoyed when we hear that someone is rejected because he is either "too young" or "too old" for a job. In many professions we tolerate the existence of "retiring ages" which automatically dispossess men of jobs which they may be doing extremely well. And the popular prejudice against putting young men in positions of responsibility, whatever their qualifications, is equally stupid. Not all men age at the same rate. We have met sexagenarians whose ideas would disgrace an intelligent boy of sixteen; and we have met young men who were apparently born senile, so outdated are their notions on matters of importance. And as for the idea that age and experience bring wisdom, well—only a stupid man needs decades of experience to teach him a little wisdom;—an intelligent man learns much from a very small measure of experience.

We do not endorse Mr. Jolliffe's political views. We only say that he cannot be disposed of by accusing him of youth. In dealing with the C.C.F. we think that the two older parties have depended too long on such easy accusations, and have not done enough hard work. We suggest that the older politicians read a few books, which are not straightforward books about socialism—not the C.C.F. socialism—and learn what it is; then they will be able to attack it intelligently, with all the weight of their great age behind them. The knowledge, we predict, will be more useful to them than the age. Successful political parties are forever young.

A Revolution In Cricket

Cricket is the national pastime of the English people, and in many of its aspects it seems to be a reflection of the English character. It is not a fast game or a showy game, but it is a difficult game. It does not require unusual strength or athletic prowess, but it does require skill, judgement, and relaxation, in which latter respect it resembles golf. It is not necessarily a young man's game; W. G. Grace played it with magnificent success for thirty-six years. A good cricketer must know more than the mere rules of the game; he is expected to be a gracious winner, a good loser, and the possessor of a sense of style and a sense of the fitness of things. It is not, as you see, everybody's game.

Watching cricket makes unusual demands on the spectators. They are expected to be polite to both sides, and to the umpire. They are expected to be patient in the dull passages, and restrained in the exciting ones. They are expected to refrain from coaching the players on the field. As you see, not everyone is a born cricket-watcher.

The thing about cricket which galls the North American soul is its apparent slowness. Cricket is a game of strategy, and sometimes deliberate slowness is part of the plan. The experienced cricket-watcher is able to keep one eye on the field while chatting with his friends, or drinking ginger-beer, or even reading a book, and he will not miss a single important play. But the American visitor who yearns for constant violent activity and mayhem in his sports chafes at these forty-minute periods of apparent inactivity. A cricket game, it should be explained, is not confined to a mere two hours; it begins at about eleven in the morning, breaks for two hours at lunch, and continues until the setting sun makes it hard for the batsman to see the ball; and then it goes on the next day in just the same way. Not everybody's game, as you will observe.

But now critics are complaining, actually complaining, about the slowness of cricket! Of late years players have shown an increased tendency to play a very careful wicket, and to stand for long periods, bat in hand, refusing to hit the ball. This is what a Times cricket critic says about it:

> "A perpetual refusal of batsmen to offer any strokes made one wonder why anyone at any time, even at the end of a Bank Holiday match at Old Trafford, has accused county cricket of being dull."

That, mind you, is from the Times! It wants cricketers to hurry up! Who says the face of England isn't changing?

The Doughty Centenary

This year brings the centenary of a remarkable explorer and man of letters, Charles Montague Doughty, who was born on the 19th of August, 1843, and died in January, 1926. An Englishman of good family, Doughty desired a career in the Navy, but an impediment in his speech made this impossible; he was an apt scholar, completing his education at Cambridge. He then turned to travel and archeology as his life work, his most remarkable journey being that which he undertook from Damascus to Jidda, alone and unprotected, in frequent danger of his life, and in the company of fanatical, suspicious, wandering Bedouins. If he had been a man of rugged constitution this journey would have been perilous, but Doughty was frail. He was near to death many times, both from his own weakness and from the violence of the people with whom he travelled. But out of almost three years of hardship he gained the material for one of the great travel books of our language—Travels in Arabia Deserta.

Bare and majestic in style, Arabia Deserta is not easy reading. But it revolutionized knowledge of Arabia and the Arab peoples. The Arab today who has not seen an Englishman or an American, or a European of some kind, is a rarity; when he left Damascus in 1876 Doughty was among people who knew nothing of his ways, and were bitterly suspicious of all enemies of Allah—for so they imagined a Christian must be. He dressed like an Arab, and spoke to them in their own tongue; he was an Arab in every outward circumstance. But he found Arab food scarcely endurable, so scant was it in quantity and so repulsive in quality; he was unable to achieve mastery over that most cantankerous of beasts, the camel. But he never complained, scarcely faltered, and completed a journey which is bad enough today, when European conveniences of travel are available and when the Arabs are accustomed to Christians.

The final judgement on his book, perhaps, must be that of T. E. Lawrence, who knew Arabia and its people as well as Doughty, and who venerated the older man as a great pioneer. He says: "To have accomplished such a journey would have been achievement enough for the ordinary. Mr. Doughty was not content until he had made the book justify the journey as much as the journey justified the book, and in the double power, to go and to write, he will not soon find his rival".

NOTE AND COMMENT

Geographers tell us that Berlin is on the Spree. Pity the R.A.F. had to spoil the fun.

An old Hebrew proverb says, "They who eat much meat talk too much". We have not noticed that meat-rationing makes any special difference.

One-third of household accidents happen in the kitchen, says a statistician. And a lot of them find their way to the dining table just as if they were edible.

"A slap on the back", says Garry C. Myers, Ph.D., "often contributes to a man's success". Particularly if it is done young enough and low enough down.

The milk of the camel, unlike that of most mammals, is rich in vitamin C, says a science note. By the way, we remember nothing in the National Registration about ability to milk a camel.

"The devil and all his angels can't stop the social revolution", says Henry Wallace, Vice-President of the U.S. Maybe the devil won't want to stop it, remarks the Windsor Star.

We read that in the blitz on London Mr. Churchill narrowly escaped being killed in his own dining-room; he was eating a Welsh rarebit at the time. Usually the blitz starts after you have eaten that particular dish.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

REPORTS on spring crops in Ontario are not very encouraging. Too much cool wet weather and corn is not doing well. A traveller who is interested in farm products tells me that he has never seen as many fields of buckwheat in Ontario in any year. As seeding was delayed by rains this spring I suggested in this column that buckwheat was a good crop to sow when oats and barley were late. If some fertilizer has been used and the land ploughed, there will likely be a useful supplementary crop of buckwheat harvested. If there is a good yield of buckwheat it is important to use oats to mix with it for feed. Buckwheat is hot feed and for any farm feeding is better mixed. It is a good plan to mix it before feeding. If for cattle coarse grinding is all right but for pigs it must be fine enough to grind the hulls into powder. For calves and colts it is better fed whole, but do not use too much buckwheat. This is good feed for dairy cows using a fair amount of the wheat and the results will be surprising. Buckwheat is often called the "poor man's crop in derision but I have seen buckwheat save a good few farmers' stock, when the earlier sown grain has failed to come on, this as a catch crop and produced a surprising amount of feed.

In some of the clay land districts there has been a good deal of summer-fallowing done this year in Ontario, and when seeded to fall wheat there will be plenty of moisture in the soil to bring it along to give a good top before winter. This land should be in a good condition of tilth and will be in prime condition to seed to clover and grasses. It will pay to seed such land and plough up some fields of grass this autumn. All recent experiments indicate the value of breaking sod much oftener than we formerly have done. In this way we get our soil in the best condition to grow paying crops.

There is one very interesting feature of farming, that is, we are always learning. We can discover each year new methods of soil treatment of which there is no end.

R. H. Elliot, an English farmer of the Border Country, who died in 1914, left some interesting information on what he called "The Clifton Park System of Farming." We find Sir George Stapledon, the greatest British authority on Grass, stating now that Elliot was the father of that system of cropping, now known as lay farming. This system is one of ploughing up sod fields in from two to four years from the time they have been laid down to grass.

Mr. Elliot held that the "cheapest, deepest and best tillers, drainers and warmers of soil are roots." For this reason Elliot used deep rooted grasses such as Cocksfoot (here known as Orchard Grass). We have no deep rooted plant better for this purpose than alfalfa. The nodules on its roots also supply nitrogen to the soil, and Sir George Stapledon says he would like to see it demonstrated as to which was the most useful to the land—the nitrogen from these nodules or the tillering of the soil by the deep roots of the alfalfa plant. This is a new and very interesting side light on alfalfa as a useful crop.

THE Rothamsted Experimental Farm, at Reading, England, is celebrating its centenary this year. For a full one hundred years the work of agricultural experiments and research has been carried on at this place. This farm is mainly responsible for the widespread use of chemical fertilizers in British farming.

The first man in charge of Rothamsted was John Bennet Lawes, and when he began farmers had no knowledge of the uses of superphosphates, sulphate of ammonia, basic slag, nitrate of soda, potash, and other chemical combinations by which plant food is added to the soil, or the land is stimulated to grow better crops. It was in his discovery of the value of phosphates that Lawes will be remembered. Now after nearly four years of efforts to increase food production in Britain the farmers realize as they never did before the value of the work done at Rothamsted. The recent victories in North Africa have greatly helped at this time as already fairly good cargoes of phosphate rock are arriving in Britain from North Africa. The meeting at this great Experimental Farm to celebrate its 100 years of work is given an extra significance on this account. I might also add here that North Africa is having another invasion, but this time it is locusts instead of Germans. So far as food is concerned the locusts are quite as greedy and experts are meeting in Cairo and Teheran to plan a campaign to rid the whole Middle East of the plague of locusts.

John Bennet Lawes (afterward Sir John) was a student at Oxford where his chief interest was in chemistry of the soil, and he returned to the home farm of Rothamsted Manor where he began his work on soil restoration by chemicals and established a fertilizer business which he sold for one and a half million dollars, and through his gifts and that of others he established the Rothamsted Experimental Station.

For the past 32 years Sir John Russell has been Director of this Station, but is retiring next month to be succeeded by Dr. W. G. Ogg. As the work at Rothamsted is pursued the complaint is being made that England has not spent enough on Scientific Research in Agriculture. If England is not doing her full duty to the farming of that country, what can we say of Canada? Most of the money for Rothamsted has been raised by private subscription.

AT one of the noted Soviet cattle breeding stations at Karavayevo, Russia, 250 dairy cows have made an average milk yield of slightly over 20,000 lbs. in a year. Such a high level return from 250 cows is rather surprising and indicates the value of uniform good breeding of cattle. Russia is producing some remarkable results.

In two of the Southern counties of England there are 15,000 farms of less than 50 acres each. They were almost all entirely in grass and without any sort of cultivating implements when the war began.

Now as a result of their wartime programme, the wheat acreage of the two counties was increased four times, barely two-and-a-half times, and potatoes five times.

This was done without reducing their dairying at all, but on the other hand the number of dairy cattle, and milk sales from the two counties have increased by 26 per cent.

These results were obtained without additional labour except that of girls from the Women's Land Army. It is a tribute to British farmers that during the fourth winter of the war, more milk has been marketed in Britain than during any previous winter.

Increased shipments of veal are being made from the United States to Britain. This veal sells, by the dressed carcass, in the Old Land at about 23 cents per lb. wholesale. There are large dairying districts in the U.S. from which large numbers of veal carcasses can be shipped and it has to be of good quality to be shipped under present difficulties.

THE NEW DICTATOR

These Journeys Are Necessary

MORE than a million naval ratings with their hammocks, kitbags, boxes, suitcases, tin helmets and respirators, weighing many thousands of tons, have been sent by train through the length and breadth of Scotland since the beginning of the war.

Behind the smooth working of this vast human transport problem is the organization of the Naval Railway Transport Officer (Scotland).

He is a Londoner, Commander R. N. Stopford, R.N., and he has working with him several experts lent by the railway companies. In Edinburgh is Lieutenant-Commander R. Fothergill, R.N., and in Glasgow Lieutenant H. Wilson, R.N.V.R. Before the war these officers were working in the operating departments of the railways.

Naval Railway Transport Offices are open day and night at the important junctions in the and the department arranges the transport for parties of men ranging from two or three up to a thousand or more. They deal with men on draft to new ships, and men travelling on leave as well as the sick and wounded on their way to hospital.

Often, when the transport officers have only a few hours' notice in which to organize a special train, they not only have to arrange with the railway company a "path" for the "special" on the southward journey, but in the case of men going on leave, also fix one back so that the men can be told before they leave what train they have to catch for the return journey.

This problem is complicated by the fact that as the train goes further south men leave it to branch off for their home towns. The special train must be run so that it fits as far possible with connections round the country and men do not lose hours of their precious leave waiting on railway stations. In 1942 nearly a hundred special trains were run. So packed are the ordinary trains these days that a "special" is run for parties of 280 or more. Often the men chalk encouraging slogans on the coaches such as "This Convoy must get through."

Besides arranging the trains, the Naval R.T.O. has to see the men have food for the journey. Bags containing sandwiches are put up by the N.A.A.L.I. at short notice, and women volunteers provide tea at intermediate stops. At some stations these volunteers also provide food.

One problem of the R.T.O. is to see that exuberant sailors going on leave take their baggage with them. Often they are in such high spirits that they become careless about their belongings and would leave their gear on the platform if men from the R.T.I.'s office did not go round to make sure that everything was collected.

The first Wren to work in the R.T.O. station offices made her appearance in Scotland over two years ago. Since then, others have been appointed. Among other things they deal with telephone enquiries which, at a busy station, come in at the rate of two a minute. These enquiries range from the time of the next train to requests for advice on matters of pay and food for the wife and baby. One rating even asked where he could find a maternity home for his wife. The R.T.O.'s try to help in every case, though the enquiry may be outside the scope of their normal duty.

One offender who should have been travelling with an escort, came in to report that he "lost" his escort at a change of stations, and asked for another escort.

Travelling arrangements also have to be made for senior officers and for officers carrying secret documents. King Haakon of Norway, King Peter of Yugoslavia and many other distinguished foreign visitors have travelled in comfort due to the forethought of the naval R.T.O.

Shortly before he left the Home Fleet, Sir John Tovey, who was then Commander-in-Chief, wrote to Comander Stopford: "Please allow me to thank you and your staff for the many kindnesses to me on my journeys. I would also like to say how deeply grateful I am for the extremely efficient way all officers and ratings from the Fleet have been looked after."

Such a compliment is well deserved. It reflects credit on the railways as well as on the naval R.T.O's staff for the way they deal with their live freight.

Miner and Milkman In Sicily

By "TAFFRAIL"

IN a message of appreciation to the landing ships and landing craft and their repair base staffs for the great part they played in the operations against Sicily, Admiral of the Fleet Sir Andrew Cunningham, Commander-in-Chief in the Mediterranean, said that the large number of starters and their arrival at the beaches in spite of the difficult weather conditions was largely responsible for the element of surprise which gave the Army such a good start.

THEIR HAIR WAS WILD AND LONG

It cannot yet be disclosed how many of these ships took part in the first landings, or how many were engaged in carrying reinforcements and equipment; but the skill and determination with which all difficulties were overcome by officers and men comparatively new to work at sea has excited the admiration of the Navy, which as a Service, is not accustomed to handing out bouquets.

The chief engineer of one landing craft driven by Diesel engines is aged nineteen, and was a garage hand before he went afloat. All the rest of the crew are in the late 'teens or early twenties—among them a Welsh miner, a foundry boy, a draper's assistant and a milkman.

They are a tough crowd, and their ideas of discipline are weird. Their hair was wild and long, and their general appearance would have shocked the commander of a battleship in peace-time. Bronzed by the sun to the colour of mahogany, they went mother naked except for abbreviated shorts or patched bathing trunks of many colours. But as a team of fighting workers, loading troops and their weighty equipment, taking them across the Straits and landing them on those Sicilian beaches through a breaking surf and sometmies under fire, they did wonders. As one senior engineer officer said to me—"I never cease wondering how they all got there. Those craft are regular boxes of tricks, and the engineers are all what we should call amateurs. They are absolutely wizards."

GRIT AND DETERMINATION

Since every man on board a warship is a combatant, comparisons between the members of one branch and another are invidious. All the same, it may not sufficiently be realized what we owe to the engineering branch for its versatility and adaptability and the quiet grit and determination with which some of the ships are kept running under war conditions.

In this theatre, the Mediterranean, one hears of cruisers, destroyers and minesweepers who have not had steam off their main engines for twenty-six to thirty days on end. Some of the older destroyers—those that remain, that is, for many have become casualties—were due for scrapping when the war started; but have been kept running ever since, their ancient boilers and asthmatic machinery nursed and tended by the devoted work of those responsible for making the wheels go round.

Others, who have suffered grievous damage in action, have been patched and plugged to enable them to keep the sea, and are still carrying on. To the naval engineer, particularly the engineer of a small ship away from a friendly dockyard or depot ship, the word impossible doesn't seem to exist. He's an adept at the art of improvisation; of doing his own running repairs while running; of bringing a bombed or torpedoed ship back to harbour, which is not entirely a matter of good seamanship.

The old engineering branch of before the war has been reinforced by many times its own number of men from civil life, trained since the outbreak of hostilities. A cruiser I was on board the other day has steamed 34,234 miles in just over six months, most of it at high speed. One of her stokers, forty-two years of age, was a sergeant in the Army seventeen years ago. Another worked in a silk stocking factory; a third played in a dance band; and a fourth was a manager of a slate and tile works.

Of the stoker petty officers, one was a cowboy for seven-and-half years in Ontario and a "hobo" in the U.S.A. Another, who takes correspondence courses in all manner of subjects, is a clever artist. An engine-room artificer, who writes short stories and poetry, reads Greek mythology as a pastime. Another, a boilermaker by trade, invariably wears a Great Western Railway cap on watch in the engine-room. Given to him by a friend, he treasures it as a mascot.

A Bible Message

And, behold, two of them went that same day to a village called Emmaus, which was from Jerusalem about threescore furlongs....And it came to pass, that, while they communed together and reasoned, Jesus himself drew near, and went with them.... And he said unto them, What manner of communications are these that ye have one to another, as ye walk, and are sad?

And the one of them, whose name was Cleophas, answering said unto him, Art thou only a stranger in Jerusalem, and has not known the things which are come to pass there in these days? And he said unto them, What things? And they said unto him, Concerning Jesus of Nazareth, which was a prophet mighty in deed and word before God and all the people: and how the chief priests and our rulers delivered him to be condemned to death, and have crucified him....

Then he said unto them, O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken: ought not Christ to have suffered these things and to enter into his glory?

And beginning at Moses and all the prophets, he expounded unto them in all the scriptures the things concerning himself.... And it came to pass, as he sat at meat with them, he took bread, and blessed it, and brake, and gave to them.

And their eyes were opened, and they knew him; and he vanished out of their sight. And they said one to another, Did not our heart burn within us, while he talked with us by the way, and while he opened to us the scriptures? Luke 24; 13, 15, 17-20, 25-27, 30-32.)

Letter To The Editor

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Reading the Editor's Note under N Hamblin's correction of the misinterpretation o the telegrams forwarded to Messrs. King and McTague of questions of collective bargaining, I cannot understand how you conclude that those telegrams are cause for disunity. As one telegram reads in part: "We urge you to collaborate closer with J. L. Cohen for joint report." I would like to know if you really understand the meaning of the word "collaborate." In my dictionary it explains: "to work with another." So in my opinion the request rather calls for unity and not disharmony among our leaders and the workers.

A worker,

HERMAN CHARLEBOIS.

EDITOR'S NOTE: It is not usually called collaboration when a majority is urged to accede to the wishes of a minority on a public board; that is called coercion by pressure groups.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

Additional Classes of Men Are Now Covered by Compulsory Employment Transfer Orders

An Announcement of Importance to Employers and Male Employees, in the Lines of Employment Listed Below

Five previous Compulsory Employment Transfer Orders have been issued under authority of National Selective Service Civilian Regulations. These Orders covered men in classes designated under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations, as well as young men 16 to 18 years of age, who were employed in specified employments at the time of the issue of the Orders.

A recent Order, the 6th Compulsory Employment Transfer Order, has been issued under National Selective Service Civilian Regulations (as amended). The effect of the 6th Order is to extend the coverage of the five earlier Transfer Orders to certain men not previously affected, if now employed in any of the employments specified. Blackpool Beats Rochdale; Arsenal Loses

LONDON, Aug. 30 — (CP Cable) —The fifth wartime football season got into full swing throughout England Saturday with the various leagues opening their new schedules. In Scotland, the season opened two weeks ago.

Football followers predicted a boom year is in store as a result of the Government's encouragement, sound management, cooperation of the services, and undiminished enthusiasm of the players

Blackpool, regarded by many as the best team in the country, found no difficulty in running to form by defeating Rochdale 6 to 1 in the big attraction of opening games in the Northern League.

Arsenal, crack team of the Southern League, met their masters in Charlton Athletic. Charlton, which had been humbled 7-1 when the clubs met in the League Cup final last season, won today 1-0 before a crowd of 14,000.

Big crowds were the rule everywhere. The largest throng, 16,000 turned out to watch Liverpool and Manchester City continue their feud in the Northern League, Liverpool had no trouble in winning.

Birmingham and Coventry played a scoreless game, the only draw in 25 Northenr League matches.

Hartlepool celebrated their return to league football by defeating Middlesbrough 1-0 while Darlington, who also came back this season, lost 4-3 to Gateshead. Wrexham grabbed scoring honors with an 8-4 victory over Chester. Everton took Blackburn Rovers into camp 3-1 and Leicester City defeated Mansfield Town 4-1.

Queen's Park Rangers came through with a big surprise in the Southern League by scoring three goals in the closing 15 minutes, thus beating Chelsea 3-1. Reading defeated Brighton 4-0 and Tottenham Hotspurs and Crystal Palace battled to a 1-1 draw.

Glasgow Rangers and Dumbarton continued to battle for first place in the Scottish Southern League. Each has won three games without loss. Rangers today defeated Clyde 3-2 while Dumbarton kept pace with a 2-1 victory over St. Mirren.

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Oshawa Colts, last year's intermediate O.A.S.A. champions, will be here Tuesday evening to battle with the 4th Battery, local City League winners, in the first game of the O.A.S.A. playdowns. The game will start sharp at 6.15 o'clock. Thus most of the players of the two teams which battled in the same round last season will be in action again and the result should be some exciting softball before the winner is decided. The Oshawa winners who came from behind in their playoff series with Oshawa Laundry and finally took the round by grabbing off Saturday's game 4 to 2 will have practically the same lineup that played here last season. Soup Campbell's outfit still have the fireball Preem Whiteley and the tricky Dean McLaughlin as pitchers, the same infield of Magee on first, Red Jubenville at second, the fast-fielding Dalton at short and the veteran Hall at third, with Trewin, McLaughlin and Little in the outfield. About the only real change in the lineup is behind the bat where the veteran Peg Hurst is performing in place of Ronnie Nelson, the hockey star. It is a strong, well-balanced club, with good pitching, fast fielding and plenty of power at the plate.

* * * * * *

While the majority of the players on the Battery team are the same as last season when the hockey squad operated under the name of Plazas there are a number of important changes. Missing are Pitcher Tom Parsons, now in the Army, the aggressive and hard-working second baseman, Don Crowe in the R.C.A.F., third baseman Web Starr with the Navy, the powerhouse centre fielder Joe Blewett in the Army and Nick Sero, former Soldier shortstop who was used by Plazas in the final series as a military replacement for Julian Wade who had joined the Navy. Dave Wilson, Eddie Starr, Jim Ellis, Art Heal, Ned Vitarelli and Bun Kingdon are the members of last year's Peterborough representatives still in action with the Gunners, while new faces with the team in the playdowns are Les Burton, who was in the Army a year ago, Joe Stewart, Bob Crowe, Bill Jones, Ted Naish, Phil Pryde and Tommy Miller. It is expected that Dave Wilson who won a verdict over the Colts here last season will be sent in against them tomorrow night with either Whitelely or McLaughlin doing the gunning for the Oshawa squad. Eddie Starr will of course be the other end of the Peterborough battery while Peg Hurst will do the backstopping for the Kolts. Word from Oshawa says that the Motor City champions will leave for Peterborough at 3.30 o'clock so that they will be here in plenty of time to get the game under way at the advertised hour.

Battery Wins Out

4th Battery cleaned up the City League championship final series Saturday afternoon with a lucky win over the Genelecs, scoring three unearned runs on only one hit in the final innings, just when it looked as if the round were going to be prolonged and that the teams would have to meet again for an evening game. Errors, of course, are a part of softball, but it was tough on Terry Woods, Genelecs pitcher, to have a win snatched away from him after a fine exhibition of twirling, because his defence fell apart in the last inning. In taking the title the Battery won three games on the field and their other victory was awarded them because of Genelecs' action in using a player after he had been ruled ineligible. That aspect of the playoffs was unsatisfactory, but after all when a governing body has made a decision there is nothing to be gained by refusing to abide by it.

The Battery team, made up from what was left of last year's champion Plazas, have played good ball all season, and the main reason for their victory has been the high club morale and fighting spirit of the Gunners. They have come from behind in most of their contests to win out, and as Saturday's game showed, they have never been beaten until the last man was out. They got effective pitching from Dave Wilson, and in the latter part of the season from Bob Crowe, and that coupled with considerable power at the plate, were main factors in their triumph. The offensive was sparked by Eddie Starr, who hit safely in every game he played during the season and wound up leading the league with a batting average of .530 for 20 games. Les Burton and Joe Stewart helped them considerably, not only offensively but defensively, killing off many hits by fine outfielding. The club was lucky too in picking up a couple of decidedly useful youngsters in Bob Crowe and Billy Jones, who helped out in more than one position and hit well besides.

Electrics and Generals will meet in the first game of the other bracket of the intermediate girls' semi-final series at the Bowl tonight at 6.45 o'clock, and it should be a lively tussle all the way. On the season's record the two clubs are very evenly matched, and they should stage a real battle for the honors. Brintons and Johnson Motors will meet in the second game of their series Wednesday night, and a win for the former will settle the round. Incidentally fans will be delighted to learn that Aircraft and Westclox are to meet in a series for the Cotton Trophy, the first game to be staged Friday night. The round will keep Westclockers in shape for the provincial playdowns and provide another interesting round.

Plenty Of Action

Tonight's wrestling card promises to establish a new record in the matter of lively action. The well-built colored flash, Gentleman Jack Clayborne, who won the hearts of local fans a week ago, will supply some of it when he clashes with Roughhouse Dick Hogan in the main bout, for the Comet is obviously in for a rough passage at the hands of the Housepainter unless he moves fast enough to keep out of the way of the rowdy from the Pacific Coast. Hogan's only strategy is to rabbit-punch and kick his opponents into submission, and he will turn on his whole repertoire of illegal stuff tonight in the hope of panicking the black flash. However, we have an idea that the Housepainter's battle policy may backfire. Clayborne does not scarce easily. He took the worst that Killer Katan handed out and came back for more, and Hogan will probably get a receipt in full for all the dirt he dishes out. The same goes for Al Bunny Dunlop, who meets Pat Flanagan in the semi-windup. Dunlop, who claims to be the strongest performer in the mat game, is another bird who believes that rules were made only to be broken, and he will be all set to give the well-liked Irishman the works tonight. However, Flanagan has been around quite a lot and he is fast and shifty enough to protect himself and to hand out plenty on his own account. As for the opening bout it will be interesting to see how Flight Sergt. Ted Miller of the Trenton R.C.A.F. succeeds in making his commando stuff work against that speedy grappler, Joe Maich, the cheerful mat performer from Brantford.

With the pennants in both the big leagues about definitely decided baseball interest these days centres more in individual performances than it does in the result of the games. Fans, for instance, will watch Rudy York's effort to break his own record of 18 homers in a month. The Detroit slugger came through with two circuit clouts yesterday, his 29th and 30th, but Detroit has no more games this month, so York's 17 for August fell one short of the mark. Another individual in the limelight is Rip Sewell, who went gunning for his 20th win yesterday and was smacked down by the Chicago Cubs, 11 to 2, so that his mark today is 19 wins and seven losses. Saturday Mort Cooper, Sewell's closest rival in point of wins, had his chance to tie the Pittsburg veteran, but was beaten 4 to 3 in 11 frames by the Cincinnati Reds. And Tex Hughson's long-established mastery over the New York Yanks was broken yesterday when the champs home-runned him out of a win, taking the game 6 to 4 in ten innings. Keller's 24th homer of the season tied it up in

Genelecs Blow To Give Battery Title

Cashing in on Genelec errors in the final frame of Saturday afternoon's game to score unearned runs, 4th Battery came from behind in that last-minute surge and took the decision 7 runs to 6 over Ted Johnston's athletes. As Friday night's game had been awarded to the Gunners because Genelecs used Haddie Eakins, Lindsay pitcher, after the latter had been ruled ineligible. Saturday afternoon's win for the Battery wound up the series, with the Artillery men winning the final round in 4 straight.

It was a decidedly tough game for the Genelecs to lose and it was particularly tough for Terry Woods who was Manager Johnston's pitching choice.

The Gunners got to the Nova Scotia boy for four runs in the first two innings but from then on until the blowup in the ninth he was boss of the job, turning back the ultimate winners for six straight innings. When his teammates jumped on Dave Wilson for three runs in the sixth to go in front 6 to 4 the battle looked as good as over for Woods had been pitching steadily and effectively.

Genelecs still had that 6 to 4 lead when the Battery went to bat in the first of the ninth and then disaster hit swiftly as the Genelec defence crumpled and the Gunners went on to score three runs on one hit.

Ned Vitarelli opened the frame by bouncing a hit off George Hawks. However, Crowe flied out easily to Playford in centre and when Les Burton, next to bat, lofted a high fly to centre field it looked as if the Genelecs were in so far as that game was concerned. However, Earl McNab after getting under the fly muffed the ball completely and when Playford after retrieving the spheroid made a high throw Vitarelli went to third and Burton to second. Then Eddie Starr cracked a sharp grounder down the first base line that rolled through Cliff Cadd and Vitarelli and Burton dashed home with the runs that tied up the game. Starr sped around to third on the miscue and Joe Stewart supplied the power for the winning run when he drove a fly to Playford in deep centre field, Starr jogging in after the catch. Ellis set the stage for more scoring by doubling to centre but Kingdon rolled out.

Genelecs still had a chance for they got two runners on in their half. Giardino was safe when Wilson fumbled his bunt. He was forced at second on Mowry's tap to Kingdon but Don Holmes lined to left for a base. Hawk's smash was right at Vitarelli for a force play on Mowry at third and Woods with a chance to save his own game popped a foul fly which Starr took and it was all over.

Wilson went the distance for the Battery and although the Genelecs got to him for two three-run rallies and were in scoring position frequently on other occasions, he was effective in the clutches most of the route and fourteen Genelecs were stranded on the bases for want of timely hits.

Jim Ellis was the leading hitter of the game with two doubles and a single, all of which however played no part in the scoring.

One of the best fielding plays was contributed by Bob Crowe in right field for the winners. He ran far in the second innings to snare George Hawk's short fly and double Holmes off first base.

The lead changed hands a couple of times in the first two innings.

Battery opened the scoring in the first. With two out Burton walked. Starr singled to left centre, sending Burton to third and taking second on the throw to the red-light corner. Stewart's single scored Burton. Ellis rolled out to Giardino.

Genelecs came back with three. Hawks opende with a double to left. Woods flied to Stewart, Tucker and Playford walked to fill the cushions, and Cadd's single to left scored Hawks. McNabb's double on a hopper which hit third base and bouced away sent Tucker and Playford over. Giardino and Mowry popped up.

The Gunners steamed back with three in the first of the second to take the lead again. Kingdon singled to right, Heal walked and Wilson was safe when Wood's fumbled his bunt. Vitarelli hit to Hawks who threw Kingdon out at the plate, but Woods issued a pass to Crowe, forcing in Heal and Burton rapped a double over third, Wilson and Vitarelli scoring. Starr popped to Tucker and Stewart flied to McNabb.

There was no more scoring until the sixth when the Genelecs came up with three runs to take the lead. With one away Mowry was safe on Kingdon's fumble. Holmes bunted safely to put two on and Hawks single to left sent Mowry in. Singles by Woods and Tucker past third chased two more runs in. Playford flied to Crowe and Cadd's long fly to centre found Stewart waiting for it.

That was all until the ninth. Both sides threatened several times but there was nothing doing until the final frame when Genelecs defence came apart at the seams

2,000th Hit

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30— (AP). — Arkie Vaughan, shortstop of the Brooklyn Dodgers, made the 2,000th hit of his major league career in the second game of Sunday's doubleheader with the Phillies.

Vaughan had 1,846 at the start of the National League season, and 151 for the season, including Saturday's game. Needing three more to reach the select circle, he collected a single in the opener Sunday and a single and a double in the nightcap.

"MR- LONGTAIL" AIMS HIS SIGHTS AT EQUIPOISE'S STUD RECORD

Equipoise . . . a great horse Whirlway . . . with Trainer Ben Jones

By RIP NORBWEN
Central Press Canadian

LEXINGTON, Ky.—Far from the scenes of his many triumphs, Whirlaway is lazily munching Kentucky's bluegrass these days in retirement amid the surroundings from whence he went forth three years ago to win fame and fortune.

Records galore lie behind "Mr. Longtail," as he was affectionately known during his racing campaigns. But if anyone thinks that "Mr. Longtail" is through with trying to break records, he has another guess coming.

When you get the habit of busting records, you don't easily shake it. So Whirlaway, who already boasts a bevy of running records and the all-time earnings' mark of $561,161, is out to make his mark in the horse breeding business.

Record Set Last Year

Foremost among the records waiting to be knocked off by Whirlaway is the one established last year by the ill-fated Equipoise.

The sons and daughters of Equipoise earned a total of $437,041 in purses during 1942—more swag than ever had been collected by any sire's offspring in a single year.

The previous high was $422,200 by Sir Gallahad III's kiddies back in 1930. And just to indicate what sort of company these horses are in, the previous mark was hung up by none other than ol' Man o' War himself in 1926 when his get earned $408,137.

Whirlaway will get "the pick of the land" when he opens his stud season. His owner, Warren Wright, of Chicago, will see to that. None but the finest pedigreed mares or those with noteworthy racing records will be permitted in his harem.

In line with the ancient breeding rule which says: "Breed the best to the best and hope for the best," there's reason to hope that "Mr. Longtail's" name will be back on the sports pages within a few years when his progeny begin grabbing off these juicy stakes.

All Popular

Were one to name the three most popular thoroughbreds of the past decade (prior to the present year which belongs to Count Fleet), the list would have to include Equipoise, Seabiscuit and Whirlaway. Each of these had a popular grip on the public fancy. Equipoise for his unsurpassed courage and reliability which earned him the appallation of "The Chocolate Soldier"; Seabiscuit, for the sentimental Horatio Alger flavor of his historic comeback, and Whirlaway, for his crowd-tickling finishes in which he would come from last place to first place like something in a Hollywood movie.

It's interesting to note that Whirlaway's record-breaking ambitions have been, and are yet, at the peril of records established by the other two members of the "Big Three" of popularity in the past decade. The high mark of $437,730 in earnings was held by Seabiscuit until Whirlaway came along. The new high of $437,041 in one-year earnings by offspring, of a single sire (Equipoise) is now threatened by Whirlaway.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

A pitching duel between Max Samuely of Stratford Nationals and Tom White of London Army in the first tilt of the inter-county senior playoffs at London Saturday was broken up when Centre-fielder Art Herchenratter slammed out a triple in the 10th inning with none out, then ambled home on an error with the winning counter of a 3-2 decision.

Herchenratter, who had played hockey with Detroit Red Wings until the war intervened, previously clouted out a three-bagger which brought in a valuable run, and played errorless ball in the centre garden while seven boots were recorded against other players. White was effective on the mound for the soldiers, too, allowing only five hits and twice retiring the side when Stratforders filled the bases.

Four entries from Ottawa made a clean sweep of the inter-city armed services lawn tennis tourney at the Seigniory Club Saturday, taking the four singles and four doubles matches from Montreal opponents. The Capital team comprised Sub-Lt. Gordon Shorter, Sub-Lt. Ken Black, Flt.-Lt. E. Kemble and WO. R. Baker, the last-named from Australia.

Ridden by Jockey Woolf from Alberta, Askmenow, owned by H. P Headley, Lexington, Ky., held off Bold Captain in a stretch duel to take the $74,700 American Derby at Washington Park Saturday. The two horses were 12 lengths ahead of Famous Victory for show. It was Woolf's fourth stake win in a week.

Wants To Manage.

Bill Terry, former manager of the New York Giants, has wired President Ford Frick of the National League from his home in Memphis, Tenn., to ask for the appointment as manager of one of the major league all-star teams for the proposed tour of overseas military camps.

With the assistance of George Elliott, a segagenarian who batted 39 runs before retiring, Brantford cricketers Saturday won from Galt on their home grounds by scoring an even 100 for six wickets against 39 all out for the visitors.

Falls Lose.

In the first of the Senior "B" baseball playoffs at St. Catharines Saturday, the Combines took Niagara Falls into camp 9-2 behind the six-hit twirling of Gordon (Lefty) Weeks, with the Saints collecting 14 hits off the offerings of Bill Poole and Jiggs McMurtie.

Dick Pawley of Dundas, and Larry Angus of Windsor, Ont., pitched Royal Canadian Navy to a 4-3 victory against Air Force in the Halifax Senior Baseball League Saturday, the Tars qualifying to meet the Army team in the finals which open to-night.

Rides 5 Winners

GARDEN STATE PARK, N.J.—(AP)—The first in New Jersey turf history to accomplish the feat, Jockey Frankie Zehr rode five winners at this track Saturday, the final success being the neck victory by Aonbarr in the Trenton Handicap, feature event of the day.

Wins $33,300

NEW YORK (AP)—Bee Mack, daughter of War Admiral, lived up to advance notices by winning the Hopeful Stakes for two-year-olds, the getaway feature Saturday of the Saratoga meeting on Belmont track, drawing $33,000 as her share of the purse. The 6½ furlong race was clocked in 1:18.4.

American Star Shows Little Speed

PRINCETON, N.J., Aug. 30. — (AP).—Lacking the incentive provided by the flying heels of Gunder Haegg on various tracks this season, Bill Hulse, newest American distance king, failed yesterday in an attempt to crack the flying Swede's American mark of 4:05.3.

Hulse ran the distance at Palmer Stadium in 4:08 in a handicap race against Ted Carter and Bob Depler of the Princeton University track team.

His time was far off the 4::06 mark he established at Berea, Ohio, earlier this summer when he finished second to Haegg for the fastest mile ever run by an American.

Martin Team Ready For Campaign

The announcement by Fred Martin the other day— that his team will enter the Men's City Five-Pin Bowling League again this Fall is a sure sign that summer is nearly over. Fred is all set for the coming bowling season. His team, sponsored again by Jay's Cigar Store, is practically the same powerful squad which has been successful in winning City Championships since 1936. The line-up will include only five regular players, "Bud" Weese, Tommy Miller, Jack Playford, Mill Martin and Fred Martin. If one of the above-mentioned players is unable to be present for a league match a good industrial leaguer will be picked up for the night. Joe Marsden, the veteran C. G. E. trundler, was used by several teams in such emergencies last winter and filled the bill to perfection.

It looks as if the bowlers are in for a banner year. Fourteen teams competed in the City League last season and they did not include by any means all of the top notch trundlers in town. The Martin move of announcing its line-up early is welcomed by the league executive and other teams thinking of entering are asked to follow the above plan.

A bowling meeting will be held soon, the date of which will be published later, to organize for the coming season. Every shop league bowler with an average of around 200 or better will be asked to attend. This invitation will of course be also extended to every man who bowled in the City Leageu last year.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Aug. 30 — (CP). — Maybe it seems strange that Montreal, Canada's largest city, has won so few major sport championships. For example, Montreal has won the Allan Cup just once and has never won the Canadian junior hockey title. Montreal has taken the Dominion senior rugby title just twice in its 44 years of competition. Now suddenly, we have the answer. Harold Atkins of the Montreal Star writes: "Of.... people who compete in athletics, in some form or other, here only about one-tenth is believed to know the fundamentals of the game they give time to."

Anyway Montreal is going to do something about it. The Young Men's Hebrew Association has formed a free sports clinic where fundamentals of many sports will be outlined. Doug Kerr, McGill University football coach, will start off the clinic this week with a class on how to handle a football and how to kick. Motion pictures will show prominent grid stars in action.

The clinic will meet every Wednesday until December 15 with talks on many sports from skiing to water polo.

Rugby roll-call:

Football fever has taken hold in Halifax so firmly they're even talking of a bid for national honors. Tiny Herman, former Ottawa Rough Rider star now in the Navy, will coach the line for the Halifax Navy team....When Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers started practice last week they had 18 men with previous grid experience....A couple of former National Hockey League players, Paul Platz of Chicago and Alf Pike of New York Rangers, attended the drill in hopes of catching berths. Pike had never played football before....The former Winnipeg Bomber star, Lieut. Art Stevenson, is assisting Dave Sprague in coaching Ottawa Combines, but it's doubtful he'll paly because of his bad knee.

Incidentally:

Harold (Shrimp) McDougall, the former Peterborough, Ont., athlete who died last week in Toronto, played centre for Owen Sound Greys when they won the Dominion junior hockey title in 1927. Later he played professional hockey with Toronto Millionaires and Calumet, Mich.....A sports show, including baseball and softball games with other special events, will be staged to-day in Winnipeg's Osborne Stadium in an attempt to raise $2,000 for the Chinese War Relief Fund....Toronto Argonauts Football Club was the revenue-producer for the Argonauts Rowing Club. With the Argo footballers disbanded for the duration, it appears the rowers will have to close shop, too.

Dark Cloud Menaces Dick Hogan Tonight

Regardless of the weather tonight, Rough-house Dick Hogan may find a large "dark cloud" descending on him when Gentleman Jack Claybourne starts his zooming tactics in the Brock Street Arena ring. Massuh Jack and Rugged Richard come together in the main bout and at the moment of writing, each of these heavily muscled gents is solidly confident that he is the tougher man. Hogan is probably the rasher of the two and in some respects, such as questionable holds etc. he is definitely out in front. On the other hand the versatile negro wrestler has blinding speed and oodles of power and having been a pretty fair hand at the boxing game, Jack can be counted on to do a lot of slugging of his own, if necessary. It should be hot and heavy while it lasts.

Another major tempest should result when Pat Flanagan and Bunny Dunlop try out their respective styles on each other. Flanagan will give away weight and strength to the powerful Dunlop, but in the department of mat science the speedy Irish boy will have a big edge.

Flight Sergeant Ted Miller who teaches Judo to the Airmen at Trenton, will be introduced here against Joe Maich the husting little Brantford Buzz-boll.

Syracuse Takes Two Games From Baltimore

By The Associated Press.

Syracuse's surprising Chiefs have been playing .773 ball for the last 2½ weeks but there is little likelihood the third place club will be able to take the International League lead away from Toronto Maple Leafs in the two weeks left of the season.

The Leafs need only five victories to shut the first-place door in the face of both Newark and Syracuse.

Syracuse won its 17th decision out of its last 22 starts yesterday by taking two games from Baltimore, 6-1 and 7-1. Arnold (Lefty) Carter pitched the first triumph and Red Bartleson handled the mound duties for the winners in the second.

Jersey Nabs 2.

Newark's losing streak was extended when Jersey City swept the Sunday twin bill, 2-1 and 1-0. In the nightcap Bob Wells handcuffed the second place Bears with a lone hit, a single by Don Savage in the fifth.

Rufe Gentry won his 19th game of the year as Buffalo pushed Montreal to the .500 mark, 10-7, and Toronto's Nick Strincevich blanked Rochester 4-0.

Strincevich was in such command over the Red Wings that not one of Pepper Martin's Athletes reached second base. It was the Toronto hurler's third victory of the year over Rochester.

Toronto split with Montreal in Saturday's games, winning the first half of a doubleheader 1-0, and dropping the second 3-0. Rochester swept a twin bill from Buffalo, 9-1 and 6-0, and Jersey City defeated Newark 3-2 and Syracuse shut-out Baltimore 1-0.

Tommy Farr, the Welshman who didn't have a chance, left the experts talking to themselves with his plucky 15-round showing against Joe Louis, world heavyweight boxing champion, at New York six years ago tonight. The Brown Bomber had little difficulty winning the decision but he couldn't knock out the rugged challenger.

Some Cake

MILWAUKEE (AP)—They had a 12-foot birthday cake for Manager Charley Grimm of the Brewers Saturday night at the ball park but when the veteran pilot sliced the gift, out paraded six dancing girls leading a new pitcher, Joe Acosta. Later Indianapolis took care of Acosta with a 6-5 defeat in 10 innings.

Tigers Defeat Browns In Two Games

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sport Writer

There is a possibility Cincinnati Reds may overhaul St. Louis Cardinals in another of those hot September finishes usually associated with the National League.

A glance at the standings shows the Cards out in front by 10½ games with only 34 left to play. If the Reds maintain their remarkable .778 pace of the last fortnight and sweep a four-game series with the Cards at St. Louis next week-end, the senior loop will witness another dogfight right down to the wire.

The largest crowd in the history of Crosley Field—38,017—turned out in Cincinnati yesterday and watched the Reds win the opener of a double bill from the Cards 5-3, and lose the nightcap, 3-2 in 11 innings after coming from behind to tie the score in the ninth on Max Marshall's single.

Riddle Wins 17th

Elmer Riddle received credit for his 17th victory in the first game, although it took Clyde Shoun's relief pitching to stop the Cards from the seventh on. In the nightcap it was hurler Max Lanier who kept the Cards' lead from being shaved to 8½ games.

Rudy York, Detroit slugger, clouted two homers, his 29th and 30th of the year, as the Tigers beat St. Louis Browns twice, 15-5 and 4-2. York fell one shy of tying the record of 18 round-trippers in one month. The Tigers are idle today and tomorrow.

Charley Keller and Roy Weatherly each walloped two homers and Spud Chandler won his 17th of the season as New York Yankees swept a doubleheader from Boston Red Sox, 6-4 and 5-1 to maintain their 9½ game edge in the American League.

Rip Sewell of Pittsburgh, failed to become the first 20-game winner in the majors when Chicago Cubs knocked him out of the box with a seven-run uprising in the ninth to win the first game of a twin bill, 11-2. The Pirates gained a split by taking the nightcap 3-1.

Washington came from behind in both games to beat Philadelphia Athletics twice, 5-4 in 11 innings and 2-1.

Mel Harder and Allie Reynolds pitched Cleveland to a double victory over Chicago White Sox, 2-1 and 6-1.

Dodgers in Again.

Brooklyn swept a doubleheader from the Phillies, 3-1 and 8-0. Whit Wyatt pitched perfect ball for six innings of the opener, then yielded six hits in chalking up his shutout.

Jim Tobin and Al Javery each won their 12th games of the season in pitching Boston Braves to a double triumph over New York Giants, 4-1 and 1-0.

In Saturday's National League games, the Giants landed on the Braves for 14 hits and a 12-0 shutout. Brooklyn got 20 hits off four Phillies pitchers for a 14-7 decision, Pittsburgh nosed out Chicago 5-4 and Cincinnati won a 4-3 decision over St. Louis.

In the American League, Chicago defeated Cleveland 7-6, the Browns defeated Detroit 10-5, Boston won 2-1 over New York and the Senators turned back the Athletics 1-0.

Rations Offer Choice Of Several Sweets

OTTAWA, Aug. 30 (CP).— The Prices Board last night announced ration allowances for jams, jellies syrups, canned fruit and similar products. Sales of these goods are under suspension until September 2, when "D" coupons from the new No. 3 ration books become valid for sweetspreads and other goods of this type.

Two "D" coupons will become good each month. For each coupon the purchaser will have the choice of:

1. Six fluid ounces of jam, jelly, marmalade, extracted honey, apple butter, maple butter or honey butter, or;

2. Ten fluid ounces of molasses or maple syrup, or;

3. Ten fluid ounces of canned fruit, or;

4. Twelve fluid ounces of corn syrup, cane syrup or any blended table syrup, or;

5. One-half pound of maple sugar or comb honey in squares.

As an alternative to any of these commodities the consumer may obtain for his "D" coupon one-half pound of sugar.

"The ration plan is similar to that used for meats since the consumer may 'spend' a coupon for any one of the commodities rationed, depending on his choice and upon what is available," the Board's announcement said.

Why Sugar Available

The "D" coupons will become good on the same dates as sugar coupons. The Board said the plan will make for a more equitable distribution of commercially packed preserves and homemade preserves, as well as providing the alternative of the extra sugar for "D" coupons. There will be no restriction on the use of the sugar obtained in this way.

"It is possible to make more sugar available because of the substantial reduction in the commercial pack of jams, jellies and canned fruits occasioned by the short fruit crop and the consequent reduction in sugar used for these purposes," the Board said.

Announcement was also made of an increase in the quotas of other industrial users of sugar, except wine manufacturers, from 70 to 80 per cent of 1941 usage. This increase becomes effective Oct. 1.

Other details of the new rationing plan announced are:

Hotels, institutions, restaurants, soda fountains and other similar users will be rationed by quota as in the case of other rationed foods.

Industrial users of jams, preserves, such as bakers and confectioners, will also be rationed by quotas, but the industrial use of honey, maple syrup and corn syrup will be severely restricted or eliminated entirely in order to make more of these commodities available to householders.

Infants who need more than the 24 fluid ounces of corn syrup per month provided under the ration will be issued extra "D" coupons against surrender of sugar coupons to local branches of the Ration Administration or to local Ration Boards.

When purchasing goods in containers it will not always be possible for the consumer to get the extra value shown on the chart for his coupon. However, he may purchase two or more containers if the total contents do not add up to the more than the total value of the coupons presented.

Jelly powders, soya bean spreads and peanut butter are not included in the rationing plan.

flight leader declared the area appeared "dead and deserted."

No Resistance.

Air Force officials, however, were reluctant to attach any immediate significance to the lack of flak or other signs of enemy activity.

Previously, both anti-aircraft guns and artillery had been very active in that area.

One of the heaviest of the weekend attacks was delivered in daylight on Saturday by American heavy bombers from the Middle East against shipping and rail installations at Taranto, important naval base on the Italian heel.

Attacking in two waves, the bombers made a direct hit on a large cruiser in the harbor and a near miss on a medium-sized vessel believed to be a transport. The main station was hit and a freight train in the yards was seen to explode.

Saturday's deepest penetration into Italy was made by American bombers of the North African Force. They struck briefly at railroad yards at Terni, 45 miles north of Rome.

Large numbers of enemy fighters were encountered by the heavy and medium bombers which attacked manu other communications targets many other communications targets in the Naples area. Twenty-eight were reported shot down against an Allied loss of eight planes.

The push seemed to be aimed at by-passing the big Nazi base at Paltava, 85 miles to the south and west of Kharkov, on the north. At the same time another Soviet spearhead further south was pointing in the direction of Krasnograd, in a drive apparently aimed at pinching off the base just as the Nazi bastion at Orel was cut off earlier this summer.

Action on the Kharkov and Vorochilovgrad fronts thus seemed to be rapidly blending its one gigantic drive by which the Russians hoped to reach the sweeping eastward bend of the Dnieper river somewhere in the vicinity of Dniepropetrovsky, thus imperilling the whole Nazi position in the Donets Basin. Russian airmen ranging far over German-held territory to bomb and strafe troop concentrations and supply depots reported the Germans were destroying their own military installations in evident preparation for further withdrawals toward the west.

Move On Bryansk.

The Russian communique indicated that the southern end of the long eastern battle line was at present the focal point of the summer offensive, but the columns which were stalled temporarily in the advance upon the important Nazi base at Bryansk 200 miles southwest of Moscow by unfavorable terrain and heavy German demolitions, were again on the move.

The war bulletin announced the Red Army had advanced nine miles and had captured 40 villages in the sector south of Bryansk. The spearhead reaching west in the new battlefront opened last week at Sevsk, 100 miles south of Bryansk, advanced to capture 16 villages, the communique said.

German losses were heavy along the entire front, the Russians announced. In the southern sector around Karkov and Voroshilovgrad alone 6,000 Germans were reported killed. One thousand Germans were killed in fighting around Bryansk, the Soviet communique added.

The Russians claimed destruction of two German transports totalling 8,000 tons and an enemy patrol ship in the Barents Sea in the north and a 6,000-ton German transport and a German patrol ship in the Black Sea. In the Sea of Azov Soviet air units sank four small ships and damaged eight others, the Russians said.

Obituary

HILLIARD LANG

MILLBROOK, Aug. 30 (ENS).— The funeral of the late Hilliard Lang, which was largely attended, took place from the family homestead, Lot 17, Concession 7, on Thursday at 2 p.m., the service being under auspices of Millbrook Lodge, I.O.O.F., No. 308, Rev. A.L. Sisco, B.D., having charge of the church ritual. Mr. Lang, who was a life-long resident of Cavan township, passed away with startling suddenness, after being engaged as usual in his daily duties on the farm; he was in his fifty-seventh year, and was a son of the late Frederick Lang, and his wife, Elizabeth Peel, his birth place having been on the farm east of the village now occupied by Loftus Larmer. His grandfather Alexander Lang, came to this country from Ireland, and was a well-known pioneer of Manvers township. His mother's death occurred on April 4, of this year and of the five children, of whom Mr. Lang was the eldest, three predeceased him in childhood.

On September 22, 1909, the marriage of Hilliard Lang and Charlotte E. McMahon took place, their home being on the Seventh Line of Cavan; to their union two children were born, Mrs. L. L. McClenaghan (Bertha), of Fraserville, and Donald, on the homestead. Throughout his whole life Mr. Lang was engaged in farming and for 24 years was an active member of the school board of S. S. No. 8 (Whitfield's), holding the office of secretary-treasurer; in religion he was a member of St. Andrew's United Church, and in fraternal circles, had been connected with the Oddfellow's Lodge in Millbrook for over 23 years.

The immediate surviving relatives, besides the bereaved widow, and the two children already mention, include a brother, Willis of Peterborough, and one grandchild Danny McClenaghan.

The floral tributes, which were numerous and beautfiul bore silent tribute to the high esteem in which the deceased was held; the honorary pall-bearers, all brother Oddfellows, were William G. Rowland, H. C. Argue and Wilfrid Elson. The acting bearers included: Lesile Lang, Melville Johnston, Wilbert Peel, Thomas G. Douglas, James Nelson and Harry Dawson. Interment was in the family burial plot at Gardiner's Cemetery.

Danes Refuse Terms.

Gen. Hermann von Hannecken, the German commander in Denmark, issued the decree, threatening "ruthless use of arms" to enforce it.

It banned all strikes, civil communications, street traffic after dark, and assemblies of more than five persons except for church services. The death penalty was provided for those who incite workers to strike "to the detriment of German armed forces."

The German move to take over full control of the kingdom—with Danish civil servants instructed to stay on the job under direct Nazi supervision—came after the Government of Premier Eric Scavenius flatly refused to bow to a drastic eight-point ultimatum presented on Saturday by German Minister Werner Best.

It was said this ultimatum carried many of the same terms embraced within the martial law order.

Look at a Bomber—deHavilland Mosquito.

you see Northern Electric at WAR

No, we don't build bombers . . . our job is to give speech, sight and hearing to those argosies of victory—those D-for-Donalds, C-for-Charlies and their gallant crews who are making aerial history. And into this work go sensational developments in electronic equipment fashioned and perfected to guide our airmen (many of them our fellow workers) to any target . . . through any weather . . . and to bring them safely home again. The men and women of Northern Electric . . . the hands that man the machines . . . are working at high speed, accurately, in a full-time effort to produce the world's best equipment for the world's best fliers. Only when peace comes will the hands of Northern Electric return to their regular activity of manufacturing wires and cables, telephones, radio receivers for civilian use . . . all the products of a national electrical service.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

Now that the summer holidays are drawing to a close many Packs and Troops will be planning to get down to the business of indoor meetings, and it is possible that we will be receiving weekly reports from many of our last season regulars. We would, however, suggest that every Troop and Pack will do its best to appoint a regular reporter to get in touch with your scribe every week, giving the details of activities. There are also one or two things that we should all keep in mind.

Registration: Yes that time is getting nearer every day. Scouters and Cub masters should start right now to prepare themselves for this.

Jamboree: I guess we can all remember that it was decided to hold a jamboree at the Scout grounds before the end of September, so let us get busy on that work.

Apple Day: Early in October we will be busy at work on Apple Day. Now that the hut at the Scout grounds is a reality, there is no excuse for laying back. In fact we should go right ahead to raise more funds to line the roof and get a good fireplace built there. So why not get thinking of this at once.

We are very glad indeed to report that a real gang went to the Scout grounds on Saturday, and according to report there is a little more floor to be laid, and the doors and windows finished. The knots have been treated and the outside is now ready for a coat of paint. Another gang this Saturday will go a long way to complete the job.

We understand that a meeting of the Scouters' Club is being called for the very near future, and also that Commissioner Ernie Wolff has several items to discuss, so let us do our utmost and make it our business to attend. One Scouter has suggested that it is made a week-end affair out at the grounds.

Members of the local association would do well to prepare themselves for a meeting during the third week of this month or probably sooner.

St. John's Pack met in Nichols Oval on Friday last under Baloo Lawless and Raksha Baxter. Akela came along to witness some of the games and gear some of the songs that were learned at Gilwell. The Pack will meet at St. John's Sunday School on Friday, September 3, at 6.45 sharp.

St. Luke's 2nd Armour Pack will start meeting on Tuesday, September 7, at 6.30 p.m. in the Sunday School. Every Cub is asked to be present. Any new members are welcome. Boys wishing to join please be at St. Luke's Church at 6.30 on Tuesday, September 7, or get in touch with Akela King.

Chemong Season Finale Helps War Funds

With the approach of cooler weather and the necessity of the young folk preparing for their re-entrance on scholaristic duties, the season at Chemong it fast coming to a close, this being emphasized by a grand finale on Friday, August 27, with an entertainment by one of the very talented groups of youngsters who have spent their summer holidays among its charming and health giving environs.

This show was produced and directed by Judith and Margaret Strickland, Joan Somerville and Sheila Young, assisted by Bill Fortye, Beverly Fortye and Walter Somerville, with one of this city's most versatile barristers, F. D. Kerr, K.C., acting as Master of Ceremonies.

Miss Joan Somerville of Toronto delighted the audience of friends and neighbours with her graceful swan dance, while Master Bill Fortye of Honolulu, impersonating actions of J. F. Strickland, K.C., while at his well known pastime of gardening in such clever fashion as to evoke much praise and applause.

The Misses Sheila Young, Margaret Strickland and Joan Somerville provided a number from the classics by interpreting their version of the famous balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet" which was followed by Master Walter Somerville of Toronto, who gave a real timulating performance as a trained tumbler.

From Honolulu

Coming here from Honlulu, Miss Beverley Fortye would naturally have an excellent knowledge of how the Hawaiian Hula dance should be performed, and this she demonstrated to the great delight of those present, and then with Miss Judith Strickland acting as Professor Quiz, a contest was held in which Gordon S. Mathews proved winner on points for which he was rewarded with the prize of a luscious red tomato, but no information was given as to the manner in which it was presented.

The evening's entertainment was brought to a splendid conclusion with an old English dance by Miss Margaret Strickland and F. D. Kerr, K.C. and the proceeds of evening amounting to $10.00 was equally divided between the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, and the Bridgenorth Branch of the Red Cross. This contribution to aid the victims of air raids over Britain appears in today's list for the fund.

At the coffee club on Saturday morning, it all started by those in attendance pooling their coppers in order to give one of its habituees a cup of coffee, and on his proving adamnant in his decision not to indulge on this occasion, this formed the nucleus from which grew the donation amounting to $3.27 in their name today, the story of its growth would probably interest some of the high financeers but that's worth money to those who are inquisitive enough to want to know the why and wherefor.

One fine personal donation of $10.00 is recorded from G. Sage, this having been left in by one who was in the King's uniform giving him credit for an extra patriotic act, and one of the most consistent of the fund's supporters in the person of "E.M.F." is again listed with a donation of $20.00.

Previously acknowledged	$62,188.05
Judith and Margaret Strickland, Joan Somerville and Sheila Young, part proceeds of show at Chemong	5.00
The Coffee Club	3.27

3 Power Talks To Come Soon

LONDON, Aug. 30.—(CP).—Speculation of the possibility of an early Anglo-Russian American conference was given a new boost to-day when it was learned Foreign Secretary Eden will meet both Ivan Maisky, former Russian ambassador to Great Britain, and U. S. Ambassador John G. Winant tomorrow.

The meeting between representatives of the three big Powers might have been held earlier, diplomatic sources indicated, except for the fact Eden is reporting to-day to his War Cabinet colleagues on the results of the Quebec conferences between Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt.

Many diplomatic observers are convinced Eden, Maisky and Winant will consider the possibilities of joint, personal, three-power conversations, at least on the "foreign minister level."

It was announced yesterday Mr. Eden had returned to Britain by plane from the Quebec War Councils and at the same time it was reported that Maisky, replaced in Britain as ambassador only recently, had returned.

The Daily Mail, featuring the story, said a tri-partite conference probably would take place within two weeks either in London or Moscow or "at some intermediate spot." It said Mr. Eden would represent Great Britain and Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov would represent Russia, while a high-ranking American delegate would be chosen by President Roosevelt. The Daily Mail hinted the latter might be Norman H. Davis, formerly Mr. Roosevelt's special ambasador in Europe, now in London on Red Cross business.

The paper noted the Allies "are in fullest agreement."

"Mike," who enlisted with an artillery unit, transferred to the Hastings, Prince Edward Regiment on his arrival overseas in October, 1942. A brother, Patrick, was with him in Sicily in the same regiment, and another brother, Martin, is with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders.

Seek Enforcement of Bylaw Having Vendors Place Name Near Goods Offered For Sale

A market bylaw passed by the city council in 1926, 17 years ago, requires every person selling food to display his or her name on or near the goods offered for sale.

This regulation has not been pressed by the local authorities, but when the council decided to rent space in the upstairs hall it it naturally followed that those who had thereby acquired right to counter room should put their names on their surface property.

At a meeting of the property committee the other night the chairman, Alderman Swanston, was asked to have the bylaw carried out as recommended by the Board of Health acting on the advice of Dr. Harold Worton, V.S., in his occasional capacity as Acting Sanitary Inspector. This becomes another active chore for Alderman Swanston whose committee in its attention to the market has followed a course of generally leaving the farmers to themselves.

However, the council and the Board of Health are both inclined to the business principle that the buyer on the market should know the names of the producers. Most of those who sell upstairs are renters of space, regulars who attend every week, with right to seating and selling room. But, it is outdoors that the city's rule has been ignored up to the present.

Boy 14, Charged With Theft Of Ration Books

Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., back from his vacation, had a problem case on his hands this morning when a fourteen-year-old Peterborough boy pleaded guilty to stealing a commercial gasoline ration book and a beer ration book from Roy Martin in Campbellford.

It was revealed during the proceedings in juvenile court that the boy's parents have been separated, for nine years, the father employed in a Toronto war plant and the mother living here.

"I can't do anything with him," the mother told the magistrate. "You can't trust him. He takes everything he lays his hands on and he came home drunk early one Saturday morning lately."

The father offered to take the lad to Toronto with him and try to look after him there but the boy refused to go. "I have heard too much about him," the boy told the magistrate.

Sergt. Gordon T. Puffer said that the ration books had been stolen from a truck in Campbellford. The boy had brought them to Peterborough and the beer ration book was found on his person but he had given the gasoline book to another boy who had apparently become frightened and had torn the back off the book and burned it.

Magistrate Langley pointed out that it was the first time the boy had appeared in court and that under the circumstances, he was inclined to give him suspended sentence, following his usual custom in such cases.

The mother said that she thought the youthful accused should go to the Bowmanville Boys' School and refused at first to go on his bond.

"You are the queerest mother I have met," Magistrate Langley said.

"I don't think it fair to ask me," said the father, "when I am not here to look after him."

Finally the mother consented to sign the bond and the boy was allowed to go on suspended sentence for one year.

Traffic Charge Is Withdrawn

A charge of careless driving against Charles Frederick, 39-year-old Norwood gas station attendant, was withdrawn in police court this morning.

Frederick had been charged with the offence, following a recent traffic accident on the 9th line of Dummer, a mile north of Norwood, in which two Peterborough citizens were hurt.

The Norwood man was defended this morning by Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C.

"I have taken up the matter with the officer concerned and with his sergeant," said Crown Attorney McElderry, K.C., "and I am satisfied this is a matter for the civil courts, so I am asking to withdraw this charge."

3 Motorists Suffer Minor Injuries

Three persons received cuts and bruises and two automobiles were practically wrecked Saturday night in a collision at Romaine and Aylmer streets.

Leonard Parliament, 307 Townsend Street, was driving his car north on Aylmer Street and Kenneth Kyles, 680 Victory Crescent, was travelling east on Romaine Street in his automobile and the two vehicles met in collision at the intersection.

Parliament, and Wm. Soule, Princess Street and Roy Foster and Clare Foster, 292 Townsend Street, who were passengers in his machine escaped unhurt but three of the occupants of the other car received cuts. Mrs. Kyles sustained a cut on her forhead, Bobby Kyles, 2½ years old had cuts on his temple and neck and Miss M. Sullivan, Ennismore, a gash on her forehead. Two other children, Norman and Harry Kyles were unhurt.

Constable Gordon Trennum who investigated the accident, reported that after the crash Parliament's car jumped the curb, struck the iron fence of the Church of the Sacred Heart and continued along the sidewalk for some distance while the Kyles machine was turned around and came to rest against the northeast curb. Both cars were badly damaged.

Navy Auxiliary Plans Tag Day Next Saturday

The local Auxiliary to the Navy is holding a tag day on Saturday for the purpose of raising funds for sending Christmas ditty bags to the hundreds of Peterborough boys and girls who are serving in the Canadian Navy. There is need this year for a much larger sum than was the case a year ago for the number of local boys wearing the blue of the Navy has increased hugely in the past 12 months.

To prepare to fill these bags with Christmas gifts for Peterborough sailors and Wrens will involve a large expenditure and the Auxiliary is relying upon Saturday's tag day campaign to take care of the greater part of the budget.

Incidentally the Auxiliary feels that a number of Peterborough sailors have not yet been listed and unless the addresses are secured soon there is a possibility that these boys might be overlooked. Relatives of navy men who have not given in their names are asked to get into touch with Mrs. F. D. Craig, telephone 5591. Friends of local girls who have joined the Navy are also asked to forward their addresses, as so far no Wrens have been listed with the Auxiliary.

Battle Patriots

BERNE, Aug. 30.—(AP).— Five thousand Nazi troops have arrived in the Haute Savoie Department of France with orders to wipe out resistance of French patriots who have been holding out in the mountains for months, the Tribune De Geneve said Saturday.

Turnbull Store Disaster 30 Years Ago

On August 28, 1913, a catastrophe happened at the building occupied by the Turnbull Company at the corner of George and Simcoe streets (now Zellers), when it collapsed, carrying clerks and workmen in the ruins. Five bodies were recovered from the wreckage and a sixth victim died in hospital.

Luckily the collapse was at nine o'clock in the morning, for if it had been later the casualty list must have been very much larger.

Alterations had been in progress, including the taking out of walls, to add to the capacity of the Turnbull Store by taking in the Barrie Store to the south and at the corner.

Following the disaster hundreds of citizens worked to remove the immense mass of debris, and to rescue any who might have been trapped in the fall.

Those killed were Mrs. Elizabeth Brown. Miss Lillian Boddison, Miss Dolly Sisson, John Cuffe, carpenter, and Mrs. John Kelly, Norwood. The injured included George Curtis, bricklayer, Mrs. Finlay, Norwood, Mrs. G. Middleton, H. J. Manley and Miss Tucker, Norwood. Many miraculous escapes were recorded by those nearest the doors and managed to escape.

Rescue work was carried on all day and by night fall it was evident that no others could have been trapped by the falling bricks and other material.

An inquest was ordered and on September 16, after evidence taken, the jury brought in a verdict that Miss Sisson's death was caused by the collapse of the building and that the evidence was not sufficient to determine the person or persons responsible for the accident.

Man Is Charged Grocery Theft

A break-in at the A and P. Store here last January was recalled in police court this morning when John D. McIntosh, Ford avenue, was arraigned before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court on a charge of breaking and entering the Charlotte street store on January 22 last and stealing a quantity of tea.

McIntosh was arrested Saturday night and charged with the offence, after an investigation into new facts in the case had been made by Officer Archie Menzies.

When the charge was read this morning the accused asked for an adjournment stating that his lawyer was not available this week.

"I was asking for a remand in any case," remarked Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C.

McIntosh was remanded until Saturday without election or plea with bail fixed at $1,500.

Buttars-Greenly Nuptials Thursday in Warkworth

WARKWORTH, August 30. — (ENS) — At three o'clock on Thursday afternoon, August 26, the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Greenly at Warkworth was the scene of a lovely wedding when their only daughter, Nellie Matilda was united in marraige to John Harold Buttars, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Buttars of Plainville, Rev. After the ceremony the guests were seated on the sunny lawn where a buffet luncheon was served by three of the bride's friends, Miss Ina Bowen, Warkworth, Miss Dora Wilson, Campbellford and Miss Elaine Younge, Younge's Point. Carrying out the pink and white color scheme, a table decorated in pink and white held the beautiful wedding cake.

Gifts were presented by the groom to the bride, the matron of honour, the soloist, the organist and the groomsman.

Mr. and Mrs. Buttars left for a honeymoon motor trip to the Muskoka district, the bride travelling in a black wool boucle suit with black and white accessories. On their return they will live in Warkworth.

Congratulations were also extended by the wedding guests to the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Greenly, August 26th being the occasion of their thirty-fifth wedding anniversary.

17,435 Ration Books Distributed In Four Days

The work of distributing Ration Book Number Three was completed on Saturday evening at the Lyceum, a total of 17,435 books being issued in four days. The work proceeded smoothly, except for two minor incidents. On one occasion a strong odour of gas pervaded the rooms and upon investiagiton, it was found that a small child had wandered to the back of the building and turned on the jets on a stove in the kitchen. The situation was dealt with swiftly, and there was no panic and no harm done. On another day the entire building was filled with smoke, which, on investigation, proved to be coming from the furance of the building next door.

Under the Women's Voluntary Services, a total of 177 women took part in the work of organizing, supervising and recording.

Some difficulty was experienced in securing workers, due to the vacation and canning season, but others gave generously of their time to overcome this difficulty.

CHASE & SANBORN COFFEE

SHOCKED TO HEAR THEM SAY:
"HER CLOTHES ARE ONLY HALF-WASHED!"

MERE WORDS CAN'T TELL YOU the difference between an ordinary wash . . . and clothes washed the Sunlight way. You have to see the gleaming brightness and sweet-smelling freshness yourself. For Sunlight does far more than remove surface dirt. A touch of Sunlight on collars, cuffs, edges, puts a film of soap right on the dirt. Then the rich Sunlight lather loosens even deeply imbedded grit and grease.

NO WONDER CLOTHES COME BRIGHTER! Not a streaky bright. Not "Half-Washed". But spotlessly radiant. Yes! Even grimy work clothes win admiring glances. Try Sunlight this washday—and see what its "extra-soapiness" means to you!

MAGIC IN THE DISHPAN

The way Sunlight loosens grease is simply marvelous. And because Sunlight is all pure soap it's kind to your hands . . . and goes a long, long way even in hard-as-nails water.

Reorganization Closes 8 Training Camps

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA, Aug. 30 (CP)—An extensive reorganization of the army's training centre system, resulting in the closing down of eight centres and the grouping of basic with advanced centres was announced by the Defense Department last night.

The reorganization will have two consequences:

1. A number of officers and men now employed on training centre staffs will be released for duty as reinforcements or returned to civilian life.

2. When a recruit enters the army and is designated for a particular service, say infantry, he will proceed to an infantry basic training centre and pass on to an infantry advanced training centre, instead of going to a general army basic training centre and then to an advanced infantry training centre as in the past.

Included in the scheme of reorganization is the already announced closing of the officers' training centres at Three Rivers, Que., and Gordon Head, B.C.

As in the announcement of the closing of those centres, last night's statement says the changes are possible because the "expansion stage in army units has passed" and training can now be devoted mainly to reinforcements.

The basic training centre at Lauzon, Que., Ottawa, and Regina are being closed as such and will be used as district depots. The basic centre at Huntingdon, Que., will be used for medical purposes, and the one at Rimouski, Que., for operational purposes.

The basic centre at Chilliwack, B. C., is being closed and its future use is under consideration. Also under consideration are the future uses of the Three Rivers and Gordon Head officers' training centres.

For Specialists.

Under what is called the 'link training plan," other basic training centres will be specializd for the different training centres. In some cases the advanced centre and linked basic centre will be at the same camp.

These are: Artillery basic and adanced centres at Petawawa, Ont., Brandon, Man., and Shilo, Man.; engineers' centres at Petawawa and Chilliwack B. C.; army service corps centres at Camp Borden, Ont., and Red Deer, Alta.; ordance at Barriefield, Ont.; Prevost at Camp Borden; armored Corps (reconnaissance regiments) at Dundurn, Sask., and the forestry centre at Chicoutimi, Que.

Groupings of basic training centres with advanced centres located separately are as follows:

Armored corps advanced centres at Camp Borden are linked with basic centres at Newmarket, Brampton, Orillia, Stratford and Listowel, Ont.

Medical Centre

The coast defense and anti-aircraft artillery advanced centre at Halifax is linked with basic centres at New Glasgow, N.S., and Charlottetown.

Medical Corps Advanced Centre at Camp Borden is linked with basic centres at Brantford, Ont., Valleyfield, Que., and Cornwall, Ont.

Infantry Advanced Centre at Ipperwash, Ont., is linked with basic centres at Chatham, and Simcoe, Ont.

Infantry Advanced Centre at Farnham, Que., is linked with basic at Yarmouth, N.S.

Infantry Advanced Centre at Shilo, Man., is linked with basic centres at Portage la Prairie, and Fort Garry, Man.

Infantry Advanced Centre at Calgary is linked with basic centres at Camrose, Wetaskiwin and Grand Prairie, Alt.; Infantry Advanced Centre at Maple Creek, Sask., is linked with basic at Prince Albert, Sask.

Infantry Advanced Centre at Utopia, N.S., is linked with basic at Fredericton and Edmundston, N.B.

Increased Efficiency.

"The reorganization will result in increased efficiency in training and a considerable economy of exisiting training facilities personnel and accommodaton throughout Canada," said a departmental statement.

It is understood the plan is the result of long study and consideration over a period of some months, and the new setup is subject to modification from time to time in the light of developments.

"Personnel now employed on instructional and administrative duties will be reallocated according to the needs of the service," said the statement.

"Those surplus to requirements will be absorbed as reinforcements if of suitable age, rank and medical category, otherwise they will be released from the army and thus be enabled to take up civilian occupation and supplement available manpower.

"Under the link training plan, the recruit will progress through his entire training in associated with and as a member of his own allotted arm of the service—an important factor in maintaining esprit de corps and high morale."

Another Stepping Stone On The Way To Tokio

Allied troops are seen here landing supplies from barges a few moments after their surprise occupation of the island of Vella Lavella, in the Solomons. This manoeuvre further encircled the Jap garrison at Bairoko, on New Georgia. The 350 prisoners taken on Vella Lavella constitute the largest number of Japanese ever to surrender without a fight.

Canadian Units All Helped Storming Aderno

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY, Aug. 30 (CP)—The Canadian-British advance on Aderno which broke the Mount Etna line on the northern and 8th Army front saw all the regiments in the 1st Canadian Division contribute to a victory which went a long way toward forcing the Germans to begin their evacuation of Sicily.

This final phase of the Canadians' 250-mile move through the Italian island from Pachino to Etna, was the strangest of them all. It was probably the division's most valuable achievement in the general 8th Army picture yet it was accomplished without a large-scale engagement.

There was fierce bloody fighting, but it was done generally by platoons or companies in the mountains and hills through which the Canadians trekked like lost battalions.

The Aderno operation started as soon as Agira fell, when the British Malta force pushed doggedly east toward Regalbuto where the Germans were making another delaying stand. With the British, still under Canadian command, were the 48th Highlanders, the Royal Canadian Regiment and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, rested now from the fighting at Nissoria where they had softened up the German positions for a breakthrough there.

Getting Ready for Finale

For three days, July 29, 30 and 31, British and Canadian infantry worked into the hills around Regalbuto. The R.C.R.'s and H.P.E.'s got into position south of the town and the 48th Highlanders infiltrated to a high hill overlooking the town from the north. British troops did the same.

Meanwhile big things were happening eight miles south at Catenanuova, where other Canadians were attacking.

During the Canadian advance from Leonforte to Agira the Royal 22nd was leading a push toward Catenanuova from the west, followed by the Carleton and York and the West Nova Scotias with tanks and light artillery.

Nearing the town, the Royal 22nd had a bitter battle on Mount Scapello, south of the main road, and another mountain north of the road. They hit the Germans so hard, however, that on the night of July 29-30 the West Novas, supported by the Carleton and Yorks, were able to go down the slopes of Mount Scapello, capture Catenanuova and establish a vital bridgehead over the dried-out bed of the Diattaino River.

This was the first concrete move leading to the German defeat at Aderno.

The British 78th Division at this time came into the line at Catenanuova, exploiting the bridgehead to the full and driving at Centuripe, stronghold on the top of the mountain on the road to Aderno.

The Wonder Division

The 78th was the wonder division of the 1st Army in Tunisia last winter, and it lived right up to its reputation won so hard at Longstop Hill and down the Medjerdah Valley.

The three Canadian battalions which fought at Catenanuova operated through the mountains on the flank of the 78th under whose command they were during this operation.

On August 2, the Germans collapsed. First, Regalbuto fell at noon to the Canadians and the British, and Centuripe was yielded in mid-afternoon.

The 78th Division looked ahead to Aderno and mounted its attack.

As the Regalbuto-Centuripe operations were concluding the Canadians were pulling off a sneak play in the mountains north of the Regalbuto-Aderno main road.

Supplied by mule trains, the Edmontons pushed off into some of the wildest country in Sicily, making their way on foot over mountain tracks and along river beds to gain mountains and hills overlooking the Simeto River Valley, which was the last obstacle before Aderno and the Mount Etna line

The Edmontons achieved an initial surprise, but eventually ran into German positions in the mountains. The fighting which followed was knock-down, dragout guerrilla battling, with companies and platoons sharing the burden. The whole battalion was never in action at one time.

The Edmontons first captured Hill 736, then stormed Mount Revisotto, taking it, too.

Maj. Gen. G. G. Simmonds, the Canadian divisional commander, organized a strong infantry and tank force to strike down the valley between the Edmontons and the Regalbuto-Adrano road, and the Seaforths were given this task with the tanks.

With perfect co-ordination, this spearhead pierced through to the hills by the Simeto River. The Patricias finished the job by occupying Mount Seggio, highest peak by the Simeto.

The Westeners held firm on this mountain line, but weren't counter-attacked.

22nds Gain Bridgehead.

In a final flourish the Royal 22nds were sent around ahead of the Canadian line, and at night got across the Simeto River, gaining a strong bridgehead. On the night of Aug. 6-7 the 78th Division laid down an artillery barrage on Ad rano following a heavy bombing during the day, and British infantry were in Adrano and up the Bronte road by morning.

The left hook had given the knockout blow to the Germans.

The 48th Highlanders moved into the Simeto Valley, too, and the Carleton and Yorks and West Novas pulled up on the left flank of the 78th as it fought toward Bronte.

The role of the Royal Canadian Engineers was most important through all this fighting, for as the Germans fell back on Aderno they cratered the roads and blew up scores of bridges. The sappers were always on the job, well forward with the infantry repairing roads under fire, bridging and, during the Westerners attack through the moutains, actually building a completely new road over trackless country.

Everyone at the front gave the Canadian gunners full marks and that went as well for the British self-propelled regiment which stuck with the Canadians and gave them wonderful support from Pachino to Etna.

Saskatchewan machine gunners, mortar men and flak troops were frequently in action, helping the infantry break down German opposition.

Nazis Have Difficulty Holding Patriots Down

A picture smuggled out of Norway, showing a crowd of patriotic Norwegians demonstrating in front of the Littleborg School in Oslo, Norway, where French slave laborers are quartered. According to information gleaned with the picture, this was the manner in which the natives showed their sympathy with the French forced into slave labor here. Nazi soldiers were forced to drive their cars on to the sidewalk to disperse the crowd and many of the people shown here were later arrested.

YOUNG PEOPLE WASTE TIME FIGURING COST OF MARRIAGE

It Takes More to Live On than We Think; Team Work Makes Happy Home.

How much money does it take to marry on? Thousands of young couples are wasting reams of good white paper and wearing down lead pencils trying to figure an answer to this question, without finding any solution on which they can rely. For financing a wedding properly isn't just a matter of dollars and cents. It depends just as much on the characters of both contracting parties and how they are accustomed to live. An income that would make Mary and John feel like millionaires would leave Percival and Arabella bemoaning their fate as paupers.

And, anyway, not even a pair of young Einsteins could devise a budget that wouldn't play tricks and leave them in the lurch, for it always takes a little more to live on than we calculated it would. Something untoward always happens. About the time we lay aside so much for rent, grocery bill, movies, and so on, John stubs his toe and there is a doctor's bill to pay. Or Aunt Mehitabel comes for a nice long visit and eats up our next winter's coat, and there we are floundering around in the red, instead of sitting pretty in the black.

Naturally, while a girl and boy are bemused by love's young dream they give little, if any, thought to the sordid side of matrimony that has to do with how do we eat, and wherewithal shall we be clothed. They feel that love is sufficient capital to marry on, that they will desire no other diversion than gazing into each other's eyes, and crave no other food than bred, cheese and kisses.

But, alas, after marriage they discover that there is a price tag on everything in life, and even romance has to be fed to keep it alive Arabella in shabby clothes, needing a new wave and a facial, isn't the glamorous creature Percival married. And when Arabella looks at Percival, seedy, overworked and discouraged, she wonders whatever made her think he was her Fairy Prince.

Becky Sharp in Thackeray's immortal story says that any woman can be virtuous on $5,000 a year. It is equally true that there are innumerable marriages that would be happy and successful, instead of being miserable failures, if only they had enough money in the bank to soft-pad them so husbands and wives would not get on each other's nerves.

It takes stronger characters and a grander passion than most men and women are capable of to stay in love with each other, when their marriage has pulled them down to a lower scale of living, and made life nothing but one eternal grind of poverty, hard labor and staving off the bill-collector.

But, if too little money makes marriage a hazardous adventure for any young couple to undertake, too much money is equally likely to cause disaster because, for one thing, rich girls and boys are spoiled, accustomed to having every whim indulged, and selfishly expect their husbands and wives to be subservient to them. For another reason, those who have nothing to do but amuse themselves are always seeking new sensations, thrill, amusements, and playmates with a fresh bag of tricks, and they are as apt to tire of their old husbands and wives as a pampered child with his toys.

And, for another reason and probably the most important of all, rich husbands and wives are not bound to each other by the tie of mutual dependence. The wife does not depend upon her husband for security in life. The husband does not depend on his wife for his comfort. And so they are not as necessary to each other's happiness as are those couples in which the wife serves her husband with her own hands and he turns his pay envelope over to her.

But between these two extremes of not enough money in marriage, and too much of it, lies the medium of safety in which there is much love and a little money, in which the man makes enough to keep the wolf from the door, and in which the woman has the strength, courage and determination to fight with him side by side.

That is the great American romance. That is the ideal marriage. No unions are so happy as those in which husband and wife build their fortunes together, sharing their plans, hopes, dreams, and ambitions, until they grow so close together nothing but death can part them. So the answer to the question of how much money it takes to marry on seems to be enough to keep you from starving, but not enough to give you the gout. It is still safe to marry on a shoestring, if you pick out a good strong one.

WEEKLY WARTIME NUTRITION HINTS

Martha Logan, Swift's famed home economist, whose weekly, wartime cooking column is a regular feature of this page. Look for these valuable hints each Monday

by Martha Logan

Meat en Brochettes

Many intriguing combinations exist of meats and vegetables on skewers

Have you tried cooking 1-inch cubes of lamb shoulder this way? Push the pieces of lamb on to wood or metal skewers till skewer is filled—season—brush with melted fat. Broil or pan-broil under a hot broiler or on a hot pan for 10 minutes; turn and cook for 5 minutes more. Serve on a bed of rice with barbecue sauce. That is the standard "en brochette" procedure. But the same cooking method can be used both to introduce the nutritionally-so-desirable variety meats into the diet—try slices of parboiled beef kidney or liver between the cubes of lamb—and to give interest to meat left-overs. Almost any previously cooked meat can be used to "extend" fresh meat on skewers. Or, in fact, can be used alone with suitable vegetables . . . mushrooms, parboiled tender young carrots, small, firm tomatoes, pieces of peppers, or with variety meats as suggested above. This is another dodge—so useful in wartime—for dressing up quite ordinary materials to give a festive feeling.

PAN BROILING

Lightly grease a heavy pan. Heat well. Cook chops, steaks, veal fillets, brochettes this way, turning when well browned on the side in contact with the pan.

LAWN BOWLING

On Wednesday, Sept. 1st our club is holding its last big open tournament of the 1943 lawn bowling season. It is for the beautiful trophy presented by the late Hon. J. R. Stratton. It is many many years ago since this trophy was first played for; in fact we believe it was around 1916, when we were a very small organization with our playgrounds situated down on the corner of Bethune, Brock and Aylmer streets. It has been on the go ever since and it is recognized as the outstanding tropny in our collection. It as travelled far and wide over the province of Ontario.

This tournament starts at 1.30 p.m. on Wednesday. If you have not already made your entry, get up a rink and join the crowd. Many local skips have already entered and it looks like keen competition. Some of the rinks are piloted by R. F. Downey, G. Gimbiett, H. Freeman, Renaud, R. Bacon, W. Jeffries, S. Lowe; G. Coleman, L Loftus and C. Bell of Lindsay.

The draw for the ladies club doubles has been made and is now posted at the club house. Interested players are asked to look up and see who their partner is and be prepared to play on Thursday. Sept 2.

It is expetced that the next series of games, for men, will commence on Thursday evening. This draw has also been made and is posted up at the club house. All bowlers are reminded that it's up to themselves to see what it's all about.

The extra game this evening, between G. Coleman and R. Payne for second position, in Group A, should be worth while seeing. These two teams have been going along pretty god all season..

And don't forget to keep Friday night open. Big tournament for British War Victims' Fund.

Congratulations to C. Williamson and C. Renaud. They came through with three wins to land second money at the open doubles held at Dentonia Park, Toronto, on Saturday.

Jennie Morris Marries Harry Roberts

A wedding of some local interest took place Saturday at Bloor Street United church, Toronto, when Jennie Spence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Morris, Aberdeen avenue, Peterborough, became the bride of Harry Douglas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Roberts. The church was decorated with gladioli and ferns, and Rev. Donald MacLeod officiated. Mr. Frank Sylvester was at the organ, and Mr. William Ramsay sang "O Perfect Love" before the ceremony, and "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was lovely in a gown of blush satin with net overskirt, falling from the torso bodice which was finished with a sweetheart neckline. Her veil of net fell from a shirred pink bandeau caught with rose-buds and she carried a bouquet of pink rose-buds. She was attended by Miss Bobbie Watson and Miss Dorothy Ross, who wore white crepe gowns with matching hats and carried sheathes of mixed garden flowers.

Mr. Keith Roberts was best man and the ushers were Mr. Clare Campbell, Mr. Jesse Kreach and Mrs. Art. Binkley.

A reception was held at the Windsor Arms Hotel, Toronto, where Mrs. Morris received in a dress of flowered sheer with white accessories, and Mrs. Roberts also received in a frock of midnight blue crepe with matching hat. Both wore corsages of Talisman roses.

When they left on a trip to the Kawartha Lakes the bride wore a rust-colored outfit with matching hat and brown accessories. They will live in Toronto.

Charming Table Manners Win Gala Dates Galore

"Did I Do Something Wrong?"

That ghastly feeling that you've done something wrong, that people are laughing at you (or wincing!) may sometimes be perfectly right.

People DO look down on you when you commit some obvious breach of etiquette.

Like walking across a dance-floor alone! After a dance a girl who knows what to do asks her partner to take her back to her friends or wherever she may wish to go.

The popular girl knows her part is to receive such courtesies graciously, not with a crude "Don't bother." That's why she's dated, rushed!

You could be, too, if you were sure of the rules. Our 32-page booklet tells both girls and men how to act on dates—whether dancing, dining, motoring, at the theatre or sports events. Tells what to say in introductions, on the telephone. Discusses office and travel etiquette.

For your copy of Charming Table Manners, send 15 cents in coin or stamps to the Home Service Department of the Peterborough Examiner. Be sure to write your name and address and name of booklet plainly.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

REGULATING THE DEAL

QUESTIONS regarding various situations connected with the deal are covered very clearly in the new Laws of Contract Bridge. Among the important ones are these:

1. The pack originally belonging to a side may be reclaimed, but a deal may not be stopped to effect restoration, irrespective of when it was claimed.

2. In the event of a new deal: (a) The same dealer redeals, unless his attempt was out of rotation, in which case the deal reverts to the player whose turn it was to deal, and (b) the same pack is used, unless it was incorrect, or was reclaimed as provided in the previous section, and (c) there is a new shuffle by the dealer, and a new cut by the player on his right.

3. There may not be a new deal during the deal except as provided in the next two sections, and a deal which stands, stands as a correct deal made in rotation.

4. If a player is dealing out of rotation or with an uncut pack, any player may, before the last card is dealt, require a new deal.

5. There must be a new deal if it is ascertained, before the last card is dealt: (a) That the cards have not been dealt as provided by the laws, (b) that a card is faced in the pack or elsewhere, or (c) that a player has seen and can correctly name two or more cards dealt or to be dealt to another player.

6. As to the proprieties of the deal, the dealer should refrain from (a) looking at the bottom card before completing the deal, (b) tilting a card upwards or otherwise allowing one to be seen. (This may impose an unpleasant duty on another player.) The other players should refrain from touching or looking at their cards until the deal is completed. Such action may be embarrassing if it results in facing a card.

4,000 Carloads Of Grain In Bottleneck

FORT WILLIAM, Aug. 30 (CP). —The Fort William Times-Journal in a newspage story Friday said "it was learned authoritatively" a shortage of labor, storage space and shipping facilities has resulted in a bottleneck here in the handling of grain from Western Canada.

The newspaper said there are between 4,000 and 4,500 cars of grain on the tracks in both the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railway terminals while the arrivals approximate 600 cars daily.

"The situation is such that officials are finding it most difficult to alleviate," the newspaper said. "However, it is pointed out that shipments from the west have been curtailed somewhat and both railways are taking care of only a certain number of cars a day in the west.

"In July of this year there were 5,000 more arrivals than in July of last year. At the present rate it is expected that there will be nearly 10,000 more arrivals for the month of August than for the same month last year.

"Lake shipments have been fairly steady with approximately 1,000,000 bushels of grain being taken out daily. In addition about 1,000 cars of grain are being shipped by rail. Never before has there been such a large shipment of grain by rail in the summer time, it is said.

The shortage of labor and the fact that many of the grain boats are carrying ore has caused a gradual accumulation of cars on the tracks in both terminals.

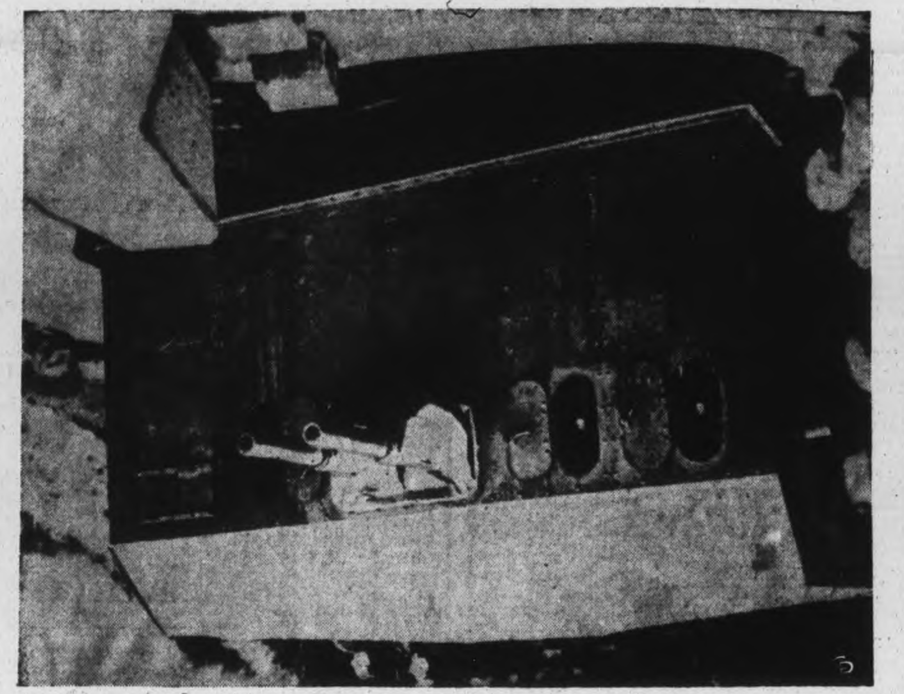
Here Are England's Invasion Repellers



These twin six-pounder guns bristle from the coast of England ready to repel an enemy invasion which thus far has not materialized. Just off the military "secrets" list, this rapid-fire weapon has a range of over 15,000 yards. Its chief purpose is to deal with light coastal motorboats and small torpedo boats. Mounted in pairs in turrets that have a turning circle of 360 degrees, the guns have high muzzle velocity and throw high explosive projectiles.

Canadian Army Flexibility Lauded By McNaughton

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY, Aug. 25 — (Delayed). — (CP Cable). — Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian army commander, said in an interview today that casualties in Sicily were "extraordinarily small for a campaign of the type and intensity in which the Canadians were engaged."

(Previous announcements have placed Canadian 1st Division casualties from the beginning of the campaign of July 10 until August 4 at 1,895 in all categories, killed, wounded and missing.)

Gen. McNaughton, who is in Sicily inspecting the Canadian troops and conferring with other Allied leaders, said the casualties were small "because of the competent way in which the troops were handled, from section to army commanders."

A correspondent mentioned a Berlin propaganda broadcast that said the Canadian casualties were 70 per cent and the division had been withdrawn from the line because of its losses. Gen. McNaughton emphasized such wild reports should not be swallowed. He said Berlin deliberately put out such broadcasts to alarm the public and try to damage morale.

Efficient Units

Gen. McNaughton said that in addition to seeing proof here of the flexibility of the Canadian army organization, two other points stand out as a result of his observations and conversations — the training the Canadians reseived in England was "absoultely sound" and "the extraordinary efficiency" of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's 8th Army, of which the Canadians in Sicily form a part.

The Canadian army commander said paricipation of Canadian fosmations in the Sicilan campaign proved "the Canadian army can be used in whole or in part as the needs and prosecution of the war dictate."

"We have been assured by army corps commanders here of the soundness and usefulness of the training which the Canadian army has had," he said. "It is not to be wondered at for we have had scouts out in a number of war theatres, following new developments and tactics, and reporting back to us.

"But the campaign here has given us what I call the check and audit of our system. This is not to say there are not particular lessons on tactics and the like which must be impressed on our forces. I am taking back a number of points to which strict attention will be paid."

Returning to the performance of the 1st Division, Gen. McNaughton said it dropped at once into its niche in the 8th Army and functioned efficiently from the moment it landed.

This also applied to Canadian armor in Sicily.

"Gens. Alexander and Montgomery and their corps commanders have said their was no trouble in assimilating these Canadian formations," Gen. McNaughton said. "There has never been any anxiety about their performances."

Know Their Jobs

With long training behind them, the Canadians knew how to set about their business here. Front-long formations as well as services and hospitals dropped right into gear.

"This went right across the piece," he said.

Mentioning the Canadian forces in England which he said followed the campaign avidly, Gen. McNaughton said people now are realizing "our large army there is ready to do business on a large scale."

In his tribute to the 8th Army, Gen. McNaughton said that throughout the campaign the Canadian formations had been handled with sympathy and understanding, and received effective direction.

Gen. McNaughton was asked what were the principal tactics employed in pursuit warfare like the Sicilian campaign.

"The idea is to kick the enemy hard and keep kicking him," he replied. "Give him no rest. It is necessary to take chances sometimes to leave flanks exposed and drive forward to establish a firm base, then thrust at his vitals. It requires great physical endurance from the troops. The outstanding feature here was the energy with which the advance was driven."

Discussing the use of artillery, Gen. McNaughton said gunner units must be kept in mass to give the troops the support to which they were entitled.

Throughout his soldiering career, Gen. McNaughton as an artilleryman has championed the principle of using guns in mass. He was the man who planned the great Canadian-Corps artillery barrages in the latter part of the first Great War. He summed up his gunner credo with "you get results in battles and campaigns by mass concentration of guns."

Gen. McNaughton came back to Canadian Divisional headquarters after spending a night at 8th Army headquarters, talking for hours with Gen. Montgomery. He came up a dusty path through a vineyard to Gen. Guy Simonds's tent where the correspondents were gathered. He shook hands with each and sat down in their circle, whacking at ubiquitous flies as the interview started.

Inspected Hospital

He first told of his activities since leaving England by plane. Stopping at North Africa, he saw Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander-in-chief, and the principal members of Allied headquarters staff, and called at Canadian reinforcement unit camps and a Canadian general hospital. The he flew to Sicily to confer with Gen. Alexander, and came to Canadian divisional headquarters.

Gen. McNaughton said he had visted many formations with Gen. Simonds and Brig. A. E. Walford. He went right through the ground covered by the Canadian advance from Pachino to Mount Etna. Later he called on British Corps commanders, then went to 8th Army headquarters.

Of the campaign generally he said: "We have drawn all the lessons and conclusions we could, not only for the benefit of the Canadian forces here but for the advantage of the larger forces in England of which this force is a part."

After the interview Gen. McNaughton lunched with Gen. Simonds and his brigadiers.

ARMY DISPLAY

The equipment of a British or Canadian division is on display in London, a demonstration of 23,500 military varities from pigeons to a Valentine tank.

Family Quarrels Grace Front Pages

LONDON, Aug. 30 — (CP). — Few surpass the London evening newspaper editor in his news rating of domestic conflict in the general panorama of a world at war.

Daily, he places the family squabble on his front page, shoulder to shoulder with the thundering significance of the fighting fronts or the glamor of a Churchill phrase.

Every day there are meagre, quarter-inch cameos of courtroom humor which the reader scarcely notices until he becomes a regular. Then he finds himself anticipating them.

It's a rare and provoking day when you work through page one of the evening news without chortling over some inconspicuous paragraph like this:

"I am intelligent and I'm popular with everyone but my husband —wife at a London court to-day."

And sometimes the husband strikes back. Like this: "I was just going for a drink when my wife approached so I changed my mind." One like that earns the heading, "The Cup and the Lip."

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Aug. 30.—(CP).—Jack of all aerial trades and master as well as Sgt. Milt Zimmerman of Preston, Ont.

Not only has he done a tour of bombing operations in Wellingtons but he has learned to fly Hurricanes and Spitfires in his spare time.

A disappointed man back from the Mediterranean theatre is Sqdn. Ldr. F. B. (Brad) Foster of Montreal. His squadron was at readiness for the biggest job of the war—covering the Sicilian landings and Foster was standing by in Malta when orders came through for him to return to England.

His tour of operations had come to an end after two years of campaigning so, reluctantly, he handed over the command to Sqdn. Ldr. Stan Turner, D.F.C. of Toronto.

Back in London with Flt. Lt. Jacques Maurice of Toronto, Foster said, "I liked Malta very much, even if we were there only two weeks."

An R.C.A.F. veteran of aerial warfare against the Japs is fighting with the City of Windsor Squadron in Sicily now. He is 23-year-old FO. Hedley Everard of Timmins, Ont., who since February, 1942, has been working in Hurricanes from an airbase in Burma. He destroyed one Japanese aircraft and damaged another.

With the Italian navy in an assisting role, a Wellington torpedo bomber patrolling the Mediterranean sank an Axis merchantmen. Sgt. Ralph Cope of Drumheller, Alta., wireless operator of the Wellington told this story when he got back to England after completing 37 trips with an R.A.F. squadron based at Malta.

He said they saw the merchantman protected by two destroyers which laid a smoke screen. But the smoke screen was on the wrong side of the merchantman and only served to protect the attacking plane from the destroyer's flak guns. So, the navy having neutralized itself, the Wellington crew just went ahead and sank the ship.

Sgt. Len Northcliffe of Transcona, Man., made a smashing debut as a tail-gunner. On his first trip he knocked down an FW190 while his squadron was operating against the Krupp armament works at Essen.

Reds Drive Halfway To Mariupol

Gateway To Oilfields Now Open With Taganrog's Fall

MOSCOW, Aug. 31 —(AP)—The Russian Army is smashing unchecked through German defences and is now more than halfway to Mariupol from fallen Taganrog, southern anchor of the long German line, dispatches from the front reported today.

All Russia was celebrating the fall of Taganrog, gateway to the Caucasian oil fields and the cannon of Moscow boomed out a 124-gun salute to the Red Army at the orders of Marshal Joseph Stalin, who announced that the drive had cleared the Nazi army from the entire province of Rostov.

The city on the northern coast of the Sea of Azov was captured by cavalry and tank units of the southern Russian Army commanded by Col.-Gen. Tolbukhin.

A Soviet communique recorded in London said the Red Army units also threatened the industrial city of Stalino, 70 miles to the northwest.

Threaten Hu. Wing

Remnants of the Taganrog garrison meanwhile were ⊦ ing methodically wiped out.

Triumphantly the Russians announced 15 populated places had been recaptured in the great victory which threatened the whole German right wing.

The capture of Taganrog followed the same general pattern as the pincers movements which resulted in the fall of the German bastions of

Four Years Ago Germany Raided Poland

By KENNETH L. DIXON
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(AP). — Proud, oft-partitioned Poland. first to fall before the crushing weight of Hitler's east-bound Wehrmacht, to-morrow will begin her fifth year of war—still flirting on both home and distant fronts.

And, said the Polish Telgraph Agency here, in commemorating the fourth anniversary of that grim September dawn when the Nazis smashed unheralded across the Polish border to open the second Great War without a declaration:

Poland fights on. Her army in the Middle East, which numbers nearly 80,000. is poised for the invasion. Her army in the British Isles is by all odds the most impatient of the Allied troops. Her air force and her paratropers are busy night and day with the R.A.F. Her navy is active in three major theatres. Her armed forces still are fifth in size among the United Nations. And on the occupied home front, under the German military might, the Polish people carry on "the far-flung sabotage and espionage activities which alone can provide the tactical strategic blueprints for the liberation of Europe."

Fought 5 Weeks.

Those were the highlights of the official Polish News Agency's story which recounted how the German land and air armies swept across the Polish frontier at 14 points the morning of Sept. 1, 1939—and within a few hours bombed all Polish airfields and 61 towns.

For five bitter weeks, Poland pitted its 443 planes against the Nazis' 4,320—as long as they lasted — its 31 infantry divisions against the Germans' 70 and its one armored unit against the enemy's 14.

For three days the Poles faced Germany alone, then Britain and France joined. But Poland was doomed.

The cost to Poland was terrific. The telegraph agency figures showed 2,500,000 Poles killed in the invasion and subsequent slaughters; 500,000 "deliberately starved to death by the German occupation authorities since 1939" and 2,000,000 sent to forced labor in Germany; 1,600,000 deported from western Poland to the Nazi-created government general; and 1,500,000 deported by the Soviets to Russia, which entered Poland, Sept. 17.

In addition "348 villages have been burned to the ground and plowed under like Lidice, 1,080 have been evacuated and all the inhabitants either killed or deported," the agency said.

Planes Raid Cities Near Dusseldorf

Many Warehouses Blasted In Night Attack

By E. D. BALL,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Aug. 31 —(AP) —R. A. F. and R. A. C. F. heavy bombers pounded home a heavy, concentrated attack on the German Rhineland last night and mighty fleets of heavy and medium bombers roared across to the Continent to-day to bring the fourth year of the war to a thunderous close.

The war-busy industrial cities of Muenchen-Gladbach and Rheydt were hammered by the R. A. F. and R. C. A. F. bombers last night, a communique announced, while R. A. F. and R. C. A. F. mosquito bombers raided Duisburg and the low countries at the same time, ending a two-day lull in the aerial offensive.

28 Bombers Lost.

Twenty-eigth bombers were lost, three of them Canadian.

An almost unbroken procession of raiders began drumming across the coast at daybreak close on the heels of the massive sweep against the sprawling Rhineland industrial area.

German broadcasts reported 25 night raiders shot down and said Muenchen-Gladbach and Rhydt had been especially hard hit.

(Vienna dispatches to Swedish newspapers said residents of that city were in a panic as fear of new Allied aerial attacks mounted.

(Refugees from Hamburg who have arrived in Vienna added to the unrest, the dispatches stated, with stories of the devastation caused when the city was all but wiped out.

(Placards tacked up around Vienna warned all persons whose residence in the city was unessential to leave immediately. Persons who had to work in the city were spending their nights in the surrounding countryside, the reports added).

As the day wore on heavy aerial traffic continued across the English Channel, with the Allied raiders heading again for France, Belgium and the Netherlands. Nazi airfields apparently were the chief targets of the daylight shuttle operations.

"The population suffered losses and considerable damage was caused to churches, schools, hospitals, residences and public buildings,'" the Germans asserted.

Muenchen-Gladbach and Rheydt are about 18 miles west of Duesseldorf proper in an area which has been raided some 50 times in all. Both places have great war factories and acres upon acres of warehouses.

The raid shaped up as the third major assault upon Germany in eight days.

Paving the way for the night raiders, R.A.F. and American medium bombers heavily escorted by R.C.A.F. and Allied fighters—made a scorching attack late yesterday afternoon on targets near St Omer in the northwest corner of France, a site of airfields guarding the sky approaches to Germany.

R.A.F. fighters also carried out offensive sweeps over north and northwest France yesterday, attacking the Laon airfield and setting fire to several grounded planes.

Murder Suspect Ordered To Stand Trial

NASSAU, Bahamas, Aug. 31. — (CP).—Magistrate F. E. Field today ordered Alfred De Marigny held for jury trial on a charge of murdering his multi-millionaire father-in-law, Sir Harry Oakes.

He ordered the tall, bearded De Marigny, husband of Sir Harry's eldest daughter, Nancy, committed after hearing 28 witnesses tesify at a preliminary hearing which began July 12. four days after Sir Harry's bludgeoned and burned body was discovered in a bed at his seaside estate, Westbourne.

Attorney General Eric Hallinan said he will file an indictment when the Bahamas Supreme Court opens its next term Oct. 6.

Just before Field announced his ruling, the defence introduced its one witness, a former prison physician, to strike at prosecution testimony that burned hairs were found on De Marigny's arms and hands.

Conflicting Evidence.

Dr. Ulrich Oberwarth said he examined De Marigny July 10, the day after his arrest, and "I didn't find any singes, burns or scalds."

Capt. James O. Barker of the Miami police previously had testified that the night of July 8, some 14 or 16 hours after Sir Harry's body was found, he subjected De Marigny to a microscopic examination and found burned hairs on the accused man's arms and hands.

Dr. Oberwarth testified that he made a naked eye examination and declared under prosecution questioning it would be possible that burned hairs might not be detected save by an examination under lenses.

The case is expected to be brought to trial in October.

2,000 Killed As Riots Hit Denmark

9 Danish Cities In Turmoil As Trouble Spreads

By JOHN H. COLBURN,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 31 —(AP) — Reports received here from Denmark indicated to-day at least 2,000 persons were killed or wounded in fighting which began before dawn Sunday between Danish soldiers, sailors and civilians and the German occupation army.

Having crushed the last vestiges of the two-day-old military revolt, the harassed German occupation authorities were nevertheless faced with a new threat in a series of general strikes in nine Danish cities against their dictatorship.

Despite conflicting reports, it was not believed here that King Christian had abdicated.

With King Christian a prisoner in Sorgenfri Castle, most of the government members jailed or under house arrest and scores of other prominent Danes in prison, Gen. Rermann von Hannecken moved to tighten the German military grip over the country by rounding up all Danish army and navy officers.

He rushed troops to areas where strikes were reported paralyzing every type of business. Cities affected were Skagen, Jhoerning, Eaeby, Aalborg, Viborg, Aknrhus, Grenaa, Fredericia and Svenborg. Extraordinary efforts were taken to prevent spread of the strikes to other industrial centres.

With the sovereign and the government, which resigned within a few hours, apparently powerless, Danish citizens in Stockholm expressed belief that political leaders outside Denmark would form a free Danish government in London and ally it formally with the United Nations.

Confronting von Hannecken was an abdiction threat from King Christian. Refugees reported the King said he would step down if the Germans arrested Danes as hostages in connection with battles, sabotage, or other disturbances.

Denmark's most popular and influential figure, the King maintained that innocent persons should not be arrested.

Refugees told of 450 persons being killed or wounded Sunday in a battle betwen Danish and German soldiers at the port of Svenborg. 50

World Broadcast Indicates Trouble Brewing for Japan

QUEBEC, Aug. 31 — (CP). — Prime Minister Churchill said in an address today that the recent conference here was concerned principally with "inflaming" the war against Japan, with whom Russia is at peace, and that therefore it would have been an embarrassment to the Soviet Union to have been represented. He said, however, that it was hoped soon to hold a United Nations conference at which the Soviet would be represented.

Such a unity of decision between the three great opponents of "Hitlerite tyrrany" would be greatly desirable, he said.

Mr. Churchill said he did not blame Russia for any criticism it had levelled at its allies for not having opened a second front on the continent.

He said that whenever a second front was opened on the continent it would be done only when there was every chance of military success and would not be swayed by political considerations.

Mr. Churchill said he was looking forward to the opening of a third front, presumably referring to Japan.

Italy, he said, was paying a "terrible penalty" for having been misled by the Germans.

Applauds Russia

The terrific aerial attack against Germany, Mr. Churchill said, would not have been possible without the magnificent stand of the Russians against Hitler's forces.

No country, he declared, ever had withstood such a devastating attack as that thrown at the Russians.

The fate of King Boris of Bulgaria, he pointed out, might serve as a warning to other rulers that "the wages of sin is death."

At present, Mr. Churchill pointed out, Britain's principal activity against Japan must of necessity be centred in India.

He expressed extreme confidence in Vice-Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, the new Allied commander-in-chief in that theatre.

"Quebec was the very place for the two great powers of the sea and of the air to resolve and shape plans to bring their large and growing army into closer contact and fierces grips with the common foe," Mr. Churchill declared in a world broadcast.

In Quebec, the capital and heart of French Canada, he continued, "it is right to think of the French people in their agony, to set on book new measures for their deliverance."

"We may be sure that France will rise again, freed, united and independent to stand on guard with others over the generous tolerances and brightening opportunities of the human society we mean to rescue and rebuild."

Would Not Forecast.

Any speculation on when the war would end Mr. Churchill described as "vain and unprofitable."

Mr. Churchill completed his address at 1.30 p.m.

Mr. Churchill paid tribute to Prime Minister Mackenzie King as "the experienced statesman who led the Dominion instantly and unitedly into the war," and said that he had been over "the whole ground of the war" in meetings with the Canadian Cabinet and British and Canadian staffs.

He said the contribution which Canada has made to the combined effort of the British Commonwealth and Empire "has deeply touched the heart of the Mother

Swedes Hold Indignation Meetings People Angry Over Fishing Boat Sinkings

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 31 (AP). — The Swedish press reported today that protest meetings were being held throughout the country on the Nazi sinking of two Swedish fishing boats August 25 off the coast of Denmark and Germany's subsequent flat rejection of Sweden's protest of the action.

The newspaper Aftonbladet quoted Eskil Karlsson, a fisherman on one of three other boats which escaped from the attack, as saying:

"The Germans kept firing their machine-guns while the men from the sunken ships were swimming in the water."

Commenting on the German contention that the fishermen had no right in those waters, the Aftonbladet said, "there is reason at all for Sweden to swallow such absurb arguments. Its only result is to increase Swedish indignation over what happened."

The newspaper Aftontidningen added: "For the future, it's obviously no use to protest against German actions. It seems one can not have normal diplomatic relations with Germany. Normal diplomatic relations are based on rights, but Germany does not recognize rights or acknowledge responsibility. When Germany argues that Sweden is hemmed in by German-armies and must behave politely, all basis for normal diplomatic relations is eliminated."

Canadian Labor Delegates Want Mitchell Replaced

By MYER NEGRU—Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC, Aug. 31—(CP).—The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, meeting in 59th annual convention here, adopted without discussion today a resolution demanding "replacement of the present head of the Department of Labor." (The Federal Labor Minister is Hon. Humphrey Mitchell).

"Strongest protest" against "the lack of co-operation displayed by the Department of Labor under the present administration" was registered by the resolution—a substitute one presented by the resolutions committee to replace five related ones from various affiliated groups.

Earlier, after lengthy debate, the convention carried another resolution introduced at yesterday afternoon's session and calling on Prime Minister Mackenzie King to give organized labor "full representation" on government wartime boards and Crown companies "or submit his record to the people, so that democracy may prevail."

The resolution calling for "full representation" of organized labor on wartime boards was drawn up and presented to the convention yesterday, a composite of 14 separate resolutions dealing with the same subject and submitted by various labor groups affiliated with the Congress.

Burma Raiding Grows Daily

NEW DELHI, Aug. 31 — (CP). — Royal Air Force fighters and dive-bombers continued to range over Burma yesterday, shooting up Japanese troops positions and blasting factories and river craft, an Allied communique announced to-day.

A formation of Vengeances swept down on troop positions at Maungdaw, scoring hits, the communique reported, while rolling stock and locomotives were pounded at Ingin and two factories left in flames at Kyangin.

Hurricanes bombed about 100 river craft on the Irrawaddy River near Pagan, severely damaging a large number, while Beaufighters damaged nine steamers between Pakokku and Mandalay.

Beaufighters also attacked a number of boats near Kanaung farther south and seriously damaged four barges and two factories at Nyanaung.

Reds Capture Town of Yelnya

LONDON, Aug. 31 — (CP).—The Soviet Army captured the town of Yelnya, 45 miles east of Smolensk, in an important advance toward the northern bastion of the German line in Russia, a Moscow broadcast said today.

The second smashing victory for the Soviet army in as many days on points of the Russian line separated by hundreds of miles, the capture of Yelnya was announced by Premier Joseph Stalin in an order of the day recorded by the Soviet Monitor.

Moscow had just heard the victory guns celebrating the capture of Taganrog on the Sea of Azov in southern Russia when the guns were ordered again to fire 12 salvoes for Yelnya.

Yelnya is 35 miles west of Spas Demensk, the last town reported captured on the mainline railroad running from Latvia eastward through Smolensk and into central Russia.

Stalin called Yelnya an "operationally important large road junction and the most important centre of resistance on the defences in the Smolensk direction."

The city was taken after Soviet troops had broken through fortified German defence lines, Stalin announced.

The capture of Yelnya, a day after the capture of Taganrog more than 600 miles to the south, gave striking proof of the power of the Soviet summer offensive which now has recaptured Orel, Belgorod, Kharkov, Sevsk, Karachev, Taganrog, Yelnya and hundreds of lesser towns.

Danish Troops Commandeer Boats

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 31 —(AP)— Danish soldiers commandeered boats at pistol point to escape from Denmark to Sweden Sunday.

The captain of a motor fishing craft told this story at Hoeganaes:

"I docked at the little port of Gilleleje because of a storm. Sleeping in my bunk, I was awakened by the clatter of persons coming on board, and then two officers walked into my cabin, pointed pistols at me and said 'We are going to Sweden.'

"Fifty-six infantry soldiers came aboard without any belongings and cers. Two Danish policemen were at the wharf. One ran back home and got his wife and they came aboard too.

"Then a 16-year-old boy came along, begging to go. All crowded aboard without any belonging and we headed into the stormy night expecting to be shot at any moment.

"Germans were patrolling all the waters between Denmark and Sweden with fast coastal boats. But we got across without trouble."

Loss of Taganrog Upsets Nazi Program

Unless Heavy Counters Launched In Donets Huns Must Retire

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Never since Hitler broke his pledged word and attacked Russia has the position of his armies on the eastern front been so precarious as it has become with the loss of his right wing anchor — Taganrog, on the Sea of Azov.

That right wing now is like a pennant on a flag-pole, its fluttering loose end subject to the winds that sweep across it. Of course, that's an unmilitary and exaggerated figure of speech, but it will have served its purpose if it emphasizes the danger of the Nazi position.

Having taken this major stronghold one of the vital parts of the gateway to the oil fields of the Caucasus, the Red Army today is reported crushing its way steadily westward along the coast of the Sea of Azov.

Having been torn loose from his Taganrog anchor, the Fuehrer now is faced with two nasty alternatives:

1. He must stage a heavy counter-attack in the Donets Basin to the north of Taganrog and fling the Reds back, thus restoring his previous positions.

2. Failing in this, he must continue his withdrawal until his whole vast front from the Sea of Azov northward to Leningrad, a distance of more than 1,000 miles, has been pulled back under fierce Russian attack on the line of the great Dnieper River.

Nazis May Be Weak

If the Germans have the strength they may be expected to counter-attack. I was chatting on this point with my colleague, Brig. Gen. H. S. Sewell, the distinguished British military expert, and he remarked that "heavy counter-attacks must be expected in the Donets, and failure in this respect may well be regarded as a sign of Nazi weakness."

That seems to sum the matter up neatly. If the invaders don't counter-attack, or if they make the attempt and fail, it will be significant as showing that the German war machine has lost a tremendous amount of the striking power which used to terrify the world.

Should the Germans be forced to retire to the line of the Dnieper, one would expect them to make a back-to-the-wall stand to hold the Crimea. The Dnieper bulges out to the east, just north of the Crimea. There's a railway which touches the point of this bulge by Zaporozhe and runs south through Melitopol into the Crimea.

It's logical to expect the Germans to try to hold along that railway, if they get pushed back that far.

Hun Prisoners At Kincardine

Farm Girls Describe Missing Men

KINCARDINE, August 31 —(CP) —Two farm girls have identified two of three suspicious looking men seen five miles south of here late yesterday as two of the three German prisoners of war still at large following escape of 19 prisoners from Fort Henry prison in Kingston, Ont., Chief Constable R. G. Mackenzie of Kincardine said early to-day.

Mackenzie said the girls identified the men as war prisoners from pictures in a Toronto newspaper (Daily Star).

"They were absolutely sure that two of the men they saw were prisoners, but they couldn't identify the other man from pictures appearing in the paper," the Chief said.

The girls, who were not identified by Mackenzie, told police they saw the three men at Bruce Beach. All spoke broken English, the girls said, and were dressed in shirts and trousers.

"They asked the direction of Kincardine and when they were told it was north of the beach, they turned south," Mackenzie quoted the girls.

The three men still at liberty following the Kingston break have been identified as William Joesting, 41, Ernest Muench, 24, and Heinz Wirtz, 23. All are merchant seamen.

Count Ciano Just Disappears

Wife And 3 Children Also Missing

LONDON, August 31 —(CP) —A good part of Europe joined the guessing game to-day over the where abouts of Count Galeazzo Ciano, former Italian Foreign Minister and son-in-law of Mussolini who apparently escaped from house arrest at his home in Rome.

He was variously reported arrested near the French fontier, hiding in the Spanish Embassy in Rome and at Innsbruck in Germany.

At least two reports had Ciano at Innsbruck. A Reuters News Agency dispatch from the Italian frontier said the latest word was that he had gotten over the border "with the assistance of foreign friends" and that his escape was causing great indignation throughout Italy. This coincided with the German underground radio Atlantik report, which said Ciano was at Innsbruck.

Simultaneously a DNB, German News Agency, report quoted Stafani News Agency as saying that both Ciano and Count Dino Grandi, member of the Fascist Grand Council, had been placed on the retired list."

The London Daily Express quoted unconfirmed reports from Berne that Ciano, his wife Edda, and their three children had been arrested near the French frontier.

The dispatch said Ciano was dressed as a peasant and had large bundles of French, Italian and Spanish currency in his possession.

NEW ONSLAUGHTS IN PACIFIC THEATRE IS SAPPING JAP STRENGTH

37 Japanese Planes Latest Bag

Attack On Wewak Boosts Count To Over 300 Ships

By DEAN SCHEDLER,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

ALLIED HEADQUARTER, The Southwest Pacific, Aug. 31 —(AP) —Allied bombers and fighters in a 114-ton bombing attack on Wewak, New Guinea, have added at least 37 Japanees planes, and possibly 49, to the more than 300 destroyed there since mid-August.

This new air victory, scored Sunday, was reported to-day by Allied Headquarters in a communique which also disclosed that Allied troops hold strong ridge positions above as well as below the airdrome at Salamaua, 350 miles below Wewak.

At Wewak, where the enemy has sent reinforcements to replace losses which have been mounting since August 17, the bombers wiped out at least 12 planes on the ground while the fighters in furious battles with 60 zeros, downed 25 for certain, 12 probably, and damaged at least 17 others.

Losses Light.

"Our losses were light," the communique said.

Previous communiques on the Salamaua fighting have been concerned mainly with action below the airdrome where Australians and American jungle forces have edged to the south-western end of the air strip. But to-day's communique told of Allied forces repulsing Japanese counter-attacks Saturday night and early Sunday on Kila Ridge. Kila is a small town above the airdrome and slightly west of Salamaua.

Along a nearby ridge, which runs southward, Allied troops threw back the Japanese and killed at least 40 of the enemy, a spokeman said.

The Wewak raiders, in addition to destroying enemy planes, started explosions and fires among ammunition and feul dumps.

The communique also reported a raid by a strong force of medium bombers which dropped 45 tons of bombs on supply bases at Alexishafen and Bodgadjim, between Wewak and Salamaua.

Across new Britain from the New Guinea battle scene, a catalina on night patrol dropped a 500-pound bomb squarely on a Japanese cruiser in the vicinity of Kavieng New Ireland, while fighters destroyed eight enemy planes on the ground and started fires visible for 20 miles in a raid on the Kahili airdrome on southern Bougainville.

Other bombers struck at Santa Isabel Island, northwest of New Georgia, wher eJapan has a seaplane base.

country and of all other members of our widespread family of states and races."

"From the darkest days the Canadian army, growing stronger year by year, has played an indispensable part in guarding our British homeland from invasion," he said. "Now it is fighting with distinction in wider and widening fields."

Through the empire training organization had "welcomed the flower of the manhood of Great Britain, of Australia, of New Zealand, to her spacious flying fields and to comradeship with her own gallant sons."

Navy Growing.

At sea the Dominion "has become in the course of this war an important sea-faring nation." Ships manned by "hardy Canadian seamen" guard the Atlantic convoys and "our vital lifeline across the ocean."

Mr. Churchill also paid tribute to Canada's large contribution of munitions valued at not less than $2,000,000,000 and donated by Canada to the common cause.

Speaking of Britain's 20-year treaty with Russia, the Prime Minister declared, "You may be sure that we British are resolved to do our utmost to make good with all our strength and national steadiness." He continued:

"It would not have been suitable for Russia to be represented at this Anglo-American conference, which apart from dealing with the immediate operation of our inter-mingled and inter-woven armed forces in the Mediterranean and elsewhere, would largely if not mainly be concerned with heating and inflaming the war against the Japanese, with whom the Soviet government has a five-year treaty of non-aggression.

Wants To Meet Stalin

"It would have been an embarrassing invitation for us to send, but nothing is nearer to the wish of President Roosevelt and myself than to have a three-fold meeting with Marshal Stalin.

"If that has not yet taken place, it is certainly not because we have not tried our best or have not been willing to lay aside impediment and undertake further immense journeys for that purpose."

Stalin, said Britain's war leader, cannot at present leave the Russian battlefront where he is directing offensives.

"To judge by the latest news from the Russian battlefronts, Marshal Stalin is certainly not wasting his time.

"The entire British Empire sends him our salute on his brilliant summer campaign and on the victories of Orel, Kharkov, and Taganrog, by which so much Russian soil has been relieved and so many hundreds of thousands of its invaders wiped out.

"We shall also be very glad to associate Russian representatives with us in the political discussions which arise out of the victories the Anglo-American Forces have gained in the Mediterranean," Mr. Churchill said.

"In fact, there is no step which we may take or which may be forced upon us by the unforeseeable course of this war about which we should not wish to consult with our Russian friends and Allies in the fullest confidence and candour.

"It would be a very great advantage to everyone, and indeed to the whole free world, if unity of thought and decision on practical measures to the longer future as well as upon strategic problems could be reached between the three great opponents of the Hitlerite tyranny."

Better Civilization After War Must Be World-wide Senator Says

"I think we all have faith in the future of Canada and it is our duty now to give at all times tangible evidence of that faith and make for a better tomorrow" said Senator Iva Campbell Fallis in addressing the members of the Peterborough Rotary Club on Monday on the subject "Problems of Tomorrow."

Senator Fallis, who is a member of the special senate committee on social reconstruction and rehabilitation and also of the sub-committee on social security, dealt at some length upon the evidence those committees have already collected in regard to post-war plans and problems.

Introduced by Rotarian James Dutton, Senator Fallis said that two things were uppermost in the minds of most people at this time, the winning of the war and the building of a better civilization after the war. It was with the second of these, she said, that she wanted to deal.

A better civilization after the war, the speaker maintained, must be world wide if the peace were to endure. "We have been intent on the problems of the war" said Senator Fallis "but it is now beginning to dawn upon us that the problems of peace will also present great leadership in all of the United Nations."

Great Britain's Part

In order to keep the record straight, the speaker said, it was necessary to remember what Great Britain had been doing in the global war. There was a tendency to stress the part played by some other countries and to clamor for a second front, forgetting that Britain had had been fighting on four or five fronts in this global war, on the land, on the sea and in the air. "I would not detract one iota from the gallant part played by others" said Senator Fallis, "but we should recall what Britain has done."

The speaker said that a keen realization of the truth of the statement that "I am my brother's keeper" was making itself felt. Great Britain was already having its revolution without injuring democracy and there would be a new social order after the war. It was not too much to ask that in Canada too better conditions should prevail than before the conflict opened.

The Senate Committee

Reviewing the work of the special Senate committee and the evidence of the witnesses it had examined Senator Fallis told of the plans that had been made for the rehabilitation of soldiers after the war, through special courses of technical training. Industry would co-operate in providing post-war employment but the speaker said she thought that industry was being called upon to do too much if it were expected to take up all the slack. There must also be government assistance.

Senator Fallis in discussing the land settlement scheme said she thought a mistake was being made in confining the benefits of the plan to those with farm training and experience. She reminded her hearers that thousands of Canadians who had gone through hell overseas would be coming back with frayed nerves and she thought there was no better cure for such a condition than the peace of the countryside.

"While everybody was looking to the post-war period and planning for the care of the men who came back, Senator Fallis pointed out that in looking ahead they must not forget the soldiers who have already returned and need help now. "For them the war is already over" the speaker said.

Speaking of the Beveridge and Marsh reports, Senator Fallis said that many people were saying that the government should implement these reports now without waiting for the end of the war. Most of those who took that view she had found had never really read the reports and had no idea of what was involved in them or the financial chaos that would be created by trying to put them in force now.

There was much in the reports with which she agreed, the speaker said, but she was not altogether satisfied that all of them would be good for us. For instance she did not think it would be a healthy thing for people to get the idea that it did not matter what they did the government would take care of them when they were old. "That was not the spirit on which this Dominion was founded" said Senator Fallis.

There were some things that should be put into force as soon as possible, a national health policy, and free hospitalization among them. They would do much to establish freedom from fear.

Rotarian Gordon S. Matthews expressed the thanks of the Rotary Club to the speaker and declared that Rotarians were proud of the fame Senator Fallis had brought to Peterborough.

Wallace Wright contributed a tenor solo to the program and his singing was thoroughly appreciated.

Past President Ian McRae, who presided, referred to the fact that Rotarian Gordon S. Matthews had been placed in charge of the Victory Loan campaign in Peterborough county and promised him the support of every Rotarian in the October drive.

groves. In them, battleworn kit and equipment are being replaced and weapons checked.

Sports meets are being held and in various events athletes have been crowned 'Sicilian champion' of their units and formations.

In some towns near the camp areas Canadian units have taken turns mounting smart guards. One of the first formal parades was a general church parade during which prayers were offered for fallen comrades, folks at home and final victory.

The troops brushed up for inspection by Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery, commander of the 8th Army, who addressed them informally, telling them their battle performance was up to the high standard of his desert veterans.

Inspected.

The highlight of the period has been the visit of Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian Army Overseas, who has since returned to Britain.

The soldiers have had to guard against malaria-carrying mosquitoes and wear long trousers, roll down their sleeves in the evenings and sleep under nets. They have also had to be careful of drinking water and flies that carry dysentry.

Medical officers are gratified that fresh fruit is available in practically unlimited quantities after months of tight diet in England and hurried feeding during the strain of battle.

During the rest period the majority of the troops received their first mail and parcels from home and had the first opportunity to sit down and write letters themselves.

Restaurant Burns Caretaker Missing

MONTREAL, Aug. 31 —(CP) — Provincial Police said to-day that they are still searching for Raoul Richot, night watchman in Frankie De Rice's curb service restaurant which was destroyed by fire yesterday.

Police said they were not overlooking the possibility that Richot was attacked and robbed before the restaurant, situated on the road to nearby Cartierville, was destroyed. Police Chief Romuald Lecavalier of nearby St. Laurent said that about $900 was missing from the cash till.

J. Cunningham Aged 40 Passes

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 31 (ENS) —John Schey Cunningham, 40, assistant superintendent of the Campbellford Cloth Company since 1930, died in St. Joseph's hospital, Peterborough, early Monday morning. He passed away following a brief illness and his death was a profound shock to all who knew him. A native of North Smithfield, Rhode Island, he came to Campbellford thirteen years ago when his father was appointed supervisor of the Cloth Company, and he has been a resident of town since that time. He had many friends in the community, particularly among the employees of the plant who respected him both for his judgment and fair dealing in all items concerning their welfare. Though he was of a quiet disposition and strongly attached to his home life he was deeply interested in the welfare of the young people of the community and had for several years taken a prominent part in the raising of funds for the organization of hockey in the schools.

The oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Cunningham, Grand road, he was born in Central Falls, Rhode Island, and received his education in the Woonsocket High School. On graduating he was employed in the Saranac Mills in North Smithfield, and here he received his early training in the manufacture of woollens.

There survive besides his widow the former Margaret Bowen of this town to whom he was married a little over a year ago, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Cunningham, and one sister, Mrs. Wilfred Peloquin, all of Campbellford. Another sister, Mrs. George Hachey (Constance) predeceased him four years ago.

The funeral service will be held at 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning at St. Mary's church, where requiem mass will be celebrated by Rev. J. P. Collins. Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Late Blight Hits Potatoes

News arrived in Toronto yesterday that one-half the potato crop of Prince Edward Island is now affected by blight. It is also reported that there is a lot of blight in Ontario. Crops in these two centres will be materially reduced, though none yesterday would hazard a guess as to how far the deterioration would go. New Brunswick has a good crop, but the overall picture is for a smaller crop than was expected in surveys made a few weeks ago. This affects plans for supplies late next winter and spring.

The market has been weakening for some days. A general decline has been prevented by several of the larger operators, aided by the chain stores.

Though the subsidy arrangement on potatoes expires to-day, the maximum markups to the trade remain in effect, reports the Ontario Food Distribution Council, and the wholesale and retail trade will be limited to their respective markups. That means that traders, including retailers, who buy potatoes at less than the maximum price must pass the reduction on to consumers.

Japanese Inferior To Tough Aussies

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Aug. 30.—(Delayed)—(AP).— Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, commander of Allied ground forces in the Southwest Pacific, told a famous Australian infantry unit to-day the Australians have proved conclusively in the New Guinea jungle fighting that the Japanese were inferior soldiers.

Gen. Blamey said the Japanese were not really intelligent—"no intelligent nation would strike the most highly industral nation on earth in the face as the Japs did at Hawaii."

"The Japs learned something at Buna (where the Allies put down last resistance of an enemy army of 15,000 last January to win New Guinea's Papuan peninsua) and Guadalcanal," he added.

"When Allied troops met them at Salamaua the other day, the Japs dropped their new equipment and ran screaming.

"But don't think you'll have an easy time when you meet this little beast."

A German Claim

LONDON, Aug. 31—(CP). —The German radio declared today that British troops attempted a minor landing in Italy southeast of Reggio Calabria across from Sicily, but that it was "immediately scotched."

The German broadcast was recorded by Reuters News Agency. No details were given. The report was not confirmed by British sources.

Reggio Calabria lies just across the Strait of Messina from Sicily, and a landing to the "southeast" would have been on the bottom of the toe of Italy.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 31 — (CP). — Wheat and rye futures displayed a firm trend yesterday on the Winnipeg Grain Erchange. With the former closing ⅜ cent hgiher to ⅛ cent lower and the latter ⅛ cent higher to ⅜ cent lower. October wheat finished at $1.09¼, December $1.07¾, and May $1.08¼ to $1.08⅜, while October finished at 97½, December 96½, and May 97.

Fair support in wheat was offered by New York interests and American and Canadian mills. The New York purchases amounted to 200,000 bushels and were mostly in the October option.

Dealings in rye were local with selling and hedging attributed to commission houses and small purchases to elevator interests.

A keen demand for the lower grades at sharply improved spreads featured trade in the cash wheat market. No important transactions were reported in the top three grades.

Further sales of Canadian oats were indicated in the cash coarse grain market, but the business was limited to available cars.

Country wheat marketings Saturday amounted to 930,000 bushels and grain inspections over the week-end to 1,356 cars.

Labor Demands Seats On Wartime Boards

QUEBEC, Aug. 31 —(CP) — Delegates to the 59th Annual Convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada to-day are expected to study a resolution calling for "full representation" of organized labor on wartime boards.

The resolution was drawn up and presented to the convention yesterday, a composite of 14 separate resolutions dealing with the same subject and submitted by various labor groups affiliated with the Congress. It called on Prime Minister Mackenzie King to grant labor full representation on the Wartime Boards "or submit his record to the people of Canada so that democracy may prevail."

Preamble to the resolution as submitted said that the Congress realized that many of the boards set up to handle necessary work of a country engaged in total war were necessary and desirable, "provided they are representative of the citizens," but claimed that such boards "are controlled entirely by big interests and have nothing in common with the people of Canada."

Discussion of the resolution was left over until to-day.

At the Convention banquet last night, Labor Minister Edgar Rochette of Quebec told delegates that "the two principal freedoms of labor— the right ot organize and the right to unite—are fully recognized in the Province of Quebec."

Viterbo Airport Heavily Bombed

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 31.—(AP) —Newly-massed concentrations of enemy fighters battled U. S. medium bombers and escorting fighters yesterday in the bitterest combat of the air war over Italy.

The bombers blasted railroad yards at Aversa north of Naples.

Seventy to 75 German and Italians jumped the Allied fleets near the coast and over the target, and a great running battle continued afterward more than 100 miles out to sea, with the Axis losing 17 planes.

Heavy bombers meantime smashed the Viterbo airfield north of Rome with a heavy rain of bombs. Allied Headquarters announced today.

'Gunner' Tibbs News Veteran Dies Suddenly

TORONTO, Aug. 31 — (CP).— John W. Tibbs, 63, feature service editor of The Canadian Press and widely known throughout the newspaper profession in Canada, died suddenly last night of a heart attack.

Mr. Tibbs left his office at the CP apparently in good health and had just reached him home, 12 Melrose Avenue in the northern end of the city when he collapsed and died.

Mr. Tibbs, a veteran of the Boer War, joined the CP September 1, 1917. He served in many capacities—as news manager, as assistant to former general manager J. F. B. Livesay soon after nationalization of the CP service and as Ontario superintendent.

Before his association with the CP he worked for four years with the old Toronto News and for 11 years with the Toronto Star.

Primarily a desk-man and news organizer, Mr. Tibbs still found time to get out on the street for an occasional story. Most recent of those he covered were the Royal visit to Canada in 1939 and the Labatt kidnapping case in 1934.

A Top Organizer

He laid tne foundation for the election-coverage organization by which the CP compiles results in national voting.

In the early days of The Canadian Press he was active in development of service to daily newspapers, especially in Ontario. He was particularly known for the generous help he gave young men entering newspaper work.

Mr. Tibbs was an active worker in the United Church.

John William Tibbs was born Sept. 23, 1879, at Lechmore Hearth in Herts, England, and came to Toronto as a child with his parents. He attended Toronto public and high schools and in his youth worked as a, law office clerk and as a bookkeeper before serving in the South African campaign as a gunner for eighteen months. Among veteran newspapermen he still was familiarly known as "Gunner."

He is survived by his widow, Violet Lavery Tibbs, and two sons AC2 John L. Tibbs and LAC Edgar Tibbs of the Royal Canadian Air Force. When war-guest children were brought to Canada from England, Mr. Tibbs took into his home Jean Imock, now 14.

Funeral services will be held on Thursday at 3 p.m. (at Miles Funeral Chapel). Burial will be in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Cobourg Plans To Outfit New Corvette

COBOURG, August 31 —(ENS)— Cobourg's "adopted" corvette, "H. M. C. S. Cobourg," may stop over for an hour or two after its commissioned during its trip eastward to the sea. Sub-Lieutenant C. A. Hutchins (S.B.), R. C. N. V. R., Ottawa, was present at a meeting here of executive which is handling projects to raise funds to equip the corvette, and outlined what would be appropriate for the ship. He was unable to promise defintely that the ship would call in at Cobourg, like Port Hope's minesweeper, did last year, at the home port, but he promised that everythting would be done to make such an event possible.

Sub-Lieut. Hutchins was introduced to the meeting by Judge J. C. M. German, co-chairman, and after his talk he was thanked by Capt. D. C. Dick, also co-chairman.

The local committee was told that they had undertaken an important job in adopting the new corvette. Their gifts to the vessel and its crew will not only have considerable intrinsic value, but will do much to boost morale of the ratings and their officers, Mr. Hutchins said. Radios and electric toaster and also irons, suitable for installation in Canadian ships are not now available for purchase, it was pointed out, as they are of a special type and must be suitable for direct current at 220 volts. The Admiralty is making a special effort to install these three electrical items on each ship as part of their orignial fittings, the committee was told.

Electric washing machines can still be obtained, however, through certain Canadian manufacturers, and it was recommended that the committee provide possibly two of these. Phonographs and records are also of great use on a corvette. Other articles which can be obtained ed and are very welcome, include ash trays, carpets, mats, but these latter items should not be obtained until after contact has been made with the ship's commanding officer, yet to be named, who will designate colors and sizes required for the particular ship. The local committee will be informed of the captain's name as soon as one is appointed.

It was pointed out that seamen's clothing, if addressed to the corvette, might not necessarily reach that vessel but might be distributed to any R. C. N. ship on which it was most needed. However, clothing addressed to individuals will be delivered. Leather windbreakers made for the corvette will be sent to that ship only. Games, such as darts, cards, etc., are more than welcome on board ship, where way of passing the time are limited, and also desirable is reading matter. Perishable foods should not be shipped except when the committee is certain the vessel is in a Canadian harbour and that delivery will be made quickly.

Smokes and soap are welcome, as well as ditty bags and personal items. A set of pictures of the Royal Family can be used. Other items suggested were sewing kits, hot plates (220 D. C.,) waterproof flashlights, boxing gloves, stationary and magazines. The Lieut. suggested that correspondence be kept up with members of the crew. A crest or plaque from the town, meeting certain specifications as to size, can be mounted in or on the new corvette, it was stated.

Trucking Order Permits Lifts

Trucking order No. 121 of the Prices Board which prohibits the transportation in a commercial vehicle of any persons other than the driver or assistant necessary for the operation of the vehicle is not intended as a bar to hitchhiking servicemen and has never been enforced as such, M. W. McCutcheon, Prices Board Services Administrator, said in a statement at Toronto yesterday.

Toward this end, he said, the order had to be broad in outline so that it would prevent trucks being used primarily for transportation of passengers and to conserve them for transportation of essential goods.

All board officials have been advised that truck drivers are permitted to carry two passengers in the cabs of their trucks when the trucks are being operated as freight vehicles, the statement said. No permit was required for this.

The statement added that farmers and truckers may obtain permits to carry passengers in certain other cases such as transporting employees to and from work, or transporting their families on essential business when there is no other means of travel.

Not only servicemen, but civillians who are hitchhiking, are included in the interpreation of the order. "Within the limits I have stated, anyone, servicemen or civilian, may be picked up on the highway," Mr. McCutcheon said last night.

"YOU BET, I'LL BUY GOODYEARS"

● A recent independent, nation-wide poll amongst Canadian motorists shows that more than one-half of them prefer Goodyears.

Now that motorists have found it necessary to get every last mile out of their tires, they're finding out for themselves just how much extra mileage and how many "lasting qualities" Goodyears have.

Of course, it has always been true that Goodyears could deliver a plus in mileage and service. It's true, because Goodyear has always built extra stamina, quality and value into Goodyear tires.

That's going to be true, too, when you can buy your next set of Goodyears. It may be some time before those new Goodyears will be available ::: maybe not until after the war ::: but, you can bank on this; they'll still be Canada's "first choice" tire.

Here is the PREFERENCE VOTE!

GOODYEAR	50.2%
Second Tire	17.2%
Third Tire	8.5%
Fourth Tire	8.3%
Fifth Tire	5.6%
Sixth Tire	4.5%
All Others	5.7%

Canadian Facts Reg'd, an impartial and national research organization compiled the facts from a recently concluded "tire popularity" survey.

Archbishop M. J. O'Brien, D.D.

None of the host of friends of the Most Reverend Michael Joseph O'Brien, fourth Archbishop of Kingston, who died suddenly in his episcopal city of a heart attack Monday afternoon, will mourn him more deeply and tenderly than those elders of his faith in Peterborough who remember him as a boy with manifest signs of a special vocation in his budding character. As a priest, pastor and prelate, Archbishop O'Brien fulfilled throughout a distinguished and unsparingly active career all the spiritual promise of his boyhood.

That was nearly sixty years ago when he was an altar boy at St. Peter's Cathedral whose thoughts and dreams of the years ahead must have been fixed upon the priesthood which he was then permitted to attend as an acolyte.

This was the boy who became a member of the Roman Catholic hierachy of Canada, son of an industrious workingman, James O'Brien, who was for years a foreman of a C.P.R. section crew in Peterborough. His youth afforded him no easy advantage, nor did he need any, with that one clear call directing him to the priestly life and service. Such was the humble beginning of the Archbishop of the historic archdiocese of Kingston who was striken by death yesterday afternoon.

The years between were full of study in Toronto, Montreal and Rome, followed by successive offices as curate of St. Peter's from 1899 to 1909, first pastor of the parish of the Sacred Heart from 1909 until 1913, Bishop of the diocese of Peterborough from 1913 until 1929, crowned at length in that year by the ecclesiastical dignity of Archbishop. He would have been the last to sanction any eulogy which might seem to cast him in some larger mould of priestly devotion and zeal; and there was so much of his active life that bids recalling.

Archbishop O'Brien was possessed of a great love of Canada and his native city of Peterborough and its people among whom he had spent so many years. He was strongly attached to the British connection. In fact a text that might be applied to him in retrospect, and slightly altered was: Fear God and love Him, and honour the King and his representatives.

He always urged his people to take an active interest in the affairs of their community, as part of the state. He demonstrated something close to what might be called muscular Christianity in the years he was chaplain of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society. While he laid about him with vigor against evil, he evidently singled out intemperance as an arch-enemy of both the spiritual and temporal life, and the good he did through the agency of that society of men was an outstanding achievement of his years in the priesthood. He was deeply interested in education, and as Bishop he took particularly to heart the injunction "to send forth laborers into the harvest of the Lord" by promoting in every way he could the youthful signs of vocations to the religious life. He was ever the good shepherd, and of all the flock. In that respect it has been said of him that he knew everyone in his parish, the elders, their children and grandchildren. And that conspicuous gift of friendship, which never dimmed, was a tie that bound him to so many old friends here through the years of absence which ended with his death yesterday.

Germans Become Nervous

Grave situations in Denmark and Bulgaria, are the latest crises, which threaten Hitler's empire of conquered and satellite peoples. These two countries were possibly the most favoured by the Nazis, for their peoples have not been massacred like the Poles. However, in spite of all this, it is really to be expected that the liberty-loving Danes would finally break out in revolt against the Germans.

Bulgaria in the Balkans, the buffer state against the Turks, is tottering in its loyalty to Hitler. King Boris met sudden death, and the people are parading the streets demanding peace.

On top of this there is neutral Sweden, and from all appearances, that country can be watched closely, during the next few weeks, for developments. The German navy has become very nervous. In fact it has a bad "trigger finger." Some months ago a German warship saw a submarine in the Baltic, and without waiting to ascertain its nationality, sank it. The submarine happened to be Swedish, and about 40 men lost their lives. Ten days ago a Swedish torpedo boat was fired upon and also an airplane. But what capped it all, was last week when three German destroyed shelled two Swedish trawlers at close quarters, and sank them, another 12 Swedes lost their lives.

All these events indicate the nervousness of the Germans. Yes, we believe that the fourth anniversary of the war will be a dismal day for Hitler and Company.

A Job Well Done

Peterborough owes much to the group of women, who worked so faithfully last week, issuing Ration Book Number 3. The task was undertaken, as on the two previous occasions, by the Women's Voluntary Service. In all 177 women took part, and they issued 17,435 books. Some difficulty was experienced in securing workers due to vacations and the canning season, but other women rallied to give generously of their time to overcome this handicap.

To issue this number of books, in four days, in one large room, is no small task and it speaks well for the organizating ability of those in charge. The work proceeded smoothly, and with the exception of one morning, there were very few who had to wait long in line, before they were seated at a table in front of a recorder. The Auxility Police also speeded the work by checking the old ration books at the door, to see if the cards were properly filled out.

Industry had a splendid organization, for almost 20,000 books were issued in the local factories. This makes a total of 37,496 books given out, and we would say that there are very few citizens who did not get their new book. Of course some from the surrounding townships got their books here while in the city instead of going to their local distribution offices, and these add to the total issued.

Himmler At The Helm

It is not too fanciful to make deductions about Germany's morale from the fact that Heinrich Himmler has been appointed Interior Minister of the Reich; Himmler is leader of the SS blackshirt guards and Chief of German police, top man of the Gestapo and one of the most hated men in the world. His career has been mysterious, but what is known of it is coldly repellent. He has been one of Hitler's henchmen from the early days of the Nazi party, and his role has always been that of disciplinarian, using that word in its most repressive and vicious sense. In appearance Himmler is undistinguished; his rimless pince-nez, his small moustache, his receding chin and his contracted, myopic eyes would give him an appearance of weakness if it were not for his determined and bitter mouth. But Himmler is an extremely clever man; he alone of the Nazis has never made a serious mistake, and his steps have always been upward. His ability to document and investigate every possible anti-Nazi move has made him the greatest secret service man of all time, surpassing even the notorious Fouche. He is reputed to have dossiers recording every doubtful move of every member of the Nazi party, including even the most highly placed; one German exile even swears that Himmler has a dossier on Adolf Hitler himself! Himmler is a man to be feared and dreaded.

And now he has been given extensive powers over the whole German people. His methods are well-known. He will apply repression with remorseless force; he will root out any Germans whose fears of bombing may lead them to talk wistfully of peace; he will brace the sagging German morale with a skeleton of steel.

If Germany did not need such treatment, Himmler would not have been promoted. Have the Allied bombings, then, had such a dreadful effect on the Reich, Apparently they have, and the Germans are to be taught their duty and the finer points of patriotism by Heinrich Himmler, the cruellest man in Europe.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Secret Service Was Not Needed

By MARSHALL YARROW
In Ottawa Citizen

MUCH has been written about the visit of President Roosevelt to Ottawa. In fact, nearly everyone connected with the occasion from the highest to the most humble official connected with the arrangements—including the weatherman—has been given a well deserved pat on the back. Everyone, that is, except the forty or fifty thousand ordinary citizens who made up the welcoming party. Without their help, even with the most elaborate arrangements, the affair would have fallen flatter than a duck's foot.

Every time Ottawa plans a welcoming ceremony those in charge of it suffer a bad case of "the creeps." Will the people of Ottawa respond? "They are funny people in this town, you know!"

But it isn't so. It is the people in other cities, perhaps, who are funny. It is true that the citizens of the Capital will not turn from their homes and occupations to shout themselves hoarse over a flagpole sitter, a shopworn movie actress or somebody who dealt himself thirteen spades in a hand of bridge. But just bring on somebody who deserves the acclaim of a sober and intelligent citizenry. Then you find out.

IT was a pleasure to watch the Ottawa crowds in action. The point of arrival and the route to Parliament Hill were obscure if not secret. Painstakingly each little group figured out the best site for a view of the President and sturdily gambled their opportunity on their choice. Patiently they waited for long periods, uncomplaining despite the uncertainty. Cleverly they surmised the point of arrival and decorated with hearty knots of cheering humanity what otherwise might have been a drab and cheerless scene.

Cheer! They couldn't wait. They were so anxious to cheer that they cheered the cars ahead of the President's lest they be too late if they stopped to make sure. Hats were raised high—hats that are ordinarily taken off only at mealtimes, at funerals and in church. As the President passed each point along the route, the crowd there dissolved to find its way swiftly and surely to another point on the itinerary—for another chance to cheer.

But here is the difference. There was no hysteria, no crowding into the Presdient's car, no getting in the way and all the Secret Service men in the place couldn't have stopped that crowd if they had felt disposed to do it. But the President was a guest to be welcomed. He was welcomed to the utmost but still treated with the respect that a well bred host extends to an honoured guest.

THE Secret Service men must feel a bit foolish now over their act of "running interference" for the President's car. Mr. Roosevelt didn't even need Fala to protect him here. Forty or fifty thousand Ottawans took that job upon themselves. It is said the President has no authority over what action the Secret Service takes to protect his person for, after all, three presidents have falen at the hands of assassins and President Roosevelt himself was the target of a madman's aim which, providentially, was bad.

However, some concession was evidently made to Ottawa's reputation. The bullet-proof glass windows were rolled down. The top was turned back. The President was a fair mark for a brick, bomb or tomato, which everyone knew would not be thrown.

The President's almost unprotected condition was in sharp contrast to his bomb-proof method of travelling, even in some American cities, but nobody even tossed a bouquet or nosegay into the auto although hundreds must have wanted to do so. Instinctively it was realized what a scare such an action would cause. Nobody pressed forward to clutch his arm or hand although it must have been the greatest desire of thousands.

But they could cheer and cheer they did. It was the only way they could show Mr. Roosevelt how glad they were to see him and they exhausted its possibilities.

THE writer was in the crowd that lined the Driveway behind the Police Station and got a great view of the President as he rolled towards the East Gate. The cheers were grand, the President was grand, the people were grand. Everything was!

No wonder as he looked from the stand over Parliament Hill surveying the dense but orderly throng that packed the broad lawns the President turned to Premier King and remarked: "I shall never forget that sight." There must be many things about Ottawa, including the people, that the President will never forget. Things that it would do other people a lot of good to remember.

And so the "case of the creeps" has passed and the myth of Ottawa's "coldness" has been blasted once again. Bring on the goods and Ottawa will put on a show the guest will long remember. But no phoneys!

It was a great show and the spectators made it so.

Washermen To The Troops

"Armies waited on daily. Laundry for 3,000 done in a week. Hot and cold baths and a set of clean underwear even in mid-desert."

So the British Army's Mobile Laundry and Mobile Bath Unit might advertise themselves. For in mechanised warfare, the business of keeping clean has been mechanised, too.

The Mobile Bath Unit is the last word in modern convenience. Instead of the troops going to the bath, the bath is brought to them. Entire equipment is carried on a lorry, and consists of pump which brings water up from a well, connects it with the oil-fired boiler which works like a household central heating system, and a collapsible double shower.

Three minutes is the maximum time each man can stand under the shower—otherwise too much precious water would be used. But he can choose whether he wants his shower hot or cold or medium, and turn the knob on the tank accordingly. The Unit—it can be seen at the Army Equipment Exhibition in London — can bathe 12,000 men a week, and uses up a good proportion of the 1,500 lbs. of soap needed by only one division each week.

After bathing, each man is provided with a clean set of underclothing from the Mobile Laundry. This laundry-on-a-lorry will wash the underwear of 3,000 troops a week, serve a Casualty Clearing Station or a 200-bed hospital. It comprises washing machine, hydro-extractor (which is a big improvement on the household wringer when it comes to removing water), and drying machines, and is complete with steam boiler, electric generator and hot and cold water services.

Between the time clothes go in dirty and come out clean, dry and aired, about three quarters of an hour goes by. Laundry staff consists of one officer, one sergeant and six privates. In addition there are a corporal who is driver-mechanic, a private who cooks, and a clerk.

THE UNSEEN AUDIENCE

In Mountains of Lower California

ON the stone-bordered sandspit which is the southern block to the true inner Puerto Escondido there was a new stone building not quite finished, with no one about it. Around the point there now came a large rowboat pushed by a fast outboard motor of a species distinct from the Sea-Cow, for it seemed controlled and dominated by its master. In this boat there were several Indians and three men dressed in riding breeches and hiking boots. They came aboard and introduced themselves as Leopoldo Perpuly, who owned a ranch on the edge of Puerto Escondido, Gilbert Baldibio, a schoolteacher from Loreto,and Manual Madinabaitâ C., of the customs service, also of Loreto. These last two were on a vacation and hunting trip. They were strong, fire-looking men wearing the ever-present .45 caliber automatics of the government service. We served them canned fruit salad and discussed with them the country we had covered, and they asked us to go hunting the borrego, or big-horn sheep, with them, starting that afternoon and getting back the next day. We were to go into the tremendous and desolate stone mountains to camp and hunt. We accepted immediately, and went with them to the little ranch set back half a mile from Puerto Escondido....

The little ranch was set deep in the brush. It was watered by deep wells of brackish brown water out of which endless chains of buckets emerged at the insistence of mules which turned the windlass. This rancher in the desert has dug sixty-foot wells, and he is raising tomatoes and he has planted many grapevines. But so dry is the earth that a few weeks without the rising buckets would destroy all his work. The houses of the ranch were simply roofs and low walls of woven palm, enough to keep out the wind but no obstruction to the air. The floors were of swept hard-packed earth, and there was an air of comfort about the place. The Indian workmen worked very slowly, and the babies peeked out of the woven houses at us. We were to ride to the mountains on mules and one small horse while two Indian men walked ahead. We were sorry for them until we discovered that their main irritation lay in the fact that horses and mules are so slow. Often they disappeared ahead of us, and we found them later sitting beside the trail waiting for us...,We rode over a rolling, rocky, desolate country, then left the cleared, some-day road and turned up a trail toward the stone mountains, steep and slippery with shale. And here our Indians were even more impatient, for the mules went more slowly while the Indians did not change gait for the steep places....

We came at last to a trail of broken stone and rubble so steep that the mules could not carry us any more. We dismounted and crawled on all fours, and we don't know how the mules got up. After a short climb we emerged on a level place in a deep cleft in the granite mountains. In this cleft a tiny stream of water fell hundreds of feet from pool to pool. There were palm trees and wild grapevines and large ferns, and the water was cool and sweet. This little stream, coming from so high up in the mountains and falling so far, never had the final dignity of reaching the ocean. The desert sucked it down and the heat dried it up and on the level it disappeared in a light mist of frustration....

We sat beside the little waterfall and discussed many things with our hosts—how all Americans are rich and own new Fords; how there is no poverty in the United States and everyone sees a moving picture every night...; how there are no political animosities; no need; no fear; no failure; no unemployment or hunger. It was a wonderful country we came from and our hosts knew all about it and told us. We could not spoil such a dream. After each one of his assurances we said, "Como no?" which is the most cautious understatement in the world, for "Como no?" means nothing at all. It is a polite filler between two statements from your companion. And we sat in that cool place and looked out over the hot desert country to the blue Gulf. In a couple of hours our Indians came back; they had no borrego... It was time by now to start back to the boat. We intend to do all our future hunting in exactly this way. —From "Sea of Cortez," by John Steinbeck, in collaboration with Edward F. Ricketts. (New York: Viking.)

Harold Laski—Chronic Grouch

(THE OTTAWA JOURNAL)

HAROLD LASKI, a British Social economist who writes better than he thinks, doesn't like the work of the Quebec Conference. He wouldn't. When Matthew Arnold died, Robert Louis Stevenson said of him: "Poor Arnold; he won't like God." That could be said of Laski. To his bilious brain, everything that is is wrong, with none of the world's leaders having the wisdom to see the things that are stark to him. A year ago, after Tobruk, he said it was "the epitaph" of the British Empire, that a system was dead. Tobruk turned out not to be an epitaph, and the system wasn't dead, but that didn't deter Laski. Instead, and with supreme egotism, he used Casablanca to pen an "open letter" to President Roosevelt, saying in effect that he and Churchill were all wrong, that things were going to the dogs, and that they would continue going that way unless Laski's advice was taken.

Now he's disturbed by Quebec. Thus:

"When the war is over the peace of the world is going to depend on the capacity of its statesmen to organize a new deal for the common people. And if, as with Churchill and Roosevelt, there is no sign that they are working to bring this capacity into play, the outlook even with victory cannot be called a bright one."

This is both false and unfair. No one who heard Franklin Roosevelt in Ottawa on Wednesday can say that he is not concerned with a "new deal for the common people." Mr. Roosevelt stated explicitly that much of the time of the Quebec Conference was taken up with post-war planning; and it was when he spoke of the future that his voice took on fresh fervor. Nor can Mr. Laski fail to remember that one of Winston Churchill's greatest pronouncements during the past year was concerned with the post-war.

Laski, complaining that he can see "no wisdom" in the "unfolding pattern of the Quebec Conference," says:

"It is significant that there is no representative of the Soviet Union. It is significant that there is no sign of any clear, forthright pronouncement on the future of Italian democracy. It is significant that there is no decisive step with regard to recognition of the French National Committee."

There was no mystery about Russia's absence from Quebec. Quebec was concerned largely with war against Japan. Stalin, at peace with Japan, could have no part in that. There is no sign that he was expected or invited to have part in it.

As for Italian democracy, the thought of the Allies about it was stated clearly by the ultimatum to the Italian people by Churchill and Roosevelt, reaffirmed and amplified by the pronouncement of General Eisenhower. And yesterday came recognition of the French National Committee.

The trouble with people like Harold Laski is that they are more concerned with their particular creeds and ideologies than with getting rid of Hitler. Laski is a Socialist. So the only thing that much matters to him is to get rid of Franco and take sides with de Gaulle and wipe out the Monarchy in Italy and set up a chain of Socialist republics everywhere.

Laski, in short, is a nuisance.

A Bible Message

O Lord our Lord, how excellent is thy name in all the earth! who hast set thy glory above the heavens.... When I consider thy heavens, the work of thy fingers, the moon and the stars, which thou hast ordained; what is man, that thou art mindful of him?....Thou madest him to have dominion over the works of thy hands; thou hast put all things under his feet. (Ps. 8: 1, 3, 4, 6.)

The Lord is the portion of mine inheritance and of my cup: thou maintainest my lot. The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage....I have set the Lord always before me: because he is at my right hand, I shall not be moved. (Ps. 16: 5, 6, 8.)

As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness. (Ps. 17: 15.)

Unconsidered Trifles

A business man we know was asked to say grace at a dinner, and being unaccustomed to the ceremony, he produced the following: "Dear Lord, we are in receipt of your kind favors of recent date, and beg to thank you. We hope to merit your continued courtesy."

Two men, obviously from the rural areas, boarded a London tramcar. There was a naval officer behind them. Tom went upstairs, leaving Bill to get the tickets. Bill turned around to the officer and asked for two.

"My good man," said the scandalized officer, "I'm a naval officer, not a conductor."

"Lummie!" said Bill, collecting his wits. "Hey, Tom," he shouted, come on down. We're on a bloomin' battleship."

The War Brought Home

The truth of His Majesty's statement that in this war we are all in the front line is being more brought home to us in Canada. No intelligent person today needs to be convinced that complete utilization of Canada's manpower, and womanpower too, is essential to victory. No intelligent person, therefore, will be disposed to impede the government's War Labour policy which is very definitely shaped to that end.

Newspaper readers can assist the government very materially by studying carefully the National Selective Service civilian regulations, particularly the compulsory employment transfer orders, published from time to time in the newspapers by authority of the minister of labour.

These regulations and orders are the means by which complete utilization of our manpower and womanpower may be brought about. The regulations cover, with certain exceptions, persons of either sex from 16 years of age upward. They are constantly being amended and added to from time to time to meet changing conditions. Men and women may now be called upon to leave their present employment on 7 days' notice to take more essential work. Men subject to the military call-up may be required to accept alternative employment. Coal miners must stay at their work; and ex-coal miners, if physically fit, must report for work in the mines. Farm workers are advised what they may or may not do. Similarly, employers must not employ, or continue to employ, or engage any men affected by the orders without special permission to do so from the nearest Employment and Selective Service office.

All classes of employers and workers are urged to read the various orders as they appear in the newspapers, to study them carefully and to assist our war effort by carrying them out. Only by such united effort will we deserve the victory for which we are so hopefully waiting.—Ottawa Citizen.

Woman Prisoner Starts Hunger Strike

DETROIT, Aug. 31 (AP).— The Detroit News today says that Mrs. Theresa Behrens, 44, one of four persons arrested last Tuesday on presidential warrants charging violation of the War-Time Espionage Act, has refused food since Thursday noon.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation which made the arrests refused to comment on Mrs. Behrens' condition or even confirm she had started a hunger strike.

Mrs. Behrens was taken to receiving hospital Thursday night, at which time it was disclosed merely that county jail authorities deemed the move advisable.

Besides Mrs. Behrens those held in the first application of the war-time version of the Espionage Act in the United States with its possible death penalty are Toronto-born Miss Grace Buchanan-Dineen, 34; Dr. Fred William Thomas, 44, a surgeon, and Bertrand S. Hoffman, 27, of St. Thomas, Ont., a member of the United States Merchant Marine. Each is held under $50,000 bond.

At receiving hospital, the News says, Mrs. Behrens has quarreled with maids and guards and announced her determination to accept no food as long as the present charges are held against her.

BLENDED AND PACKED IN CANADA

Worth A Try

WAYNESBORO, Pa., Aug. 31—(AP).—A United States Army sergeant and his wife, after days of apartment hunting, inserted the following advertisement in the Record Herald: "Thoroughly undesirable couple wants three or four-room furnished apartment with private entrance and bath, will not take care of furnishings nor be in the least congenial with neighbors. Inclination to pay rent very doubtful." The Record Herald is anxious to see if the ad "pulls."

Editor Defends Court Criticism

MOBILE, Ala., Aug. 31 (AP).— Contending that editorial criticism does not constitute contempt of court, publisher Ralph B. Chandler of the Mobile Press and Register appealed today his conviction on that charge.

Chandler was sentenced to six hours in jail and fined $10 on June 11 by Judge Tisdale J. Touare after the newspaper published an editorial criticizing a sentence fixed by Touart.

Probate Judge Norvall R. Leigh granted a review of the conviction and in an appeal brief filed today Attorney Thomas E. Twitty declared:

"Mr. Chandler in publishing the editorial was convinced and still is convinced that the editorial position taken by him was correct. Judge Touart, of course, is entitled to the opposite view, but no court is entitled to be the judge of the correctness or fairness of criticism against himself in a publication of this sort."

Swamp Surrounded Hun Said Cornered

The man first was noticed by town residents who reported to the search authorities. Reinforcements were rushed to the district and the swamp was surrounded while the groups of searchers moved through the area.

The 19 escaped by crawling through an unused sewer and 16 were apprehended by Saturday night.

Salvage Expert Drops Dead

KINGSTON, Aug. 31.—(CP). — Capt. Grant Pyke, 59, of Kingston, dropped dead from a heart attack aboard the tug Salvage Prince in Napanee harbor yesterday. He was head of the Pyke Salvage Co., and was one of the most widley known marine salvage experts in Canada. Two years ago he successfully supervised removal of passengers of the steamer Rapids Prince from a shoal in the Lachine Rapids outside Montreal after insurance underwriters declared the vessel unsalvageable.

NEW DELHI, Aug. 31—(CP). — R.A.F. fighter patrols swept over the Irrawaddy and Hunters Bay areas in Burma yesterday, sinking more than 60 loaded Japanese supply sampans, damaging many others and destroying a river boat, a British communique said today.

At Kyaungin on the Lower Irrawaddy the raiders struck at railway buildings which were set on fire.

Mohawks attacked Japanese army huts in the Kalemyo district, scoring direct hits with bombs and setting others on fire with heavy machine-gun attacks.

All aircraft returned safely.

War Labor Board Report Under Review

OTTAWA, Aug. 31 — (CP). — Prime Minister Mackenzie King said to-day the Government "attaches the utmost importance" to the two reports it has received as a result of the National War Labor Board's recent inquiry into labor relations and wage conditions, but he indicated there may be some considerable delay before the reports are made public.

The Government wishes to give detailed consideration to the contents of the reports, said Mr. King, adding:—

"Until the Government has had opportuntiy for such consideration of the reports and questions arising therefrom, the reports thmeselves will not be made public.

"That opportunity for obvious reasons has not thus far been afforded."

Two reports had been received by Labor Minister Mitchel as a result of the recent public inquiry, the majority report was signed by the Chairman of the Board, Mr. Justice C. P. McTague of Toronto, and Leon Lalande of Montreal. The minority report was signed by J. L. Cohen, K. C., of Toronto, the Board's third member.

The Board's inquiry included evidence from a number of unions, organizations of management and other bodies, and individuals.

Mr. Cohen in a letter to Mr. Justice McTague made public Aug. 18 said he would not sit as a member of the Board on any controversial cases until the Government had made its policy clear.

Felt Rundown and Tired; Nervous; Had No Appetite

Nerves On Edge; Couldn't Sleep. "I Never Felt Like Eating, Because Everything Disagreed With Me," Says Nearby Resident. Tells How Syntona Helped Him.

At this season of the year many people feel fatigued, wornout and nervous; appetites are lost and they have no energy to do anything; from suffering with indigestion, dizzy feelings, headaches and rheumatic aches and pains, and the bowels become constipated. Now is the time to take Syntona Herbal Compound for results like that experienced by Mr. George King, well-known resident of Waterdown, Ontario.

"I was very rundown and felt fatigued all the time," said Mr. King "I had no appetite to speak of and I never felt like eating because everything disagreed with me. My food just seemed to turn to gas and give me a full, heavy, bloated feeling. I'd belch up hot, sour liquids. At times I had dizzy spells with dark spots floating before my eyes My back hurt and I had a lot of pains in my limbs, joints and muscles. I couldn't get restful sleep at night, because my nerves were all on edge.

"I tried one thing after another, but, if anything, I kept getting worse. When I read about Syntona being made from herbs and roots I thought it might help me, so I began taking it. Before I finished the first bottle I knew it was doing me some good. Now I am here to tell you that it proved to be just what I needed. I can eat regular meals again and my food is doing me some real good. The gas, sourness and acidity have stopped I am rid of the dizziness and the pains have just about all gone from my back, joints and muscles. I am also getting sound, restful sleep at night, so I don't have that tired feeling and my whole system feels toned up and improved."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. Find out how it will help you, too.

CLAYBORNE TAKES MATCH FROM HOGAN IN TWO STRAIGHT FALLS

Saints Grab Opener Over Cubs 8-1

Considered one of the fastest games this year last night saw the Cubs get trounced by St. Peter's 8-1 at the Armour Road softball depot. The contest took 45 minutes to run off. This win gives St. Peter's the first in the best three in five final playoffs.

Tonight at 6.30 the second game of the series will see the two finalists at it again on the same diamond. Thursday they go at it again with a possible double-header on Saturday if necessary. If St. Peter's keep up last evening's showing the Cubs won't have a chance for the first three games, but they figure that because you don't start off on the right foot, doesn't mean ending up in the doghouse.

Hank Gordon hurled puzzling ball in the fray and had the losers scatter their bingles. He pitches slow but well controlled pills and its hard for the batters to powder them. Last year in the finals he did a great job too. The Cubs succeeded in getting eight single hits only and he fanned five of them, issuing no reserve tickets. Hayes showed good form, permitting nine hits but seven were bunched in the first frame. Following the initial inning, St. Peter's managed to get only two hits, a splendid showing for the pitcher. He fanned one, allowing no walks.

With a pair of singles in three Kerr led his teammates at the swing station for batters. McIsaac came through with a three-bagger in three and Cardan and Gordon chalked up a double apiece in three appearances.

Hayes did well getting a pair of one-sackers for three and B. Donoghue got a like number for four sorties.

In fielding Jack Russell at second base starred. He turned in a performance of infield work that would make any scout sit up and take notice. Jack is not young, but the agility displayed last night gives no indication of his letting the rocking chair get him.

Runs batted in: Russell, Kerr, Prete 2, B. Donoghue; two-base hits—Condon, Gordon; three-base hits—McIsaac; sacrifice hit—Perdue, Garvey, O'Toole; struck out—Gordon 5, Hayes 1; double play—Garvey to Driscoll; left on bases—St. Peters 2, Cubs 8; winning pitcher—Gordon; losing pitcher—Hayes. Umpires—At the plate, Nagel Phelan; on the bases Harry Fraser.

By FRED D. CRAIG

There will be a game in the O.A.S.A. intermediate series at Riverside Park tonight but it will be the Genelecs and not the 4th Battery who will represent Peterborough. This comes as a result of a ruling by the O.A.S.A. secretary Monday that the Battery were not eligible for participation in the Ontario playdowns because their certificates were dated later than July 15, the dead line for signing O.A.S.A. players. When this was discovered Secretary Fever sent word to the local league to name the second-place Genelecs as Peterborough representatives in the playdowns. Technically the decision may be sound enough but so far as eligibility is concerned there is nothing against any of the Battery players all of whom opened the season with the Gunners and all of whom qualify under the residence rule and in every other way. For years there has been no hurry about sending in certificates from the League to the O.A.S.A., but this season the failure to be prompt in this respect has backfired at the expense of the Battery and they have been tossed out on the technicality although their eligibility in every other respect is unquestioned. It is a rather unexpected ending to a hectic playoff series and unfortunately the news arrived too late yesterday to change the advertising and the news stories about tonight's game.

* * * * * *

So it will be Genelecs and Oshawa tonight in the first game of the playoffs. The two have already met in a couple of exhibition games this season, won by the Colts but it is hoped that now that the checks are down the Peterborough representatives will swing into action and give Manager Soup Campbell's champion squad a memorable battle for the honors. As stated in this column last night the Colts have practically all of last year's Ontario winners with the exception that Peg Hurst will do the catching in place of Ronnie Nelson who has enlisted since last season. Dean McLaughlin the curve-ball specialist or fireball Preem Whiteley wil be on the firing line for Oshawa while it is expected that either Ronnie Akers or Terry Woods will do the tossing for the Genelecs with Mowry behind the bat. The Oshawa team will have Magee at first, Red Jubenville at second, Dalton at short, Hall at third and McLaughlin, Trewin and Little in the outfield. The Genelec lineup has not been definitely announced. The game will get underway at 6.15 o'clock.

Westclox Will Be Busy

Softball fans will be glad to learn that the Westclox girls' team, local senior champions, have arranged two interesting exhibition games that will provide a lot of good softball entertainment for stay-at-homes over the Labor Day wek-end. The Coulter's ladies team from Toronto, a senior team will spend the week-end here and will meet the Big Bens in games on Saturday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock and on Monday evening at 6 o'clock. The visitors are one of the strong Toronto aggregations and they should prove one of the best attractions of the season. It Westclox can make a good showing against this well-balanced aggregation it will be fine training for the provincial playdowns in which the Big Bens swing into action on September 18. Incidentally the Westclockers are having lots of softball, for they open a series with the Aircraft Wednesday night for the Cotton Cup and Monday they play at Bailieboro early in the afternoon returning home in time to clash with the Toronto Coulter's team in the evening.

"It looks as if they don't want us in the league at all," said one of the Battery players last night when informed that three of the City League teams had objected to them being declared champions. I can't figure what all the shooting is about," he continued. "This year, the same as last we used the hockey squad as a nucleus and filled in the gaps. We didn't go out after all the players in town, in fact we used two of the youngest performers in the loop, Bob Crowe and Bill Jones, as regulars. Everybody in town, including the teams which have been doing the kicking knows that every player who performed for us in the final series and would have taken part in the O.A.S.A. games is eligible and has been with us from the start of the season. They have kicked us out on a technicality but at least we have the satisfaction of knowing that of the teams who have been doing the protesting the Soldiers were only able to beat us twice in nine starts and one of those losses was when we were short-handed, with Eddie Starr among the missing. As for the Genelecs they were not able to beat us at all in the final series with their regular team on."

Two Tough Hombres

If we were handing out medals for last night's wrestling card we would be inclined to give Al Bunny Dunlop credit for stealing the show. Dunlop was matched with the people's favorite Pat Flanagan in the semi-windup and the strong man came up with his most ferocious demonstration of the year to make the bout a riot from start to finish. His scowl, his constant undercurrent of talk in which he gives his opinion of his opponent, the referee and the crowd and his wild-bull rushes and back-alley kicks and punches make Dunlop a natural as a rabble-rouser and hadn't been in action two minutes last night before the fans were hoping that Flanagan would pry loose a ring post and crown the rough-house artist. Flanagan did cut loose once with a rapid series of flying tackles and kicks in which he bounced Dunlop around worse than the 4th Battery have been bounced by the O.A.S.A. and the crowd climbed to its feet and cheered madly. The only regret the fans had when the bout was over after the two battlers had rolled out of the ring and had been counted out by Referee Maxwell was that the automatic draw let Dunlop escape too lightly. They wanted to se him distributed in sections among the patrons in the ringside seats. Dick Hogan was another individual who got the goat of the crowd but in his case the punishment fitted the crime inasmuch as Gentleman Jack Clayborne took him to the cleaners in decisive fashion and garnered the second fall in a manner that won general acclaim by drop-kicking the Housepainter right over the ropes. The thud with which he landed was music in the ears of the Comet clientele.

The Catholic League playoffs will continue tonight when St. Peter's and the East City Cubs will clash in the second game of the final series at Memorial Park. The Saints took the opening battle last night 8 to 1, getting the jump on their opponents by scoring six in the first inning but after that it was a real ball game. The Cubs are confident that they can come back tonight and even up the series. Last night's battle, a seven-innings affair was the fastest of the season and was run off in exactly 45 minutes.

The City Softball League executive met Monday evening at Duffus' board room and formally pronounced the 4th Battery as City League champions. At the same time they accepted the O.A.S.A. ruling that because the Battery O.A.S.A. certificates were dated later than July 15, the champions would not be able to represent the league in the playoffs and that responsibility would be taken over by Genelecs, the runners-up. It was pointed out that the Battery had been guilty of a violation of the letter, rather than the spirit of the regulations. The July 15 dead-line had been set up to prevent teams from loading up after that date. In the case of the Battery every player who represented them in the final series had been with the club since the beginning of the season.

Colored Comet Takes Lot Of Abuse

Gentleman Jack Clayborne had to take a lot of abuse in the main bout of Frank Tunney's weekly wrestling card at the Brock St. Arena Monday night but at that it only took the Colored Comet 28 minutes to demonstrate to everybody's satisfaction that he was a better man than the rowdy Dick Hogan, quaintly enough known as the Housepainter.

The black flash used one of his favorite stunts, vaulting over the head of Referee Bert Maxwell to flatten the roughouse Hogan in 20 minutes for the first fall and he got the second in eight minutes by the simple expedient of kicking the Pacific Coast back alley fighter over the ropes. Hogan struck the top rope and then the apron of the ring on his way out and lost all interest in the proceedings for some little time. Meanwhile of course Referee Maxwell who in spite of his failings knows the numerals up as high as 10, counted him out. It was a good bout at that. Clayborne, beautifully built and fast in action had too much speed and cleverness for the Housepainter but the latter tried to match those qualities with his own idea of Commando stuff and he had the ebony grappler in trouble frequently by his unorthodox efforts.

The manner in which Hogan would slip in a punch when Referee Maxwell wasn't looking and his habit of grabbing a hold instead of breaking clean when ordered to do so early aroused the ire of the crowd and they booed the Housepainter's every move. It didn't seem to bother Hogan much however for he kept on punching and kicking and several times during the early minutes he had the colored mat artist decidedly groggy as he hammered him around the ring. The fans were delighted when Clayborne on one occasion did a little punching himself and chased Hogan around while swinging lefts and right to his pugnacious jaw.

Hogan slipped a series of head holds that looked like a strangle on the colored grappler and once kicked him out of the ring but Clayborne refused to curl up and finally got his opportunity to catch Hogan off his guard. Maxwell was waving the Coast grappler back to his corner when the Comet leaped over the official's head, pounced on Hogan before he could get set and tossed him around in a series of body slams that made it easy for Clayborne to spread out his opponent and take the fall. And how the crowd, one of the biggest of the season, loved that!

It only took eight minutes for the Comet to take the second fall and the bout. At that Hogan was the aggressor most of the time, trying to soften the colored boy and square the bout. He handed out a lot of punishment and for a while it looked as if his tactics might succeed. Suddenly however the Comet launched a series of pile drivers and kicks that bounced the Housepainter around the ring and finally over the ropes. He lay on the floor of the arena and was counted out by Referee Maxwell.

A Stormy Session

The stormiest bout of the night however was the semi-windup in which Al Bunny Dunlop put on a berserk display with Irish Pat Flanagan as his opponent. The strongman was at his best—or rather his worst and the stuff he pulled on Flanagan had the fans in an uproar. Dunlop used elbow slams, kidney punches, rabbit punches and every other mean stunt in his repertoire against the Toronto Irishman. Several times he pushed the referee out of the way to get another kick at the prostrate Flanagan and one occasion he booted his opponent out of the ring and kicked him out again when he tried to climb through the ropes. A little later the two battlers both fell through the ropes and carried on their warfare on the floor of the arena.

Flanagan, of course was not always on the catching end. He handed out receipts for a lot of the stuff he took from the ferocious Dunlop, and the loudest cheering of the entire season marked a sudden attack launched by the Irishman after he had absorbed a lot of abuse. He charged into Dunlop like a tank at a road block, bowled him over half a dozen times with flying tackles and finally landed a mule kick squarely in his opponent's face. The crowd was in a frenzy as a fall for Flanagan looked certain. However Dunlop managed to crawl to the safety of the ropes. The battle came to a sudden end a little later when the two battlers rolled through the ropes together and were counted out by Referee Maxwell before they could return to the ring.

A Nice Exhibition

Sergt. Ted Miller of the Trenton R.C.A.F., a Commando trainer with the Air Force and the popular Joe Maich of Brantford staged one of the cleanest and cleverest displays of the science of wrestling seen here this season in the preliminary. Both featured punishing head holds, and scissors holds and both demonstrated skill in applying their grips and equal proficiency in breaking dangerous holds. Honors were even during the 30 minute battle and the verdict of a draw given by Referee Maxwell met with general approval. Both battlers were heartily applauded as they left the ring and they deserved the tribute.

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N.Y., Aug. 31 — (AP). — If you don't think its appropriate that bears should be an important topic of conversation up here where the Giants and Dodgers are getting ready for the pro football season, you should have seen Steve Owen in a cage with a couple of them yesterday . . . Someone had the idea that it would be a natural hook-up for pictures — Bear Mountain and the Giants' exhibition against those big bad Chicago Bears at Buffalo, Sunday, get it . . Anyway, Steve and Tuffy Leemans, who's spherical Steve's only assistant this season, consented to pose with a couple of roly-poly black bear cubs . . . . "They're cute little fellas," Owen admitted as he came out with his not inconsiderable area of skin undamaged . . . And he and Tuffy agreed the Giants will be lucky to do as well Sunday . . . Just then the naturalist in charge of the interstate park zoo came along . . . 'We have a nice tame skunk, too,' he remarked. "No thanks," said Steve. "We've got enough pictures."

By The Canadian Press

Indirect confirmation of the retirement of Henry Armstrong, one-time three-crown champion of the ring, was contained in the announcement at Hollywood last night by promoter Joe Lynch that he had offered $15,000 to Bob Montgomery of Philadelphia to replace Hank in a bout at the coast September 18.

Previous to his fight with Ray (Sugar) Robinson at Madison Square Garden, Armstrong had been signed for a 10-round go with Luther (Slugger) White of Baltimore at the Hollywood Baseball Park. The move by promoter Lynch indicated that the veteran Armstrong could be considered on the retired list whether he wanted to step down from the ring or not. The impression prevails in New York fight circles that Robinson pulled his punches in the concluding rounds of his match with the ol' man of the squared circle out of respect to his venerable opponent—even as Armstrong had done when he disposed of the fading Barney Ross for the title. Ross, battered and weary, refused to quit and so Armstrong allowed him to retire standing up.

Louis on Tour.

Catcher Harry Camelli, 27, a seven-years' veteran of the minor leagues, has been purchased by Pittsburgh Pirates from Albany, N. Y., of the Eastern League, it was announced last night. Camelli is batting around .290 and his 71 hits include 11 doubles and seven triples.

Sgt. Joe Louis, world's heavyweight champ, and his retinue, started out yesterday from Boston on a 100-day exhibition tour of U. S. army camps for morale-building, after which he may visit the overseas troops. Louis, weighing 215 pounds, said he would return to the ring after the war.

Athlete Decorated

Lieut. Rex Carey of Vancouver, wounded while serving in Sicily with the Princess Pats, has been awarded the Military Cross, according to word received last night by his mother, Mrs. A. M. Carey. He is known as an amateur boxer and won the Canadian Army middleweight title in 1941.

Los Angeles is away out in front in the Pacific Coast Baseball League race, up-to-date statistics revealing that the club has won 101 games and lost 36 for a .737 percentage, 17 full games ahead of San Francisco. Seattle is third in the standing and Portland fourth.

Helen Nicol, former, Calgary hurler, bids fair to lead the pitching brigade of the All-American Girls Softgall League out Chicago way, with a record of 15 victories and two defeats on the mound for Kenosha, Wis., for the second half of the league campaign.

Set Track Mark

Tony (two-ton) Galento, 242, puffed into the third round and cuffed 250-pound Babe Sharkey of Texas to sleep in their scheduled six-round affair at Wilmington last night, Galento using the so-called phantom punch, which the spectators usually fail to disern, for the kill.

Two track records were smashed in the Grand Circuit racing at Empire City track yesterday when Lew McKinney, six-year-old Maine gelding paced the five furlongs in 1:14 and the mile in 2:02½ in the classified event, the driver being Frank Safford. The horse cut a full second off each mark, winning the short race by four lengths.

The soccer eleven of the R.C.A.F. Jarvis, outscored Guelph Wireless School 2-1 last night at Hamilton in the zone final of the Services Soccer League and qualified to meet the Mount Hope Blues Wednesday, the winner to compete in the provincial final at Toronto Saturday.

Fliers Come Through

GUELPH—(CP). — The R.C.A.F.'s Guelph entry in the O.A.S.A. worked out a 7-6 decision over Brantford Cockshutts last night in the first round of the Senior "B" softball playdowns, the Airmen coming from behind in the eighth ining with a four-run rally.

Cats Die Off

LONDON, Aug. 31.—(CP).—London's cat population has been hit by the worst epidemic of influenza in many years. Through the first three weeks of August, the cats were reported to have died at the rate of 600 to 700 a week.

LAWN BOWLING

A nice pick-out shot by R. Payne on the seventh end to count a big five just about settled the issue between R. Payne and G. Coleman for second honours in Group No .1. Up until that end the game was fairly even with the Payne boys probably holding the edge. For a final game it was chucked full of good bowling and some not so good, but nevertheless it held the interest of the spectators, just like any final does. It would be hard to pick out the stars of the game; they all took their turn and made some nice shots. And so as far as the schedule for this season No. 1 Group is all through.

In Group No. 2, with one game yet to be played this evening H. Darling is leading, but C. Williamson is a bang-up second. A slip to-night might alter the situation. We'll know more about it late this evening.

To-morrow is our open tournament for men's rinks. Remember, it starts at 1.30 p.m. If you have not done so already, hand your entry in to-night.

The ladies' game committee has announced that the game between Mrs. Arnold and Mrs. Renaud to break the tie in the ladies' schedule, must be played by not later than 2.30 o'clock on Friday. The winner of this game will then meet Mrs. Dyer's rink for the Denne trophy.

Later the bull charged a milk truck and finally was shot.

Yanks and Giants In Third Battle

Tomorrow night at 6.30 at the Memorial Park Bowl will see the Catholic Junior League Yanks take on the Giants for the third game of the 2 in 3 semi-final battles. The Giants finished in second place in the league race and when the Yanks put out the Falcons for the right to meet them, they took the first game home in the bag.

In the second game of the semi-finals the Giants came right back for a win. The two teams are tied with one victory apiece and the game Wednesday night should be a honey. Both the teams are harbored in Ashburnham and they are playing for the right to meet the league leading Tigers in West City for a 3 of 5 final.

TORONTO, Aug. 31—(CP)—Pete Slobodian, one-time New York Americans hockey defenceman, did some frank talking during a furlough at Regina. Slobodian, it seems, figures the Allan Cup can be shipped to Toronto right now. He's stationed with the R.C.A.F. at Toronto and the Airmen have many other stars in the same camp, including Wycherley, Eddie Bush, Johnny Chad, Lloyd Gronsdal, Roy Conacher, Johnny Quilty and Ab Collins. And it's expected that Johnny Mowers, Detroit's Vezina Trophy winner, will join the Toronto camp for goal duties.

Prospectus:

Grapevine reports indicate the Air Force may concentrate its hockey talent in five teams next winter—Vancouver, Calgary, Winnipeg and two in the east. Last year the R.C.A.F. had 10 major teams—Victoria, Vancouver, Calgary, Lethbridge, Saskatoon, Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and Halifax . . . . Jack Park of the Cornwall Standard-Freeholder, an authority on Quebec Senior League doings, hears that Tommy Gorman of the Montreal Forum is trying to discourage operation of service teams in Montreal this season. Park says Gorman's hope is to have a civilian league with two Montreal teams and one each from Quebec and Ottawa. There may be something to this rumor because evidently Ottawa Commandos, Allan Cup champions, do not intend to operate this year. Commando players have been scattered to all parts of the Dominion and there are no reports of replacements. Park suggests Jim McCaffrey may operate a combined Army-Civilian team in Ottawa, possibly under the old name of Senators.

Incidentally

Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson comes up with proof the hockey players of the 1920's were plenty tough. Sprague Cleghorn, who helped Ottawa Senators and Montreal Canadiens win the Stanley Cup works in a Montreal defence plant. A steel bar weighing 1,200 pounds fell on his leg. The steel bar was badly bent. Sprague suffered a few torn muscles and tendons . . . . There was quite a furore last fall when Tommy Cooper, former Winnipeg and Moose Jaw hockey star, refused a Toronto Maple Leafs contract because he was employed in essential industry at St. Catharines. Now Tommy has joined the R.C.A.F. . . . . Ontario junior hockey clubs were scrambling for services of Vernon Kaiser of Preston, Ont. He has finally located at Port Colborne.

SAMPSON, N.Y.— (AP).— The U.S. Naval Training Station took on all comers in baseball, including major league teams, and won 14 straight until Rochester Red Wings appeared on the scene yesterday to win 8-6. At that, the Gobs secured 13 hits but 14 men were stranded on the bases.

Toronto Hurler Forfeits Game for Grudge

TORONTO, Aug. 31—Suspension of Pitcher Cam Ecclestone of Peoples' by the Beaches Major Fastball League climaxed an unprecedented Acorn Park demonstration last night.

Announcement of the suspension followed Ecclestone's refusal to go through with a pitching assignment against Tip Tops in the first half of a scheduled Beaches doubleheader. Ecclestone objected to working with Umpire Wes Balmer behind the plate.

Month-Old Feud

Between Ecclestone and Balmer there are differences, dating back to a month ago, when the umpire ejected the big softball hurler from a game.

Long past scheduled starting time, officials of the league and People's club pleaded with Ecclestone to bury the grudge, but the player refused to yield.

Peoples had only eight players without Ecclestone and no available substitute pitcher. Ab Grant, Norm Burtch and Herb Stricker were not available because of war plant duties. Consequently the game was declared forfeited to Tip Tops.

The park was jammed for the doubleheader program and Ecclestone, cheered so often for outstanding softball performances, was solidly booed by the customers.

His case has been forwarded to the Toronto Amateur Softball Association for further consideration. If the Beaches ruling is extended, suspension will mean the end of softball activities this season for last year's winner of the league's "most valuable player" award.

Second Game Okay

Most of the fans stayed for the second game. They were well rewarded when Army Daggers and Navy staged one of the best games of the Beaches League season, Daggers winning 2-1. Jerry Burke and Bus Benson hooked up in a pitcher's duel that was replete with thrilling fielding, daring base running.

LONDON, Aug. 31—(CP)— Class distinction in cricket took a verbal beating from a famed player in the 1943 Wisden, handbook of the game just off the press.

Recommending "total deletion" of all distinction between professionals and amateurs, R. C. Robertson-Glasgow wrote he believed "the hour is ripe, indeed over-ripe, for the sweeping away of anachronisms and the exploding of humbug."

"To me such questions as the position of a cricketers initials and the precise gate from which he is to enter the field have long seemed vastly absurd," he said. "Once on the field a bowler is as good as a batsman, and a wicket-keeper probably better than either." (Professional and amateurs must enter the field by different gates.)

Oxford University and Somerset player Robertson-Glasgow added that "all professionals whom I have known are fond of cricket and regard it as a pastime as well as a living; and many amateurs, besides being fond of cricket, play it for the equivalent of money, namely for publicity which attracts clients to themselves or to the business for which they may be working.

"The only difference is that the professional's pay is direct and the amateur's indirect. To both, cricket is, in fact, whatever it may be in law, their source, partly or entirely, of livelihood. To distinguish between these two sorts of cricketer on any commercial consideration is surely humbug."

Robertson-Glasgow found support in at least one London newspaper when the editor of the weekly Reynolds News commented that the article carried a frankness "that must be painful to the old School Ties."

"Coming from the source," the editor added, "I regard the view of utmost value to the armory of those who have struggled for years to bring democracy to sport, particularly cricket. The absurdities Robertson objects to are, in fact, class absurdities which should have been hit for six long ago."

Writing in "The Cricketer", Sir Pelham (Plum) Warner continued his arguments against abolishment of the third day's play in post-war cricket.

Former England cricketer known wherever the game is played, Sir Pelham contended that results of two-day matches often would be artificial and unreal and not in accordance with the merits of the two sides.

He referred to the two-day game as "hurry-scurry cricket— a sort of glorified tip-and-run." Later, in an interview in his beloved Pavilion at Lord's, he said that "a whole day's first class cricket at Lord's is the cheapest entertainment on earth."

And speaking of Lord's, which is the home of the Marylebone Cricket Club, in days gone by the only certain way to become a member was for a family to put an expected son on the list before the child was born.

But there were so many instances of the "son" turning out to be a daughter, and the parents neglecting to inform the club, that the practice was discontinued.

Today, a new member is nominated when he is 14 and elected four years later. Just 200 new members, at a subscription of $13 each, have been elected this year.

Cricketers heard with concern that Hedley Verity, Yorkshire slow left-arm bowler who played in 40 tests in England, is missing in the Middle East where he was on active service as an army captain for more than three years.

Verity, 38, is the only bowler to take 14 wickets in a day during a Test match. That was against Australia at Lord's in 1934. He reached 100 wickets in tests in a shorter period than any Englishman. In less than 10 season for Yorkshire he took 1,588 wickets.

Cecil Henry Parkin, former England and Lancashire cricketer who earned the title of the game's greatest comedian, died at Manchester at the age of 576. He played 10 Test matches including five in Australia.

With spins, flights and variations, he made the ball "talk" almost as much as he talked himself and became a favorite of Lancastrians — as much for his comedy as for his cricket.

Pirates Split Twin Bill With Cardinals

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

A month ago St. Louis Cardinals were being talked of as probable favorites in the world series, but if the annual classic were opening now the New York Yankees almost certainly would be odds-on- choices.

They probably will be when the world series opens in October, too.

The Yankees have been picking up momentum on the home stretch while the Cardinals have been slowing down. The difference between them was shown again yesterday when the Yankees beat Boston Red Sox 3-1 while St. Louis split a double-header with Pittsburgh Pirates in the only games played in the major leagues.

The Pirates won the opener, 4-3, but the Cardinals came back with an 8-3 triumph.

At New York Rookie Charlie Wensloff pitched four-hit ball and Roy (Stormy) Weatherly punched the winning ticket with a two-run homer, his third in two days.

This gave the Yanks their 13th consecutiutve series and a record of having won 42 out of 59 games since the streak started July 5.

They now have plenty of power and good fielding along with the best pitching in the major leagues.

The Cardinals have their spectacular speed and sharp hitting, but their fielding has faltered and their pitching has become uncertain.

In losing four of their last six games they have made 11 errors, five yesterday and at least one in every contest.

Leafs Need Five More Victories

By The Associated Press

If Toronto gets five more victories in the next two weeks, the Maple Leafs will have garnered their eighth International League pennant since 1887, but their first since 1926.

The Leafs, leaders from the start of the present campaign, have been kept off the top perch for the last 17 years although they won the Governors' Cup play-offs in 1934 after placing third behind Newark.

Much of the Leafs' success this season can be traced to the rejuvenation of a pair of former Major League hurlers Luke Hamlin and Nick Strincevich. Hamlin, whose home-run ball cut short his National League visit, now has a record of 19 victories and eight losses while Nick Strincevich has 14 triumphs out of 20 decisions.

The Leafs, idle yesterday as were all the clubs in the circuit, are at Buffalo tonight for an arc light competition.

Sicily Campaign Brushed Up Army Technique

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Aug. 30 — (C" Cable) — Lt. Gen. A. G. L. McNaghton, describing Canadian troops in Britain as a "large strategic reserve," declared today they are ready for use "in whole or in part" as the High Command desires, "and can fit into any scheme right from the drop of the hat."

The commander of the Canadian Army Overseas met Canadian war correspondents at army headquarters and reported his recent visit to North Africa and Sicily, from which he returned Saturday.

"We are ready," Gen. McNaughton said.

"The great thing that has come from the Sicilian campaign is that it has been a check and audit on our training organization.

"The result of observations by senior commanders is that we have every right to take satisfaction in what has been done. We are assured by independent judges that our basic training has been right. The same thing applied to our organization."

Experience had shown a few small changes are necessary, Gen. McNaughton added, and action has been taken to make these. Basically, however, Canadian methods had proved correct.

Sicily had shown that Canadians can put men in with other Allied formations if need be without trouble, he said, describing this as "a pretty statisfactory state of affairs."

Must Be Patient

"The policy of employment of the Canadians will have been settled in Quebec in principle and details probably are being worked out now," he said. "The Canadian army is ready to implement those principles in whole or in part."

Asked about the future movement of Canadians, he said: "Where we go from here is what the enemy wants to know—there is where we have to ask the people of Canada to be patient."

"We do not mind the Germans knowing there is a very heavy threat hanging over their heads," he said, "but people must appreciate the importance of not pressing for information which would compromise operations and put our forces in great danger."

The General who saw something of every fighting and adminstrative Canadian unit in the Mediterranean said he had never seen troops in better shape than the Canadians in Sicily and the men who fought in North Africa.

Discussing the medical size of the campaign, Gen. McNaughton said the anti-malarial discipline had been of the highest order and preventable cases were kept exceedingly small.

Where the men had to fight during hours when mosquitoes were about there had been some cases of illness.

Early surgery in the forward areas saved many lives, he said. "The energy and devotion to duty shown by the medical services in all walks was something beyond praise."

Asked why the Canadians had been spared the final Sicilian engagements, Gen. McNaughton said they had attained their objectives and their withdrawal from action was "perfectly normal."

Viterboro Airport

fighter escort staged a night and day assault on freight yards at Civita Vecchia, Northwest of Rome.

Other medium, light and fighter bombers riaded railway objectives in Southern Italy during the day, and fighter-bombers struck at communications in Sardinia.

In all, 21 enemy planes were downed, with 15 Allied aircraft reported missing.

The heavy bombers, meeting comparatively light oppositon, strewed bombs throughout dispersal areas at the strategic Viterbo airdrome, 40 miles above Rome, leaving hangars and other buildings in flames. They shot down two enemy planes.

Hit Station.

At Civita Vecchia, a rail junction for the Rome-Leghorn route and industrial town of Terni, U. S. medium bombers knocked out tracks in the northeast section and scored direct hits on the railroad station, ware houses and locomotive sheds, in daylight.

Night-flying Wellingtons guided by the fires followed up in two sharp attacks, dumping two-ton blockbusters to create a terrible scene of explosions and fires.

An entire train north of the town blew up, and chemicals works and the transfer station suffered direct hits. The glow from the fires was bright enough to be visible to other Wellingtons in the Sardinia area 120 miles away. All planes returned safely.

(The Italian communique, broadcast by Rome and recorded by the Associated Press, claimed Allied planes were downed over the Rome and Naples area. The German radio said Nazi fighters destroyed 26 out of 60 attacks near Naples.

(German planes in a new attack on August Harbor in Sicity damaged an Allied merchant ship and hit several landing barges, the Italians added).

In the Svendborg battle, described by refugees as the biggest engagement of the two-day military revolt, Danish forces were led into action by Prince Gorm, son of Prince Harald. On the same day, Prince Gorm's brother-in-law, the German Prince Christian of Schaumburg-Lippe, commanded the German armored division which fought the Danes at Viborg.

This division was rushed to Denmark from Norway, reports stated. and was active in most of the skirmishes which broke out shortly after dawn on Sunday. Part of this unit attacked the Naestved garrison.

Orel and Kharkov earlier this summer. The Soviet communique disclosed Red Army divisions had lanched a drive from Donetsko-Amvrosievka, 40 miles northwest of Taganrog, to Veselso-Voznesenskaya, 28 miles west of the city, while other Russian forces closed in from the east.

The communique said the Germans suffered heavy losses in men and equipment in the ensuing battle.

German broadcasts dismissed the defeat as a "strategic withdrawal," —the same terms used to describe the fall of Kharkov—and said military installations had been destroyed in the face of the Russian advance.

Gain 13 Miles.

Action on other fronts found the Soviet drive on Bryansk, important rail junction and German base 200 miles southeast of Moscow, gaining momentum with the Russian communique announcing gains of six to 13 miles and the capture of 50 villages.

Russian columns pushing on from Kharkov apparently were meeting stiff German resistance. The Nazis launched a counter-attack with large forces from Yyubotin, 17 miles west of the city. the Russians said, but it was smashed and the Soviet troops pushed on, establishing new postions.

The day's recapitulation of German losses in the Russian communique showed more than 5,000 Nazis killed, 150 tanks damaged or destroyed, and 59 planes shot down in combat or by ground batteries.

Train Disaster Kills 26 150 More Hurt

WAYLAND, N.Y., Aug. 31 (AP)— The death toll in the collision of the New York - to - Buffalo passenger train, the Lackawanna Limited, and a switch engine rose to 26 today as a crew of 300 attempted to clear the wreckage of New York State's worst train disaster in more than three years.

About 150 persons were injured or scalded in the wreck of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad train which occurred late yesterday near the Wayland station. It carried about 500 passengers.

Railroad officials hoped to clear the main line track by noon.

Many Scalded

The wreck was the most disastrous in New York since the New York Central Lake Shore Limited was derailed at Little Falls April 19, 1940, bringing death for 31 and injuries to 135.

Live steam, loosened from the switch engine which came to rest along side the train, swirled through a wrecked coach, trapping many of the victims.

Twenty-three persons—18 women, three men and two small girls—died instantly and three succumbed to injuries today.

Some of them were scalded and burned so severely that identification may be delayed for many hours.

About 100 suffered superficial injuries.

Fifty-six persons required hospitalization. They were taken to hospitals in Wayland, Bath, Dansville and Corning.

Blood plasma was flown from Rochester, Buffalo and Oswego to Dansville and then taken by car to Wayland.

Engineer Confused

The accident occurred about 5:45 p.m. (EDT). James E. Leroy of Buffalo, engineer of the Limited, said the train was speeding through Wayland when he saw a switch engine on the siding paralleling the main line westbound track.

"The engineer of the local freight locomotive, apparently was confused and thought the Limited had gone through and started to pull out on the main line to continue switching," he added. "When I saw the other engine pulling out, I slammed on the Limited's emergency brakes, but it was going too fast to avert a collision.

"The two locomotives met at the switch."

The Limited, a 13-car train, sheared off the front end of the switch engine and cracked the driving cylinder. The switch engine remained upright on the spur track.

The locomotive of the Limited hurtled down the track and toppled broadside across two main line tracks and two spurs. Three coaches, the diner, a baggage car and mail car were derailed.

Engineer Leroy and the Limited's fireman Theodore Paladino of Buffalo, suffered shock and bruises.

Ceiling Rates

OTTAWA, Aug. 31 —(CP) —The Prices Board announced last night that under revised rentals regulations effective October 1, "per person" rates charged boarders and roomers for shared accommodation July 1, 1943, are the ceiling rates. If the accommodation was not let July 1, 1943, the ceiling rates will be the first "per person" rates charged for it after that date.

College Heads Consider Newest Call-up

OTTAWA, Aug. 31 — (CP). — Effect on university students of the recent extension of military call-up to men 18 years of age was discussed today at a conference attended by university heads and representatives of National Selective Service.

At the opening session a special committee was appointed to study during the luncheon adjournment the problem of varying entrance requirements for different universities. Some call for "honor" matriculation while others accept the students with "senior" matriculation.

At present university students in certain lines, like engineering, are able to obtain deferment from the military service to complete their studies, providing they meet academic requirements. Should the students be prevented from completing their matriculation the entire supply of male students for universities requiring honor matriculation—where the average age of students entering is 18½ —would be cut off.

Selective Service officials have announced that while men of 18 are eligible for military call they will not be required to report for medical examination until they reach 18 years and six months.

"My Girls are the real Glamour Girls

"I've never been one to think that clothes make the man— or the girl either, for that matter. That goes for uniforms too.

"It's what they represent that's glamourous to me. And that's why I say my three girls—and all the other girls in the armed forces—are the real glamour girls today. They know there's a war on.

"Those uniforms of navy, khaki and air force blue are smart —but they tell the bigger story of women doing an important job.

"I'll never forget how proud I felt when I found that my girls were eager to do their share, and were not content to stay at home and let others do it for them."

Three Men Charged Having Liquor in Car

Alcoholic refreshment in an automobile can prove a rather expensive proposition, a trio of men have discovered as the result of a police court experience.

There was a party on the 9th line of Dummer recently and Provincial Constable Archie Grayling of Havelock was an uninvited guest. As a result of his visit charges against John Andrews, Dummer township, W. M. Bailey, Dartford and High Winters, R.R. 2, Lakefield, of having liquor in a place other than a residence followed.

This morning Andrews appeared before Justices of the Peace Vincent Eastwood and E. B. Fowler in police court.

"I plead guilty to having liquor in the car but not to putting it there" he said when the charge was read.

Pointing out that that was not a satisfactory plea Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., asked for a remand in order to give Officer Grayling a chance to get his witnesses.

Andrews later announced that he would plead guilty and he was fined $15 and $2.50 costs.

The same penalty was imposed on Winters who entered a written plea of guilty through Sergt. G. T. Puffer.

In Bailey's case an adjournment for one week was ordered.

Bette Davis Leads List For War Victims

Those who frequent the movie shows will be quite familiar with the name of Bette Davis and what it represents in the world of entertainment by this means.

Recently, Bob Everett sent her one of the Stamp Out Hitler Club forms, hoping that among her friends in Hollywood this would be gilled in, and the usual $1.00 would come to the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund.

In writing to him, the movie star went one better by sending a cheque for $5, the full amount of the card herself for the purpose of helping the fund, and with the ten per cent. exchange added, this gives her a credit of $5.50, which is listed in her name today, and better still, it was utilized to head a list of personal donations from some of the members of the Stamp Out Hitler Clubs.

To date, those who have given in this manner include Gord Hill, H. Duplan of London Kiwanis Club, Nick and Lilian Orlando, Tony and Grace Ronco, G. Rightmyer, and H. Terry, whose gifts are all recorded today as well.

Bette Davis Club.

A club under this name is now in course of formation by Bob Everett to include those of the name of Bette, Betty, or Elizabeth, for which Betty or Bess is the shorter form, who will follow her lead in a personal gift to help the victims of air raids over Britain.

Coincident to this list of personal donations is a contribution once more coming from the Stamp Out Hitler Clubs through Bob Everett amounting to $12, which now makes a total of $179 that has come to the fund from this one source, and the beauty of this is that it also represents the sale of one hundred and seventy-nine War Savings Certificates of the $5 par variety, which is also a considerable help to the general war effort.

The winners in this latest group include T. Demos, W. Barry, and W. Freeburn in the Empress Hotel Club; P. V. Crowley in the Selkirk's Men's Shop Club; E. Young and F. Marino in the Theatre Club; Ed Ryan, Art Moffat and J. McKone in the Kiwanis Club, and A. Godfrey, E. Trotter and W. Steenburg in the Canada Packers Club, whose contribution in today's list marks the 26th draw they have made, a real creditable showing, much of which is due to Nurse Yelland, who is doing fine work in handling this effort on behalf of the clubs, the war effort and the fund.

At the moment there is a little over $1,300 on hand in the bank towards the next donation of £500, which leaves abou $900 still required to complete and send on its mission of mercy and helpfulness to those in need.

Post-War Needs 2 Separate Organizations

MONTREAL, Aug. 31 (CP)—Sir Herbert B. Ames, first financial adviser to the League of Nations, said in an address at a service (Rotary) club luncheon today that he believes two "distinct organizations" should be set up after the war, one of them to guarantee peace and the other to deal with non-political problems.

"It is as necessary to have international police power as it is to have such an element in civic life," Sir Herbert said. Any new League of Nations created after the war, he added, "must be able to absolutely guarantee that, for those states that accept its decisions, there will be protection; while those who commit acts of aggression will not only be checked but sternly punished.

"In my opinion, there should be in the post-war set-up, at least in the beginning, two quite distinct organizations. One should guarantee peace, using armed force if necessary, and this organization should include only nations pledged to all-out whole-hearted support whatever the cost.

"The second organization might take in as members all nations so desiring and should deal with non-political problems such as finance, economics, transportation and the social, humanitarian questions."

When decisions are taken that might lead to strong action, he said, "It is my belief that the voting power should be in proportion to the responsibility assumed."

Many Scalded As Trains Come Together

WAYLAND, N.Y., Aug. 31—(AP). —"A terrific jolt...people screaming...an awful, gruesome sight...."

These words were used by passengers of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad's Lackawanna Limited in describing the train wreck at Wayland late yesterday.

Staff Sgt. Richard L. Franz, of Marshfield, Ore., who suffered burns and cuts, gave this version:

"All I can remember is they slammed the brakes on and the train stopped. We didn't realize the train was wrecked. Then the steam pipe broke and everybody started screaming and began to pile out.

"The steam was so dense you couldn't see where you were going. But finally after breaking a couple of windows with my hands I found a door and jumped out. I tried to get back in to help an old lady out of the car, but I couldn't get back through the steam. It was awful."

"It was a seething furnace," B. J. Shields of Buffalo, N.Y., coal freight engineer for the D.L. and W., said. "Some of the persons were in such pain they begged to die."

Robert Kaiser, 32, of Kenmore, N.Y., said the "odor of burning flesh was terrible."

"It was an awful, gruesome sight," he added. "The man sitting next to me and the woman sitting ahead were both killed. Glass and steam filled the car. The people were paralyzed with fear. And outside a woman knelt alongside the wreckage repeating the Lord's Prayer."

May Allot Board Space In Hall

Although the Board of Education decided by the chairman's vote to reject the implied invitation from the city council to apply for and use part of the proposed new city hall, there is some likelihood that in the stage of tentative consideration of plans and arrangements the Board may be allotted accommodation, as if their majority had not bluntly rejected it.

This is only an opinion that has expressed in the precincts of the city hall, and is quoted only in that restricted worth.

"The Board of next year might take a different view of this question," was the statement to a reporter to-day. "The council does not know when it will be able to proceed with the work, not at least until after the war, so there is no hurry. In fact there is plenty of time for the Board to change its mind, if it feels that way. However, there has to be a beginning to planning and that is all we are doing now, estimating what is likely to be needed, considering available sites, getting on toward plans and so on. I think the disposition of the council will be to regard the Board as likely to change its mind especially when they are offered new accommodation that will last for a long time, probably a whole century or more."

Youthful Bicyclist Eludes Hun Prisoner

MONTREAL, Aug. 31 —(CP)— One of the party of cyclists, members of the Canadian Youth Hostel Association, who visited Peterborough last week, 15-year-old Harold Pugash of Montreal, had an exciting adventure during his trip back to Montreal. He told yesterday how he eluded one of the German prisoners who escaped from Kingston Internment camp on Friday, and aided in the capture of three others.

One of a party of 10 Montrealers and three Quebec cyclists, Pugash said the German dashed out of the bushes near his bicycle as he rode past.

"He ran out of a barn near the side of the road and stopped me," he said. "He was a big fellow....about five feet 11. He was in civies but they didn't fit him. He spoke English and simply asked me if I was alone.

"It was my bike he wanted, but I managed to break away and got out of sight. I don't think I ever pedalled so fast in my life."

Shortly after, Pugash said, he met an army sergeant on a motorcycle and he told him of his escape. He said that half an hour later a party of soldiers rounded up three of the prisoners near the same spot.

Mary Churchill Likes Modern Dances

FORT OGLETHORPE, Ga., Aug. 31 (AP)—Youthful Britons still turn from their war duties to normal recreational outlets, bright eyed, laughing Mary Churchill said today but, she admitted, British jitterbugging just isn't up to American standards.

The youngest daughter of Britain's Prime Minister and an officer in her country's anti-aircraft service, Miss Churchill was here to visit with a portion of the Women's Army Corps, the United States version of her own Auxiliary Territorial Service.

Good naturedly answering rapid fire questions during a brief interview, Subaltern Churchill said "of course, we are still having fun" in England.

Jitterbugging? "Surely," she answered, "But we don't do the steps nearly as well as you Americans." Then laughing, she added:—

"Oh yes, I try sometimes."

Miss Churchill explained that she did technical work in a mixed anti-aircraft battery where she and fellow members handle devices used in aiming and firing the guns.

"We live in barracks at the battery," she said, "and are on call 24 hours a day. But like in ordinary army life, we get evenings off occasionally."

Serious for a moment, she added:

"I wouldn't like to wear a uniform always, but I'm very proud to wear it now."

Her program today called for an inspection of the third W.A.C. Training Centre and the witnessing of a parade before continuing her tour by air.

Persistent Fellow

TORONTO, Aug. 31—(CP).—After being chased from the roof of a restaurant by police and citizens of suburban Port Credit early today, Charles Peters, 25, of Clarkson, was charged with attempting to break and enter and also with assault.

Farmers Find Hard To Get Grain Chopped

Some of the grain chopping mills in eastern Ontario are so busy grinding for export to the United States that farmers at home find themselves relegated to a waiting list or forced to look elsewhere for a service that is essential to their production of livestock.

This is a rumor from some localities in this part of Central Ontario that seems to be authentically supported by fact. It is said that prior to the federal government's action on July 10 in restricting exports of feed grain across the border, American buyers anticipating a shortage for their own needs made substantial purchases in the west, and that deliveries are continuing for the simple reason that the buyers own this grain and are entitled to get it.

However, it transpires, according to the Examiner's information that grain on its way through to the east is stopped in transit, milled or otherwise processed, and then loaded back into the cars which then continue on their way to Albany or other destinations in the United States.

The American grain market has a much higher ceiling than the Canadian, and this business contributes a profit to the Ontario grinders considerably in excess of the domestic grist operation. As an explanation of the grinding in transit it is said that the trade across the line realized that they did not possess enough grinding facilities for their own requirements.

The excess price caught the attention of provincial grist men, especially in eastern Ontario. It is also said that some grain brokers induced choppers to go into this business because it held out to them some larger revenue than the domestic grinding provided. In any event, some farmers are said to be reporting difficulty in getting grain chopped, and casually enquiry is being made into the extent to which this encroaching business projects itself into provincial agriculture.

It was stated to the Examiner that this grinding for export would seriously interfere with needs of Ontario farmers if it continued much longer, and also that federal authorities were not likely to hear about what is said to be a growing apprehension in some rural areas unless "there is a loud squawk from farmers who are not getting chop at mills that have always handled their business."

"Grass Clippings Never Go Into My Garbage Can."

You are a wise man, Mr. Jones, and you know your horticulture.

Horticulturists, those people who know about grass and flowers, maintain that grass clippings make good fertilizer. Some of them leave the clippings on their lawns knowing that it aids grass growth, while others put the grass clippings on their gardens.

Many citizens still place this rich potential fertilizer out to be collected as garbage. Grass clippings mixed with garbage do not burn well in the City incinerator. When placed out for garbage collectors grass clippings should be put in a separate container and then will be collected with the ashes on the second collection each week.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, September 1

THERE IS need of particular fortitude, vigilance and precaution on this day, which is marked for reversals, surprises, duplicity and peculiar undercurrents, a combination which may prove futile, or constructive, according to the prudence, vision, skill and wariness individually exercised. There may be tenacious obstacles to climb over if they may not be pierced, and tricky circumstances may be met by stratagem and shrewdness, but in all have faith, persistence, and guard the health and nervous tension and the tide should turn and bring enduring gains, perhaps with novel programs.

Those whose birthday it is may tax their powers of endurance and fortitude, their ingenuity, skill and ability. Under-cover situations may demand shrewd insight and rigorous handling, huge obstructions may be climbed over or around.

A child born on this day may have much capacity for endurance, fortitude and patience, against reversals and duplicities in life. These it may circumvent by its shrewdness, insight and sound abilities.

DOROTHY DIX

SOME MARRIED MEN FLIRT WITH WAR PLANT GIRLS.
How Can Wives Solve the Problem? Many Men Can't Stand the Pace.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 36 with three children. I love my husband very much. Heretofore he has been a good domestic man. But now they have hired women workers in the factory where he is employed and I am getting uneasy. I trust him more than most men, but I also know he has had mild flirtations. And I hear numerous stories about what happens in defence plants. In one case a father of nine is so completely mixed up with a young girl that for her he has forsaken his wife and children. More than anything in the world I want to hold my husban'd love, but how? What can I do to make myself more interesting to him? Should I show how-much I love him, be indifferent or make eyes at some other man? How can wives deal with this new situation which confronts us and hold our husbands when they are associated with girls younger, better looking, and slimmer than we are? ANXIOUS WIFE.

ANSWER: Uncle Sam certainly started something besides speeding up production when he put women to work in defence plants. He aroused the green-eyed monster in the breasts of thousands of wives who thought they had good house-broken husbands whom they could not lose any more than they could their old dog Fido. I get hundreds of letters like the above from wives who say their middle-aged Darbys have turned into Casanovas, running around after young girls instead of coming home at night, spending money on fancy raiment and jewellery for cuties instead of paying off the bungalow mortgage as they planned. And while wives are willing to give husbands to their country they balk at turning them over to gold-digging sweeties.

Apparently, it is hard to blend patriotism with human nature without making an explosive mixture, for other wives relate that even the share-your-car movement leads to trouble. They found that husbands, instead of going sedately back and forth between their homes and work, have taken to joy-riding with the more ornamental of their passengers.

And all these wives who see the divorce court looming ahead of them want to know how they are to get their husbands back again, safely tied to their apron strings. Perhaps time is the only solution of their problem. Maybe the reason husbands have strayed off the reservation is because it is the first time they have ever worked with women, and the situation is for that reason exciting and intriguing.

Maybe after things have settled down to routine the girls won't look so pretty and fascinating, and that after the men get used to their arts and wiles they won't fall for their glamor, any more than the tricks their wives use when they are trying to break the news that Aunt Sally is coming for a nice long visit, or they want money for a new dress.

But, of course, back of the husbands' suddenly going flirtatious is the big wages thay are making. It is the first time they have ever had enough money to indulge in sidestepping, always on expensive amusement. Lack of the price keeps many a man away from temptation. If she can, the best way a wife can reform a rusband is to get him to buy war bonds instead of drinks. As to what a wife can do to keep a husband, I can give no better advice than this: Take it easy, or, at any rate as easy as you can when your husband begins to doll himself up in fancy neckwear and forgets to punch the home time-clock on the dot. Don't nag him. Don't put him through the third degree about where he has been and what he has done. Don't weep and make home such an unpleasant place that he will hate to leave a girl who jollies him to come back to it.

Don't try to imitate young girls with whom he is running around by dressing up in the silly clothes they wear, and daubing your face with paint and lipstick. Be yourself. What your husband needs right now is a mother instead of another sweetie. And, even unknown to himself, he will be contrasting in his mind your dignity, honesty, genuineness, good sense, and judgment against their frivolity and flimsiness. And don't forget that he is as old as you are and he can't keep up the pace set by youngsters. If you will just be patient there are ninety-nine chances out of a hundred he will come back to you, a repentant and chastened man.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a young girl engaged to a sailor in the Merchant Marine. His home town is in Missouri. He left after a three months' courtship and we promised to be true to each other. Since then he has called me several times from California, always says how much he loves me, and that when he can get a furlough and come back we will be married. Everyone, including my father, tells me that he will never return because he isn't from my state. I know he is somewhere in the Pacific, but I haven't heard from him in two months. Neither has his family. Shall I listen to what my folks say and give him the air, or shall I be true to him? Would you start a trousseau, hoping he will come back? I love him very much. What would you do? PEARL.

ANSWER: Well Pearl, if I loved him, I would be true to him and wait, at least a while longer. Because you have had no letter in two months is no indication that he hasn't written. Often letters go

Bomber Attacks Planned Underground

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R. A. F. BOMBER COMMAND, SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Aug. 31.—(CP).— Deep underground in a map-covered operations room the decisions are made that send thousands of young fliers out on the mass bomber raids of these summer nights. This room is the key spot of Bomber Command, the sanctum of Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Harris, the man who decides whether the bombers go out to-night or stay home.

Here can be seen at a glance the whole picture of bomber command, in just what strength the squadrons of Canadian bomber group can be used, or the many R.A.F. bomber squadrons, or those of the Poles or the Czechs or other Dominion forces.

As soon as possible after the conclusion of one air assault each station commander informs this group headquarters how many planes can be ready by nightfall for the next attack. Each group informs command. When Sir Arthur arrives at the underground operations room he can see in a twinkling just what force he has at his disposal.

This chart of Bomber Command strength covers three blackboards 30 feet by 10 feet. It is the master chart of all the charts in operaitons rooms throughout the Command in group and station headquarters which show the strength of individual squadrons right down to each crew member.

Walls Made of Maps.

First assault decisions are made in the operations room, covered with maps which are on the walls, on tables and on huge inclined movable frames. Ladders are necessary for close scrunity of the higher maps.

Here Sir Arthur holds his morning conference with the experts whose advice he needs for completion of attack plans. The deputy-commander-in-chief, Air Vice-Marshal R. H. M. S. Saundby, is there along with the command meteorological officer, the controller of operaitons who has direct telephone lines with all bomber groups and the Air Ministry in London, and other experts connected with armament, signals and intelligence.

As a rule the meteorological expert is the first speaker. A civilian, his opinion must be favorable or there is no use going ahead. The bombers are not asked to fight the Hun and the weather too. He is probably the best-informed man in the country on the weather over Europe.

The intelligence officer provides all possible informtaion about the target, up-to-date news of the area's defences and the latest reconnaissance photographs.

He Makes Decisons.

Then it is up to Sir Arthur. If everything is favorable he may turn to Saundby: "this is your target. I want so many aircraft on this operation, a concentrated attack will begin, the types of aircraft to be employed, the proportion of high explosives bombs to incendiaries and other details. Take-off times have to be decided for aircraft all over the Command so as to get them above the target within the prescribed time with a minimum chance of collision.

All this done, the "action sheet" is presented to the Commander-in-Chief, and, once approved, is passed on by secret telephone to various group headquarters by the Controller of Operations. The communication system is like a giant spider's web, from command to groups, from groups to stations, from stations to squadrons and finally from squadrons O. C. S. to crewmen.

And so efficient in the organization that should the weather change over the selected target another target can be selected during the day and all arrangements made for sending the bomber force out just the same to the second-choice target.

PETERBOROUGH BUSINESS COLLEGE LTD.
Tuesday, Sept. 7

It is important this year that enrolments be made earlier than usual. Our office is open daily for consultation. Phone 4861 for appointment.

Business firms and the Government need capable stenographers and accountants. Young people can serve their country by preparing for office positions, and when the war is over will likely hold these positions. Rather important, is it not?

Danish King Inspects Fleet

In this photo, King Christian of Denmark, CENTRE, appears as he inspected his country's fleet, several days ago, hoping to keep his nation at peace. Now Christian has been arrested and the fleet he looks over here has been blown up by its own crews or escaped to Sweden. The Nazis have declared martial law in Denmark and the Danish Cabinet has been interned.

Softwood Lumber Increases Take Effect On September 1

A schedule of increases in the retail prices of softwood lumber and some of its processed materials, effective Wednesday, September 1, is announced to-day with an accompanying rebate to specified consumers to the extent of ten per cent. of invoices.

The increase on the unit basis of 1,000 feet are: White pine $9; Red pine $7; British Columbia cedar and fir, $4; Eastern spruce, jack pine and hemlock, $2; also British Columbia shingles, $1 a square.

The 10 per cent. rebate is allowed to the following consumers: Farmers, fishermen, growers of fruits and vegetables, trappers and other individual civilian users who buy lumber from time to time for use in their personal trade or occupation, or for maintenance and repair purposes.

This will not include the building of dwellings or improvements or additions thereto, or sales to building contractors or industrial users.

The subsidy is to be allowed to each purchaser on completion by him of a form showing his name, address, occupation, and certifying the purpose for which the lumber is to be used. No subsidy will be granted unless the use is within the above classification.

For the purpose of subsidy, lumber shall include rough and dressed softwood, lath, posts and shingles, and will not include hardwood lumber nor sash, doors, mouldings or general millwork. Required forms are obtainable at the office of lumber dealers.

According to the Examiner's information the lumbering trade has been contending that higher prices were necessary to meet increased costs of operation. Chief opposition to these representations and demands emanated from Donald Gordon, head of Wartime Prices and Trade Board. However, apparently there has been some compromise to provide materials for a stated group of consumers.

Mr. Gordon, it is said, objected to costs which would clearly add to the costs of living, but it has been felt that most of that factor has been avoided by excluding new dwellings from the subsidy and restrict its advantage to the group of farmers, fishermen and so on, and generally permitting purchases for ordinary needs of maintenance. The phrase in the orders is "for maintenance and repair purposes."

The interpretation is simply that no subsidy will be paid on new dwellings, but will be paid on purchases for "maintenance and repair."

It is also said that the increases will not amount on the average to as much as the subsidy. For instance that common and standard article, the hemlock 2 in. by 4 in. is now $52 a thousand feet. Add the two increase, and the amount is $54, but the subsidy of 10 per cent. in that instance is more than the increase.

Another estimate of effect is that on a new dwelling the total increase will likely be less than $100. And as a reminder of the restrictions, there is no subsidy.

A detail of the new order is that subsidy will not be paid on sales of $10 or less than amount.

"Where the lumber sale is $200 or more, a permit must be secured from Timber Control, Ottawa, granting permission to supply the lumber, and this permit when received will state on its face whether the lumber is eligible for subsidy."

It will also be noticed that the subsidy is not granted to contractors.

All orders from consumers entitled to subsidy must be given personally by the purchaser either at the business or yard office, and must be accompanied by cash. Dealers cannot leave to drivers or delivery men generally the details of purchasing under the new subsidy plan. Forms have to be filled out, and it has been felt that a great deal of friction and misunderstanding would be side-stepped by orders being placed over the counter. The subsidy forms have to be signed by the customer, and for that reason they must go to the office if they are within the categories entitled to subsidy rebates.

Millbrook News

Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Bentley are holidaying for the current week, camping near Bewdley, with other friends.

Mr. L. F. Clarry, who has spent the summer at the family homestead here, left on Moday evening for his return trip to Calgary, Alberta. Mrs. Clary returns home the early part of September. Mr. Maxwell Cameron, and Mr. E. S. Clarry who have been here for their vacation, left for Ottawa on Monday, Mrs. Cameron remaining for a somewhat longer visit with her sister, Miss Blanche Clarry, Reg. N., who goes back to New York later in the season.

Mr. A. A. Needler left on Friday for a visit with Mrs. Charles Needler and family, and other relatives in Toronto. Misses E. L. Hetherington and Mamie Fisher are spending a week or more at the Keswick Summer School, Muskoka, Miss Luella Kennedy and her sister, Mrs. H. C. Argue, are holidaying at a cottage at Chemong Park. Mr. Fred Fallis, who has been convalescing at Miss Kennedy's home, in care of his sister, Mrs. Herbert Ball, left on Sunday to visit at the home of his son, Arnold Fallis, Port Perry. Mrs. Lawence Fallis, and two children, of Detroit, Michigan, are visiting at the home of her brother-in-law, R. I. Fallis, Fallis Line.

The total number of ration books distributed locally, during the two days, Wednesday and Friday, that such distribution took place, was 1309; 1275 was the figure for the previous distribution. Mrs. Franklin Bannister was in charge, with Mrs. T. A. Campbell acting with her as examiner of the cards, together with other helpers. Many from outside points, apparently visiting in the village and vicinity, received their ration books at this centre.

Song Writer's Son Now Destitute

TORONTO, Aug. 31.—"All I want is to live, if I can until the world is at peace again."

This was the simple statement yesterday of James Muir, only son of Alexander Muir, composer of "The Maple Leaf Forever."

There are Alexander Muir Schools in Toronto, Sault Ste. Marie, Newmarket and other Ontario centres. On North Yonge street is the Alexander Muir Memorial Garden. In the east end of the city a bronze tablet on a tree marks the spot where Alexander Muir wrote "The Maple Leaf Forever."

But his son now 83 years old, is living in a dingy Carlton street room. He is unable to obtain an old-age pension because he hasn't lived in Canada the 20 consecutive years required, although he was born here and lived here for many years.

Toronto is doing all it is allowed to do by law—it gives James Muir $10.40 a month for food. That works out to a little better than 31 cents a day. In addition, the city pays his landlady $8 a month for a room.

James Muir isn't trying to trade on his father's achievements at all. He appreciates there are many other old people in Toronto who have claims on Canada.

All he asks is this: 'I want a nice warm room. I want a room big enough so that I can keep my clothes clean and stored away. I want a suit of clothes so that I can look respectable."

He said that long ago he had gone to Chicago to be with his grandparents. He was profitably employed as a bookkeeper. Then he met with a street-car accident which put him in the hospital for eight months and kept him on crutches for two years. "I had been doing well, but when you can't work your money just flies away," he said. "I came back to Toronto and tried to sell copies of 'The Maple Leaf Forever.' For a time I went over to the Island or to the Alexander Muir Memorial Garden, opposite Mount Pleasant Cemetery, and sold the song there. But I can't do it any more—my legs are failing me, and I find it hard to get around.

"The city Welfare Department has been very good to me. It is giving me the maximum allowance."

Mr. Muir manages to pad the city's alowance a little by "running" errands for neighbourhood merchants.

Late King Boris

A recent photo of King Boris III., 49-year-old ruler of Bulgaria, who assumed his throne in war-troubled 1918, and now is dead. Dispatches reaching London reported that he had been shot by a "pro-Russian" officer.

Utilities Asks For Space In New City Hall

Responding to an enquiry from the city council regarding office accommoration in the proposed new city hall, the Utilities Commission yesterday decided to make application for space, the extent of which will be determined possibly by the next meeting.

"I don't think there is any hurry for the details," G. S. Matthews, chairman, said, "but we should let the council know at once that this Commission wishes to be included in the planning and allotment of accommodation."

A rough estimate yesterday suggested about 5,000 square feet with storage room in the basement.

The Commission is now using between 3,000 and 3,200 square feet in the present city hall location on Simcoe Street.

"We should ask for considerably more than that if we are going to have a show room," Mr. Matthews suggested. "There are many new improvements especially in household appliances, and I think it would be an advantage to have sufficient space for displaying these goods."

Dismiss Officials

NEW YORK, August 31 —(AP)— An Italian broadcast recorded by United States Government monitors announced to-day the dismissal of Dr. Filipoo Manlio Presti as Prefect of Rome and reported the arrest of numerous high-ranking Fascist party officials.

The Stefani News Agency said that several Fascist leaders in Milan, including former party vice-secretary Dr. Carlo Ravasio, had been taken into custody.

Convicts Surrender

NORTH BAY, Aug. 31 — (CP).— Isadore Huard, 18, and George V. Reynolds, 21, both of Mattawa, surrendered to army men last night in the bushland region around Trout Lake. The men had been at large since Sunday when they escaped from Nipissing district jail with Germain Leduc of Timmins, recaptured earlier Monday.

astray, or are delayed, and people do not hear from their wandering boys for many months. The other day the papers ran an account of a Navy man who had not heard from his wife in nearly a year, then he received fifty-two letters in one delivery. Being from Missouri is no sign that your sweetheart will be fickle. Quite the contrary, for the people from that state are traditionally hard to fool and know what they want. So if he asked you to marry him he is pretty sure to have done it in good faith. But don't start your trousseau until the lad returns and the wedding day is in sight. There is nothing so pitiful as a hopeless hopechest.

Refreshing Slip Covers Add to a Room

You Just Pin on Goods and Sew

The smart housewife's answer to dust and heat—a cool, flowery slip cover for each chair!

You can make covers easily yourself, professional-looking ones, though you may be just an amateur seamstress. Your only cost is the material and there are such pretty inexpensive kinds—a small-flowered green chintz, for instance.

To start, you remove the cushion and pin fabric to top of chair with large pins. Then you smooth and pin fabric down the inside-back and seat, allowing a 4-inch tuck-in between, and next cut outside pins, leaving 1½ inches for seams.

In the very same way, smooth and pin fabric over back, sides, front and arms (as in our sketch).

Now you're all set to pin pieces together, remove cover from chair, baste, then try on. Does it fit? Good—now sew it together, make placklets and the job is done!

Our 32-page booklet explains and diagrams each step in making smart slip covers the pin-on way for chairs, sofas, also auto seats. Tells how to add flounces, other trimmings. Suggests colors.

[illegible] Your Own Slip Covers" send 15 cents in coin or stamps to the Examiner's Home Service Department. Be sure to write your Name, Address and Name of Booklet plainly.

Boat Collision Kills 2 Women

MONTREAL, Aug. 30 — (CP).— W. J. King, operating manager of Canada Steamship Lines, Limited, said in a prepared statement today that a thorough investigation is proceeding into the collision on the St. Lawrence River Friday of the S.S. Tadoussac and the S.S. Richelieu. Both ships are operated by Canada Steamships.

The collision proved fatal for Ruth Encherman, 34, of Perth Amboy, N.J., and for Harriet Ann Hill, 52, of Chatham, N.J., two or three other persons were injured.

Mr. King said "Canada Steamship Lines is deeply regretful of the river accident which resulted in the deaths of two passengers on the S.S. Richelieu. Directly the accident was reported, relatives of the victims were notified and arrangements made for hospitalization and treatment of the injured.

"The accident marks the first time in the many years of operation of Canada Steamship Lines' vessels that there has been loss of life of passengers.

"While damage to both ships appears fairly extensive they were able to proceed to Quebec repair yards under their own steam. The Tadoussac will be off schedule for two Saguenay trips and the Richelieu will miss one of its weekly cruises."

"The Authority on Authorities"

USE AN ENTRY RIGHTLY

HOW OFTEN we see declarers waste a valuable entry, instead of employing it to some useful purpose. This is especially true when one of the two holdings, the dummy or closed hand, has no entries to spare. In such cases, if there is some suit which can be led just as well from one hand as the other, it usually should come from the hand with plenty of entries Some other suit or suits, which must be led in a particular direction when the lead is in the desired place, should be selected in the right spot.

Offhand, you would say, after study of all four hands, that the declarer could not possibly fail to make his contract on this deal, unless he was trying to get beaten. Most especially, you would consider his defeat a virtual impossibility if he received the fortunate lead of a club Yet that is exactly what occurred, and his errors were only of the kind you see rather frequently among average players.

Taking the first trick with the club J, he immediately led the heart 2, playing the dummy's 7 after West put on the A. Little did he realize that he had made two mistakes on one trick, and had in one stroke caused defeat of his contract. West returned the diamond 8, which the Q won, and the club 7 came back to the K. No matter what South did now, he could not get into his own hand for a spade lead, so had to drop two tricks in that suit.

If South, after winning the first trick, had led the spade 10 and later, when hearts were led, had preserved the 7 in the North hand to make the 8 an entry into South, for a second spade lead, he could have made not only his contract, but an extra trick, as he could have discarded his own losing diamond on a spade.

307 Nazi Planes Shot Down In Two-Ply Raid

LONDON, Aug. 31 (AP). — The U.S. 8th Air Force knocked down a record of 307 enemy fighters in the two-ply assault on Regensburg and Schweinfurt, Germany, on August 17 but suffered a loss of 59 Flying Fortresses, a new high for American operations in this theatre, according to headquarters compilations.

Thirty-six of the heavy bombers were lost in the Schweinfurt raid, but the books were more than balanced by the destruction of 167 Nazi fighters.

In the companion attack on the Regensburg Messerschmitt factory, the Fortress force which went on to North Africa in a shuttle operation lost 23 planes and shot down 140 of the enemy's interceptors.

The 8th Air Force's loss that day was one more than the biggest for the R.A.F., R.C.A.F., for one night. In the raid on Berlin six days later, on August 23, the bomber command lost 58 planes, seven of them Canadians.

The previous record for enemy planes shot down by the Americans in a day's operation was 87. This score was made on June 11 in the raid on Wilhelmshaven.

Although 59 Fortresses were lost August 17 an unknown number of the crewmen escaped with their lives.

Crews of four of the American bombers lost in the Regensburg shuttle raid were rescued by the British air-sea rescue service.

The Air Ministry news service said today one launch alone brought back 22 survivors. Of the 40 airmen rescued only one needed medical attention.

The planes subsequently flew to bases in North Africa. Twenty-three bombers were lost.

Body Of W.A.C. Found

INDIANAUOLIS, Ind., Aug. 31—(AP)—United States army officers said today that the 32-year-old W.A.C. Corporal who was found slain in a downtown hotel, her throat, arms and wrists cut and her body only half clothed, had been murdered, but they gave no hint of being close to a solution of the mystery.

The body of Cpl. Maoma R. Ridings, attractive divorcee and member of a prominent Warm Springs, Ga., family, was found in a seventh floor room at the Claypool Hotel Saturday night, three hours after she had rented the room. She had been stationed at Camp Atterbury, 25 miles south of here, since March.

ALWAYS TIRED —Yet Sleep Didn't Help!

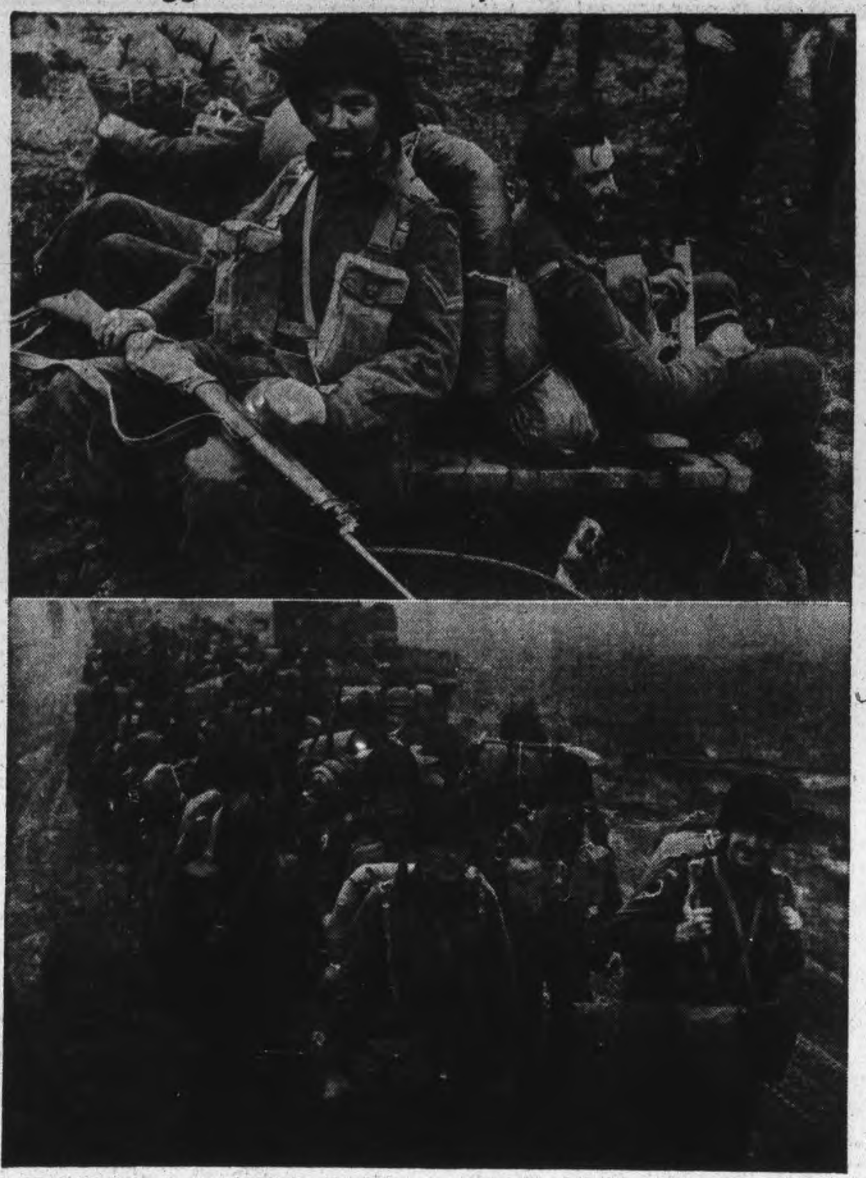
Doesn't it feel swell to wake up in the morning clear-eyed, refreshed, full of pep? Yet so many, especially over 40, get up tired all over, with aching joints, never really feel their best.

The reason is usually a common complaint—a system clogged with poisonous food waste. Like most people, you need help to clean out a sluggish system, get back pep and sparkle rightfully yours. The natural action of BILE BEANS is a mild yet effective aid thousands rely on.

Made from 10 pure vegetable extracts, Bile Beans are so gentle they are called "The Medicine That Copies Nature". These small laxative liver pills tone up entire system by stimulating flow of liver bile, so essential to good digestion and daily regularity.

You, too, can enjoy that "glad-to-be-alive" feeling every day. Try Bile Beans tonight—they work while you sleep. Over 7 million boxes used last year, convincing evidence of how greatly they are helping others. 27

Mud Was Bigger Hazard Than Japs To Canucks At Kiska



Mud, the overall mud of Kiska, the Aleutians and adjacent territory, gave Canadians a bigger battle than Japanese soldiers when a combined American-Canadian task force re-occupied the island outpost and found their landings unopposed. Two weary Canadians, Bombardier W. H. Meyers of Airdare, Alta., and Bombardier R. S. Ells (RIGHT) of Rowley, Alta., are content to flop down back to back under full pack after a march toward their embarkation port. Some of the Canadian troops on their way to embark are shown BELOW marching down a muddy road carrying their full kit. The officer on the LEFT is Capt. Harry Spring of Vancouver, B.C.

Shortage Of Teachers Will Padlock Many Schools

By The Canadian Press.

The bell won't ring in numbers of Canadian country schools this fall. For the most part, of course, youngsters will troop back to their desks as usual, but in some sections reaching into at least six provinces, the vacation-time padlock will stay on the door. The reason: A shortage of teachers.

A survey by The Canadian Press shows Alberta apparently the hardest-hit province, with Nova Scotia probably next in line. Preliminary reports from Alberta indicated a shortage of 800 teachers—the normal number is 6,200 — but the shortage will be halved by using the services of 400 Normal School students who will be available for teaching duties on November 1.

600 Short.

In Nova Scotia efforts are being made to sign "floating" teachers to replace an estimated shortage of 100. Possibly about 100 one-room rural schools will close.

Shortages of varying degree are anticipated in British Columbia, Quebec, Prince Edward Island, and New Brunswick. Enlistments in the services and employment of teachers in higher-paying war jobs are given as reasons for the dearth of instructors.

The situation is being met in various ways—by combining school districts, employing married women and granting permission to teach to students not qualified under peacetime conditions, and correspondents courses.

Schools in most provinces are scheduled to open on September 7, though many school boards have announced the opening will be postponed two weeks or more to permit students to help the farmers get in the crop. In Alberta, for instance, schools generally will not open until October 11, and some not until November 1.

Ontario is the only province to say definitely there is no lack of teachers. Dr. G. F. Rogers, Deputy Minister of Education, says the requisite number will be obtained by employing married women and retaining those due to be superannuated.

Dutch Traitor Dies Of Wounds

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 31 (CP). — Dr. H. Reydon, deputy for propaganda in Anton Mussert's Netherlands Nazi administration, has died of wounds received six months ago when he was shot by unknown persons in the Hague, Aneta, Netherlands News Agency, reported today.

Seyffardt who had been assassinated earlier. Dr. Reydon's wife, also a member of the Netherlands Nazi party, shot the same day, died instantly.

Reydon founded the Amsterdam branch of the Nazi party in 1933.

Terrific Losses

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—(AP)—President Roosevelt yesterday designated the week starting October 3 as Fire Prevention Week and said destruction by fire in the United States since the country entered the war had been comparable to the damage caused by enemy bombs in England in the first two years of the war.

Marmora Holds Annual Decoration Day

MARMORA, Aug. 31 (ENS). — Annual decoration service under auspices of Marmora branch No. 237, Canadian Legion, was held Sunday at the Memorial Building under ideal weather conditions. The Hastings and Prince Edward Regimental Band under Lieut. W. F. Ketcheson, was present to furnish marches for the parade to the two cemeteries of the village. A detachment of the regiment under Lieut. W. Dickson, also took part in the parade, which was attended by many ex-service men under President T. E. Pritchard of the Legion, as well as by men of the active forces home on week-end leaves. Beatrice Coldwell of the R.C.A.F., Trenton, who happened to be the only woman member of the forces home on leave, also joined the parade, which was in charge of Lt.-Col. A. V. Yates, M.C., V.D.

The service at the Memorial Building was conducted by W. J. Cottrell. The Scripture reading was Rev., 7th chapter, 9th to 17 verses. In his address, Mr. Cottrell touched upon the growth of the practice of grave decorations since the time of the last war. He mentioned that until 1939 the great issues which were faced in the years, 1914-1918 had not always been as clear to the rising generation as to their seniors. With the more intensified attack now being waged upon justice, freedom and truth, the features of the last war have been lit up more vividly for the youth of today.

Keep Spiritual Values.

The foe is being coped with supremely for the preservttion of spiritual values and because of that there should be faith that "the Lord of Hosts is with us." Great things have been accomplished and are still being accomplished by those fighting our battles to make it appear as though each valiant heart had not only jumped to the idea. "It all depends on me," but had also added in all humility, "but I depend on God." It was recently reported of a padre with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in Sicily with no other mention of his position than that of captain, that he was in on every engagement. This was a simple sentence yet how significant. It makes a splendid criterion for all who take the side of virtue against vice. It signifies that there is no holding back under any pretense but a moving forward confidently where duty beckons. Before concluding, the speaker quoted Sir Owen Seaman's lines written at the close of the last war: "You that have faith to look with fearless eyes."

Place Wreaths.

At the close of the address, following prayers, wreaths were placed beneath the two honor rolls by Lieut. William Regan and Reeve W. R. Linn. The Last Post and Reveille with the two minutes' silence intervening, was then sounded by G. Brooks, after which the parade moved to the Sacred Heart Cemetery. After flowers had been placed upon the graves of deceased comrades and their names with those of comrades in distant cemeteries had been read by President Pritchard, prayer for the repose of their souls was offered by Rev. Father H. J. Farrell, who also gave a short address in which he drew attention to the appropriateness of remembering yearly those who served in the last war who have passed from this life and also the fact that we should not forget those who are engaged in the more intensified struggle that is still in progress. Last Post, the two minutes' silence and Reveille were also a part of the ceremonies here as in the Protestant Cemetery next visited.

OTTAWA, Aug. 31 — (CP). — Air Force officers just returned to Canada—three with extensive records on operational duties—checked in to-day at the R. C. A. F. Repatriation Pool here.

Wing Cmdr. F. W. Hillock of Toronto, who once returned from a sortie with several thousand feet of copper wire, picked up when he touched a telephone line, trailing from his fighter plane has been 3½ years overseas.

Sqdn. Ldr. D. G. Mallory of Halifax, a fighter pilot, wears the ribbon of the Distinguished Flying Cross but declined to say how he earned it, replying simply: "they come up with the rations." He is back for duty in Canada.

Both Hillock and Mallory have just completed the R. A. F. war staff course.

FO. R. G. Frederick of Lindsay, Ont., and his "tour of hops" in a torpedo squadron and took part in attacks on enemy shipping. He is home for leave and expects to return to overseas duty.

Sqdn. Ldr. L. O. Cooper of Sudbury, is back for instructional or other duty in Canada after completing a special course in navigation in England.

Doctor's Car Stolen, Stripped

MARMORA, Aug. 31 (ENS) — On Sunday evening Constable W. D. Lavender was notified by Albert Burridge that what was possibly a stolen car was parked on land of John Rombough on the eastern outskirts of the village between No. 7 Highway and the old Madoc Road.

Investigating, the constable found that a 1939 Ford Coach bearing license No. D1054 had been stripped of its wheels and tires and had no spare tire in its trunk. The car was conveyed to Forestell's garage and Provincial Police Headquarters upon being notified, stated there was no record of the theft there. Early Monday morning Constable Lavender got in touch with the Department of Highways Branch to be informed that the car belonged to Dr. Ward Reddick, 1069 Avenue road, Toronto. The car was evidently stolen solely for the procuring of the tires, as apart from that, there was no damage occasioned it. A doctor's kit in the glove compartment had not been meddled with. The thief or thieves chose a spot between trees well hidden from the highway to do their stripping.

Big Push Coming

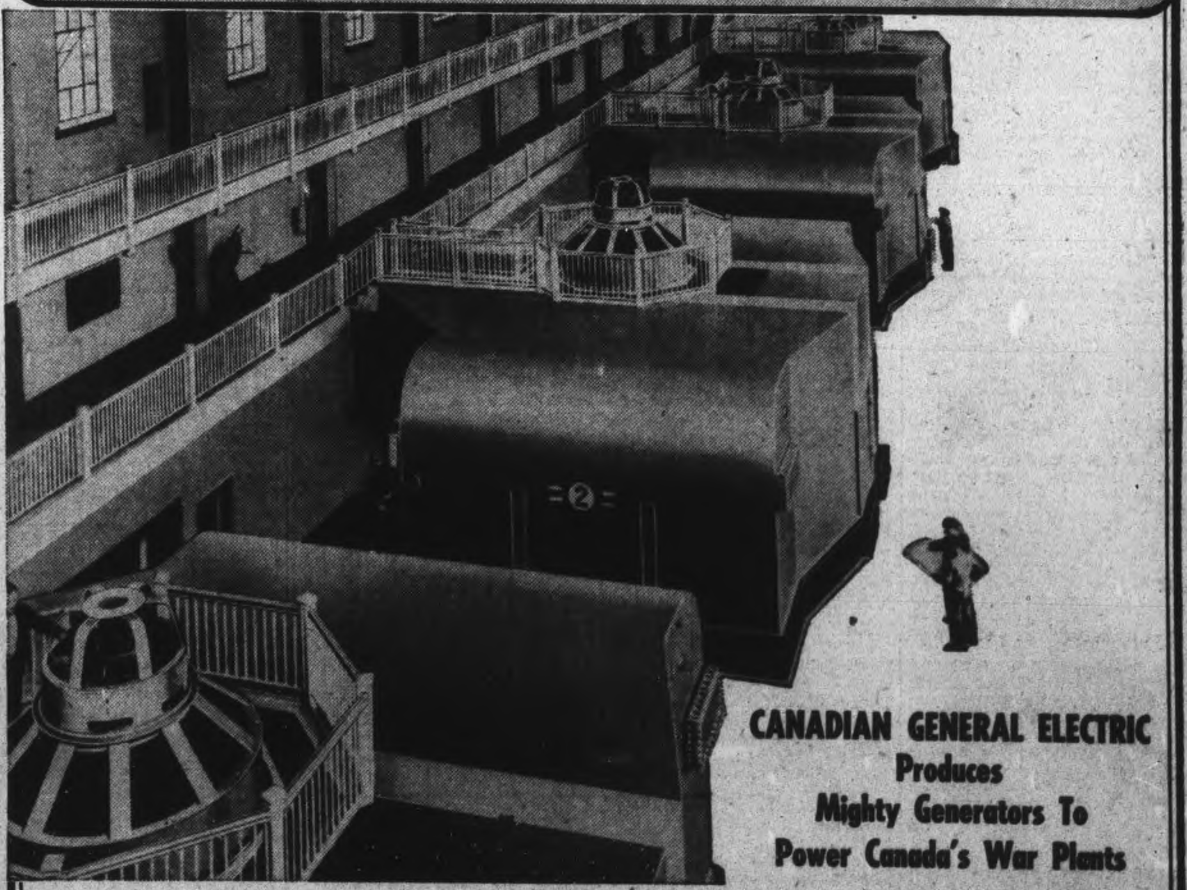
He arrived here with Lt.-Gen. William S. Knudsen in the course of a tour of the Pacific battlefronts.

OVER SIX TIMES AS MUCH ELECTRICITY as during the Last War



CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC Produces Mighty Generators To Power Canada's War Plants

ALREADY Canada's output of electricity is more than six times greater than at any time during World War I. But more is needed—and Canadian General Electric, with exceptional facilities, is playing a big part in equipping the Dominion with new and greater generating stations. Turbines, generators, transformers—to harness the nation's vast hydro resources are being built in busy C.G.E. plants. For half a century the skilled engineers and craftsmen of C.G.E. have been making electricity more useful in Canada's peacetime economy. Today they are applying their efforts to the urgent task of defending the many important benefits which 50 years of electrical progress have done so much to create.

Russian Push Gains More Ground

2 Red Columns Drive 40 Miles Into Rich Ukraine

LONDON, Sept. 1 — (CP). — The Russian Army pounded its way westward today on three separate fronts in a tremendous offensive which threatened to crush the entire German defensive system in the east.

Moscow, celebrating its second and third major victories within two days, announced that: (1) Soviet forces in the north have driven to within 45 miles of the big Nazi base at Smolensk; (2) on the central front two Russian columns have penetrated 40 miles into the fertile Ukraine; (3) On the south Cossacks and tank units are methodically stamping out the remnants of the Taganrog garrison after capturing that city and are driving on toward the industrial centre of Stalino and the Azov seaport of Mariupol.

The Russians said the Germans were attempting a "Dunkerque" in the Taganrog sector but declared all counter-attacks designed at springing the encircled Nazis from the trap had failed and that their forces were systematically liquidating the last pockets of resistance.

Near Smolensk

In the north a drive on a 30-mile front from Spas Demensk to Yelnya, whose fall was announced yesterday, threatened the Nazis with one of the major catastrophes of the summer campaign because it brought the Red Army within striking distance of the city of Smolensk, chief German operational headquarters for the entire northern Russia area, Smolensk fell into German hands in

Government Aids Hitler – Cohen

QUEBEC, Sept. 1 — (CP). — J. L. Cohen, K.C., member of the National War Labor Board, told delegates to the 59th annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada to-day that every moment during which the Government "delayed institution of an effective, a sound and a just labor policy is a moment dedicated to the enemy, a contribution to defeat."

"Every moment, every ounce of energy, or unit of time, which the management diverts from effective, sincere and whole-hearted co-operation with labor is a gift to Hitler, is a blow at the welfare of the nation," he said in an address prepared for delivery at a convention session in the Chateu Frontenac.

Mr. Cohen, who submitted a minority report following the National War Labor Board's inquiry into labor relations and other labor matters and who announced he would not sit in controversial cases before the Board, said he deplores and regrets failure to publicize his own and the majority report of the other Board members.

He gave no indication in his address of the details of his submission.

Mr. Cohen, discussing the functions and responsibilities of the present board, said it had been suggested during the past few days that the Board's sole function was to interpret and administer existing laws.

Air Domination Vital To Invasion Plan

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN SICILY, Aug. 29.—(Delayed)—(CP Cable)—In the year of Dieppe and North Africa and Sicily the Allied pattern for European invasion have been gradually developed, and by patient planning and steadily enlarging combined operations an all-powerful weapon of three-service attack has been given a razor edge.

Sicily proved that combined operations of the colossal magnitude necessary for invasion of Europe are feasible.

Sicily showed, too, that the cost of invasion is not as high as had been estimated. A year ago the cost in lives, ships and material for an invasion seemed almost too terrible to contemplate.

It is possible that Sicily was unique, perhaps the weakest point in the European defences, but the fact remains that the Allies have worked out an invasion pattern.

Air Domination Vital.

After watching the campaign in Sicily from start to finish I am convinced the principal factor in cutting down losses was Allied air domination and that a successful invasion must be based primarily on this domination.

I travelled with the Canadians from the United Kingdom through the Mediterranean to the Tripoli area, then up to Sicily via Malta, without seeing an enemy plane. Without the air support it had it is doubtful whether the navy could have operated as magnilicently as it did in protecting the convoys against submarines.

Air strength, too, helped greatly to reduce losses in the fighting ashore. Seldom were our transport roads attacked. Night raids, of course, were made on our shipping and ports, but during the whole push on Messina the Allied forces scarcely were touched by Axis planes.

When the time comes to move into Europe Allied air supremacy is assured, according to air force chiefs.

The Navy's Role

On the naval side of the picture, with North Africa and Sicily in Allied possession the sea runs to southern Europe are vastly shortened. This means less drain on the resources of the Allies in big troopships and more use for smaller vessels which can be built rapidly.

The most important combined operation vessel on the sea is the tank loading craft, 160 feet by 30 feet and of about 300 tons. It's an ugly craft, loking like a Great Lakes freighter, but it can carry tanks, vehicles and troops right into the beach. The landing craft can answer for short sea runs, such as a cross-channel attack or even for Mediterranean operations. They were used extensively in Sicily.

British naval strength has reached the point where it can give support for practically any combined operations.

The Army's Job.

But the Air Force and the Navy could not themselves invade. That is the Army's job and it faces the most difficulties of all.

A year ago an unofficial estimate was made that it would take 30 divisions to establish an bridge-

Pope Appeals For Peace In Broadcast

Urges Compromise To End War Before Year Ends

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 1 —(AP)—Pope Pius XII, appealing for peace and expressing hope that it comes before the end of this, the war's fifth year, declared to the world's leaders today that "real strength need have no fear of generosity in behalf of nations "less favored than others by the trend of war at any given time."

Speaking of "the powerful and the leaders of the peoples," the Pope declared:

"May their wisdom, their moderation, their strength of mind and their deep sense of humanity throw a ray of comfort upon the tear and blood-drenched threshold of the fith year of war, and give the survivors of the immense conflict, bent under a load of sorrow, the joyful hope that the year may not end under the sign and in the shadow of slaughter and destruction—but may be the beginning and dawn of a new life of brotherly reconciliation, and a thorough and concordant reconstruction."

In a 14-minute message to the world from Vatican City—translated here and made available by the ministry of information—the pontiff did not mention the Allied terms of unconditional surrender.

Must Give Hope

He dwelt at length, however on the theme that all belligerents must be given "justified hope of a worthy peace which does not clash with their right to live and their sense of honor."

He made no more specific mention of those countries having ill fortune in the war's course, but asserted "the minds and hearts of the peoples" were filled with doubts that continuation of conflict "can be in accordance with national interest, reasonable and justified before Christian and human conscience."

"Through the gigantic struggles in exterior happenings of a war approach us and converge towards their culminating point," he continued.

Generosity in the making of peace would have within itself the means by which the generous could fully protect their interests, the holy father said.

Through the whole of his address ran repeated admonitions to war leaders to accept some spirit of compromise. He urged:

"Do not disturb or impede the desires of the peoples for peace by actions which instead of encouraging confidence rather inflame hatreds anew and strengthen determination to resist."

Pope Pius recalled efforts to halt hostilities before they began and suggested that his present words of mediation—addressed especially to "all those willing to co-operate for peace"——would be to the advantage of every belligerent without exception.

Speaking on the day that opened the fifth year of the greatest and bloodiest struggle in human history, the Pope was at pains to stress his concern not for any one nation but

Chief Of Police Fails To Arrest Son

MONTREAL, Sept. 1 — (CP). — Recorder Desire Desbois of nearby Plage Laval last night reserved judgment until September 14 in the case of Andre Bigras, charged with disturbing the peace and resisting a constable during a recent "racial war between Jews and French-Canadians."

After hearing evidence, the recorder said that the fight at the summer resort "is clear to me now."

"This was in reality," he said, "a racial war between Jews and Fernch-Canadians, and not merely an accidental outburst."

During the hearing, the recorder asked Police Chief Louis Bolduc why his son, Rene, for whom a warrant has been issued on the grounds that he instigated the riot, had not been arrested. Chief Bolduc replied that all attempts had been made to bring his son into custody, but had failed.

"I would advise you," the recorder said, "to enlist the aid of the Provincial Police to find him as soon as possible, and if this proves of no avail to get the help of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. This is a serious accusation and he must be brought to answer the charges against him."

The recorder expressed regret that Moe Herscovitch, well-known Montreal football player and boxer, who suffered serious eye injuries during the fight, was unable to attend the hearing.

Herscovitch's sister said that doctors will decide this week whether her brother will suffer the loss of one eye as a result of the injuries.

Fernand Bolduc, another son of the Chief of Police, testified that a French-Canadian had been in a fight with a Hebrew a week prior to the free-for-all. He said he and his companions had gone into the resort with the intention of "defending my race in case anything happened. We went there to avenge a previous beating of one of our

Japan's Navy Challenged In New Step

American Force Lays Siege To Marcus Islands

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 —(AP) — The United States Pacific FFleet, challenging Japan's still powerful navy to battle in its own home waters, has hurled a powerful force of war planes and ships against the enemy base on Marcus Island.

News of the operation against the strategic outpost came from both Washington and Tokyo. The Washington announcement said, the action was planned for Sept. 1 (Japanese time; Aug. 31 domestic time) and indicated it might still be in progress to-day. If this were true the intent apparently would be to level the island's defences.

Tokyo Speaks First.

The first information came from Tokyo which siad many planes and naval guns poured bombs and shells into Marcus at dawn. Washington followed this with a navy department announcement.

The fact that the attack presumably continues meant that American warships were operating in waters the enemy heretofore has dominated long before their presence became known.

Marcus Island is 1,200 miles southeast of Tokyo and 900 miles northwest of Wake Island on a line with Tokyo.

The action is the first against this enemy held outpost guarding vital Japanese postions in the Central Pacific since March 4, 1942.

There was no indication in either the Tokyo statements or the navy disclosures here to show whether the action was limited to Marcus Island or whether American Forces had struck simultaneously at other points.

Japs Worried.

The Japanese obviously were badly woried, however, the Tokyo raido pointing out that a force which succeeded in raiding Marucs might have struck at Japan itself.

The American naval spokesman said:—

"A carrier task force raid planned for September 1 is presumably in progress at Marcus Island. The United States task force should have arrived on scheduled time. However, no report has been re-

Western Berlin Mass Of Flames

BERNE, Sept. 1 — (AP).—British bombers striking Berlin in six waves August 23 created greatest havoc in the Mariendorf area, and the southern periphery of the capital was "transformed into a miniature Stalingrad" of destruction, a German frontier dispatch to the Gazette de Lausanne said to-day, quoting an eye-witness.

Western Berlin was left a mass of flames, he said, and fires still were burning last Friday. The most impressive destruction was reported in the Fehrbelliner Platz, the most modern sector of the city.

It was estimated 6,000 buildings were smashed and burned, the account said, in addition to 2,500 hit in the raid on March 1.

All buildings in the Fehrbelliner Platz, Bayrischer Platz, and Guntzelstrasse were smashed, and the Steglitz quarter was destroyed, the eye-witness said.

This same witness visited Hamburg, reporting the city "completely ceased to exist as a living metropolis" with only 20 per cent of its buildings not damaged, and with the greater portion of its people having abandoned the city.

Bombs Fall For 45 Minutes Ushering In 5th Year Of War

By GLADWIN HILL—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 1 — (AP). — Great fleets of R.A.F. - R.C.A.F. heavy bombers blasted Berlin last night in a flaming 45 - minute, concentrated assault of block-buster and incendiary bombs to usher in the fifth year of war for Germans with an ordeal of fire and exploding steel. "Great damage" was inflicted on the Nazi capital in this second massive assault in eight days, the Air Ministry announced. Mosquito bombers hit Berlin twice following a saturation raid a week ago last Monday night.

Forty-seven bombers, eight of them Canadian, were lost as the bombers bored through stiff defence by German fighters. R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. Mosquitoes struck targets, including airfields, in France and the Low Countries. "Several" Nazi fighters were downed. One Allied plane was lost on this operation.

At Midnight.

The first formation of bombers, with Britons and Canadians throwing their heaviest planes into the attack, began pouring down explosives at 11.30 p.m. and continued the hail into the morning of another year of war.

Again the Germans relied on new tactics of defence — throwing out swarms of fighters while hundreds of searchlights probed for the attackers and anti-aircraft fire was lightened. This was tried in the raid on the capital last week and later over Nuremberg.

"Last year when I took part in two attacks on the German capital there seemed to be even more guns than in the Ruhr, but then there were few fighters around," said one veteran of 1942 attacks. "Now it is the other way around. There were droves of fighters last night but the anti-aircraft fire was only moderate."

It was the 77th raid of the war upon Berlin, and preliminary reports "indicate great damage was done," the Air Ministry declared.

"Broken clouds at low levels made it difficult to assess results visually, but large fires were seen and indications are that great damage was done in this 76th assault on Berlin," the communique said.

2 Hours To Pass.

Observers on the British southeast coast declared the drone of the Berlin-bound bombers was heard overhead for two hours, suggesting that the attacking force was as great or greater than that hurled against the city a week ago Monday night, when 2,000 tons of explosives and incendiaries were dropped.

Characteristically the German radio described the assault as a "new terror raid" and asserted the British and Canadian bombers had been dispersed with heavy losses by newly reorganized anti-aircraft defences.

"Thanks to efficient defence," the broadcast said, "the concentrated attack by British bombers was frustrated. Above and below the clouds heavy air combats developed in the course of which numerous British bombers were shot down.

The Germans struck back at England on a comparatively small scale. A few Nazi planes were reported to have swept over the East coast of England during the night, dropping bombs which caused only slight damage.

The R. A. F.-R. C. A. F. raid on Berlin was the second successive night attack on Germany and the

Brooklyn Talk Delights Touring Cockneys Southern Drawl Leaves British Bewildered

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 — (CP).— The 350 bronzed British anti-aircraft men who fought in the Middle and Far East and who are now visiting New York on an official tour stood up in one of this city's swankiest night spots last night and said the thing that awed them most about New York was the Brooklynese.

Here to demonstrate their way of handling weapons and to learn how United States soldiers handle theirs, the Tommies were lavish in their praise of the city, its women and its friendliness. But even the Cockneys in the bunch went for Brooklyn's lingo in a big way.

Sgt. John Saggers, who confided he was a "silesman" in London before the war, was almost ecstatic over such expressions as "toidy-toid," "youse" and "boids." He said: "They talk snappy, like we do. That's what we like. We could understand every word your Brooklyn fellas spoke, whereas we could not make 'ead or tiles of the southern drawl."

Battleship's 16-Inch Guns Rip Italy's Coast Defences

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 1—(AP).—Sixteen-inch guns of two British battleships heavily bombarded enemy coastal batteries in the Reggio area of southern Italy yesterday, it was announced today.

The battleships were the Nelson and Rodney. They knocked out at least one gun and caused fires, apparently from exploding ammunition.

The same ships with the cruiser Orion and the destroyers Quillian, Quail and Queenborough, Troubridge, Tyrian, Offa, Petard and Tartar and the Polish destroyer Piorun, also engaged batteries in the Cape Pellaro area.

Enemy opposition was described as ineffective.

A heavy aerial attack was delivered by British and Canadian Wellingtons in a night bombing of Salerno, 30 miles south of Naples, where several sticks of bombs were laid across railway lines, causing great fires.

The gas works went up in a huge explosion which was followed by a pall of smoke covering the whole area.

Pisa, almost 200 miles north of Rome, is an important rail junction where the east-west line to Florence splits off from the coast line running between Genoa and Rome.

The famous Leaning Tower, the cathedral and other historic monuments at Pisa were spared by the bombers which went for the rail yards, tracks and other military objectives.

The railway running through Pisa is electrified and damage to the electrical system undoubtedly was achieved, perhaps halting traffic over a large section.

Hit Freight Yards

The bombers blew up the yard tracks, and struck a railway repair shop and a nearby gas works. The San Guieto air field on the outskirts of the city and the nearby Piaggio airplane factory also received heavy loads of explosives.

Twenty-five enemy planes attempted to intercept the unescorted bombers which shot down six of them.

The attacks on railroads and a seaplane base at Sapri and on railway and harbor installations at Cetraro were made by American dive-bombers.

American medium bombers escorted by R.A.F. Spitfires of the desert air force dropped nearly 50 tons of bombs on the freight yards and railway sheds at Cosenza.

Meanwhile the aerial offensive

Tommy-gun Trio Steals $12,529

TORONTO, Sept. 1—(CP).—Firing bullets from a tommy gun, three men shortly before noon today forced employees and a customer in the Bank of Montreal branch at Royce Road and Symington Avenue, in West Toronto, to lie on the floor while one of them scooped $10,000 from the teller's cage.

Two shots were fired narrowly missing H. A. Burton, the assistant branch manager, and D. G. Richardson, the accountant.

Bank officials estimated the amount taken at $12,529, but said the total may be larger. It was all in large and small denominations.

More than 70 police were rushed to the scene and spread a dragnet throughout the city.

The trio were reported to have escaped in a green sedan, which had been waiting at the curb.

Police followed a car of the description given but said they had lost track of it.

NEW DELHI, Sept. 1 — (CP). — R.A..F dive bombers attacked Japanese installations and the jetty area at Buthedaung in Burma yesterday, a British communique announced to-day, scoring numerous direct hits on the target.

Huricanes on offensive sweeps along the Irrawaddy shot up a number of craft in the Jakokku area, sinking a two-masted boat and damaging a steamship, a motor vessel and 15 sampans. Other Hurricanes attacked craft in Combermere Bay, setting fire to one and damaging seven others.

No British planes are missing, the bulletin said.

Sea Tragedy Takes 30 Men

Fire Follows Collision Of Freighters

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Sept. 1 — (CP). — Fire still raged this morning aboard the Allied freighter towed here yesterday bearing the bodies of 30 seamen who died aboard her following a collision with another merchantman 300 miles off the Nova Scotia seaboard.

The men died of burns and suffocation in the fire which broke out following the collision. All the survivors of the fire-scarred vessel were taken from her at sea and were reported to have landed at an Atlantic port. She was laden with her dead when she reached here.

Details of the sea tragedy—the nationality of the ship and her crew, and time of the accident—still remain undisclosed. Neither have the victims landed here been identified.

Lying in midstream in port here, the ship today still billowed forth black billows of smoke that rolled over this port.

Two Canadian tugs towed the craft to port yesterday. The bodies were landed at a port near here and then brought to an undertaking establishment at this port. An inquest called for last night was postponed before any evidence was taken.

Axis Faltering As War Enters 5th Year

Signs Multiply That Allies Are Winning And Hun Morale Sagging

LONDON, Sept. 1 (AP)—The second great war enters its fifth year to-day, with the United Nations everywhere on the march and the dream of Hitler and his Axis satellites of world domination slowly but surely disintegrating.

It was just four years ago that the mighty German military machine began history's most catastrophic conflict by attacking Poland. It took the Nazis only 18 days to conquer most of that country, Warsaw holding out until Sept. 27. Poland disappeared from the map, divided between the third Reich and Russia, which had moved in to recover what she claimed was originally Russian territory.

In 102 days more this most terrible of all wars will have lasted as long as the first great war and today's headlines blazon the upward surge of the United Nations against the might of the Axis.

The Nazis are on the run in Russia, Germany is trembling under mighty Allied aerial blows, Italy is facing catastrophe and Australian and American forces are on the march in the Pacific.

Expect Invasion

Signs multiply that the nerve of the German people is breaking. Nazi commentators are warning the harassed and harried population of the imminence of an Allied invasion of Europe. One Berlin broadcast said today:

"As soon as Gen. Einsenhower has brought his divisions up to strength he intends to attack Calabria and Apula. Southern Greece and the Adriatic appear to offer a better chance to the Allied Forces and there is also a strong possibility of an attack against the South French coast."

The commentator told the German people of "strong contingents of troops in Southeastern England and of conecentrations of invasion boats along the South England coast" but attempted to reassure his audience by telling them that "Germany has countered British invasion preparations by the appropriate regrouping of her forces."

Berliners had another warning dinned into their ears from the Berlin radio to remove their furniture and other belongings "without delay to a place out of the reach of the R. A. F."

A third spokesman warned Germans against giving in to "weakness and despair."

"We have gone so far," this voice said, "that if we despair we shall never complete the job we have begun."

But the terrific losses in Russia, the collapse of Fascism, the incessant Allied air bombardment of German cities, the disastrous North African and Sicilian campaigns, the failure of the U-boat to sweep the seas of Allied shipping have taken their toll of the German faith in victory.

Russia Keystone Of War

Hopkins Predicts Victory In 1945

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(AP). — Calling Russia "the keystone of the war," Harry Hopkins, advisor to President Roosevelt, declared today that "if we lose her, I do not believe for a moment that we will lose the war, but I could change my prediction about the time of victory."

In a signed article "we can win in 1945," appearing in the current issue of the American Magazine, Hopkins said:

"Russia, the keystone of the war, is still fighting grimly. If we lose her, I do not belive for a moment that we will lose the war, but I would change my prediction about the time of victory. Then, indeed, we would have a long war ahead of us. But we are on the offensive with soldiers, sailors and marines trained to the hilt and equipped as no army or navy in history was ever equipped. We know how well they can fight."

"I believe wo years of hard fighting on the fronts of the world and two years of increasing sacrifice at home lie ahead of us. Two years at least. We must work harder, go without more things, lose more and more lives," he wrote.

"Considering all the realities of this vast conflict, I am really predicting a short war for us. Five more years of it would make a long one, and we can have a long one if we let down the war effort because of overconfidence."

Jap Losses At Wewak Mount Daily

360 Enemy Planes Destroyed In Recent Raids

By OLEN CLEMENTS
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The Southwest Pacific, Sept. 1 (AP) — The Japanese airforce, so badly mauled on New Guinea that its reinforcement bases are being pulled back, counted losses at Wewak above 360 as the result of a new Allied raid in which from 20 to 25 Japanese planes were wrecked on the ground.

Big four-engined raiders blasted Wewak's airdromes with 92 tons of bombs Monday without opposition, today's communique reported, and suffered no losses.

Headquarters disclosed the Japanese have been rushing in air reinforcements to New Guinea. But these are being pulled back dangerously far from the garrisons they are intended to support and are being based at such points as Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea.

Mostly Bombers

The majority of Monday's bag were medium enemy bombers blasted to bits on the Dagua airfield.

At the airdrome of But, three huge blazes broke out among aircraft in revetments. Other raiders struck at Tadji, 75 miles north of Wewak.

Allied planes have been pounding at the Wewak airdromes, 350 miles above the land fighting at Salamaua, since mid-August.

In the first two raids there, 215 out of 225 planes were wiped out, most of them on the ground. By August 21, after the raids reached four, it was estimated at least 306 planes had been destroyed. Sunday's raiders added at 37 and possibly 49 to the total.

Latest reports on the fighting for the big airdrome at Salamaua told of see-saw, close grips action yesterday. Australian and American troops scored limited advances. A few days ago, the Allied force was at the southeastern edge of the airstrip but since then have given ground slightly before bitter Japanese counter-attacks.

Hit Many Barges

Directly above Salamaua on the Huon Peninsula, Allied bombers went in low to wreck barges in hideouts around Finsghhafen.

Maisky-Eden Hold Conference

LONDON, Sept. 1 — (CP). — Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden conferred to-day with Ivan Maisky, former Soviet Ambassador to Great Britain, at the Foreign Office and arranged to see U.S. Ambassador John G. Winant this afternoon in order to give both a first-hand account of the Quebec Conference, where a tripartite meeting of the three Powers was suggested.

One reliable source said no final decision had yet been made on the "big three" get-together, but at the same time it was learned that preliminary plans were formulated for an initial meeting on the "Foreign Minister level." It was generally believed this would be followed by a Churchill-Roosevelt-Stalin Conference.

LAWN BOWLING

It will now be B. Chesler vs. H. Darling for the club championship of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club for the season of 1943.

When H. Darling's rink defeated Bill Ashby's quartette last evening, they not only won first honors in Group No. 2, but they did, as far as we can find out, create an all time record by winning thirteen consecutive games. They lost only two games in a seventeen game schedule, and this is something to be proud of. C. Williamson's rink comes second with fourteen wins and three losses.

All through the season the 'Darling' rink, and we used that word very carefully, has turned out 100% in attendance and some of the members of this rink have turned in 100% bowling. To say that they deserve the honors is putting it very mildly. We sure do extend congratulations to all members of the rink.

Winners.

2nd (14 wins and 3 losses)—W. S. Hill, N. Killingbeck, W. Cathcart, C. Williamson, skip.

On the holiday, Monday, Sept. 6th, we will hold a mixed tournament at 1.30 p.m. Draw from the board. 25c fee.

The new series of games commence on Thursday evening. Below is the draw:

Pope Appeals for the whole human family — to those he saw as seeking now for nothing "but peace, bread and work."

He placed his special blessing upon those "who understood the great work of a real new order," apparently an indirect thrust at Hitler's "New Order" of passion and violence.

No Fight Left

The holy father's message to the world was uttered at an hour that found Italy's "war impulse" dead and gone, as Mr. Churchill put it, and Russian armies storming forward along an immense and terrible battleline in the greatest successes they ever achieved.

A sense of approaching crisis in the course and direction and even duration of the struggle was implicit in the Pope's address. Although he mentioned no country specifically, what he said strongly suggested that he believed the time of crisis had arrived, and that the war was in or near its last great act.

"In every nation, aversion to the methods of total war increases....A doubt whether the continuation of such war as this is conformable to national interests or to reason penetrates all hearts."

The pontiff made a 15-minute broadcast in Italian from the Vatican radio beginning at 12:15 p.m. (7:15 a.m. EDT). It was recorded and translated by the Associated press in London. The Pope said he was "speaking words which will be of advantage to all without exception.

"After so many promises, after so many agreements which were not respected, confidence among nations has dwindled. That is why we are addressing ourselves to all those who willing to co-operate for peace."

Woe To Oppressors

"Blessed be those who respect God the father of all and the true God of justice," the Pope said. "Woe to those who incite to conflicts between peoples, who oppress unarmed and innocent peoples. Upon those the anger of God will descend."

He blessed all those who "also lend their ears" to mothers bereft of sons lost in war and those "who lend their ear to people who have suffered so much and who do not ask anything but peace, bread and work."

"Leaders of the peoples should lead nations towards reaching a just peace," he said. "Their moderation, their strength of will and of human feeling should give to the survivors of this conflict the hope that the present year will see the end of this conflict and a new dawn of peace over the world.

"In this hope, in this faith we give to all the peoples of the world our apostolic blessing."

At tthe beginning of his broadcast, the Pope said:

"It is four years since the terrible day which marked the beginning of the most formidable, destructive and devastating war of all times. Foreseeing this brutal disaster which was threatening the great human family, we addressed a few days before the outbreak of hostilities a warm appeal to the leaders as well as a suppliant warning.

War Is Costly

"We said 'nothing, nothing is lost by peace. Everything may be lost by war.' Our voice reached ears but did not enlighten the minds and did not go deep into the hearts. The spirit of violence gained the victory over spirit of concord and understanding.

"A victory which was a defeat.

"Today on the threshold of the fifth year of war even those who then reckoned on swift war operations and a speedy, victorious peace, looking around at what is surrounding them, inside and outside the fatherland, see nothing but grief and contemplate nothing but ruins.

"To many whose ears were deaf to our words, the most grievous spectacle which today presents itself teaches how much reality for the future there was in our warning and prophecy. Then our words were inspired by impartial love for all peoples without exception and vigilant care for their well-being.

"The same love and care move us now in this grave and anguished hour to utter words which are intended to benefit all and harm none while we untiringly supplicate omnipotent God to open the way to the hearts and decisions of those who hold in their hands the fate of afflicted humanity . . ."

ceived from the raiding force and it is presumed that there will be none until need for radio silence ceases to exist."

Not since the United States entered the war had the navy issued a statement reporting a raid while it still was in progress. The announcement to-day indicated complete confidence of the High Command heer that the task force was so powerful as to be able to cope with any forces the Japansese might attempt to throw against it.

War of Nerves.

There was about the announcement a suggestion of war of nerves planning with the Navy possibly deliberately attempting to confront the Tokyo admirals with so direct a challenge that they would be compelled sooner or later to throw their main fleet into action.

Marcus, so far as could be learned here, is not one of the main Japanese bases such as Truk Island further to the south, but it is an important defensive position and listening post guarding the south-eastern approaches to the Tokyo-Yokohama area, heart of Japan.

When an American task force raided Marcus on March 4, 1942, under the leadership of Admiral Wiliam F. Halsey, now the American Fleet Commander in the South Pacific, no enemy aircraft or ships were present, but heavy anti-aircraft fire was encountered.

The planes dropped 96 bombs on the small island, damaging hangars, fuel and ammunition dumps, radio installations and aircraft runways. The American force lost only one aircraft.

Churchill Goes To U.S.A. For New Talks

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—(AP).— Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt are heading toward a new series of talks against a backdrop of resurging upheavals in Nazi-fettered Europe which sound here like the first rumblings of an Allied storm over that freedom-parched continent.

There were indisputable signs that the focal point of some of the forthcoming discussions would be the question of how to bring Russia into the Allied councils not only for the co-ordination of military operations but also for the solution of post-war political problems.

Russian participation in future meetings, at least in some degree, was described as "necessary and urgent" by Mr. Churchill in his speech from Quebec yesterday. And the President said at his press conference a little later that things were going along pretty well with respect to a three-power conference.

Left Quebec.

(The Churchills, with many of the British service chiefs and advisers who participated in the discussions at Quebec, left for Washington aboard an eight-car special train last night).

Mr. Churchill laid considerable emphasis in his speech on the unrest in Europe, and it was noted in informed quarters here that this was the sort of violence designed to pave the way for invading forces, whether they strike Europe in the Balkans, Norway or France.

To Russia the British leader held forth three different methods of meeting with officials of Great Britain and the United States:

1. A three-way conference among Stalin, Roosevelt and himself. He remarked that he and the President are not averse "to undertake further immense journeys."

2. A meeting among the British, American and Russian foreign ministers or their representatives. This could be held prior to the conference of the chiefs, and Mr. Churchill called it "most necessary and urgent."

3. Participation by Russian representatives in "the political decisions which arise out of the victories Anglo-American forces have gained in the Mediterranean."

"In fact," Mr. Churchill said, "there is no step which we may take or which may be forced upon us by the unforeseeable events of this war about which we should not wish to consult our Russian friends and allies in the fullest confidence and candor."

This appeared to put the question of three-power conferences squarely up to Moscow, but Mr. Churchill specifically averred that the President and he would "persevere in our efforts to meet Marshall Stalin."

The Prime Minister said he looked forward to the day when British and American armies would "cross the Channel" in full force but made it clear that day would not come until the success of the invasion was virtually assured.

misleading," he continued. "The National War Labor Board as reconstituted in February, 1943, was not brought into being merely to administer existing laws but mainly to ascertain what labor laws and what labor policy should in face exist and prevail.

"It was upon that basis that I was invited to become a member of the Board, It was upon that basis that I agreed to accept and did accept, the appointment."

Some question had been raised as to whether the Board was responsible only to the government, or to the public.

"My answer is that we were responsible to the nation and that the government is an integral part of the nation. Any suggested artificial division between responsibility to the nation and responsibility to its government belies the unity of interest purpose which must identify and link a government with its people if they are to form together an integral and United Nation."

Besides the acting manager and accountant, there were in the bank, Miss J. Copithorn, the lone customer; Miss M. Stitt, the bookkeeper and the teller Lewis Cameron. Another employee, Miss F. L. Price, was downstairs in a vault at the time.

Shouting "This is a stick-up—put your hands up high," one of the gunmen told the staff and customer to lie on the floor. He then entered the manager's office where Richardson was attempting to telephone and forced him to join the others on the floor.

The bandit then ordered Cameron, who had been held in the teller's cage by the other two men, to "open up or I'll let you have it." When Cameron complied with the order, the bandit then scooped up the money.

fourth raid on the German capital in eight days.

Daylight Swoop.

It followed a day of intense aerial activity which saw a large force of American heavy bombers attack the Amiens-Glissy airport, one of the largest Nazi fighter-plane bases in France, with good results.

American medium bombers struck at the Vendeville airport at Lille and at the Mazingarbe Chemical Works near Bethune in France. Pilots on the Vendeville raid said their bombs hit a munitions dump.

The raiders were escorted by R. A. F. and R. C. A. F. Spitfires, which shot down two Nazi planes and destroyed two more on the ground.

Credited with downing the two enemy fighters were Sqdn. Ldr. R. W. (Buck) McNair of North Battleford, Sask., and Flt. Lt. R. D. (Dagwood) Phillip of Toronto.

The big bombers were credited with downing five enemy flighters. One bomber and two Allied fighters were lost.

head in Northern Europe and continue a successful advance for the first few weeks.

It is possible German forces in Northern Europe have been thinned out since then because of Russian front claims, but even at that the defenders on strongly-prepared positions have immense advantages as was shown in Sicily where sometimes a single Nazi company held up a couple of battalions or more until shelled out.

The Allied Command has to plan to have a predominate force in an attack. In Sicily this was so.

No More Bloodbath Talk.

German Forces now are scattered around Europe. There are thin spots in the line where the Allies conceivably could hit most effectively in Western France or the underbelly of Europe in the Mediterranean.

The cost of such operations would perhaps be much higher than in Sicily, for Dieppe illustrated how difficult it is to storm strongly-fortified ports and coast.

However, using the combined operation pattern now developed there is a good chance there would not be the bloodbaths which many envisaged as part and parcel of an invasion landing.

Danish King Approves Resistance

Nazis Machine-Gun Groups Of Danes Talking In Streets

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 1—(AP).— Encouraging words from popular King Christian X. to-day heartened the Danish people who have refused to crack under a German military dictatorship enforced, eye-witnesses said, by merciless street executions.

Refugees who made a daring flight to Sweden through Nazi patrols declared they had seen German mechanized troops pour volleys of machine-gun fire into the groups of Danes waiting on safety-zone platforms for street cars.

Three Danes who laughed and joked when German soldiers marched by were shot to death without a word of warning, eye-witnesses added.

Drastic measures were ordered by Gen. Herman von Hannecken, the military dictator, to restore a "state of normalcy" to the little country which revolted aagingst Nazi occupation and was sabotaging German troop supplies and arms production.

King Christian, who has been imprisoned with Queen Alexandria in Sorgenfri Castle since the Germans took over the Danish government on Sunday, made his first public appearance ystrday—a short automobile outing, escorted by a German military guard.

Cheered King.

In the little town of Lyngby near Sorgenfri Castle, some 1,000 Danes ignored Hannecken's prohibition against assemblies to cheer their King and Queen.

King Christian's words to the gathering were brief: "I am happy to hear the Danish language still spoken in my country; continue with that." They were significant, however, for the Danes, who apparently interpreted them as an approval of their stout-hearted resistance against overwhelming odds. Yet there was nothing in the King's remarks against which the Germans could protest.

Meanwhile, German troops kept up continuous patrols in Copenhagen and other large cities in armored cars.

German soldiers and Gestapo operatives generally handled the enforcement of the martial law proclamation as the regular police in Copenhagen and other cities refused flatly to pledge loyalty to Hannecken.

CAMPBELLFORD

School Opening Postponed Until Sept. 13

CAMPBELLFORD, September 1—(ENS)— High School pupils here are to have their summer holidays prolonged for an extra week according to the decision of the Board of Education at the August meeting held Monday. Acting on information contained in a letter from the Department of Education, which authorized the postponement of schools re-opening till the 20th if local conditions warranted it, the Board decided the compromise date should satisfy most rural students who might still be needed for help on the farm.

Both chairman R. J. Locke and Principal E. H. Greig declared they had been deluged with inquiries as to the opening date of the high school. Generally speaking, town people had favored the regular opening date, while for the most part those in the country felt a postponement for at least two weeks would be advisable. Joseph Kelleher, a member from Seymour East said that as far as he could see most of the harvest should be cleaned up by September 13 "unless it rains for the next three or four days." The Board's decision was finally put in the form of a motion, which carried. It was pointed out this would not effect the re-opening of the Public Schools, which will be on the regular date, September 7.

Purchase of Coal.

A copy of a letter sent by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board to the Underhill Coal Company from whom the Board has been purchasing its fuel supply for the past 25 years, was read by the Secretary. The letter concerned the necessity of the Board's being licensed as a purchaser and importer of coal. Members could not understand how they should be effected by the licensing order since they purchased through the firm's Toronto office, however, the Secretary was instructed to apply to Ottawa for the necessary license.

Property Chairman F. C. Bonnycastle reported that brushing, caulking and re-painting of the steel sash on High School windows had been completed and "a first class job" done. Minor repairs had also been made to the foundation, he said, and following a visit of the boiler inspector other repairs had been undertaken. Investigation had shown the foundation under one of the boilers was in bad condition and as a consquence the necessary repairs were being made. Though the Committee had asked for tenders for the re-painting of the Public School roof there had so far been no applicants.

President Stu Stuart who presided for the meeting announced that next week's gathering was cancelled in view of the holiday while the following week will be the occasion for the annual visit of the District Governor. Guests at the luncheon included Rotarian Robt. T. Stillman of West Toronto; Mr. W. I. Stillman of Campbellford, Warrant Officer Ted Stephens of Vancouver, B.C. and Maj. E. Drope of Harwood.

Churches Fail To Make Use Of Choral Music

TORONTO, Sept. 1—Other than those of the Anglican and Roman Catholic faiths churches of all denominations are making little use of the finest choral music and the order of service in Presbyterian United and Baptist churches may have to undergo changes in the progress which comes with time. So stated Principal Norman Wilks, Toronto Conservatory of Music, when he addressed members of the Canadian College of Organists at a banquet in the Granite Club last night, at the close of their anual two-day convention here.

Speaking as a layman about music in the churches, he told the assembled organists that, as far as the religious life of the Church is concerned, they could not escape that responsibility they share with their theological comrades. In referring to the tradition-hallowed music of the Anglican and Roman Catholic Churches, religious festivals and saints' days, the symbols and church interiors of great beauty, Principal Wilks said the organist participates in a ceremonial right; but these factors are missing in the Free churches.

Deplores Plain Buildings

"The building is generally plain and bare," he said. "Symbols, pictures and traditional ceremonial are taboo. A lighted candle would probably bring heart failure to many of the faithful. A mixed choir has the ladies looking somewhat self-conscious—as any respectable girl would—in the costumes they are asked to wear. Many churches are closed on the great days of Christmas, Good Friday and Ascension."

At an earlier business session of the convention, it was pointed out that many valued members of the Canadian College of Organists had gone into the various forces and the college had not been able to carry out its normal program of extension and development.

A motion was passed whereby the Canadian College of Organists will restore an organ destroyed in the London blitz and will ask the Royal College of Organists there to designate some particular London church for this purpose.

Gives Recital

Frederick C. Silvester, Bloor Street United church, presented an organ recital in Convocation Hall in the afternoon. This was followed by a carillon recital from Soldiers' Tower, University of Toronto, by J. Leland Richardson. Members had tea in Trinity College.

Presentation of diplomas was made after the dinner by President Rollinson, Hamilton. Two new associates of the Canadian College of Organists are Harold Riddolls, Ingersoll; Dorothy Powell, Hamilton. Honorary fellowships were awarded to Gordon Langlois, Frederick C. Silvester, Toronto.

Officers elected were: Honorary President, Dr. H. A. Fricker, Toronto; president, Eric Rollinson, Hamilton; secretary, Maitland Farmer, Toronto; treasurer, Gordon Langlois, Toronto; registrar, C. E. Wheeler, London, Ont.

Damage to the ignition system of the car was placed at $15.00.

Eating Problem

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Sept. 1.—(CP).— The Sunday eating situation is growing serious here. Only two chief restaurants and one hotel dining room are open on Sundays to take care of the thousands of Saint John's floating population which must buy their meals in a public eating place. Even these two are forced to close down for a few hours during the day to catch up on the dishes.

By CORA NILL

WHITBY, Sept. 1.—(ENS).—The 10th annual school for leaders of the W.M.S., of the United Church of Canada, under the auspices of the Bay of Quinte Conference branch opened on Monday, August 30 at the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, with a registration of 140 delegates.

An auspicious beginning was made when at dinner Dr. C. Carscallen, principal of the college, reviewed the history of the college, formerly Tralafigar Castle, built in 1854 by Sheriff Reynolds, and said at that time to be the best and largest building on the continent. In 1874 it was put on the market, acquired by a group of men, farmers, ministers and business men for $35,000. The building opened sixty-nine years ago as a college by Lord and Lady Dufferin. Dr. Carscallen told in details of the building of additional wings; the high educational standing maintained by the school and stated it justified its existence, providing a Christian surrounding for its students.

Seeking Ways To Conserve Fuel In Churches

LINDSAY, Sept. 1 — (ENS). — Russell G. Kelly, well-known advertising man of Hamilton, conferred with Dan McQuarrie and members of the Lindsay Ministerial Association on Tuesday afternoon at a luncheon meeting in the Hotel Benson.

Mr. Kelly, who was recently appointed a commissioner by the Dominion Government to conserve the consumption of fuel in the churches across Canada, stated that the Government wished to present and put into practice a ten-point program to conserve fuel to the extent of 20 per cent in the churches of all denominations. In this connection Mr. Kelly asked the ministers of the Lindsay Association to give leadership to the church bodies in town as well as throughout the district. He stressed the need of the following points: Have heating equipment in first-class order; be sure the right fuel is used; the maximum heat for winter should be 60 degrees; hold choir practices in the school room or parish hall instead of in the church; hold the weekday services on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday only; and hold as many meetings as possible in private homes.

The audience included Rev. J. J. Black, president, Rev. C. D. Cross, Rev. Father McAuley, Rev. P. C. Reid, Rev. H. C. Wolfraim, Rev. Donald McQueen, and Rev. F. H. McIntosh, and Capt. Dougal.

Churchill Speaks

In his usual masterly style, Prime Minister Churchill, from the Citadel in Quebec, told to the world why Russia was not represented at the Quebec Conference, and he made it clear that the positive factor of military success was paramount before the Allies launched a new offensive in western Europe. That front, he asserted, will come when the Allied leaders are satisfied that there 's a good prospect of continued success, and that our soldiers are expended in accordance with sound military plans, and not squandered for political considerations of any kind. Mr. Churchill did not blame Russia for any criticism it had levelled at its allies, for not having opened a second front on the continent. He probably would do the same thing, if he were in the position of Marshal Stalin. But he did remind his hearers, that the Allies once did have a second front, and it was torn to pieces by the concentrated might of Hitler and Britain was forced to battle the great German war machine alone.

He made it quite clear that the principal discussions of the Quebec Conference dealt with the carrying of the war against the Japanese, which nation is not at war with Russia, and thus it would have proved very embarrassing to the Soviet Union to have been represented. But hope for a meeting with Marshal Stalin, in which Mr. Churchill and President Roosevelt would be present was held in the not too distant future. His whole theme, in mentioning Russia, was one that the two great democracies wanted to co-operate to the utmost in aiding Russia in her great fight against the Nazis.

His tribute to Canada's war effort and to Prime Minister Mackenzie King was something that Canadians should be proud of and should long remember. We have too often let criticism befoggle our minds as to what Canada has really done, and it takes men like Churchill to bring us back to normal thinking. Our Canadian army, he pointed out, had stood with Britain in the darkest days and is now fighting with distinction in wider and widening fields. He stressed the valuable part the Canadian navy had played in convoying war materials across the Atlantic, what the British Empire Air Training Plan had really meant and he expressed thanks for Canada's large contribution of munitions valued at not less than $2,000,000,000 and donated to the common cause.

His speech, coming on the eve of the fourth anniversary of the opening of the war, spelt nothing bu' defeat for the Axis Powers.

The Future For Squaw Men

Our progressive contemporary, the Brantford Expositor, comments upon a recent speech made by John G. Winant, the American Ambassador to the U.K., in which that gentleman spoke enthusiastically of the great work which the British women between 18 and 46 are doing in the war. And inevitably the question arises: how will this affect our civilization? after the war will women refuse to admit that their place is in the home? As the Expositor puts it:

> An interesting and important speculation now arises. Having proven their worth and their ability in virtually every field of human endeavor, having worked successfully not only in offices but in factories and in the forces, in executive positions as well as in the ranks of skilled and ordinary labor, what percentage of the women thus "transplanted" is going to be content to return to the placid if onerous routine of home-making and knitting and tasks formerly adjudged "suitable" for feminine capacity?
> Or, to put it the other way: How many of them will refuse to go back to the old and so-called traditional role?

Personally we see no objection to women working outside the home if they wish to do so. But one thing must be understood: a home is not a home unless there is someone whose special work it is to make it homelike. In homes where the woman is the breadwinner, the man will have to remain in the house, cleaning, washing, tending the children, and cooking; these things have to be done, and anyone with half an eye has seen men who can do them far better than the average woman. Housewifely skill and mothercraft are not inborn; they are learned, like other jobs, and men can learn them quite as well as women. We see the squaw man as a distinctive type in the future, and girls who are making good money in industry will seek out and court these men because they are expert housekeepers, and so comforting to come home to after a heavy day at the plant.

In the family of the future a decision will have to be made as to which partner is the more efficient breadwinner, and which the better homemaker. We know any number of women who are more aggressive and shrewder at business than their husbands, and scores of men who could teach their wives a thing or two about keeping house. The future looks rosy for the clinging-vine type of man, and the woman whose temperament is more suited to pounding an anvil than singing a lullaby.

Four Years Of War

Four years ago today, Hitler started this war against Poland. Carefully laid plans had been made for years, the German general-staff, had held post-mortems on the past war, and they firmly believed that there would be none of the 1914-1918 mistakes. In due time Germany was joined by Italy with the "stab in the back of France," and by Japan with the assault on Pearl Harbor. The Axis were winning wherever they went.

But that fourth year changed things. It was entirely a different war, than had been planned. There had been no victories to cheer the peoples. Defeat and disaster had been the fate of their armies, their navies and their air forces. This anniversary which they are marking today should be a pretty dismal day for Hitler and Company.

On land, Africa has been wiped clean of Axis armies, Mussolini has fallen and Italy is tottering. Japan's threat, to Canada and the United tSates, has been removed, and her immediate threat to Australia checked. The possibilities of a tremendous German disaster in Russia appear more apparent every day.

At sea, the German submarines have been checked, and these undersea boats forced to "hole-up". In the air Allied planes are dealing heavier and heavier blows bringing the war right into German territory, a place it never was in the past.

But even with all this brightness, many dark days will lie ahead for the Allies. The fortress of Europe, for the most part, remains intact and Germany controls millions of peoples of other nations. Japan in the Far East is still a threat both to China and to India, and may be still considered a direct threat to Australia. Her power is growing daily, with the tremendous natural resources and raw materials which she has taken from the lands which she has overrun, and her great armies have hardly yet, with the exception of in China, been engaged in close battle with the United Nations.

But all in all there is more cause for rejoicing today in London, in Moscow, in Washington and in Ottawa than there is in Berlin, Rome and Tokio.

A Long View Wanted

There seems to be rather a general opinion that the Board of Education has been a trifle hasty in deciding not to avail itself of the opportunity to secure accommodation in the new city hall that is being tentatively planned as an aftermath of the bequest made by the late W. George Morrow. Many citizens believe that the members of the Board should have taken a long-range view of the question. The city-hall-that-is-to-be will take care of Peterborough's municipal needs for many years to come and to be of the greatest convenience and service to the community it is essential that all municipal services should be housed in the new structure—with the exception perhaps of the police station and police court which could be taken care of in the present city buildings, once they are vacated by other departments.

Already the Utilities Commission has decided to accept the offer of accommodation in the new civic building and the Separate School Board is expected to take similar action when it meets next week.

It is true that the Board of Education has spent some money in providing office accommodation in the old Central School. The quarters are serving their purpose but the location of the offices of the secretary of the Board and of the inspector of schools there is not the most convenient thing for many citizens. In addition the building is an old structure. The wisdom of clinging to offices there when modern and adequate quarters in a new city hall are offered does not sell itself to many of the citizens who feel that the chance is not one that should be hastily rejected.

The whole question should be reviewed by the whole Board. There were four absentees when the matter was first discussed and it would seem that the reopening of the question would be justified—and would be generally endorsed.

The Sickness Of Our World

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

EVERY sort of attempt has been made to weigh and diagnose the afflications which have descended upon mankind in this, the second quarter of the twentieth century. There are simple people who look upon this war as an isolated event, not related to the last war or to the development of the past twenty-five years; there are people of complex, but not always orderly, mental character who see in this war the culmination of events which had their beginnings in 1870; there are those who regard it primarily as a revolutionary war, and who predict its consequences with a certainly which reflects more credit on their self-confidence than on their good sense. When so many groups are anxious to explain the war, is it surprising that a psycho-analyst should add his theory to the heap, and his book to the swelling library of war explaining volumes? I took up Dr. Franz Alexander's "Our Age Of Unreason" with enthusiasm, for I thought that it would at least be something out of the ordinary in books about the war; and so it was, though not so revelatory as I had hoped.

IT will be a long time before a psycho-analyst writes anything on the subject of war which will improve upon Sigmund Freud's "Thoughts For The Times On War And Death," which he wrote in 1915, "Civilization And Its Discontents" which he wrote in 1929, and "Why War?", a letter which he wrote to Einstein in 1932. Franz Alexander's book appears to me to be a repetition of Freud's reasoning in its best passages, and watered-down psychology for the North American reading public in its general content. Psycho-analysis has a strong attraction for many people who like novelties but who have no stomach for involved reasoning or uncomplimentary truths. Many scientists, therefore, who are more concerned with popular success than truth, produce books which flatter and tickle the reader by giving him a sense of superiority, but which are of slight value as psycho-analytic reasoning. Dr. Alexander cannot be dismissed as one of these, but there are times when he almost deserves such treatment.

WRITING in 1915, Freud said ". . . . nations still obey their immediate passions far more readily than their interests. Their interests serve them, at most, as rationalizations for their passions; they parade their interests as their justification for satisfying their passions." That, in a nutshell, is the thesis which Alexander develops, in what he terms "a study of the irrational forces in social life." In the first part of his book he explains what he means to do, and develops an interesting theory to account for the usurpation by Unreason of the place which Reason normally occupies in national and international relations. In two chapters, "The Philosophy of Violence" and "Summary" he gives a closely reasoned account of the disintegration of the normal values of truth and justice in the totalitarian states, and lays great stress on the influence of Vilfredo Fareto's philosophy of "political realism." Now Pareto prided himself upon nothing so much as his perfect objectivity; an engineer and a mathematician, he accepted nothing which was not rpovable by his special form of logic. But like all psycho-analysts, Alexander is immediately suspicious of any man with an infallible system, and he attempts to show Pareto as a fanatic, who uses an elaborate scheme of reasoning to prove conclusions which he originally arrived at by wholly unreasonable means. To my mind, Alexander is completely successful in this, and in this disproving of a much-touted and utterly beastly philosophy lies much of the value of his book. But Hitler and his gang have swallowed Pareto whole, and that is one of the things which is wrong with them. They too, have rationalized their brutality in elaborately "reasonable" terms.

THE central section of his book is devoted by Dr. Alexander to a brief summary of processes and concepts of psycho-analytical thinking, which is of value to those among his readers who are not already familiar with it. It is in the third section, called "From Unreason To Reason" that he seeks to give a hint at those means by which the world may be put back on its legs once again. It is not surprising that this section is unsatisfactory in many ways. Some of its failure, I think, must be debited against Dr. Alexander's obvious desire to flatter the U.S. The old world, he assures us, is in its death struggle but America needs very little in the way of reform. In this view he will not be supported by great numbers of highly intelligent American writers and political leaders who have already expressed themselves on this subject. The world as a whole stands in need of a better personal and international philosophy, and no one country can flatter itself that it has already achieved that end. In his final chapters this author has many interesting and provocative things to say, but the integrity which distinguishes the rest of the book is not in them. This is a pity, for "Our Age Of Unreason" might have been a book of great significance and influence, whereas it has appeared as a book with a fine head and torso, but with pitifully shrunken lower limbs.

Right of Access to the Courts

Lord Wright, one of the seven Lords of Appeal in Ordinary, the supreme judicial authority for Great Britain and Northern Ireland, said to the Canadian Bar Association meeting in Winnipeg:

"There are the Four Freedoms, but there is also a fifth freedom, the freedom of access to the courts."

This is something an Englishman would say; and it is something for the thought of Canadians. Because we in Canada before this war and we especially in this British province of Ontario, were none too careful about our rights of access to the courts. In certain circumstances, and without a vestige of justice, we were denied access to the courts. More and more there was a tendency on the part of government to refuse to submit its acts to lawful superintendence.

Never again must we permit that. In war, when all of us must compromise our rights and privileges for a common end of victory, governments must be given wide powers. But the rights which we surrender now, and cheerfully, must be restored at war's end and in peace maintained jealously. Otherwise, as another great Englishman remarked recently, our sacrifices will have been largely in vain, and "our voyage through history become meaningless."

Australian Women Do Well

(By J. E. HOLDSWORTH, Canadian Press Correspondent)

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 31 (CP Cable)—The tumult and excitement of the Australian Federal election are almost over. The final results are not yet known but there is one feature already established that the Commonwealth has never known before.

There is certain to be at least one woman in parliament for the first time and there may be three or four.

In all 23 women were candidates for the House of Representatives or the Senate. The one certain to go to Parliament House at Canberra is Dorothy Tangney, a teacher in western Australia. She will be a member of the Labour team her state is sending to the Senate. She is a Bachelor of Arts and holds a diploma of education, is in her thirties, is regarded as intellectually brilliant and is an active Labour worker in her state.

Another well-known woman who seems to have a strong chance of holding the seat of her late husband in Tasmania is Dame Enid Lyons. Her husband, Joseph A. Lyons, began political life as a Labour man but like the veteran statesman and First Great War Prime Minister, W. M. Hughes, he switched over to the opposition a number of years ago. Then Lyons became Prime Minister as leader of the United Australia party.

Lyons and his wife brought up a family of 11 children. Dame Lyons nevertheless throughout the long political career of her late husband maintained an active interest in politics herself. She is a graceful and charming speaker. During the election campaign she advocated national unity, no party strife and an all-party government.

Dame Lyons says "my experience has shown me there is a growing feeling that women are not unfitted for political life. It was always my husband's wish that I should stand for election but at the time of his death I was too ill to consider it."

One well-known Sydney woman is likely to win for Labour what generally has been regarded as a fairly safe anti-Labour Sydney suburban seat. This is Mrs. Jessie Street, the wife of a judge of the state supreme court. She has been active in many phases of public life. Mrs. Street is chairman of the Federal Council of Sydney's Russian Medical Aid and Comforts Committee and is a grandmother.

Australia had a pleasant surprise last week when it was learned that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was in New Zealand and soon was coming to Australia. Now it has been announced that because of the shortness of her stay, she will be able to visit only four cities—Canberra, Sydney, Melbourne and Brisbane.

At the Centre of Empire

(By DOUG HOW, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Sept. 1 (CP)—This may be tantamount to heresy, but the prelude to an investitute at Buckingham Palace smacks of the prelude to a village play or a church concert.

The setting, mind you, is definitely dissimilar.

The plush carpets, the ponderous paintings of former monarchs, the guards in centuried garb, are hardly parallel in their splendor to a background of gnarled, wooden floor, a stove and woodbox, pencil scrawlings on a bare wall, and reluctant staff of ushers.

But those are secondary issues.

It's the people who prompt the analogy. The entire atmosphere is that of folks waiting for a show and folks waiting for a show have an atmosphere all their own—be it in Buckingham Palace or Bender's Gulch.

They come in sheepishly or challengingly or with never a twitch to betray their reaction to focusing eyes. The ushers find them seats, but the analogy survives even there.

Sometimes there are no seats and there are embarrassed moments.

The audience whispers until the hall is alive with muted turmoil. They stare here, there, discuss the head usher's haircut, cast an envious "oh" at a dress apart, and an expectant "ah" at an opening door.

And, above all, they dwell in mass assessment upon each defenceless arrival.

Then the hour has come. The head usher (the palace no doubt has a more formal title) calls the house to order, tells what to do in this instance, what to do in that, and in closing utters that inevitable cliche:—

"If you must talk, whisper."

In all this, the analogy holds. However, it must be granted, it does break down over certain fundamentals.

Of those which come to mind none is more obstrusive than the fact that you just don't chew peanuts at Buckingham Palace.

So much for comparison. The people who watch an investitude are a cross section closely resembling those who are invested. They are the wives, sweethearts, relatives, friends of the brave or industrious or distinguished who step before the King when the Lord Chamberlain intones their name.

They sit, about 300 strong, in a great hall, its length far in excess of its width.

Those to be decorated line up along a corridor reserved at the front of the hall, closed up. The King stands in the centre of the great length of the rectangle, smiles at each person he invests, shakes hands, chats briefly with a few. Outside the palace, a crowd invariably awaits, pressed against the giant iron fence and about the gate. Times of investitures are secret and the palace is hardly situated at a main traffic junction but the invested never air their new dignity before an empty street.

A Handbook of Good Sense

Horace has been taken, perhaps even more closely, to the heart of the world. His Odes became a sort of Psalter of secular life; his Satires and Epistles have been, for the whole European world, the great handbook of good sense, good temper, and practical wisdom. No one has done more to spread and fix and make attractive that spirit of "humanity" which, like its name, is of Latin creation. He gave mankind the type of the man of the world and the gentleman; he showed how it is attainable without birth or wealth, without anxiety or ambition. . . .His appeal is limited, but is central and universal; and many of his penetrating and mastering phrases have been, for many thousands of people through many ages, keys to the whole of life.

Horace is at once the widest in his appeal and the most exquisite in his workmanship of Latin lyric poets. They are not many. The lyric was a form of literary expression to which the Roman temper did not take naturally; for lyric poetry, in nearly all its kinds, Greek and not Latin is the great exemplar. Even Horace's Odes are in a genre of their own, which has been a thousand times imitated but never quite recaptured.—J. W. MacKail, in "The Legacy of Rome," edited by Cyril Bailey. (New York: Oxford University Press.)

A Courageous Precedent

Premier George Drew has furnished concrete evidence of his sincerity when he intimated, following the election which elevated the Progressive Conservative Leader and his Party into power in Ontario, that there would be no such orgy of political axe wielding as featured Mr. Mitchell Hepburn's triumph at the polls in 1934. Colonel Drew has created a precedent that will surely commend itself to most people in courageously ignoring partisan patronage claims for the important post of Chairman of the Ontario Liquor Control Board.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

A Bible Message

The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God; and if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ. (Rom. 8: 16, 17.)

But as it is written. Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit: for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God. For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? (I Cor. 2: 9-11.)

Not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think anything as of ourselves; but our sufficiency is of God; who also hath made us able ministers of the new testament; not of the letter, but of the spirit: for the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life. . . .

But we all with open face beholding as in a glass the glory even as by the Spirit of the Lord. (II Cor. 3: 5, 6, 18.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Caller: "I am so sorry your mistress it out. Do you think she will be at home this evening?"

Maid: "She'll have to be; it's my night out."

Pat, a truck driver, stopped suddenly on the highway. The car behind crashed into his truck and its owner sued the Irishman.

"Why didn't you hold out your hand?" the judge asked Pat.

"Well," he said indignantly, "if he couldn't see the truck, how in hivin's name could he see my hand?"

In Concrete Beauty

The beauty of Peking is not merely a pleasing pattern to the eye. There is a new word needed for this beauty, such power and dignity it has and such vast serenity. The sky over Peking is of a fiery blue, so intense yet fragile a colour it must surely break in pieces like thin porcelain if voices in the street are raised above a murmur. But the people of Peking are a placid folk, and the soft Peking tongue has a blurred, gentle quality, and the sound of wheeled traffic is muffled in dust, and the street cries are musical and mournful, so that the sky's thin, curving shell remains unshattered. The Western Hills on the horizon are blue, gray, purple, as the sunlight shifts with the hour; in the evening, dark against the blinding sunset, they are edged with burning. Gray roofs of the million homes, gold glazed roofs of the great palaces, spread wide eaves like a gesture of bendiction. . . .All is proportioned with such just and balanced sureness; the still courtyards, level as water; the ground plan true with the compass and the sun, east, south, west, north; the mounting terraces, foundation to majestic pavilions with their red walls—a red more burning and golden than scarlet — with their tall arched doorways and their golden roofs sweeping downward in curves of sheer power. It is the imagination of China! By oppression and tyranny the blocks of marble were laid, the roof beams hewn. Yes, but the essential design—the inevitable, exact proportions, the soul-releasing magnitude—is the outgrowth of all China. It dwarfs the individual man; it is the expression of a nation; no emperor could have lived worthy of this setting. No one architect could have conceived these stately dimensions and this splenour of strong, simple colour. This stability, this centered peace, this harmony with earth and sky—this is the final statement in concrete beauty of the Chinese philosophy of life.—From "Destination Chungking," by Han Suyin. (Boston: Little, Brown.)

Fliers Import Donkeys Officials Upset

LONDON, Sept. 1 (CP)—American monkeyshines may be changed to read "donkeyshines" in the British lexicon soon.

The British Ministry of Agriculture, already once upset by American shenanigans—though without losing its sense of humor — is due herewith for another jolt.

The original trouble centred on finding and quarantining an Arabian donkey brought back by the crew of a United States bomber on the homeward leg of a Britain-to-North Africa shuttle raid.

Now, although the Ministry doesn't know it yet, it will have to go to all the trouble of tracking down, quarantining and vaccinating still another donkey brought back at the same time by another bomber crew at a different base somewhere in Britain.

"We had a dickens of a time finding that donkey," said a Ministry spokesman, referring to No. 1.

"We knew the boys brought back their personal livestock in a spirit of fun. The story was carried in the papers, but the location of American bomber bases is a secret and it took several days to track down this particular base and quarantine and vaccinate the donkey."

For reasons of military secrecy, the names and bomber base of donkey No. 2's owners cannot be disclosed. It looks as if the Ministry has another tough job on its hands.

40,000 Men Needed For Pulp Industry

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 1 — (AP).—A United States Congressional committee investigating the newsprint shortage ended its tour of Canadian and American papers pulp centres here to-day with a warning that "newspapers will be on a starvation basis by next May" unless workers are found to increase production.

The shortage can be ended and maximum production obtained with 40,000 more workers for the pulp industry in Canada and the United States, said Congressman Lyle H. Boren (Dem., Okla.), committee spokesman, in an Oregonian interview.

The committee will recommend to Congress that "all pulp and wood cutting be classified as essential," Boren said. "It appears to us that we should quit trying to divide up the shortage and take the necessary action to bring about maximum production of newsprint."

Senoussi Arabs Master Bagpipes of Scotland Turbanned Tribesmen Get Great Reception

CAIRO, Sept. 1 — (CP). — To hear "The Campbells Are Coming" on the bagpipes is no guarantee, these days, that they really are. It may be Senoussi Arabs.

Senoussi members of the Cyrenaican Defence Force made their first public appearance in Barce recently to the skirl of the pipes and the rumble of the drums played by their newly-formed band. Astonished but enthusiastic Arabs cheered lustily, delighted to find that their men had mastered Scotland's national musical instrument.

According to Pipe-Major William Speedy of the Scots Guards, who taught the Arabs, the tribesmen were apt pupils.

Plan To Give Brides Bibles

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 1 — (ENS) —Mrs. George Spence was hostess to members of the Women's Association of Regent Street United Church for the August meeting.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. J. Murphy, Mrs. Percy Spence presided for a brief business session. Arrangements were made for flowers for the church for September and it was decided to have a special meeting in the near future to present Bibles to the brides of 1943 who have not yet received them.

A pleasing feature of the afternoon was the presentation of a cup and saucer to Mrs. J. Bickel who has moved to Peterborough.

In a short address, Mrs. F. Darling regretted that Mrs. Bickel was leaving the community, and the organization in which she had always been a cheerful and willing worker, and expressed the hope that she would come back and join them at their teas occassionally.

Mrs. Bickell made a suitable reply and lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. F. Darling.

Practice mauoeuvres carried out by the Peterborough 4th Battery, Reserve Unit at Glynnwood Farm on Sunday afternoon were very interesting. Two twenty five pound guns were used.

OSHAWA COLTS DEFEAT GENELECS BY 11 TO 1 IN FIRST CONTEST

Whitely Holds Local Team To Three Hits

Getting three-hit pitching from Preem Whiteley and hammering out 15 blows themselves Oshawa Colts had no trouble taking an 11-1 verdict over the Genelecs in the first game of the O. A. S. Intermediate A playdown series at Riverside Park, Tuesday night.

The Peterborough representatives played indifferent ball and the game was settled in the first innings when the Colts scored four runs, largely on the strength of Genelecs defensive slips. After that the champions batted in runs steadily and the only question after that sad opening was how large the Colt margin would be.

Whitely has shown more fire against Peterborough teams than he had on tap last night and also better control but the big fellow held the Genelecs to three singles and would have had a shut out if it had not been for the only Oshawa error of the game in the first inning. After that he blanked the Peterborough team for eight straight frames and the closest they came was to fill the bases in the fifth.

Eakins, the Lindsay pitcher who was given permission by the O. A. S. A. to play went the route for the losers and was no great mystery to the Colts who cuffed him for 15 hits including four doubles. Six Genelec errors, two contributed by himself did not help his cause much.

The Colts played steadily and confidently. Fine running catches were made in the outfield by O'Reilly in centre and Trewin in right, and Dib Hall had a circus one-handed stab of a hard drive to third while Dalton at short and Red Jubenville at second fielded smoothly. Tucker had the feature play for the Genelecs when he made a jumping one-handed stop of Jubenville's high bounder to short to cut Red out of a hit. Earl McNabb contributed an accurate throw home to catch Little at the plate when he tried to score after McNabb had caught Trewin's smash to left.

A Bad Start.

The first was disastrous for Genelecs hopes. Dalton walked and when Hall bunted for a sacrifice, Eakins made a wide throw to second, Dalton going to third and Hall to the keystone corner. Peg Hurst shot a single into right to score the pair. Jubenville hit to Eakins and Hurst should have been out at second but Giardino dropped the throw and everybody was safe. Whiteley popped to Tucker. Magee was passed, filling the bases. Little rolled to Giardino who threw Hurst out at the plate but Trewin doubled through the box to score Jubenville and Magee. O'Reilly ended the inning with a drive to Holmes in right.

Genelecs got their only run in their half. Giardino drew a pass and went to second on a passed ball. McNabb flied to O'Reilly in centre, Giardino ran to third on a wild pitch and scored when Dalton threw into the dirt after fielding Tucker's roller. Tucker was caught between first and second on the play and tagged out and Playford rolled to Whiteley.

Eakins managed to escape without a score in the second and third but the Colts nicked two counters in the fourth. With one away, O'Reilly lined a single to right and ran to third when Dalton slashed another to the same spot. Then, the pair pulled off a double steal, O'Reilly scoring without a play being made on him while Dalton slid safely into second. Hall popped to Cadd but Hurst singled to centre to score Dalton. Tucker's jumping stop of Jubenville's high roller forced Hurst at second.

The invaders gathered in two more in the fifth. There were two out when they started this time. Little then singled to centre and Trewin doubled to left, Little going to third. When Mowry threw into left field trying to nip Little off third, the runner scored. Norm O'Reilly's line single to centre scored Trewin but the batter was out at second trying to stretch his hit, injuring his ankle in the play.

The winners added another in the sixth. With one away Hall singled to centre, advanced on a wild pitch and after Hurst had fanned, ran home on Jubenville's sharp single to right. Red dashed to second when Holmes threw to the plate too late to get Hall. Whitely was tossed out by Hawks.

A Peculiar Frame.

The Colts had a peculiar innings

Westclox, for the second time champions of the Girls' Softball League and Aircraft who gave them such a great battle for the title will meet at the East City Bowl tonight at 6.30 o'clock in the first game of their series for the trophy donated by Ald. R. S. Cotton. It should be a great round. The two teams battled it out for the City League honors to the last ditch, the best-of-seven series going the full seven games before the Big Bens finally managed to grab off the title. There is keen rivalry between the two outfits and every game they have played this season has been a tough argument. With the Cotton Cup at stake in the present series the competition will be just as great as ever and the Aircraft will go all out to grab off the round and demonstrate that they are just as strong a club as the title-holders. The Big Bens on the other hand are just as anxious to win as they do not want to lose any prestige by dropping a series to a team they have already beaten for the league honors. Norma Strickland will likely pitch the opening game for Aircraft and Isobel Bullock is the probable choice for the Westclockers. The second game of the series will be played on Friday night. Saturday afternoon and Monday the Big Bens play exhibition games with Coulter's Ladies' team from Toronto, a fast senior outfit.

"Hattie" Eakins, the Lindsay pitcher, who worked for the Genelecs last night and whose ill-fated participation in the local City League playoffs last week caused trouble first for the Genelecs who used him and eventually for the 4th Battery is taken to task by the Lindsay Post sports writer for deserting his own squad. After referring to the fact that the games in which Eakins played had been thrown out by the City League executive the Lindsay scribe adds "This means that "Hattie" in leaving his own team, the Hawks, and letting them lose out in the playoffs has also lost out in Peterborough. It is in a way a tough break for "Hattie" as word reached our ears that he was all set with a nice job and everything. What this reporter would like to know is why after he knew his services for Genelecs were of no avail, didn't he see it out with the Hawks Friday night instead of going to Peterborough when he must have known they would only lose with him playing. This is of course a tough break for Hattie and it is too bad he hasn't had a chance to go and try his arm in a big city."

Genelecs Fall Down

Genelecs, the O.A.S.A.-selected Peterborough representatives in the provincial intermediate playdowns didn't make much of a job of battling the champion Oshawa Colts here last night. The City League runners-up in fact played as if they felt they had no right to be out there. They handed the Colts four runs in the first innings and never for a moment afterward looked like as if they had a chance to overcome the deficit. Soup Campbell's team, getting fifteen hits off young Eakins, the Lindsay pitcher, won the decision 11 to 1 in hollow fashion while the best the Genelecs could collect off big Preem Whiteley was 3 singles and an unearned run. At that Whitely looked far from his usual formidable self out there on the hill top. He was not nearly as fast as usual and he had trouble with his control, walking six batters and only fanning four. However he was still too good for the Peterborough squad, blanking them for the last eight frames after the only Oshawa error of the game had given the homesters a run in the opening inning. The Colts moved with the confidence and assurance of a championship outfit, their work contrasting vividly with the pepperless playing of the losers.

* * * * * *

The apathy shown by Genelecs on the field was reflected in the stands where 700 fans sat silent for the most part. The lack of fan enthusiasm was noted early by the visiting players. "We have never played before a crowd like this in Peterborough before," said George Soup Campbell, the Oshawa manager. "Usually they are after our scalps from the first ball pitched and we always count on a ride from the fans every time we play here. As for Reg. Fair he is having the quietest game behind the bat I ever remember him having in Peterborough. As a rule the fans here howl on two out of three decisions he makes on balls and strikes but they don't seem to care tonight." The reason was not hard to find. Rightly or wrongly many local fans firmly believed that the 4th Battery would have made a better showing against the Colts than the Genelecs did and they were inclined to resent the tossing out of the Gunners on a technicality just on the eve of the provincial playdowns. And after they had noticed that Whiteley was lacking his usual smoke they were more than ever convinced that Eddie Starr and Company would have had more luck on the attack — and incidentally more power — than the runners-up showed.

Local Teams To Help

Peterborough softball teams are going to do their part in helping to make the Labor Day sports day at Bailieboro next Monday a successful affair. The Military Training Centre team of the local City League will make the trip to Bailieboro in the afternoon and will be seen in action against the Bowmanville Club, while the Westclox girls, champions of the Girls' Softball League and Peterborough's representatives in the provincial playdowns will play a team of Bailieboro and district girls. There are other interesting games on the program and the whole affair promises to supply plenty of excitement and thrills. The proceeds are to be donated to the Red Cross and the Milk for Britain Fund and the promoters hope to hit a record attendance for their big sports day and boost these two worthy causes. The program will get under way at 1.30 o'clock and in addition to the games there will be all kinds of other entertainment including an amateur contest. A dance at Bewdley at night will be a fitting windup to a big program.

Ordinary Telegraphist Jack Craig, former local basketball player who is with the R.C.N.V.R. at Halifax played with a cage squad representing the Canadian Navy in a game against a team from the United States Navy the other day and the Canadian sailors defeated their allies 34 to 24. The Canadians played without subs and have had little practice but they managed to hold on and take the argument from the American sailors by a 10-point margin. The Peterborough player scored 16 points for the Canadians. Other members of the winning team were John Ross, former University of Toronto player, Woodward, who was formerly a member of the Winnipeg Oilers, Jack Davis, former Vancouver Domino star and Lloyd Root, whose basketball experience had been with the Windsor Fords intermediate squad.

Golf Tourney At Lambton Golf Club Promises Fun

By VERN DeGEER.

They hung a "Men-at-Work" sign over the entrance to Lambton Golf Club yesterday afternoon.

That boom, booming you may have heard didn't represent a new building project, but there was no doubt about "Men Being at Work."

Bill Lamb, Yambton pro, was the "straw boss," directing a crew of hardy pioneers of the links. It was the Old Country professional golf division getting the lay of the land for Fridays big wartime charity tournament.

Working with Lambton Willie were Jimmy Johnstone, Bob Burns, Art Hulbert, Les Franks, Bill McWilliams, and Bob Cunningham.

Upstarts, Are They?

"Nothing more than a light workout," Lamb explained, "for the meeting with the Upstarts. We're a man shy of an eight-player team, but we'll have him by Friday."

What goes on in local golf is the die-casting for the challenge 36-hole tournament between Lamb's Old Country pros and a Canadian delegation headed by Dick Borthwick. The eight-man teams will engage in an 18-hole Scotch foursomes event on Friday morning, first players teeing off at 10 o'clock. It will be man-for-man competition in the afternoon, 18-hole singles. One point credit for each match win, half a point for a tie.

Borthwick's Upstarts, the home-bred shotmakers, won't limber at Lambton until Thursday.

So They're Old, Eh?

"Those old fellows," Dick said last night, "need exercise to unwrap themselves. My outfit could be ready after a walk around the practice putting green Friday morning.

Borthwick announced his supporting cast as follows: Bob Gray, Gord Brydson, Bill Kerr, Sam Kerr, Norm Hines, Archie Grimsditch and brother Hug.

All proceeds out of Friday's 36-hole golf attraction at Lambton will be turned over to local war charities.

Tickets Are Rolling

The advance sale opened over the week-end. By Tuesday Borthwick had disposed of 200 tickets to members of his home club, Oakdale, Lamb had distributed another 100 at Lambton.

Tickets are available at the home clubs of the professionals participating.

The tournament will be the first of its kind sponsored here in many years; It has developed keen rivalry between members of the golf profession, trained on prominent courses of England and Scotland, and those developed in Ontario surroundings.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

The mecca of athletic enthusiasts on Labor Day will be the R. C. A. F. station at Trenton, Ont., where the ninth annual field day will be staged for the airmen, airwomen, wives, sweethearts and families generally who are being invited from many parts of the Province.

Apart from the track and field events, the program will comprise the final contests in services team sports including softball, lacrosse, soccer and volleyball, to be presented in the Nathanson Athletic Ground of station. Other events will include tennis, boxing, swimming and a boat regatta. Of a military nature will be the presentations by precision drill squads including a demonstration of mass physical training. During the afternoon and evening, the airmen will turn out with floats, circus clowns and gymnastic displays.

In the air, the pilots will add to the general excitement with a series of aerobatic displays to show the home-folks what flying a warkite means.

18 Victories.

Ray Murray of Welland, Ont., hurled one-hit ball last night as No. 3 Training Regiment claimed a 3-1 victory over 13X R. C. A. F. Depot in a Camp Borden Camp League play-off. The victory accomplished in the fast time of 50 minutes, was the 18th in 19 starts for the winners.

Sluggers in the Major Leagues have slammed out more than 700 home runs thus far this season. One of the leaders, Vince DiMaggio of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has secured at least one circuit clout in all national loop parks with the exception of Chicago and St. Louis and still has a chance to complete the all-round homer cirlce.

On the eve of defending his singles title in the National Tennis Tournament at Forest Hills, Ensign Ted Schoeder was compelled to sqcratch his entry because the U. S. Navy had ordered him to a distant station. The withdrawal of the champion left Francisco Segura of Ecuador as the man most likely to succeed in the matches which open to-day.

To Join Cubs.

Six or more players of the Los Angeles club, leading the Pacific Coast League by a wide margin, are slated tojo in the parent club, Chicago Cubs of the National League, for the 1944 season, it was announced last night by President Clarence Rowland of the Angels.

Royal Canadian Navy made it two straight over Army in the finals of Halifax Senior Baseball League last night, winning 10-4 on the pitching strength of Larry Angus from Windsor, Ont. Navy registered six hits and six runs when the Soldiers blew in the sixth inning.

To Sell Horses.

After breaking in the first heat of the Keimson pace to finish fifth Mighty T, driven by Frank Safford, scored an impressive victory in the second start, covering the mile in 2:10 on a muddy rtack. Earl's King George was first over the line in the initial third in the second, winning the feature in the Grand Circuit racing at Empire City yesterday.

Mrs. Frank M. Navin, widow of the former owner of the Detroit Tigers, yesterday announced the decision to sell her string of 28 race horses after having been active on the turf for nearly 20 years. Last year, the Navin stable, headed by the five-year-old Ball Player, won $35,710.

Cubs Tie Up Finals By Easy Win

In a fifty minute tussle at Memorial Park, last night, the Cubs made a come-back in the final series of the Catholic Softball Loop to even the playoffs with a game apiece, winning 23 to 7. The game was a classy feature throughout, filled with sparkling plays, although the issue was at no time in serious doubt.

For the winners, G. Heffernan pitched steady and puzzling ball and kept the Saints swinging without effect. For St. Peters, the score board was blank until the fourth when seven runs were chalked up. Conroy opened the fourth with a fly out to left, followed by J. Russell who singled to right. E. Prete followed wtih a homer. V. Perdue doubeld and J. Herr walked followed by H. Gordon who singled This was the only innings that the Saints threatened. For the winners, the game opened in their half of the first with a ten run splurge. They were held scoreless in the second but pushed in three more in the third. In the fifth and sixth innings, the Cubs piled up ten more runs, namely even in the fifth and three more in the sixth to settle the outcome once and for all. In every department the Cubs played splendid defensive ball and were in perfect control of the situation from the start. J. Caravaggia played a great game at second, handling many chances without an error. Gordon was nicked for 16 hits while Heffernan allowed only 8, the majority of those being in the fourth inning.

The leaders with the willow for the winners were F. O'Toole with a homer, triple and single for five, followed by R. Garvey with a pair of triples and a deuce for five, C. O'Donoghue was next with a triple, double and single for five followed by F. McCormick with a triple and a single.

For the losers V. Perdue had 3 for five, followed by E. Prete with a homer and single for five.

TORONTO, Sept. 1 —(CP) —The great American invasion of the 1930's is only a memory now but the benefits linger on. That invasion was the influx of imported football talent into Western Canada. The skilled Americans imparted their grid wisdom to Canadian youngsters and lifted the West into major league football. Now all but one or two of those "early Americans" are out of football. Nevertheless their influence remains in the West despite the war. Dozens of good young players, coached by these Americans in High Schools and Public Schools, will be available after the war to keep the West on a competitive par with the East. There should be no more of the one-sidedness of the pre-1935 era when an Eastern victory in the national final was conceded long before it was played.

Most of the United States "imports" of the 1930's have turned to serve in the Armed Forces of their native country but some chose to join Canadian services. These latter include Bob Cosgrove, Hall Harrison and Ed. Rorvig of Calgary, Bob Walker of Regina, Bob Fritz, Fritz Hanson, Art Stevenson and Bert Oja of Winnipeg.

Page Ripley:

Remember the yarn about Babe Ruth calling his shot, then pounding a home run Joe (Windsor Star) Burns tops it with this story about Constable John Blair of Windsor. It happened during a Windsor Industrial Softball League game. As Blair of the police team stepped to the plate after hitting home runs in his first three times up, a voice from the crowd called:: "If you get another one I'll buy you a beer." Blair identified the voice, then countered: "Make it a round for the team." "It's a deal," said the voice, whereupon Blair laced out his fourth homer.

Incidentally:

Lieut. Dick Birch of Vancouver, former Canadian men's badminton champion, says badminton now is one of the most popular pastimes in the services and predicts that after the war it will "unquestionably be one of the top-ranking sports on the continent."...Bill (Kingston Whig-Standard) Walshe says there's a chance that Kingston may be grouped wih Toronto clubs in a senior hockey league next winter.

Syracuse Takes 2nd Place Tie

By The Associated Press

The final two weeks of the International League season got off to a sputtering start with a postponement and only four games in the first two days but that lethargy doesn't characterize the fight that is going on for the play-off berth.

Syracuse ran its present victory string to seven yesterday by downing Jersey City twice and moved into a deadlock with Newark for second place. The Bears and Baltimore were idle.

Toronto grabbed one of the five triumphs it needs to clinch the championship by stopping Buffalo, 6-2, and Rochester moved to within a half game of fourth place, last berth in the play-offs, by trimming the slipping Montreal Royals, 4-3.

The Syracuse victories hiked the Chiefs' record to 19 out of their last 24—an average of .792 and one of the hottest spurts in organized baseball this season.

Jersey City was topped in the first, 10-4. Syracuse took the second 3-1 by counting a trio of unearned markers in the third frame.

Toronto edged closer to its first crown in 17 years by belting out 10 hits while Al Jarlett shut off issue a walk and after the didn't issue a walk and after the fifth only one Buffalo batter reached first—and he on an error.

A MISTAKE

Presumably this was a mistake: Mrs. M. F. Jauncey, 81, was called for war work, "Although game enough, she has had to decline," said her grandson.

Army Invaders Fold For Season

TORONTO, Sept. 1.—Murray Allen, youthful lefthander for R.C.A.F. Fliers of the West Toronto Senior League, was at his best last night at Viaduct Park and did a one-man job of eliminating Army Invaders from any further interest in baseball for 1943. Allen set the Invaders down with one scratch hit in a game that was called at the end of the sixth inning because of darkness and Fliers won, 9-0. Airmen ganged up on George McShane for seven runs and added two more off the offerings of Lou Channels, who moved in from second base to take up hurling duties for the weakened Army team.

The Airmen now meet Trenton R.C.A.F. Fliers in the first of the O.B.A.A. Senior "A" playdowns. The first game will be played at Trenton on Sept. 8, with the return clash at Earlscourt Park on Sept. 11.

Phillies Lose 7 Straight; Cox Worried

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

The drought has set in again for William Drought Cox, the victory-thirsty president of the Philadelphia Phillies.

It was five weeks ago yesterday that the old Yale Blue saw red and fired Bucky Harris, his manager with a background of 20 years as a major league pilot, and hired Fred Fitzsimmons, former pitching star of New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers.

Harris was ousted after the club had lost six games in a row and 11 out of 14. Under Fitzsimmons the Phillies turned around and won 11 of their next 14 games, but now Cox' collection of castoffs have returned to what probably is their normal gait.

Since their early spurt under Fitzsimmons, the Phillies have lost 14 out of 18 contests and last night dropped their seventh straight for the club's longest losing streak of the season.

The latest loss was 4-2 to the Dodgers, who completed a sweep of their four-game series and moved into third place in the National League.

Kirby Higbe pitched six-hit ball and the Dodgers clinched their conquest in the third inning when Luis Rodriguez Olmo tripled one run across and then scored himself on an error by Catcher Dee Moore, a former Dodger.

Cards Win Also

Brooklyn's return to third place was gained with the help of St. Louis Cardinals, who beat Pittsburg Pirates 4-2 on a two-run homer by Harry (Little Dixie) Walked in the ninth inning. It was Walker's second round-tripper of the season.

Cincinnati Reds preserved their grasp on second place by nosing out Chicago Cubs 3-2 in a duel between Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer. Derringer pitched five-hit ball while Walters gave up nine.

At Boston the Braves gained revenge on Van Lingle Mungo for the two-hit shutout he pitched against them last Saturday. Nate Andrews retaliated with a four-hit hurling job and Elmer Nieman hit a three-run homer, a triple and a single to score three times himself and drive in three runs for a 6-0 triumph over the New York Giants.

No games were scheduled in the American League.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 —(AP) — The public is always what? ....After the starting gate at Aqueduct busted down Wednesday and the favorite was left at the post in a "flag" start, the Racing Commission ordered the tracks to have a spare on hand hereafter .... But that didn't help the customers who had bet nearly $62,000 on Light Lady....

And while the fight fans still were cheering Henry Armstrong's decision to retire for good after his dismal showing against Ray Robinson, Hank up and decided to go through with one more against Slugger White in Los Aneles because the contract already had been signed ....Wonder if these fellows ever stopped to think that they have an unwritten contract with the public, too—with a clause that says "if you can't give the kind of show we pay for, get out?"

What a Pal, Al.

Al Simmons took his seven-year-old son for a swing around the American League this summer .... After watching some time while his dad either decorated the bench or tried with little success to get a few hits, the yongster asked: "Pop, do you get as much pay as the other players?" .... Simmons allowed that he got about the same as most and maybe a little more than some, then inquired what prompted the question .... "Well, I've been watching," said the kid, "and you don't seem to do as much as they do."

Start Shifting Fit Men For Overseas

OTTAWA, Sept. 1 (CP) — The process of shifting fit men out of army jobs in Canada and into the stream of reinforcements for overseas is continuing, it was stated today at national defence headquarters.

While the job of organizing and training a large army was in progress it was necessary to employ considerable numbers of fit men in administrative and other non-combatant posts in Canada, because of their experience and efficiency.

The aim throughout, however, has been to replace these men with women, or with men of low medical category or more advanced age, as rapidly as possible. The return from overseas of men who have been placed in lower categories as a result of wounds, illness or age makes more experienced men available for replacements and hastens the process, army spokesmen said.

The closing of some and the regrouping of other training centres, announced during the week-end, will also free a number of fit men for overseas service and a number of others to replace other fit men in posts in Canada.

This replacement process applies mainly to what is known as the "home war establishment" of the army—the personnel engaged in administration, training and servicing—but to a lesser extent also to the operational units serving in the defence of Canada on the coasts, in Alaska, and other outposts.

Still At Large

TORONTO, Sept. 1 (CP)—Search for three German prisoners of war still at large following Thursday night's break of 19 prisoners from Kingston, Ont., centred in downtown Toronto last night after police were notified a man answering the description of one of the men at large had been seen in Union Station. No trace of the supposed fugitive was found.

Labor Protests Rent Changes

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 1 (CP)—Windsor Labor Council, comprising representatives of 18 unions with an estimated membership of 30,000, forward a protest to Prices Board officials at Ottawa against reduction to six months of the notice required for a tenant when the house he is living in has been sold, it was announced today.

Previously a 12-month notice was required.

The Labor Council is chartered by the Canadian Congress of Labor and is affiliated with the C.I.O. in Canada.

Officials said the council also will ask federal authorities for complete publicity on reports submitted to the Department of Labor by the War Labor Board on labor relations in Canada.

the opening days of the war in 1941.

The Russian midnight communique said Soviet troops were nearing the German defence line on the Ugra River and had recaptured 170 villages in battles which cost the Nazis 5,000 dead and the loss of 56 tanks and 37 planes.

Two hundred miles south of Yelnya on the Sevsk front Russian columns were penetrating deeper into the Ukraine from newly-captured Glukhov and Rylsk. From Glukhov north for 175 miles the Russians line paralleled the Kiev-Konotrop-Bryansk railroad and at Glukhov Russian forces were only seven miles away from the railway.

If the Red Army is able to slash across the line at any point it will be a serious blow to the vital German base at Bryansk, now already threatened by a frontal assault from the direction of Karachev.

The Sevsk advance resulted in the capture of 200 villages, the Russian war bulletin said, and more than 3,000 Germans were killed and 28 tanks were destroyed in the fighting. Eight hundred other Nazi troops were reported taken prisoner.

Capture Parcels Dominate On New List

HAVELOCK, Sept. 1 (ENS). — A new knitting quota, consisting entirely of knitted articles for the prisoners-of-war capture parcels, was received Tuesday afternoon at the Red Cross work rooms. These parcels are the first ones given to our Canadian front-line fighters, after being captured by the enemy. Each branch is urgently requested to make up this quota as quickly as possible, from present wool in the work rooms, and to forward it immediately, under special shipping instructions, in order not to cause confusion in the warehouse. The quota for this branch is 10 sweaters, 15 scarves, 30 ribbed helmets and 30 pair ordinary socks. Anyone willing to knit any of these articles is requested to get in touch with Miss M. Chambers or any of her assistants.

Every branch was asked to send in a list of money raising events, that had proved most satisfactory in their community, in order that all the ideas will be compiled and sent along to branches desiring to augment funds for war work.

Mrs. A. Anderson presided over the business session. Thirteen ladies attended, completing one quilt, and sewing continued on the coat quota. Copies of the Despatch were given out, and members asked to read the account of P. H. Gordon, chairman of the National Executive Committee, recent tour of the Old Land and the Red Cross Society's work at first hand. Next meeting will be held September 8, and thereafter meetings will be held weekly on Tuesday afternoons.

Bride-to-Be Given Shower

MILLBROOK, Sept. 1—(ENS).—Mrs. Walter Challice was hostess for a pleasant social evening, at her home, Queen's Apartments, on Monday evening in honor of Miss Dorothy Challice, a bride-to-be of the near future, the event taking the form of a cup-and-saucer shower, with a number of handsome bath towels included among the gifts.

Games of various kinds preceded the highlight of the evening, when the bride-to-be was invited to a central seat, and a huge cup-and-saucer, gay in the prevailing color scheme of pink and white, filled to overflowing and surrounded as well with the many daintily-tied parcels, was drawn in on a small waggon by Master Wayne Challice, the young son of the hostess.

Older guests gave Master Wayne some assistance and when the load was brought safely to the guest of honor's side, the latter expressed her thanks with deep appreciation and heartiness, and then proceeded with the pleasant task of opening the gifts, and reading the messages of goodwill on the enclosed cards.

The happy occasion was brought to a close with the service of dainty refreshments, the hostess being assisted in the service of the guests by Mrs. Allan Earle and Miss Jean Gillies.

Danish King

Details on conditions inside Denmark came from eyewitnesses who were brought to Sweden in a Danish minesweeper, which made a daring trip to the Danish coast near Copenhagen to pick up 11 civilians and then slipped past the German patrols to reach Malmoe.

A Brave Commander

From the refugees also came a story of how one Danish submarine was submerged by its crew as the Danish navy was being scuttled in Copenhagen harbor last Sunday, and remained beneath the surface until it could slip away to Sweden under the cover of darkness.

The dramatic last moments when the scuttling order came from Admiral Vedal, the Navy's commander, were disclosed. Vedal went to the Navy Ministry early Sunday before German soldiers reached his home. When he discovered the Germans were definitely taking over the entire country he radioed his commanders, "Now or never, fly to Sweden or sink your ships. May God protect our King and Country."

German soldiers arrested Vedal in his office in the general round-up of members of the Scavenius government, prominent politicians, educators, editors, clergymen, actors, and Jews.

(A Reuters news agency dispatch quoted the Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dagbladet as saying it had learned that serious disturbances broke out in Copenhagen Tuesday night and that the Germans were bringing artillery into position in the city's streets. No further details were available.)

Weather Ideal For Harvesting

OTTAWA, Sept. 1 (CP)—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports good progress is being made in the harvesting of grain in all three Prairie Provinces, where the weather has been favorable.

Crop prospects in Saskatchewan generally have been well maintained, although in some southern and western districts the crop has suffered a decline as a result of sawfly, drought and hail damage, the bureau reported.

Alberta crops are better than was expected in some areas south of Calgary, but in many sections they still are green and vulnerable to early frost.

Ideal weather conditions have prevailed in Manitoba and cutting is almost completed in the southern and central districts.

Wheat so far threshed is of good quality, and yields per acre have been "satisfactory."

Saskatchewan crops are ripening rapidly, and harvesting is general except in the extreme northern sections. For the Province as a whole, about 37 per cent of wheat, 39 per cent of oats, 57 per cent of barley and 6 per cent of flax has been cut.

The number of Canadian General Electric and Genelco workers staying at the Wartime Housing, Staff House has shown a sharp increase in the past ten days. Enrollment as of today is around 170, and a further increase is expected. This compares with an average of around 100 that prevailed during the past three months. At present the first block of rooms is completely filled, and the second in use and filling up. Large numbers of the new workers arriving, of whom some are French-Canadians, are machinists and fitters by trade.

Liquor Ration Cut To 40 oz.

The monthly liquor ration for the individual consumer has been reduced from 53 ounces to 40 ounces. effective to-day, Liquor Board Chairman A. St. Clair Gordon announced yesterday.

Starting out last January at a quota of 160 ounces per month, the ration has been steadily decreased since that time because of unprecedented purchasing power on the part of the public, together with the fact that Federal restrictions limit the gallonage to 70 per cent of the amount obtained during the 12 months ending October 31, 1942.

"To ensure equitable distribution of our liquor supplies, we are compelled to lower the amount which the individual permit holder may obtain in any one month," said Mr. Gordon, "There are no other changes. The beer quota of 36 pints will continue."

There are approximately 700,000 liquor permit holders in Ontario, and the volume of sales has cut deeply into Liquor Board stocks.

Churches Urged To Save Coal

If the churches of the city can arrange their midweek services and meetings to save coal during the fall and winter months, it will be regarded by fuel control authorities as grateful co-operation, Russell P. Kelly, Toronto, said in a conversation with members of the Ministerial Association at the Empress Hotel yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Kelly also suggested that as a means to economy in the heating system, trustees of every church should make sure that the furnace is in good repair and working order.

Oranges Are Very Scarce

We have no bananas, and neither have we oranges, the local retail and wholesale trade reported this morning, but we have a fairly large supply of peaches, "and lovely looking pears" to quote the arresting sales phrase a girl at National Grocers wasted on an enquiring reporter this morning.

The young lady was using the approach of visual appeal, first element in selling foodstuffs according to the advice to the chickens and eggs men at their conference here recently.

Set a pear with plenty of the oomph of golden glow gleaming in the show window, and it won't be there long. That's the general idea. If they look like pears from the Hesperides or from Arcady, the business of selling is merely a matter of counting them into bags or baskets.

So, good looking pears are here to relieve the vacant spaces on orange rows and in the spots where they used to suspend bananas with about as much respect as you went out on the highway and hacked off a dozen bunches and dragged them in to town.

And as for the vitaminic oranges—well Loblaw's local store got a couple of cases this week as their share of some lean distribution, and manager P. E. Moore says he played no favorites, opening the cases into the business channel and selling them on the ruggedly individualistic basis of first come—first served.

A recent statement by the federal department of Canada reflects the shortage by reporting that 89 carloads of oranges were delivered into Canada during the week of August 25 last year as compared with only 62 cars in the recently corresponding week.

Explanation of the shortage is partly a light crop, in an American market that is diverting a great quantity of orange juice for the armed forces of the U. S. A. It was also stated that only trickles of oranges will reach this market until the Navels are due in November.

And as for bananas—remember we have a nice lot of good looking pears.

No Grape Fruit

J. A. Jebson, manager of the Mason Stores, had just telephoned Toronto when the Examiner called this morning.

"I have been talking to one of the biggest dealers in the trade," he said. "They inform me they are receiving only one car load of oranges a week, as compared with fifteen or more cars in normal conditions, and that will allow them to allot one case a week to customers. They told me this scarcity would continue to the end of the present season.

And they don't expect any grapefruit for at least six weeks. In the meantime we have no bananas. We are getting from the States new grapes that used to sell at two pounds for 25 cents. The trade will have to get 40 cents a pound to handle them.

There are also some sweet potatoes, but that price also is high, and for the present we have to fall back on our own domestic fruits."

LONDON, Sept. 1—(CP Cable).—Wing Cmdr. J. E. Johnson, English leader of a Canadian Spitfire fighter wing, today was awarded his fourth decoration of the war—a bar to the Distinguished Service Order.

Seymour Man Celebrates 92nd Birthday

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 1 (EN —Twelve years ago William Mundle of Seymour township observed his 80th birthday by staking a field of oats on the hundred acre farm he still owns five miles north east of here, and this year when his 92nd milestone rolled around he was still hale and rejoicing in the act that he had not lost the vote he cast in the Provincial election on August 4. William Mundle is one of the oldest men in this district and he retired after a lifetime spent on the farm feeling that he had worked long enough and that someone else could take over. It was just fifteen years ago that he walked across the field to the adjoining farm of Hector Arnold and announced that he was finished and since then he has spent part of his time with friends in Havelock during the winter months, returning each year to pass his birthday on the old homestead which holds many cherished memories.

Parents Born in Ireland

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Mundle came out to this country from County Derry in Northern Ireland more than a century ago and broke the land in that section of Seymour with a pair of oxen. There they raised a family of six sons and two daughters all of whom with the exception of William the oldest and a sister now living in Kingston, are dead. 'Bill' as he is known to neighbors, is a bachelor, a choice he made early in life and, which he still maintains is a good one. His whole life has been wrapped up in farming and as a result he never considered it worth while to travel much beyond Campbellford and the township of Seymour. His longest trip was made after he had reached eighty, and then it was an 85 mile trip to Kingston to visit his sister.

WILLIAM MUNDLE

Walking a couple of miles to school and back each day and a four mile hike twice a week to get the mail at the post office which was then located in James Finche's house, provided all the travel anybody wanted in those days, but like many another hardy pioneer he thrived on the diet of plain food and hard work. Even before he had finished schooling, which meant the public school entrance, he was his father's chief assistant and he can recall the days spent in the field with his dad when the two of them lit their pipes together from the same piece of punk.

Life-long Conservative

Though he rarely found time for any interests apart from farming, Mr. Mundle has always been keenly interested in politics and describes himself as a life long Conservative. Nor did he ever take a great amount of time off for church affairs which in those days formed the centre of the social life of the community. His time was more often spent in reading the weekly paper or in planning something for his farm. He still believes it is more important how you live than how often you go to church.

Mr. Mundle attributes his long life to two things—plenty of hard work and moderation in eating. A man slight of stature, he never weighed more than 150 pounds, Mr. Mundle believes that over eating causes many people to die before their time. He has always enjoyed good health, reads without glasses and has hardly a trace of deafness. When questioned about the war, news of which he follows daily both over the air and in the press, Mr. Mundle expressed the view that it would end with unexpected suddenness within the next year.

Churchill Bids Adieu To Quebec

OTTAWA, Sept. 1.—(CP).—Prime Minister Churchill's last words to Canadians as his train pulled out of Wolfe Cove at Quebec last evening for Washington were "God bless you all," Prime Minister Mackenzie King told reporters on his arrival here at noon to-day.

"And I know he meant it," Mr. King said.

"Both Mr. and Mrs. Churchill were obviously and sincerely delighted with their stay in Canada.

"And the same was true, I am certain, of President Roosevelt who was good enough to come here for a one-day visit a week ago."

"I think the people of Canada are very proud to have had the opportunity to extend their hospitality to the President and Mr. Churchill, and particularly happy that the visit enabled Mr. Churchill to get a little rest and change," said Mr. King.

"Not that he did not do plenty of work—but it was work under different and restful conditions."

He said President Roosevelt had told him last week that his day in Ottawa was "one of his happiest," and several times had spoken feelingly of the hospitality and friendliness of the people who greeted him at his every public appearance.

William Stark Is Acquitted

William Stark, a life long citizen of Gravenhurst, who recently moved to Peterborough with his family, was acquitted in police court in Gravenhurst on a charge in connection with a floor rug which Mrs. A. Findley of Brock Street, Oshawa, claimed was hers. Mrs. Findley charged that her tourist house on the Highway North of Gravenhurst had been broken into on December 11th, 1939, and the rug in question had disappeared together with other articles of household furnishings. For some reason, which, was not disclosed at the trial, Mrs. Findley together with the police made a search of Mr. Stark's home on Aug. 11, 1943, under a search warrant. Mrs. Findley claimed that a rug which was on Mr. Stark's floor in this Peterborough home was the rug which had disappeared in 1939.

The rug was an ordinary Axminster of a common pattern. Mrs. Findley stated that there was no silencing pad belonging to or under her rug. She admitted however, that there was such a pad under the rug when Mr. Stark's home was searched. Mrs. Findley's evidence of identification of the rug was that she knew the feel of the rug by stepping on it and that the pattern was similar to that of her own. She went further and said that she could definitely identify the rug by two large and unusually shaped stains on the under side of it, the stains having been made before she took the rug to her residence in Gravenhurst.

On cross-examination both she and the police identified the pad which was produced by defence counsel as the one which was under the rug when the rug was removed and seized from Mr. Stark's home. The pad was further identified by a former housekeeper of the accused as the pad which was purchased together with the rug in the Fall of 1940. At the request of the defence counsel the pad was placed on the floor and the rug was placed over it to conform with the original position of the same as it was found in Stark's home. The attention of the court and the witnesses was then drawn to the fact that the stains on the under part of the rug corresponded in position, colour, shape and nature to that on the pad. Redmond Thomas, K. C., the presiding magistrate, in giving his reasons for judgement said, he found that Mrs. Findley was without doubt wrong in her identification and that the rug was certainly not hers. He further held that Mrs. Findley erred to such an extent that Mr. Stark, the accused could not be required to give an explanation of where or under what circumstances he purchased the same and he was honorably discharged and the rug returned to him. E. W. Clairmont, K. C., Crown Attorney, was prosecutor. W. J. Fair, Peterborough, Defence Counsel.

Long Range Guns Pound England

LONDON, Sept. 1 (CP)—German long range guns on the French coast opened fire at 8 a.m. today and shell warnings sounded in areas on the British southeast coast a short time later.

The shelling lasted about a half hour, with the Germans lobbing over a steady stream of two-gun salvoes. Buildings in the Dover area were shaken by explosions.

The firing ended abruptly when R.A.F. planes streaked out across the English Channel. Shortly after the planes disappeared observers saw flames rising on the French cliffs betwen Cape Gris Nez and Calais.

During the night firing was heard in the Channel and German guns in the Boulogne area went into action.

Body Of Archbishop Lies In Hotel Dieu

KINGSTON, Sept. 1.— Arrangements for the funeral of His Grace Most Rev. M. J. O'Brien, Archbishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Kingston, who died on Monday, will not be completed until a Vicar Capitular is appointed to take charge of the Diocese until another archbishop is appointed by the Pope.

Thursday evening the body will be taken to St. Mary's Cathedral where it will rest in state until the funeral services Saturday morning. Old Magazines Sold By Boys For War Victims

Another wartime use for old magazines has come to light through the work of a group of young boys, who first set to work to gather a number of these together, and then stood on the street corners and sold them, so that the money could be used to help the victims of air raids over Britain through the city and district fund which operates solely for that purpose.

This group consisted of Jackie Stevenson, Ronny Wallace, Ray Harris, Bobby Beggs, Allan and Gerald Bennett, Raymonde Seabrooke and Malcolm Chambers, and one could not help but reflect what a fine way it was for them to conclude their summer holidays with, for the $5.32 they raised will be used to do good for others, and who knows but what their work will give inspiration to other similar groups to go and do likewise.

There is also a real lesson in thrift taught by this, which is something that the boys could not fail but grasp, and this too may stand them in good stead later on in life.

One personal gift from "A Friend" is included in today's list, keeping that part of the fund's activities alive, serving as a reminder that the fund affords the facilities whereby a personal gift may go on their behalf direct to London, from which there are no deductions for management or secretarial duties, these like the gift being given as a contribution to the cause.

Empress Box Nets $6.55

The only penny box in the city that has been collected on a weekly basis is once again recorded today, although on this occasion it represents two weeks since it last appeared. The box at the Empress Hotel ranks among the leaders in this type of activity for the fund, its donation of $6.55 appearing today being definite evidence of the great help it has been to the fund ever since the boxes were first placed in circulation.

Draw for Rabbits

Recently, W. J. Welch, tonsorial artist on Hunter street won a rug donated by the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co. Ltd. to the fund as part of the Gladiolus and Aquarium Show effort, which now has prompted him to offer the choice of a pair of New Zealand White Giants or American Checker Giant Rabbits for a draw, for which he is also sponsoring the sale of tickets at 10 cents each or three for 25 cents and these may be secured at his place of business on Hunter street near the Post Office.

Hay Fever Time Sees Victims Comparing Notes

Pity the victims of hay fever these sunny warm days with moisture in the aid and the desired frost probably undue until October.

The Examiner listened to two of them comparing doleful and kerchiefed notes this morning on their similar and respective plights that stir sympathy and tend to turn thumbs down on gleaming golden rod and the shabby ragweed.

"I didn't get a wink of sleep last night until half past five this morning," said one of them. "I was up and down all night, but it was just prolonged misery. I would try to get to sleep, but it was no use, and I'd get up and have a smoke because I couldn't think of anything else, and that's the way it went until almost morning."

And you ask wonderingly, how long does this go on, and the answer was simply "until the first hard frost." Most people are hoping for a long and pleasant autumn, with the incidence of frost delayed until the morning glories are weary of blooming and the pumpkins are overgrown. But, not the hay fever fraternity. Cold weather can't come too soon for them.

"Days like this with heat and a feeling of rain somewhere in the vicinity, hot and humid weather, that is the combination that intensifies our trouble," said one of the two who were apparently finding some weak comfort in their common affliction. "They say there are ten million hay fever victims in the United States. To get any relief I would have to go away up to Sault Ste. Marie or Port Arthur. And that's where I wish I was. Haliburton?—not enough altitude. I'd have to go higher than that."

Orlando Fights 3 Constables, Wrecks Home

When Nicholas Orlando arrived at his home on George street early this morning and proceeded to break up the furniture the disturbance awakened all the neighbors in the block, according to the police report.

Officer John Stevenson was called and when Orlando resisted arrest reinforcements in the person of Officers Reg McMillan and Edmison arrived on the scene. Police state that there was a lively battle before Orlando was overpowered and handcuffed. In the course of the fight Officer Stevenson was kicked in the stomach and leg and Edmison was struck in the face. A police baton had to be used to subdue the man.

This morning in police court Orlando pleaded guilty to creating a disturbance and to another charge of assaulting Constable Stevenson while the latter was in the execution of his duty.

"I think this man should be remanded for a few days," said Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. "He has been acting peculiarly. I am told that he started in breaking up the furniture in his house without any provocation whatever. Companions who were with him during the evening say that he had not been drinking and yet the only explanation the police could get from him as to why he was breaking things up was that he did not like the furniture."

Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., remanded Orlando until Friday morning for sentence.

A group of lads, self-appointed construction overseers, immediately adopted the family, taking the squirrels home in a blanket and feeding them on warm milk from a baby's bottle. The five are flourishing.

"She Never Wraps Her Kitchen Waste."

You are right, Mrs. Housewife, failure to wrap kitchen waste should be the subject of comment.

Good housekeepers in Peterborough never fail to strain carefully and wrap their kitchen waste in yesterday's newspaper. Thereby they comply with a City By-law and at the same time help remove the menace of flies.

Frankly, too, wet and unwrapped kitchen waste will not burn in the City incinerator.

So housewives when you strain and wrap kitchen waste you are proving yourselves good housekeepers and good citizens. It only takes a minute and it is important.

Mary E. Collins Marries G. E. Herrington

A pretty wedding was solemnized in the Church of the Sacred Heart on Monday, August 30, when Mary Eileen, eldest daughter of Mrs. Wm. Collins, and the late William Collins, became the bride of Cpl. George Clifford Herrington, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Herrington, Cornwall, Ont. The nuptial mass was solemnized by Rev. Capt. Dr F. M. Grant, D. E. They wore floor length gowns of pink and blue respectively, with tulle caps and fingertip veils of blue net. They carried twin nosegays of pink Talisman roses.

Cpl. Joseph Hayes acted as best man, and Mr. Jack Condon, cousin of the bride was usher.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at Hooper's Palm Rooms, where the bride's mother received in a turquois blue crepe dress, trimmed with black sequins, wearing black accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Herrington, mother of the groom, also received in a redingote of flowered sheer, with white accessories, and a corsage of roses.

Later the happy couple left on a trip to Ottawa and points east. For travelling the bride chose a two-piece suit of brown wool, a pair of mink furs, and brown accessories.

The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls, to the bridesmaid and maid-of-honor gold lockets, and to the best man a billfold.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, September 2

A REVOLUTIONARY turn in events may project the affairs as well as the life and all its objectives and interests into new highs of adventure, romance and experience. A sudden visitation may have dramatic, thrilling or far-reaching effect on the future life and its fortunes. There may be swift action, quick moves, new enterprise, all under exceptional stimuli for achievement, recognition and rich returns, albeit having many annoyances and menaces calling for complete poise and discretion. Sign papers cautiously. Seek favors and promotion, cultivate powerful friends.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a period of great adventures, dramatic achievements and far reaching joys and crises, which may turn the life into fresh grooves of happiness, accomplishment and approbation. Exceptional events precipitate this, with much enterprise, initiative, constructive responses to high stimuli in the physical, mental, emotional and business affairs. Under the stress and commotion be careful not to sign papers carelessly or open other channels to deception or fraud. Keep poised and sane, but let the gods dispense their breath-taking benefices.

A child born on this day may be blessed with extraordinary talents, inventive genius and ability.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

Question: Do you happen to have a recipe for a pickle made with thinly sliced small cakes, about the dill size. I have tasted it and cannot seem to find a recipe anywhere. When the pickle is removed from the jar, and let stand for several hours, or less, it looks somewhat like an "Icicle",— has a coating on that resembles an icicle.

I have looked up recipes for icicle pickle, ut they do not get this sort of frost on when taken out of jar, as I have tried them. Would you please let me have a reply. I have a recipe of yours, from a couple of years ago, called Crystal Pickle, made with green tomatoes.

I got your recipe for pies last summer made with honey and corn syrup and it is surely a grand recipe, have passed it on to scores of friends, so I do not hesitate to try any recipe you put in the paper. I may say that I have used this recipe with great success with rhubarb, and the dehydrated apples.

I have put up beans as per your recipe in the last paper, with a brine. Do you know if cauliflower and peas can be put up with same method and be successfully kept for a period of months? Mrs. Hill.

Answer: Pickles that are packed cold will "sweat" when exposed to air and I think you are referring to the following product:

Cold Pickles.

Mix together 1 gallon vinegar, ½ cup salt, 3 cups sugar, and 1 cup finely chopped horseradish. Wash and slice 1 peck 4-inch cucumbers, and place them in a 3 gallon crock. Pour your vinegar mixture over them. Cover with a plate. Place a weight on plate. Permit the pickles to ripen for several days before serving them.

Yes, cauliflower can be put up with the same method of brining as Beans, but peas are a differtn story. There will be no shortage of peas—as a matter of fact the dehydration methods perfected for peas are so successful I would advice you to use all your peas fresh and rely on the dehydrated supply that we are likely to get for winter use.

Question: First I would like to thank you for help received in the past and to give you an easily made ice cream recipe.

Ice Cream Recipe.

(Contributed by Mrs. Wm. Gray).

Take a pudding powder any flavor and make up as directed but ase only 1¼ cups milk and add ¼ cup supar. After it is cooked add 1 teaspoon gelatine disovled in ¼ cup milk and 1½ cups light cream. I use the top of the milk. Put in electric refrigerator tray until partly frozen. Then put in bowl and beat with rotary beater. Then return to tray. In about 30 minutes stir with spoon in tay then feeze. This is very good and uses little of rationed products.

Now my problem is this: Have you a recipe for a sweet relish? Lats winter I bought—Sweet Relish at my grocery store and we liked it very much. This summer I thought I would like to make a similar recipe. It seems to be made of cucmbers, red and green sweet peppers and onions ground fine. Would yo ualso send tested recipe for canned dill picklkes? What makes canned dills go soft? What will overcome this?

Have you any recipes for cakes, cookies and desserts using honey. We will have upwards of 200 lbs. of extracted honey this Fall and perhaps some comb honey which we like with toast. Mrs. William Gray.

Answer: I am sending you my sheets of honey recipes.

I think the following recipe for relish is as close as you will come to the commercial relish you refer to unless you care to make and taste and make and taste until you match the flavor yourself— for as you doubtless know the formula you you refer to has been very carefully worked out and would be next to impossible to reproduce in a household.

Sweet Relish.

Chop or slice ½ peck small green cucumbers, seed and slice 2 sweet green peppers and 2 sweet red peppers; skin and chop or slice 4 medium sized onions. Let these 4 ingredients stand in brine made of 1 cup salt and 9 cups water for 12 hours. Drain well. Bring to boiling point 1 quart cider vinegar and 4½ cups sugar and boil in it the whole spices; 2½ tablespoons whole mixed spices, ½ tablespoon celery seed, ½ tablespoon mustard seed—all tied in a bag. Add the drained vegetables and when they have boiled 5 minutes remove the spices and bottle relish in pint jars that have been sterilized. Add sterile rubbers, tops and rings.

Pickles soften (1) from overcooking, (2) from too strong vinegar, (3) from chipped granite kettles releasing destructive chemicals into the vinegar. A pinch of alum in each quart of pickles aids in keeping them crisp.

Dill Pickles.

Sterilize 4 1-quart jars. Place in each jar 1 clove garlic (if desired) 6 peppercorns, 1 clove, 1 flower of dill. Scrub well ½ peck 3 or 4-inch cucumbers and pack them closely in the jars. Bring to the boiling point 1 quart vinegar, 2 quarts water and 1 cup salt. Fill the pars to overflowing wtih this liquid. Seal jars. Pickles should "ripen" 7 days before using.

GIRLS GET GOOD ADVICE BUT FOLLOW OTHER KINDS.

Going With Strange Man is Wrong; Sad Fate Lies Ahead of Them.

If the poet had been a mother with teen-age daughters he would never have written that the saddest words of tongue or pen are these — it might have been. He would know that the words of doom which strike terror to every mother's seart are "all the girls are doing it." For when Maud says that mother knows from experience that commands, pleading, reasoning, and arguing with the daughter are worst than useless—a mere waste of breath. For Maud's standards of tastes, manners and moral are formed by kids of her own set, and what they do is more potent with her than mother, Emily Post and the Ten Commandments combined.

If all other girls are plastering their faces with cosmetics until they are painted like a barn door Maud lays a heavy hand on the rouge pot and lip stick. If all other girls are wearing sloppy Joe sweaters and dirty shoes Maud goes about looking like something that has just been salvaged from the bundles for the poor house. If mother refuses to let Maud go to parties during the week, the girl regards herself as a martyr and threatens to run away from home tyranny.

Perhaps ordinarily these things do not matter much. Maud will outgrow the copycat age and pass into the "being original" phase. She will hold wierd beliefs and wear freak clothes. Then, if God is merciful to her, she will abandon this pose in time and settle down into a sensible, sane woman. So, maybe mothers are justified in not wearing themselves out combatting the follies of adolescence.

But these are not ordinary times. We are living in war days when the whole world is upset, everybody is more or less hysterical, old customs and ways of life have been changed, and thousands of inhibitions which kept us walking the straight and narrow road have been swept away. And so mamas cannot deal with their teen-age girls as their own mothers dealt with them. They cannot take it for granted that Maud will recover from the follies in which she is indulging as she got over the measles in her childhood with no harm done.

In particular it is a time every mother should keep a ceaseless watch over her girl children to see that no harm befalls them, that they do not stumble into the pits which their ignorance and childishness dig for them. Yet never before have so many mothers shut their eyes to the duty that lies closest to them. Never before have so many parents literally thrown their little young tender girls to the wolves to be devoured.

Women who are bored with the monotony of domestic life, tired of cooking three meals a day, getting children off to school, and who long for change, the excitement of being in the rush of things and working in crowds, and who want more money to spend on clothes and beauty treatments, have cast all sense of responsibility to the winds and gone by thousands and hundreds of thousands into war work. They have practically abandoned their homes and thrown their chidren on the streets to shift for themselves as best they can.

This is bad enough for small children, but it is fatal for adolescent girls who are at that time of life when they are the most boy-crazy; avid for excitement and amusement; have the passion of women and the judgment of babes, and need most of all a mother's ceaseless care and watchfulness. Yet everywhere we see these little undeveloped, unsophisticated young things hanging around army camps picking up sailors and soldiers on the streets, going off with strange men joyriding in automobiles, going God knows where, drinking and carousing with men they will never see again, their feet set on the road ot hell, as the Bible puts it, almost before they have learned to walk alone.

This is the great tragedy of the war— these little amateur streetwalkers who come from decent families and already outnumber professional fallen women, but who could have been kept pure and innocent if their mothers had not laid down on their jobs. But mothers were away driving rivets, strutting around in a uniform, or handing out cookies and serving coffee in canteens, while the girls were drinking cocktails with pick-ups in saloons.

And mother can't alibi herself for neglect or her tenn-age daughters by falling back on the old slogan—"all the girls are doing it." For it will make no difference to her how other girls act when her own daughter comes home with her life wrecked before it has fairly begun. Nor ca nshe excuse her failure to do a mother's duty in regards to her girl by calling it patriotism for no woman can do a greater service to her country than by bringing up daughters who will be fit mothers for the coming generation. Many women lie awake at night wondering what dangers are befalling their sons on some distant battlefield. They might better be thinking about their little ignorant, blundering girls. For the worst than can happen a boy is that he may be killed but something can befall a girl which is far worse than any death.

Bancroft Girl Wrecks Jail

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 1. — It may have been the excitement of her first visit to the city ,but police were convinced it was too much of the demon liquor, so yesterday 20-year-old Zella Cooney of Bancroft, 85 miles north of here, appeared in city police court on charges of intoxication and the wilful destruction of city property.

Zella lost her bout with booze, fell into the clutches of the law, gave exuberant vent to her feelings by wrecking the plumbing in the women's cell block at police station and generally caused riot and ruction after being placed in close confinement on a drunk charge.

Yesterday she was unable to pay a fine for being intoxicated and was given four days in jail. The cost of the damage to city property amounted to $30, so Magistrate Lloyd reserved sentence for one week in this matter in order to give accused an opportunity to make restitution.

"I wish I was back in Bancroft," lamented Zella, after being told what day of the week it was.

Marcus Island Now Under Fire

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP)—A Japanese broadcast claimed that United States warships and "many planes" attacked installations on Marcus Island, 1,200 miles from Tokyo, at dawn today.

The island is 900 miles northwest of Wake Island, on a line from Wake to Tokyo.

A Japanese communique, broadcast by Tokyo and recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, declared "many enemy planes raided Minamitou Shima (Marcus) at dawn today, and the enemy shelled the land by naval guns."

The broadcast warned the island is close to Tokyo and "the enemy could have raided the mainland if he wanted to, so the people of Japan must further solidify the defence against the enemy."

Marcus Island was occupied by the Japanese in 1899.

This was the second attack on Marcus Island. The first took place on March 4, 1942, when an American force struck at Japanese installations there.

IN MEMORIAM

EDWARDS— In loving memory of our son, Garry, who passed away one year ago to-day.

A little lamb too sweet and pure
Came upon this earth to roam,
But the angels came and called him,
And claimed Garry as their own.
Two little hands are resting,
Garry's loving heart is still.
Our little son we loved so well
Is waiting with the angels, o'er the hill.
Sad and sudden was the angels call,
So dearly was Garry loved by all,
Sweet memories of our son today
Well deep, within our hearts, forever stay.

— Sadly missed by Mother, Dorothy Edwards, now in Windsor, Ont., and grandparents of this city. Cpl. Edwards, J. G., is serving overseas, R.C.A.F.

in the seventh. Magee opened with a single to centre, Little was safe on Eakins' fumble of his bunt and Trewin reached first, filling the bases, when Playford dropped his fly to centre after a run. Vern. McLaughlin who had replaced the injured O'Reilly forced Magee at the plate on a roller to Eakins and Little was picked off third when he loafed going back to the bag. However, Dalton singled to centre to score Trewin and Hall ended the frame by forcing Dalton at second on a roller by Giardino.

The Colts got their final run in the first of the ninth, Magee doubled to centre. Little doubled over second to score Magee and went to third when the throwin got away from Giardino. Trewin smashed a drive to left which McNabb snared and Little going in standing up was out at the plate when he tried to score after the catch. V. McLaughlin walked but Dalton popped to Mowry.

After scoring in the first Genelecs were threatening only occasionally. Holmes got their first hit in the third and after Eakins had flied out Giardino walked but McNabb fanned and Tucker forced Holmes at third.

In the fifth Mowry hit a slow ball to centre for a base. Holmes flied to McLaughlin in centre, Eakins walked and after Giardino had gone down on strikes, Whiteley passed McNabb, filling the bases. However, he got out of the hole when Trewin hit weakly to the box for the third out. "Preem" had little trouble after that.

Popular Girls Know Card Games

"Slapjack" Is Rough, But Fun!

Friends are grateful today for casual, informal fun. Be ready to entertain one, two or more with such popular card games as "Michigan," "Russian Bank" and "Slapjack."

"Slapjack" is a simple card game but full of wild suspense. Two players, with a pack face down between them, take turns flipping up cards and laying them on the table—fast!

A Jack turns up? SLAP! BANG! You both try to be first to slap it—you both miss—the game goes crazy!

For a group, stunt games are especially fun. Here's one—"Uh Uh Woof Woof"!

In time to a hot, fast radio tune, you all count "One, two, three, four, five, six, uh eight, nine woof, eleven, etc.," in unison. All sevens and multiples of seven are "uh," and all multiples of ten are "woof." When a player makes a mistake he must drop out!

In our 32-page booklet are 47 games and stunts—for two, three or more—to make you a welcome guest, an appreciated hostess. Includes card games, pencil-and-paper and nonsense games, puzzlers, and games of skill.

For your copy of Card Games and Stunts send 15 cents in coin or stamps to the Home Service Department, Peterborough Examiner. Be sure to write plainly your Name, Address and Name of Booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

"SMOTHER PLAY" PRETTY

ONE OF THE rarest plays in the game is also one of the most beautiful—what advanced cardsmen call the "smother." It is used to trap a hostile trump which seems so adequately guarded that it cannot be captured. In its operation, one defender is obliged to lead a suit which can be trumped by everybody else, with the last player on the trick having the highest trump plus a card of some other suit. If the opponent who plays just before him puts on the guarded honor, that top one kills it; if he puts on a smaller trump, the trick is won by an intermediate trump used by the second player on the trick.

West's obvious lead of the spade K was made, followed by the A, which South ruffed. Going after the diamonds, he sent the Q through, and was brought up with a start when East discarded a spade. Now it appeared as if a trick must be lost to the well-guarded K, as well as one in hearts. If that happened, he was down, as a spade already had been dropped.

Study, however, showed South a chance for the "smother play," if the opponents' distribution in the other suits was right. Essaying it, South scored three clubs with the last taken in dummy, ruffed out the dummy's final spade, took in the heart K and A, and then led the heart 9 from dummy, hoping East would have to take it. He did, and had nothing to return but black cards, of which everybody else was void. He chose a club.

South played his diamond J, retaining the 10. What could West do? With the diamond K-8, if he played the K, dummy's A would kill it and South's 10 take the final trick. So he played the 8, whereupon the heart 6 was tossed from dummy, the diamond J holding the trick. The diamond A then, of course, took the final trick.

Beaufighters Blast Coastal Ships

By ALAN RANDAL

LONDON, Sept. 1 (CP)—Coastal Comand of the Royal Air Force has developed its destructive technique for sorties against enemy coastal convoys by forming a wing of Beaufighters.

As in most coastal command squadrons Canadians are serving in these Beaufighter outfits.

These specially trained squadrons have been operating in coastal command for some months but only now is it permitted to mention their activities. They were decided upon prior to last spring.

Up to that time enemy shipping in the North Sea was attacked by bombing aircraft and although many ships were sunk or damaged the transport of good was not sufficiently hindered to satisfy coastal command authorities. So they turned to the Beaufighters.

The wing's first strike was on a convoy off the Dutch coast where several enemy ships were hit by torpedoes, bombs, cannon and machine-gun fire.

Protected from air interception by squadrons of fighters, the Beaufighters sweep in at low level to bomb, gun and torpedo their targets. Their work has been so effective that the number of enemy convoys has been reduced by one half and one recent convoy of two merchantmen had as many as nine escort vessels.

The German reply to the Beaufighter wing was to provide fighter cover for their ships but lately they have been losing aircraft as well as ships when important war cargoes have been on the move.

"There is evidence of confusion and delays at the ports of loading and discharge," said the air ministry.

Kitchener Man Goes To Jail

KITCHENER, Ont., Sept. 1 (CP)—Twenty minutes in jail and fine of $5 and costs was the price paid today by A. S. Gingrich, Bridgeport Dairy proprietor, when he appeared in police court charged with selling milk in Kitchener without a licence.

The brief jail term was result of him refusing to answer City Solicitor Murray Bray's question as to how many Kitchener customers he had. Magistrate F. Watt of Guelph ordered that the question be answered, but Gingrich remained silent.

"Then you'll be confined to jail until you see fit to answer the question," the bench declared.

After 20 minutes in the city jail, the dairyman was ready with the answer. It was 12 customers. He asserted his solicitor had advised him not to answer such a question, his solicitor was not in the courtroom.

British Hospitality Reveals Church Unity

LONDON, Sept. 1 — (CP). — Rev. Dr. William Barrow Pugh, chairman of the General Protestant Commission on United States Army and Navy Chaplains, to-day paid tribute to the welcome extended to American soldiers by British churches.

"I would like to impress upon the people of America the fact that the churches of the British Isles have opened their doors to all our troops," he said in an interview.

"The rectors and ministers have gone to our chaplains and officers and told them the churches were theirs to use while they were in Britain. It is a demonstration of church unity without parallel."

Scenes Before Allies Captured Sicily

Oil is a precious part of the Allies' highly-mechanized armies, and (LEFT) a detachment of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, working from a gasoline dump, prepare a shipment to the front in Sicily of 45-gallon barrels of oil. It's reminiscent of the days of the old town crier (RIGHT) as the crowds in Valguarners stand patiently while the chief of police reads the proclamation to the people of the town. A British civil authority officer and a captain of the First Canadian Division stand beside the chief as the proclamation is read. (Canadian Army Overseas Photos).

Kiska Troops Take One Prisoner Victim Gives In Without Fight

By H. L. JONES
Canadian Press War Correspondent

KISKA HARBOUR, Kiska Island, Sept. 1 — (CP). — (Delayed)—To "Charlie Kiska" goes the dubious distinction of being the only Japanese taken prisoner on Kiska Island.

And even "Charlie" probably can't claim any pure Japanese blood and he's not exactly a prisoner but more of a pet now. For "Charlie" is a brown and black young Alsatian police dog, one of a number the Japanese apparently were training and which they left behind when they evacuated the island.

I found "Charlie Kiska" at the camp of a number of Canadian boys from an Ontario unit at a Japanese shrine overlooking Kiska harbor. He ran at me barking.

But the Canadian boys assured me he only wanted to play. Then L. Cpl. D. W. Granger of Guelph, Ont., told me how they captured "Charlie" in a Jap dugout, enticing him out with a bit of sugar.

"We weren't certain when we first came in here whether there were any Japs around or not," said Granger.

Quite a Scare.

"We heard Charlie barking in this Jap dugout and he scared hell out of us. We felt sure there must be someone in there so we surrounded the place and advanced with grenades in one hand and guns in the other."

Those of the company making the "capture" besides Granger included Maj. C. M. MacMillan, Lieut. A. S. Graydon, Sgt.-Maj. E. and Fus. Andy Buziak. all of Lon- S. W. Hunter, Fus. Keith Elliott don, Ont., L.Cpl. L. Ferraro, Fus. Tony Alvino, both of Guelph, Fus. Robert H. Nunn, Tillsonburg, Fus. Ted Delbrasky, Windsor. Ont., and Sgmn. Charles Maisonville, Windsor.

"Charlie can't understand English very well yet," said Maj. MacMillan as he tried to make the dog come to him to have his picture taken. Finally the sugar was brought out again successfully.

What will happen to Charlie? He'll probably go back to Canada as the mascot of "C" company, after which he was named on a "C for Charlie" basis.

Mess Room Chatter

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 1—(CP)—Recent arrival in Britain is PO. L. Connery, formerly a reporter on the Windsor, Ont., Star and Ottawa Journal, and also an ex-officio member of the Bowles' Coffee Club where he and others of the capital's newspaper fraternity used to gather daily to give the mayor, and occasionally a council member, sage advice on how the newspapermen thought the town should be run.

Lance has been here before but this time he is just back from the Middle East. As a navigator he helped ferry a Wellington aircraft there and said he enjoyed Cairo and also the trip back to Britain in a Liberator—passenger stuff. About the air force in the Middle East, he said, "I didn't see much but it looked as though out there in the desert maintenance is the big problem."

Like the navy men, these flying boys get around too. Nobody knows that better than FO. Bob Buckham of Brandon and Winnipeg. Since he enlisted in 1941 he has seen a lot of Canada, Northern Ireland, England, West Africa, the Middle East, India and now North Africa, where he flies a general reconnaissance Wellington. Two of his crewmates have been with him since his days in Canada. They are FO. Dick Fanton of Vancouver and Sgt. R. Viscount of Toronto. Sgt. M. Paton of Sydney, N.S. joined them in Northern Ireland.

In the same squadron with them now are FO Clayton Abell of Melville, Sask., Sgt. Paul Vignon, Montreal, and others. In the same theatre they operate in are Canadians flying Kittyhawks. These fighter-bomber men include FO. R. Bruce Stewart of Montreal, Flt. Sgt. Harold Snelgrove of Toronto and Flt. Sgt. Artie Shaw of Windsor, Ont.

Finds Super Gas

Dr. Gustaf Egloff, director of research at Universal Oil Products Company, Chicago, Ill., revealed the discovery of a super-gas that will boost airplane engine power 50 per cent. The new fuel developed under personal direction of Dr. Egloff will not only increase the speed of planes but will also enable fighter planes to make virtually perpendicular flights, thereby giving Allied pilots a powerful edge over enemy planes.

Ganaraska River Watershed In Spotlight

TORONTO, Sept. 1.—(CP).—The appointment of an Ontario Conservation Board, composed of scientifically-trained men from within and outside the government, and representing all the sciences included in a complete conservation program, has been recommended as the first step in a rehabilitation program in the Ganaraska watershed in Durham county.

This recommendation and other were included in reports from Federal and Provincial committees which were set up to investigate how the watershed — 103 square miles lying north and west of Port Hope—could be brought back to its former condition, possibly as a post-war rehabilitation project.

Once heavily wooded, the watershed of the Ganaraska river contaied valuable agricultural ground and forests. Because of extensive lumbering, however, erosion caused many acres of agricultural ground to literally blow away, caused annual floods in Port Hope and caused district wild life to become practically extinct.

Dane Refuses To Form Government

Nazi Commander Baffled By Cold Attitude

By JOHN H. COLBURN,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 2 —(AP)— Eric Scavenius, Danish Prime Minister who resigned his post when Germany clamped a military dictatorship on Denmark last week-end, has declined an offer by the Nazis to form a new Government, Danish refugees said to-day.

Scavenius, one of the few Danish political leaders to escape arrest following Sunday's bloddy revolt, had been asked to head a new cabinet by Gen. Hermann Von Hannecken, Nazi military dictator. Other members of the cabinet who resigned in a body with Scavenius, refused even to meet the Germans.

Hannecken is expected to explore further possibility of establishing a Danish Government. He is reported to be anxious to have the Danes handle the civil affairs of the country with the Nazis retaining the power, through martial law, to punish saboteurs and suppress disorders.

More Sabotage.

Sabotage was said to be continuing, though an a scale smaller than that of a week ago, and industrial slowdowns were reported prevailed throughout the country despite all German efforts to speed up production.

One refugee asserted that while Hannecken was in control of the military dictatorship, Warner Best, German Minister to Denmark, was still at the head of the civil authority. He said Danish newspapers editors who had been placed under arrest were released and allowed to resume operations under a strict Nazi censorship only after they had agreed to follow Best's instructions.

Hannecken's reported attempt to win over Scavenius followed by a few hours the resignation of Johan C. W. Kruse from his post as Danish Minister to Sweden. Kruce declared

Axis Sniper Misses Munro First Day On Sicily Shore

By ROSS MUNRO—Canadian Press War Correspondent

July 9.—We're somewhere in the Malta-Tripoli-Tunis triangle, at noon we rendezvous with the rest of the invasion fleet. Sight of this armada is unbelievable. Grim grey patches of convoys on every side. Close in to us are hundreds of troopers and battleships, cruisers and other escort vessels weave among us. Fleets of tank landing craft and cargo ships keep joining us from African ports. There's the American convoy abeam. Wonder when the air attack starts. What a target this is! Must try to get some sleep. Malta Spitfire boys over us. Now we can see Malta. It's 50 miles to Pachino from here. Everyone getting keyed up a little.

Sicilian Diary

Here is Ross Munro's diary of the Sicilian campaign: the sidelights and personal impressions from the day before the landing at Pachino to the break-through in Mount Etna line at Aderno. To-day's story covers the first half of the 30-day campaign. The diary will be concluded to-morrow.

We get a big dinner at 7 p.m. and get kit ready.

After darkness the sea settles down remarkably but still heavy swell. Bombers droning over convoys—ours, I hope. Tracers slowly reaching into sky in direction of Sicily. We are told the operation definitely is on.

July 10.—Soldiers shaking hands trying not to be too dramatic begin to file up to boats preparing to leave the mother ship. Can see reflection in the sky ahead — Pachino town blazing from R.A.F. incendiaries. So far so good. Bunch of us get into landing craft. Kiska Was Found Heavily Armed

By NORMAN BELL,
Associated Press War Correspondent

AN ADVANCED ALEUTIAN BASE, Sept. 2 —(AP) — If the Japanese had fought at Kiska with the weapons they abandoned in hasty flight, they undoubtedly would have killed many more Allied soldiers than fell in the conquest of Attu.

A check of the material left behind at Kiska showed the wily warriors of the Rising Sun got away with little more than their skins in their first non-belligerent retreat of the war.

Kiska, found deserted when United States and Canadian amphibious troops swarmed ashore from their landing craft August 15-16, was five times as heavily fortified as was Attu, which was taken after 20 days of bloody fighting in May.

The abandoned materials, including machine-guns, heavy artillery, anti-aircraft guns, power plants, communication lines and rubber tires, were left virtually intact. The Japanese didn't even destroy their ammunition dumps.

1400 German Planes Oppose RAF

Fighter Umbrella Greatest Used To Date

LONDON, Sept. 2 (CP)—Reports from Europe indicated today the thundering war anniversary raid against Berlin by R.A.F. and Canadian bombers blanketed that Nazi capital with fire and destruction despite what was probably the heaviest concentration of fighter planes ever put up against an Allied raiding force. Stockholm reports the Germans threw almost 1,400 fighters against the aerial armada.

However, the intrepid night bombers tore through this protective screen to rock Berlin with a 45-minute deluge of block-busters that again gutted entire section of the city and left flames that were reported visible from 75 miles away.

The raid cost 47 bombers, eight of them Canadian, and resulted in some 1,800 tons of explosives being tossed onto the city.

Great Damage

The air ministry said "great damage" resulted from the raid, although clouds and smoke prevented a complete assessment of the full results. According to reports from neutral countries, this attack saw the Germans attempt a new defence technique. Instead of the belts of searchlights which stabbed at planes carrying out the Aug. 23 raid on the Nazi capital, hundreds of fighter planes went into the air, dropping flares from great heights to make the bombers easy to attack.

Canadians returning from the attack reported heavy opposition from the swift fighters, but added that the flare-dropping act backfired as it served as a guide for aproaching bombers.

Last night the great air fleets of the Allies were apparently grounded at their bases as no reports of raids were available.

Nazi experts told the Swedish newspapermen that the R.A.F. used about as many planes on Tuesday's raid as they did on Aug. 23, when 1,700 tons of bombs from 700 heavy British bombers devastated the west and south sections of the city and left fires which burned for two days.

(The London Daily Express reported the Germans sent up 1,000 fighters Tuesday night in an attempt to beat off the bombers, which the paper said dumped 1,500 tons of bombs on Berlin.

(The Express called the raid "the greatest air battle of the war." If the Express tonnage figure is correct the Tuesday raid was lighter by 200 tons than the attack of Aug. 23.)

Still Cleaning Up.

When the bombers returned to Berlin Tuesday night Nazi commentators acknowledged to foreign correspondents that about 350 planes broke through the German anti-aircraft and fighter defences, which on the basis of the Aug. 23 raid meant that about 850 tons of bombs and incendiaries were dropped on the capital.

It was on that scale that the R.A.F. raided Berlin three times during March, causing tremendous destruction.

Details of Tuesday's raid still were restricted by Nazi censorship but the Berlin correspondent of the

Big Bombers Hit City Of Aversa In Five Waves

By EDWARD KENNEDY

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 2—(AP). — The Allied air offensive against Italy has been largely concentrated on the toe of the peninsula for the past 36 hours and has been carried on mainly by fighters and fighter-bombers, Allied headquarters said today.

R.A.F. Wellingtons returned to the railway targets at Aversa, north Naples, and scattered two-ton blockbusters last night, however, and American fighters stabbed at a zinc factory at Iglesias in southwest Sardinia.

The flights of fighters and fighter-bombers over the southern extremity of the peninsula aimed their blows chiefly at Axis communications and defensive establishments, already shattered and almost paralyzed by the daily series of forays since the fall of Sicily two weeks ago.

Four-engined bombers and most medium bomber squadrons were held on the ground by bad weather for the first time in weeks.

From the Middle East, British heavy bombers struck at the Axis airfield at Grottaglie, near the Italian naval base of Taranto, in a

Opposes Taxing Overtime Work

By MYER NEGRU
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC, Sept. 2—(CP).—The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, in 59th annual convention, went on record here today as favoring full cost-of-living bonus, tax free, for every worker and abolition of income tax on overtime work.

The convention, now in its fourth day, also urged the Federal Government to raise exemption from income tax to $2,400, "a sum covering a decent standard of living" and to lower the income tax rate on the first $1,000 of taxable income.

The Congress demanded "in the most forceful manner" that profits from industry be limited to five per cent. by means of taxation or other methods and that excess profits be "used, for the prosecution of the war."

As carried by the convention, the resolution for limitation of profits was abbreviated to exclude the original preamble making "accusations" which the resolutions committee said were not supported by facts.

The preamble held that "it is a

Russian Military Avalanche Wipes Out 41,000 Germans

LONDON, Sept. 2 — (CP).—Russian troops driving forward on the Voronezh front to-day captured the town of Sumy, important Ukrainian regional centre about 400 miles northwest of Kharkov, Moscow announced in a special order of the day. The special order was the fourth to be issued by Premier Joseph Stalin in four days as the Russians rolled the German forces back along the 600-mile front from the Smolensk-Moscow road to the shores of the Sea of Azov.

The capture of Sumy, a rail centre, carried the Red Army within 185 miles of Kiev in its westward drive across the northern Ukraine.

The special order, broadcast by the Moscow radio and recorded here by the Soviet Monitor, said the Russian divisions involved in the fighting for the liberation of Sumy would be called Sumy divisions hereafter "to commemorate the success."

"For the excellent military operations and valor I express my gratitude to all troops which participated in the fighting for the liberation of Sumy," Stalin's order said.

The newest gain in the dead centre of the sagging Nazi front widened and deepened the Russian by-pass salient north of Poltava, heightening the flanking hazard to the Germans in the Stalino bulge of the southern Ukraine and strengthening the Russian arc being drawn around Bryansk from the south.

The victory touched off another 124-guns salute in the Soviet capital, where thundering salvoes have signalled the quickening cadence of German reverses since August 5, when Orel and Belgorod fell, and on through successive victories at Kharkov, Izyum, Sevsk, Rylsk, Taganrog, Yelnya and Dorogobruzh.

The Germans by their own admission were withdrawing from their Donets basin salient, presumably in fear of an even greater debacle than the one at Taganrog which the Russians say cost the Germans 41,000 troops.

Berlin military circles attempted to explain away the retreat by telling Swedish correspondents that greater forces were needed in the west to meet an expected Allied invasion.

But Moscow communiques told a far different story—one of an avalanche of Russian military power sweeping against and around outfought and out-manoeuvred Nazi armies.

A Russian war bulletin recorded today by the Soviet Monitor, giving figures that made Taganrog the greatest single German defeat since Stalingrad, said charging Red Army troops had killed more than 35,000 Germans and captured 5,100 in the final liquidation of enemy forces encircled west of the Sea of Azov port.

Routs 120,000.

In all, eight Nazi divisions totalling 120,000 men were routed and mauled.

Keeping up the steady pace of enemy attrition, Moscow reported, Stalin's troops yesterday cut down an additional 6,000 of the foe who got in the way of Russian drives reaching toward Stalino, Poltava, Bryansk and Smolensk along a 600-mile front.

The Nazi High Command was said in to-day's Moscow bulletin to have shifted part of the inland German forces to the south in an effort to halt the Russian break-through, but the Russians, in a strong charge southwest of Voroshilovgrad, punched out gains of four to six

Zoot Suit Makers Fined In Montreal Court Sudbury Man Nicked For Obstructing

OTTAWA, Sept. 2 (CP)—Charges arising from violation of clothing regulations were included in 30 prosecutions made by the Prices Board in the week ended Aug. 27, the board reported today.

For making and selling "zoot suits" a Montreal tailor was fined $200. On "similar charges" of violating Prices Board orders designed to simplify the manufacture of clothing two other Montreal clothing manufacturers were fined $100 each, said the board.

At Sudbury, Ont., a tailor was fined $150 for impeding a board investigation of his business records and for arranging for the manufacture of suits with two pair of trousers.

Piercing the price ceiling continued to be the most numerous offence. Persons were charged with selling pork, poultry, molasses, jam, fuelwood, meals, beverages, ice, stockings, flannelette, gas stoves and hair cuts at higher than lawful levels.

There were 13 prosecutions for violations of rental regulations and violations of the board's food-rationing and hoarding regulations totalled 11.

Parachute-Attacking Zeros Take Beating From Bomber

By ART BURGESS—Associated Press War Correspondent

GUADALCANAL, Aug. 30—(Delayed)—(AP). — Thanks to Lieut. Homer W. Faucett, 1941 national A.A.U. middleweight wrestling champion from Indiana, and the gallant crew of his heavy bomber, the Japanese have for once paid dearly for firing on Allied fliers dangling helplessly in parachutes, floating down to sea.

It happened after today's smashing raid by four-engined bombers and escorting fighters on Japan's Kahili airdrome on Bougainville in the Solomons. The total bag of Japanese planes for the day was 37.

But Faucett and his companions supplied some of the most dramatic moments on the trip back. Near Vella Lavella Island, one of the bombers was hit by pursuing Zeros. Four men parachuted from the stricken plane.

Lieut. Faucett, 25, was in a nearby formation of bombers.

"I checked with the crew first on the inter-phone, talking with every man," Faucett said.

"'Pilot to turret gunner: Shall we go back?'

"'Turret gunner to pilot: Let's go back.'"

It was that way in each case.

All Were Game.

"All well knew there was a strong probability we would never come back," Faucett continued.

"When we turned back, one man in a 'chute was hanging limp after a Zero strafed him. Our gunner drove off another Zero trying the same dirty trick. Then 20 Zeros started working on us at 4,000 feet. We went down to 200 feet and dropped a life raft to the man who had jumped from the other bomber. The Zeros made a co-ordinated attack, as many as six coming at us at the same time.

"We would have been shot down if it hadn't been that our gunners were good marksmen. We half figured we didn't have a chance, so we vowed to get all the enemy we could before they got us.

"When we got home, there were more than 80 bullet holes and several cannon holes in the fuselage."

But Faucett's bomber had bagged seven out of the 20 parachute-attacking Zeros.

Invasion Fleets Being Massed

By EDWARD D. BALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 2 —(AP)—In a series of nervous broadcasts, Axis radio commentators declared today that the Allies were massing vast invasion armadas both in the Mediterranean an in Britain for a two-directional continental assault which might be sprung at any moment.

Whether based on fact or fancy, or in the hopes of gleaning information on Allied plans, the sudden spurt in the enemy's invasion speculation betrayed his uneasiness over what the immediate future will bring.

The Nazi-controlled Paris radio gave considerable attention to reports from La Linea, Spain, telling of the presence at Gibraltar of two battleships, four aircraft carriers, 20 cruisers, 48 destroyers and 45 merchantmen.

At the same time a military commentator of the German news agency D.N.B. asserted in a Berlin broadcast that "it cannot be denied that the Anglo-Saxons have succeeded in assembling a great flotilla consisting of transport and landing craft for their plans in the Mediterranean."

In another broadcast, the Paris station said a second amphibious force was assembling in Britain and that "the moment is approaching when an Anglo-American invasion armada will cross the Channel and disembark its armies on the French coast."

"Two gigantic armies will come to grips in the near future," the broadcast added, "and Frenchmen will witness far more vicious battles than anything experienced in 1940. Allied air attacks on French towns have only been a foretaste of things to come."

Earlier this week, Berlin came out for the first time with an assertion that German troops were being

Moscow Raps Turk Neutrality

MOSCOW, Sept. 2 — (AP). — The latest issue of the Soviet magazine, War and the Working Class, in an article titled, "Who Gains from the Neutrality of Turkey?" said "the neutrality of Turkey becomes increasingly more favorable and necessary to Germany."

The magazine said "Turkey secures the safety of the Balkan flank of the German armies and allows the Germans to continue to hold very limited forces here and concentrate the overwhelming part of the German troops on the Soviet-German front."

The article asserted now that when Germany is treasuring all her army divisions, her final defeat could be accelerated if Turkey would abandon her neutrality and throw in her lot with the Allies.

N. Vasilev, author of the article said Turkey gradually had changed her foreign policy from one favoring the Allies to a policy of neutrality which "enabled the Germans to invade and wage war against the Soviet Union."

Marcus Attack Startles Enemy Leaders

Stern Warning That Allies Are Ready To Clamp Pincers

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associate Press War Analyst

The mystery surrounding the United States assault on Japan's Marcus Island is of course purposeful and a part of the High Command's strategy, but we are warranted in regarding this operation as a colorful advertisement that the time is rapidly approaching when the Allies can do business on a big scale in the Pacific.

All sorts of speculation is going the rounds as to the exact meaning of this startling move in which a task force boldly sailed in and took a punch at a point in the perimeter of the defences of the Japanese mainland. One guess is about as good as another, but there are some things which we can pin down.

A Tiny Outpost

For instance, we know that the Marcus Island, while only a pimple on the face of the Pacific, is highly important to the Japs for both defence and offensive, lying as it does some 1,200 miles from the Japanese mainland. It's a vital post—a sentinel to warn of the approach of danger. It also is a strong air-base, and is a stepping stone between Japan proper and her islands in the Southwest Pacific. It's a step in the preparation of the big pair of pincers which the Allies are going to clamp onto the Japanese in due course — an attack from the south and from the Aleutian Islands in cooperation with a drive against Burma by United Nations forces under Lord Louis Mountbatten.

They Were Jarred

The psychological effect of the Marcus Island expedition has been top-hole. It succeeded in scaring the stuffing out of the little men of the Rising Sun who yesterday rushed their spokesmen to the microphones to warn the public that their island kingdom was in peril. The radio spread the news —and it was quite accurate— that the raiders could have attacked the Japanese mainland had they seen fit.

Is the task force bent on occupying Marcus Island? Obviously this base, so close by air to Tokyo, would be a great asset, if it could be held without too much sacrifice. It wouldn't be easy to maintain this position, so close to the Japanese mainland. Likely the question of whether the task force would try to occupy the island would depend on how successful it was in paralyzing Jap resistance. It would represent a difficult operation.

Marcus Punch Irks Japan

Scope Of Attack Unknown To Enemy

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 —(AP)— The big unanswered question in the Pacific today was whether the United States Navy raid on Marcus Island in Japan's home waters was a feint or a well-aimed knockout punch.

Japan could use the answer to that riddle, right now.

Three possibilities emerged from the meagre accounts of the spectacular raid:—

1. The carrier task force which bombed and shelled the island may have been preparing the way for occupation. It's not a big place but in United States hands it could serve as an outpost that would harry Japan's communications with the South Pacific.

2. The attack could have been a feint to cover some highly important move elsewhere, conceivably occupation of Wake Island, or a drive on the vital Japanese opsitions in the Kuriles.

3. The navy may have moved in for a slashing hit-run blow for its psychological effect, alone.

At any rate, the action served notice on Tokyo's admirals that the Allies can hit from many directions. If worried enough by it, the Japanese might be egged into dispersing their available forces to meet all possible threats, in such manner that a vulnerable hole would be opened in their defences.

Sgt. George Andrews of Sarnia, Ont., rear gunner of a Lancaster, told of seeing numerous flares dropped from German planes in an attempt to light up the bombers. LAST OF 19 NAZI PRISONERS RETURNED TO FORT HENRY, KINGSTON

3 War Prisoners Captured In U.S.

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 2 (CP). — The last three of 19 German war prisoners who escaped from Fort Henry last Thursday were recaptured early last night at Clayton, N.Y.

The three men, Wilhelm Joesting, 41, Ernest Muench, 24 and Heinz Wirtz, 23, were reported picked up by an immigration border patrolman directly across the St. Lawrence River from Kingston. American authorities immediately notified officials at Fort Henry who crossed the river and identified the en.

Capture of the three men ended an intense manhunt that centred in the Kingston area since the mass escape—second largest from a Canadian prison camp in this war — last Thursday. Army authorities here yesterday indicated they believed the men had fled the area when they removed road patrols which had been on duty since the break was discovered.

Of the 19 who escaped, four were recaptured the same night, eight were taken into custody on Friday and four others were retaken Saturday.

Since the start of the war, including the Kingston break, 131 escapes from Canadian camps have been announced.

A 22-year-old parachutist, Eckhardt Brosig, who escaped from a prison camp at Monteith, Ont., last August 8, is the only escapee who is still at liberty.

Germans Ahead.

July 14: Been through Ispica and on to Modica and with infantry again now. No big fight yet but they say it's coming. Germans ahead somewhere. Good to watch captured Italian General being taken to Simonds.

July 15: Drive way back to Pachino airfield wtih copy. Spit pilots glad to take it to Malta. I jeep away back to Vizzini which the 51st Highland Division now occupying. Mass of tanks and vehicles in the streets. British, Canucks and Yanks directing traffic. Prisoners sitting around on curbs.

July 16: Canadian Divisional HQ up road by Caltagione. Division just sets up shop under trees. Hear we are heading for Enna dead in the centre of Sicily. Sleep in lemon grove where Germans were two nights ago. Everyone showing signs of tiredness but everyone still going flat out. These Italian towns most sinister spots to drive through at night. Snipers still active and you imagine there's a Hun on every little balcony.

July 17: Go up Enna road through Pazza Armerina. Bridge blown ahead. Walk over crater and watch some mortaring. Sappers working like slaves to get bridge fixed. Meet Simonds on road and he takes time out to tell us situation. Hope to trap German battle group around Enna. Demolitions holding up Canadian advance for first time.

Barrage at Enna.

July 18: Big artillery barrage in before Enna. Infantry go in and clean up German hill positions. This Canadians' first big action. Can see Enna ahead. Canadians also swinging around on right to bag Valguernera. Infantry did magnificinetly. These lads have mighty est for fight. Germans can't understand it.

July 19: Talk with Carleton and York soldiers who'd taken hills yesterday. Mortared going down Valguarnera road and withdraw until it stops. Life becoming very simple. I've been losing kit ever since landing and now there's practically nothing to worry about.

July 20: Canucks moving up the valley from Valguarnera to Leonforte. They still doing great. Watch attack from hill with Bren carrier crews. Pat in Hastings presented me with a big German infantry assault car which they'd captured. Drove to front in it but some trigger-keen gunners looked us over suspiciously. Will only travel in rear areas in it from now on.

July 21: Rumor that Canucks in Enna. Looks like phoney for Americans were moving on city fast from west. Hitch-hicked to Enna, finishing trip on mule, and found it full of Yanks.

July 22: Pats, Seaforths and Edmontons storming Leonforte. Get up around corner from town and talk with Brigadier. He very pessimistic. Felt he'd lost a lot of men. Actually his battalions doing magnificent job without heavy loss. But fog of war snarls information up badly sometimes.

July 23: Lord Tweedsmuir in bloodstained uniform and three-days beard on face related story of Hasting's thrilling assault on Assoro cliff top. We stood on peak as he told whole story. Seemed like fiction, so amazing. Tweedsmuir been through it all but seemed more concerned about fact he'd only one pack smokes left than fact he'd led this attack. Into Leonforte where they are carrying last German dead off for burial.

The Old Remedy For Children

Few people, especially children, escape an attack of summer complaint during the hot weather.

Summer complaint begins with a profuse diarrhœa very often accompanied by vomiting and purging. The matter excreted from the stomach has a bilious appearance, and that from the bowels watery, whitish, ill-smelling, or even odorless.

When the children show any sign of looseness of the bowels the mother should administer a few doses of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry so as to bring quick relief.

This medicine has been on the market for the past 94 years. Refuse substitutes. They may be dangerous.

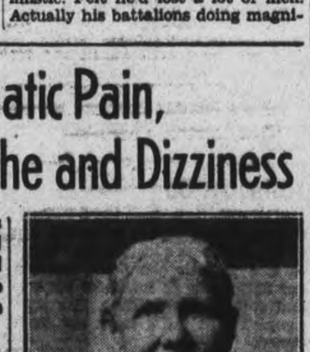
Relieved Rheumatic Pain, Headache and Dizziness

This Well-Known Lady Tells of Good Results Obtained By Taking Syntona Herbal Compound. "Digestion Also Improved; Feel Better In Every Way," She Says.

"I was suffering from rheumatic pain in my hip and limbs so badly that I had been in bed three weeks," said Mrs. Phoebe Hoey, 171 Jackson Street West, Hamilton, Ontario, in a recent report telling of her good experience with Syntona Herbal Compound.

"I could hardly bear any weight on my leg and the pain was so severe it kept me from sleeping. It even extended down my limbs and across my abdomen. There just wasn't anything that seemed to give me relief. I also suffered a lot with dull headache and awful dizzy feelings. Although my appetite was poor, the little food I did eat soured and fermented in my stomach.

"I read so often about Syntona helping other people that I finally decided I should try it. Now, after taking it only a short time, I am here to report that it has given me the best results of anything I ever tried. The rheumatic condition is so much better that I am able to be up around and get down town with scarcely any trouble. I haven't been bothered with headache or dizziness lately, either. Then, too, my appetite is better. My food digests without all that sourness and I am feeling much better in every way. I can highly recommend Syntona to other people suffering as I did."



MRS. PHOEBE HOEY

This appeared to be more of an attempt to discourage Allied invasion plans, for the best information in London was that instead of reinforcing troops in western Europe the Germans may well have been diverting them from France and the Low Countries to Italy, Denmark and the Balkans.

Big Bombers Hit

Tuesday night raid from which all aircraft returned safely, a Cairo announcement said.

(The Italian communique today admitted only limited damage was caused by Allied air raiders in the province of Naples.)

No Allied planes were lost during the operations and the lack of mention in to-day's communique of any enemy planes shot down indicated that enemy opposition was dwindling even further.

The concentrated bombing of the Italian toe was carried out in five raids by British Bostons and Baltimores and American Mitchells escorted by Spitfires.

Rail and highway communications were attacked at Cape Spartivento, Oliveta, La Marina Gambrie and Bova Marina. Dive-bombers also damaged the radio station at Cape Spartivento.

Flames were seen to leap up over wide areas after the waves of planes laid their bombs in neat and close-knit patterns.

Stockholm newspaper Tidningen was permitted to say that since a large number of bombers got through to the city damage was "heavy both inside Berlin and on the outskirts."

Neutral correspondents in Berlin reported the city was just beginning to clean up from the Aug. 23 raid when the new devastation occurred. They said, however, that the number of casualties was small because most of Berlin's population has been evacuated from the city. The latest information to reach Stockholm said that about 500,000 persons have been moved from Berlin for the duration of the "bomb war."

Both cities lie on the rail network feeding the German forces in the Central Donets.

In a broadcast heavy with the possibilities of complete German withdrawal from the Donets area, Berlin said the Russians were building up an overwhelming striking force on the middle stretches of the Donets river.

That is directly north of the German salient extending easterly along the shore of the Sea of Azov and a swift southward sweep would imperil perhaps tens of thousands of Nazi troops.

Northward, the Red Army is setting the stage for a final powerhouse blow at Smolensk, and advance units are blasting forward less than 45 miles from the central German anchor.

The desperation of the German defence was portrayed by the Moscow communique, which said:

"The enemy is bringing up his reserves and throwing them into counter-attacks straight from the march."

The Soviet war bulletin reported advances of four to 7½ miles yesterday on both the Smolensk and Bryansk fronts, the recaptured territory embracing some 300 villages.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

The first day of the National Singles Championships at Forest Hills, N.Y., under the auspices of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association, slipped by with no upsets as the top roster of seeded players made a routine affair of preliminary matches in the shortened program.

The headliners, including Frankie Parker of the U.S. Army, Pancho Segura of Ecuador and Pauline Betz, 1942 women's champion, defended their laurels with comparative ease in two straight sets, the contests having been limited to best-of-three events. Seymour Greenberg of Chicago, fifth-ranking player and National Clay Courts title-holder, was forced to a third set in eliminating Tom Falkenburg of Hollywood, Calif. Segura was drawn against Dick Bender, captain of the Princeton University team, and won 6-3, 6-3, giving rise to speculation that the U.S. title might go outside of the country for the first time since 1936 when Fred Perry was victorious.

Only big-name player to fall by the wayside was Sidney B. Wood of New York, ranked No. 6, who was forced to default through illness to Jack Tuero, a junior Davis Cup contender from New Orleans. Fields were limited to 32 players in both men's and women's divisions because of the war.

Two Leaders Resume War Talks

Churchill Arrives At Washington To Conclude Parley

By JOHN H. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP)— In the easy atmosphere of a semi-social visit Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt settled down to a discussion of war-generated political problems today while official Washington awaited some on-the-record response from Russia to Anglo-American overtures for a three-power conference this year.

Despite all that the Prime Minister and President have said about meeting Russia, there still was no indication from Moscow as to whether the suggestion was considered favorably there, nor was there much concrete evidence in Washington thus far of success in arranging a preliminary get-together of top diplomats of the three governments.

The need for closer co-ordination among the three most powerful Allied Nations thus remained the number one political problem pointed up by the recent Anglo-American conference in Quebec and obviously held open for further discussion in Washington.

Mr. Churchill arrived from Quebec late yesterday, accompanied by Mrs. Churchill and his staff.

Partly Social

White House officials stressed that the visit should not be considered as of a purely business nature since Mr. Roosevelt hoped to make it partly social. They also described the talks as representing not the beginning of a story but the conclusion of one begun in Canada.

Entirely lacking in these comments and in the general atmosphere of the new conference were signs of the extensive military planning which was the main purpose of the Quebec meetings. The emphasis appeared rather to be on political aspects of the war in Europe, both present and future.

What official information the Prime Minister and President have regarding Marshal Stalin's willingness to meet them is of course a State secret. Diplomatic custom normally would require that any public announcement along that line should come from Moscow rather than from London or Washington.

Atfer dinner, Mr. Roosevelt and his guest talked in the President's study until 1 a.m., this morning and the President left most of his work day free for further conferences. He had only two appointments to-day, with Brazil's war minister, Eurico Gaspar Dutra, at noon and with his cabinet at 2 p.m.

Mr. Churchill had an appointment with Gen. George C. Marshall, United States' army chief-of-staff, around noon, and was seeing British military leaders and chiefs of British missions in this country after lunch.

Russian Units Pierce German Lines

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Sept. 2.—(AP).—The Red Army was bearing down heavily upon the southern sector of the German eastern front Wednesday, smashing to bits the remnants of the fortifications which the Nazi army has held for two consecutive winters along a 600-mile front which stretches from Taganrog to Smolensk.

The army of Gen. Vassilly Sokolovsky on the western front, which was honored yesterday by a salute from Moscow's guns for the victory at Yelnya, began the offensive against the vital railway station and highway junction by cracking the German defences on the eastern bank of the Ugra river several days ago.

The Russians reported that fierce battles on the eastern bank of the Ugra river continued for two days before tank forces succeeded in crossing to pave the way for Red Army infantry divisions.

The Germans put up terrific resistance and launched tanks, artillery and planes into a counter-offensive in an effort to keep the Russians close to the river, but finally the Russian tanks broke through the enemy lines and cut the railroad and pulled the enemy infantry into the gap.

Two tank brigades entered the city Aug. 30 from the east and northeast simultaneously and began to battle for the city itself. Street fighting was taken up by the Gzhatsk infantry under Maj.-Gen. Stuchenko. Infantry groups quickly penetrated to the centre of the city and spread out and cleaned it out in a few hours.

Gen. Constantine Rokossovsky's central army which broke into the northern Ukraine was reported to have killed or taken prisoner the German garrison of Glukhov.

German reserves which had been sent into the city arrived after Soviet infantry had occupied large sectors. The clean-up was made by Russian infantry mounted on tanks which rode into the centre of the city.

W.M.S. Conference Continues At Whitby School

WHITBY, Sep. 2 —(ENS)— The School for Leaders in conference at Whitby Ladies' College settled down to study on Tuesday morning.

"Missionary Education in your Church" one of the studies was led by Mrs. C. Carscallen, Whitby, for auxiliary delegates; mission circles, Miss C. Wagar, Peterborough; mission bands, Miss Ida MacKenzie, of Toronto; W. M. S. travelling secretary; and C. G. I. T. Miss Day of Toronto.

Miss Day led the study for '43-44, "For all of Life" by William H. Wiser and Charlotte V. Wiser. However, the study was presented by the class divided in groups.

The high lights of the session were the lectures from five to six each afternoon by Rev. Kenneth J. Beaton, B. A., D. D.. Dr. Beaton's subject was "Missions in a Waring World... The motive, measure and meaning of missions headed the lectures. Tuesday afternoon was devoted to the motive of missions.

Extracts from the lecture follows: the self interest motive, good for business idea; the missionary as an ambassador of goodwill, motive; the fear motive, "unless we christianize them, they will paganize us," idea. A spiritual plague or cesspool anywhere in the world can contaminate any other place in the world declared the speaker. The best protection against Buddaism, communism or fascism is an aggressive, program. The sympathy motive is the Christian motive, sympathy for suffering womanhood and childhood, for the cry of the hungry, for the cry of ignorance.

Always there has been an advance and recession in the Christian Church, a little more advance, a little less recession each time. Just now we are in the trough of the wave. Another advance more powerful than the Christian Church has ever known is the way, declared Dr. Beaton concluding the lecture.

Delegates Seek Bonus Changes

QUEBEC, Sept. 2 — (CP). — Delegates to the 59th annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada will to-day continue discussion of a resolution calling for changes in the system of computing the cost-of-living index on which the cost-of-living bonuses are based.

The resolution was introduced late yesterday, and discussion was deferred until today. It asks that the index be revised "to make it a more truthful expression of expenditures and costs for the average workers," and that regional cost-of-living indices be established to take into consideration the regional changes in living costs.

The resolution also asks that the present cost-of-living bonus be made tax-free and that the full bonus be paid every worker.

Finance Minister Ilsley made a reference to the cost-of-living bonus when he addressed delegates yesterday, saying that there had been much misunderstanding over the point of whether the bonus should be subject to tax. The bonus, he said, is not intended to guarantee a worker his pre-war standard of living; rather it was intended to ensure that his wage will continue to be worth as much as before "in terms of basic essentials."

"It serves, that is, to maintain the basic, real value of his wages. Out of these wages, including the bonus, he is expected to bear his share of the costs of war—partly in taxes, partly in savings. The cost-of-living bonus protects him from having to bear part of the cost in the form of increased prices."

Pincers Close On Japanese

By WILLIAM F. BONI
Associated Press Staff Writer.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTH-WEST PACIFIC, Sept. 2 — (AP).— The coastal jaw of a slowly closing Allied pincers pressed nearer the Salamaua, New Guinea, airdrome from the south-east to-day as Japanese defences cracked.

A spokesman for Allied Headquarters characterized the enemy's crumbling resistance as "rear-guard," an indication the Japanese were giving way.

On the coast, below the airdrome and the Francisco River mouth, the Japanese for some time have been holding out on the western end of Roosevelt Ridge at its junction with Scout Ridge, which runs north-east from that point. Latest reports indicate the Allies have skirted enemy pillboxes and foxholes, sent the main spearhead along Scout Ridge, and assigned another force to eliminate the virtually surrounded Japanese at that point.

Aussies Close In.

Out of the mountains and along the south bank of the Francisco River, hard-bitten Australians have reached a point within two miles, possibly less, of the river's mouth. The river flows south of the long-south airdrome into Bayern Bay.

North of the river, considerable activity indicated the Japanese, after the first shock of finding the Allies driving in from above as well as below the airstrip, were making a determined effort to hold positions.

In the Solomons, there was some basis for believing the Japanese emulating their garrison which pulled out of Kiska in the Aleutians, have evacuated Santa Isabel Island, with its seaplane base at Rekata Bay. Pilots returning from a raid on Monday of that base north-east of New Georgia reported that for the first time no anti-aircraft fire was encountered.

J.S. Cunningham Is Laid To Rest

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 2 (ENS) —More than one hundred Cloth Company employees lined the walk leading up to St. Mary's church here this morning as the body of John Schey Cunningham, who for thirteen years had been assistant superintendent of the local plant, was borne to the edifice to be accorded the last rites of the church. It was one of the largest funeral processions citizens of this town had seen in months as many from town and the surrounding district joined in paying final tribute to a man who had earned the respect of all who had learned to know him during the past thirteen years.

Plant Shut Down

The machinery of the mill was silent during the morning as the plant had its first shut down since the war, and there were few of its employees who did not feel some sense of personal loss in the death of John Cunningham, for they had long regarded him as a man acutely sensitive to their interests. He was one who had worked his way to the top, knew the problems confronting employees in the various departments, and had always been sympathetic to any plan that would better their welfare. For the Company itself his death created a vacancy that will be difficult to fill as his ability to deal with the personnel and iron out internal production problems had been recognized for several years.

The funeral cortege left his residence on Queen street shortly after nine o'clock and the tolling of the bell marked the arrival at the church, where Rev. J. P. Collins offered the requiem mass. A large section of the church had been set aside to accommodate the male employees of the plant who marched in a body to attend the service for the deceased, and many floral and spiritual tributes further testified to the high esteem in which he was held.

The pall bearers were Dr. E. A. Stuart, Messrs. Anthony Yenta, Earl Craighead, Edward Bowen, R. J. Bale and Stuart Crossen. Flower bearers were Flt. Lieut. W. A. C. Whittun, F. G. DeCarrol, D. R. Maybee, Charles Montgomery, Jack Williams, Roy Bowen, Earl Bowen, W. A. Donald, Fred Bowen and Lorne Bowen.

Among those from out of town who attended the funeral were Mr. Percy Hayes, Mr. Charles Musgraves, Mr. Fred Downes, Mr. Fred Watson, all of the Barrymore Cloth Company, Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Granstein, Toronto.

Drew Warns

BRANTFORD, Sept. 2 (CP)—Premier Drew of Ontario yesterday warned even though the war is progressing in Allied favor, the world is threatened by the greatest period of horror in all history unless it is averted by expanded food production of farmers in Canada, United States and some other countries.

Officer Jailed

TORONTO, Sept. 2 (CP)—Frank Young, Toronto police constable with 15 years service, yesterday was sentenced to three months in jail on each of two charges of stealing. He pleaded guilty to stealing $402 from the Toronto Police Amateur Athletic Association and to a second charge of stealing $34 from the Police Burial Fund. Restitution had been made.

Mosher Proposal

KENTVILLE, N.S., Sept. 2 (CP)—Closest co-operation between labor and government now and in the post-war period was urged yesterday by A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, in an address to the annual convention of the union of Nova Scotia municipalities.

An Important Trifle

It would hardly be construed as a criticism of Sanitary Inspector MacPherson to remark that his comprehensive monthly reports to the Board of Health have not once mentioned the restaurant dish towel. Perhaps he regards it as such a trifle of equipment of community eating places, that although he does not ignore it in his rounds of inspection, he also does not regard it of sufficient importance to mention it in his statements to the Board.

Nor it is suggested that he do so. However, the public that is inclined to be reassured about ultimately interior cleanliness by the gleam of exterior vitrolite and other shining materials of decoration would probably like to feel certain, too, that the restaurant dish cloth comes in for as much scrupulous attention as the table tops and the chlorinated water in which dishes must be washed. Drying is the last act of cleaning them, and perhaps women more than men may wonder whether all the elaborate establishment includes provision for the daily boiling of the dish cloth. Possibly Mr. MacPherson may be imagined in the rather comic duty of peering into the dish cloth boiler or putting the cloth to the test of smell. Still, cleanliness to the last wiping and drying operation consists of just such highly important trifles. The chain of eating house sanitation depends on that minor link in the whole sequence which results in placing food before a consumer.

Help Peterborough Sailors

There are hundreds of Peterborough boys in the blue of the Navy, scattered in training depots all over the Dominion and on active service on the waters of the Atlantic and the northern Pacific. Only a fortunate few of them will be able to get home for Christmas. For the others the Yuletide season will be a dull, lonely and drab affair unless something tangible is done to bring the spirit of Christmas to them and to link up the festival with home.

That is the purpose of Saturday's Navy tag dag. The object is to help the Peterborough Auxiliary to the Navy send ditty bags full of Christmas gifts to every Peterborough boy—and girl—in Canada's naval service. It is a big task. It means the making of the bags in the first place and then filling them with the kind of gifts the sailors will appreciate. It means securing an accurate list of names and addresses, it means careful planning to see that no matter how far away the boys in blue are their Christmas ditty bags will arrive on time. It means a large expenditure in obtaining the articles with which the bags will be filled.

The Auxiliary to the Navy, made up of the mothers and the wives and the sisters and sweethearts of the Peterborough boys who are serving in the Navy have cheerfully and willingly volunteered to do all the work and the planning and the mailing. But it would be too much to ask them to provide the funds that are necessary. That is where the public comes in. That is why there is to be another tag day on Saturday.

A generous response to the appeal is urged. Every cent collected will go toward making Christmas away from home happier for Peterborough sailors. It is a fine cause and it should appeal to every citizen. No, this is not just another tag day: this is a golden opportunity to play Santa Claus for Peterborough sailors.

A Pleasant Fellow

Acceptance of a rations book, to say nothing of actually apply for it, must be a bitter abasement to Ernest Ingles of London, Ontario. To most people the exchange of old rations book for new seems to be nothing more than a necessary routine of wartime, associated with the policy of equality in distribution of various commodities which would otherwise be gathered up in armfulls by unregenerate folks who simply will not fall into step with the new equalitarian concepts of today.

The women who conducted the issuance of rations books to many thousands of Peterborough men and women last week say that it was entirely pleasant experience of goodwill toward a system of restriction upon buying certain goods. Obviously if it sometimes seems a vexation and a chafing of accustomed liberty in buying what you will and as much of it as you can pay for, that phase of control is forgotten in the sure conviction that it is only a temporary imposition of a levelling hand that will be lifted when the war ends.

But, that is all superficial stuff to Ernest Ingles, delegate to the annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada now in session in the city of Quebec. Mr. Ingles sees beyond the veneer of things, and most of his fellow Canadians will probably agree that he sees things that are not even there behind the innocent exterior of a rations book.

Mr. Ingles declared to the Labor Congress his belief, not merely a suspicion, that the Prices Board is designed to cover post-war as well as wartime activities and to bring about "a lower and lower standard of living". If you read the summarized report of his speech to the Congress you could almost feel the movement of descent to the depths Mr. Ingles conjures of the Prices Board and its policy of trying to prevent hoarding.

To Delegate Ingles the multitude of Canadians, who pocket their rations books without the dark suspicion that they are forging a link in a chain of hardening bondage, must be a simple lot of saps.

A Wise Move

We believe in the past, too much emphasis has been laid upon the huge revenues which Ontario has been receiving from the selling of liquor, and not enough on the control part. Premier George Drew, in announcing the transfer of the Liquor Control Board from the jurisdiction of the Treasury Department to that of the Attorney-General appears to have made a move that is both sensible and logical.

The Liquor Control Board is a large revenue producer, but this was not the reason given when the act was first passed. We were then told, that its primary purpose was to control the sale of liquor. Liquor laws have always been hard to enforce, hence their control must be the closest to the Department which must enforce them.

We have in our Liquor Control Act a middle course, between the wide open bar on the one hand and its excessive sales, and prohibition and its abuses on the other. The idea should be dispelled that the Liquor Control Board is just a government-owned business, not so much interested in curbing abuses, as in getting big profits. The continued success of the Act depends to a great extent upon the attitude of the people and the Government to it and we feel that this latest move will go for better administration.

Saving Fuel In Churches

Russell P. Kelly of Hamilton, head of the well known advertising agency of that name, is touring the province urging upon church leaders the necessity of saving as much coal as possible during the coming winter. It is hoped that churches will find it possible to conserve fuel to the extent of 20 per cent. Towards this end the following suggestions have been made: have heating equipment in first class order; be sure the right fuel is used; the maximum heat for winter should be 60 degrees; hold choir practises in the school room or parish hall, instead of in the church; hold the weekday services on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and hold as many meetings as possible in private homes.

City churches, as a whole, are great users of fuel, and too often we have found that there is a big waste. Large rooms are kept heated throughout the week for meetings of small groups. Sufficient care has not been taken to keep the heating system in A1 shape or the windows in church and basement properly caulked. Very little thought is taken to the scheduling of meetings and this makes them spread out throughout the whole week.

The government's request is one which should commend itself to all churches, and through co-operation a great deal of fuel can be saved.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Ottawa asks the owners of buildings to cut off hot water for the tenants. Some landlords thought of that years ago.

A story comes from Quebec that all Mr. Churchill's clothes are bought ready-made for him by his valet. Judging from the fit of some of them we conclude that, whatever Mr. Churchill may be, he is certainly not a hero to his valet.

Military Leaders Know Answer

By FRANK R. KNOX
Of the Baltimore Sun

THERE has been a lot of wild speculation here and in England about a possible breach between Russia and her allies. None of this seems justified. Calm men regard the diplomatic move as merely another of Mr. Stalin's methods of reiterating his "second front" demands—the demands which obviously he will continue to press until his kind of second front is established. By a "second front" Mr. Stalin means a British-American invasion of Western Europe with armies sufficiently formidable to compel Hitler to transfer a large number of the divisions he now has on Russian soil, thus releasing the Russians from the terrific pressure they have sustained for more than two years. Neither the successful Tunisian nor the successful Sicilian campaign, heavy blows as they were to the common enemy, has caused the sought-for shift of the German divisions now engaging the Russians.

Hence, Mr. Stalin brushes these campaigns aside. He does not consider them a "second front." It is easy to understand the Russian position in this matter. The Russian disappointment that the sort of help they ask has not been given is entirely natural. In their place, we would feel a sense of grievance, too. And, however true it may be, there is no advantage in emphasizing the enormous aid in munitions and other materials with which both ourselves and the British, at considerable sacrifice, have pe[illegible]ously sent to the Russians.

NOR is it particularly helpful to point out that the Russians are not full Allies, inasmuch as they have not joined us, as have the British, in the war against the Japanese; that even yet they will permit no official American or British military observer to visit the Russian front; that no correspondents are in the field in that country; that all the news we have about the German-Russian war is what the Russians hand out in official Moscow communiques. All this is true and, still, it is possible to sympathize with the Stalin insistence. What is not easy to understand nor to sympathize with is the continuous and generally excited echo of the Stalin demands by groups of our own people.

Since early in 1942, there has been a steady yammering among various American elements for a "second front" to fit the Stalin specifications. Strong pressure has been brought by these upon our civil and military authorities to "act now." To some extent the British have been afflicted by similar emotional eruptions, but they have been neither as insistent nor as fervid as those we have had at home. Naturally, these have come largely from the radical and freak press, to which not a great deal of importance is attached. But, it also comes from left-wing leaders in Congress and outside.

At times, these 'demands' have seemed more or less organized and inspired. Certainly, they are not helping win the war and both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill are to be commended for ignoring this rather frenzied and fanatical domestic pressure. In fact, their attitude toward the Russian demands could hardly be improved upon. In effect, they tell Mr. Stalin the exact truth—to wit, that we are just as anxious to establish the kind of second front in Europe he wants as he possibly can be. They invite him to confer on this subject time and time again.

BUT, Mr. Stalin, refusing to confer, still keeps up his demand. In the face of this, the Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill are patient, uncomplaining but steadily optimistic, though they make no open move toward the Russian kind of "second front." And in that they are absolutely right. The one way to lose this war is to yield to the Russian demand before we are ready. So far we have been signally successful. The surest means to nullify these successes is an attempt to establish that European "second front" before it is certain that we can maintain it. In this vital business, the only thing for the public to do is to follow the example of Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill—and rely upon our military leaders. Anything else is as unintelligent as it is unpatriotic.

The Party Partisan

A Western Ontario paper says "wouldn't it be interesting" to know how many times Mr. King got himself into the Quebec pictures and how many of the shots were sent out by Government agencies.

Reporters who were present have written many times of the way Mr. King played a modest role as host at Quebec and of how either Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Churchill had frequently to stop a little ceremony to call Mr. King into the picture. "Come on in Mackenzie," called out Mr. Churchill down at Wolfe's Cove when the pictures were being taken of Mr. Churchill and his party.

Is this nagging at the Prime Minister some kind of an inferiority complex? When the Prime Minister of this country is host at a meeting of the type held at Quebec it is only natural he will get into the news. Wouldn't some of his very articulate opponents have been equally critical if Mr. King had not played a fairly prominent role? Can't we hear them demanding a Prime Minister who would represent his country more prominently?

The party partisan is a strange bird.—Ottawa Journal.

Hill-Billy Lease-Lend

"They shall have music wherever they go," the men of the U.S. Forces, because, even 4,000 miles from home, reverse Lend-Lease is there to provide it. Britain has already handed over to the American Army fourteen hill-billy bands and four dance orchestras, and plenty more are scheduled.

The British Army scours the country ceaselessly for musical instruments for the troops. There is a scarcity, but the Americans in Britain get a fair share of whatever can be collected.

Each hill-billy band consists of a set of drums, a ukelele, a guitar, a violin and one or two piano accordions. Each dance band has two saxophones, a piano accordion, a set of drums, a clarinet, a trombone, a trumpet and a guitar. Pianos are hard to come by, but a piano accordion is a good substitute.

The War Office monthly publication, the Army Dance Band Journal, which is despatched to all Commands at home and abroad, is also available to U.S. soldiers. Two dozen copies are sent to Canadians each month.

"You are my Sunshine" is a favourite with U.S. troops and they all love to sing "God Bless America." But they are also very fond of the R.A.F. song: "I've Got Sixpence."

THE UNSEEN AUDIENCE

Whitehall Notebook

(By SCOTT YOUNG, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Sept. 2 (CP)—Lord Woolton has ordered an inquiry into his food ministry's plan for the rationalization of milk deliveries, a decision taken after Lord Beaverbrook made an impassioned declaration that the plan was squeezing out small dairy operators and leaving the industry in the hands of a few big combines.

Speaking directly across the House of Lords to Lord Woolton, Lord Beaverbrook said he didn't want to sell out the shares he holds and knew Lord Woolton didn't want to dispose of the business he has taken much of a lifetime to build, so "why should the little dairyman be turned out of the business he has built up."

Lord Beaverbrook's complaint was that under the rationalization plan, which gives one dairy delivery rights to each district, the big dairies were gaining control of milk routes that some small operator had spent a lifetime organizing.

After promising an inquiry, Lord Woolton said the rationalization plan was designed to save manpower, petrol and transport with as little dislocation of normal business as possible. He quoted savings figures from 217 milk areas as being 16 per cent of labour, 15 per cent of vehicles and 33 per cent in delivery mileage and gasoline.

The answer probably will come in a few months, when results of his inquiry are laid before him. Meanwhile, he has instructed his officials to do all possible to eliminate unfairness from administration of the plan.

Col. Clifton Brown has established himself quickly as the new Commons speaker. It was thought at the beginning of his regime that he was too lenient with the members and would have difficulty in reaching the same authority as his predecessor, the late Capt. Fitzroy. It now appears that he was merely establishing preliminary friendly relations, for he always exercises firm authority now where necessary.

His brilliant conduct during one session just before adjournment carried the House through 100 questions and their supplements in one hour.

The National Association of Labour Teachers does not approve the government's white paper on educational reform. In a letter to members of the House, the association said that the white paper fills it with "alarm and despondency," because while "concessions are made in many directions....the citadel of privilege is stubbornly defended."

Pointing out that the paper proposes the raising of the school leaving age to 15 (from 14) "at least 18 months after the war," the letter expresses regret that the financial estimates do not provide for the raising of the leaving age to 16 until at least eight years after the war. Public and private schools are to remain outside of the scheme and school fees are not to be abolished until at least 4½ years after the war.

The white paper has been debated, but the bill will not likely be presented until late this year.

Lobby notes: One of the hardest-working men in Whitehall is Sir Arthur Street, permanent under-secretary of state for air....He has been a voluntary prisoner in his office since Sept. 3, 1939, working often 18 or 20 hours a day...He has a cot in one corner, where he sleeps, and takes most of his meals at his desk....Only once a week does he visit his home in suburban Mill Hill, only a 45-minute tube ride....Whitehall has defined the week-end as lasting from Saturday noon to Monday noon....The new Churchill Club, operated largely on funds supplied by Mr. Churchill, Anthony Eden, Sir Edward Grigg, Brendan Bracken and Lord Portal, is open to members of the empire forces and Americans....The ministry of supply has reclaimed more than 1,000,000 service boots, a saving of about £500,000 (about $2,225,000).

Canada Needs a Foreign Minister

THERE can be no doubt that informed public opinion in Canada will support the main lines of foreign policy defined by Mr. Claxton, whose address at Couchiching is of major importance. It might be remarked that his seven points represent a vast divergence from the Prime Minister's latest statement on foreign policy made in the House of Commons, and we must hope that the Claxton statement will be put on the records of the House as soon as possible, so that it may be given some official significance as an outline of governmental policy.

Without discussing the statement itself, may I point out that foreign policy has now assumed and will certainly maintain such a determining importance in Canadian affairs that it ought to be accorded a separate department and a separate Ministry. In the present state of Canada and of the world it is absurd that the Prime Minister should be expected to look after the ministry of External Affairs, as if it were a trifling pastime for his spare hours. Even Mr. King's heartiest supporters would not pretend that he has any particular competence in External Affairs; and certainly the only two alternative aspirants to the premiership now in sight, Mr. Bracken and Mr. Coldwell, are even less capable of giving competent direction to foreign policy than Mr. King. Any Cabinet from this time forth will require a separate portfolio of External Affairs, and it ought to rank in importance second only to the office of Prime Minister.

But the ablest man in the world could not conduct the external affairs of this nation in any satisfactory way, unless he had behind him a permanent departmental staff, equipped with highly-trained specialists in the several branches of Canada's foreign relationships. A beginning has been made in the creation of such a staff, but only a beginning; and it is a matter of extreme urgency that it should be enlarged and developed.

Canada will be entitled to a chair at the Peace Conference, when it comes. Her influence there will be proportionate in some degree to her power to make war, and to her actual contribution to the final victory, as that may be assessed by her comrades in arms. But any influence which Canada may have earned by her exploits would be completely dissipated in short order, if Canada's representatives at the Peace were not endowed both with intelligence and with a thorough competence, based upon sound knowledge of the intricate and subtle matters that must be discussed. Mere prestige will not entitle our representatives to a hearing if they do not know what they are talking about, half the time. It is one thing—most important and necessary, indeed—to lay down the general lines of a policy; it is quite a different thing—and infinitely more difficult—to apply your policy in the scores, or hundreds, or indeed, thousands of practical instances which confront you in detail at a Peace Conference.

The Prime Minister, therefore, should immediately set up a separate ministry for the Department of External Affairs. It can no longer remain an appendage of the Premiership. He should also proceed without delay to build up in the Department the necessary corps of specialists in history, geography, economics, religion, and other necessary branches, without which the Canadian representatives at the Peace Conference will be helpless dodderers, unable to do anything but fumble about the anterooms while the fundamental decisions are taken without them.

Without a satisfactory adjustment of the external situation, no domestic policy can be intelligently framed or effectively administered, either by Liberals, or Conservatives, or C.C.F. or Bloc Populaire, or what have you. Our major energies will have to be directed towards external affairs for many years to come. Elementary commonsense, therefore, requires that this department of government be enlarged and strengthened as suggested above.

A Bible Message

And the Lord said unto Samuel, How long wilt thou mourn for Saul, seeing I have rejected him from reigning over Israel? Fill thine horn with oil, and go, I will send thee to Jesse the Beth-lehemite, for I have provided me a king among his sons....

And Samuel did that which the Lord spake, and came to Beth-lehem. And the elders of the town trembled at his coming, and said, Comest thou peaceably? And he said, Peaceably: I am come to sacrifice unto the Lord: sanctify yourselves, and come with me to the sacrifice. And he sanctified Jesse and his sons, and called them to the sacrifice.

And it came to pass, when they were come, that he looked on Eliab, and said, Surely the Lord's anointed is before him. But the Lord said unto Samuel, Look not on his countenance, or on the height of his stature; because I have refused him: for the Lord seeth not as man seeth; for man looketh on the outward apearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart....

Again, Jesse made seven of his sons to pas before Samuel. And Samuel said unto Jesse, The Lord hath not chosen these.

Adn Samuel said unto Jesse, Are here all thy children? And he said, There remaineth yet the youngest, and, behold, he keepeth the sheep. And Samuel said unto Jesse, Send and fetch him: for we will not sit down till he come hither. And he sent, and brought him in. Now he was ruddy, and withal of a beautiful countenance, and goodly to look to. And the Lord said, Arise, anoint him: for this is he.

Then Samuel took the horn of oil, and anointed him in the midst of his brethren: and the Spirit of the Lord came upon David from that day forward. (I Sam. 16: 1, 4-7, 10-13.)

Letter To The Editor

BRAVE AND HEROIC MAN

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I thought I would like you to know how I enjoyed your editorial on Aug. 30 of the centenary of that splendid and heroic traveller and explorer Charles Montague Doughty. I have read his "Travels in Arabia Deserta," and have enjoyed it very much. It is not easy reading, but anyone who likes books on travel it is one that I can recommend, as you say in your article he had a hard and very dangerous three years' journey and about the last day of it the fanatic Bedouins were planning to murder him.

I cannot say more of C. M. Doughty as your editorial covers practically all and I should only be repeating your words, but in closing Mr. Editor and thanking you for your comments of that brave and heroic man.

GEORGE T. MELTON.

Teachers Want Minimum Salary Of $1,000

TORONTO, Sept. 2— A resolution requesting the Ontario Department of Education to increase minimum annual salaries of public school women teachers from $800 to $1,000 was passed by the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario, meeting yesterday at the King Edward Hotel. More than 150 teachers from all parts of the Province attended the annual meeting.

The resolution was made in view of the Federal order freezing teachers to their job, after many teachers had left the profession owing to low salaries, the resolutions committee stated. Normal school students were told last May the Federation that they need not apply for positions offering less than $1,000 yearly. Helen Sheppard states, reporting for the educational finance committee.

Survey of Schedules.

The figure was reached after a survey of salary schedules in each city, town and village district, Miss Sheppard said. "As a whole, salaries have increased this year. The average for cities is $1,595.76, for towns $978.09, and in rural areas $933.64," she added.

Another resolution stated the Federation's aim to raise the professional status of women teachers in regard to discrepancies between salaries of single men teachers and women teachers. Referred to the Ontario Teachers' Council was a resolution that an urban and rural salary schedule be established throughout the Province by the Department of Educaion.

Standard of Training.

In view of the teacher shortage, other resolutions asked the Federation to work toward a national standard of teacher training, to facilitate transfer of teachers between the Provinces; and that it continue to communicate with any Boards of Education who were not co-operating to relieve the shortage by removing or lowering age limits.

Referred to the Superannuation Committee for further study was a resolution that superannuation take place at an earlier age, and that teachers pay more into the superannuation fund to attain that end.

Contract Amendments.

Two amendments for the Teachers' Contract Act were reported by Winnifred Howarth, legislation convener. Boards must state reason for dismissal or termination of the contract to the teacher, and teacher salaries can be changed only by mutual agreement, she said.

"The greatest problem of the Department of Education is in securing teaching staffs for all the schools," said Dr. V. K. Greer, chief inspector of public schools, speaking at the luncheon meeting. "But the situation looks better this year than it was last year. Superannuated and married teachers are filling vacancies, and in isolated sections, school cars or correspondence courses are sent from the department."

On the executive for 1943-44 are: Past president, Miss N. Hackett; president, Miss Agnes Meek, Toronto; first vice-president, Miss Helen Sheppard, North Bay; second vice-president, Miss Mary MacDonald, Ottawa. Miss H. E. Carr will continue as general secretary.

Escaped Prisoner ?

Lindsay, Sept. 1.

"COME quickly, there is an escaped German prisoner outside my place" said an excited South Ward lady over the 'phone to Chief Lawler yesterday.

Immediately the Chief despatched Constable Mark and Officer Siple to the street and home, but the two officers returned in a few minutes somewhat disappointed, but with broad smiles.

The suspected German Nazi prisoner proved to be a vag the police had roused all night and had just released from the cells with the admonition to "keep on going."

Nazis Minimize New Dispute

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 2.—(AP).—A German Foreign Office spokesman has voiced the belief that the dispute between Germany and Sweden over the sinking of two Swedish fishing boats by Nazi minesweepers is of no significance so far as relations between the two countries are concerned, Berlin correspondents of Stockholm newspaper reported to-day.

"One must not forget that there were fishermen in that area near Denmark just as the time there were humors about a possible invasion of that part of Europe," the spokesman saiad. "It is clear that Germany must be careful as to what happens in that section."

Four representatives of the Swedish coast fishermen's organization came to Stockholm yesterday to ask the government to arrange a protective fishing treaty with Germany.

Soldier Hospital Post-war Project

TORONTO, Sept. 1 —(CP)—Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Federal Minister of Pensions and National Health, in a letter to F. G. Moore, president of the Canadian Active Service Force Association, Toronto, said that as soon as the war is over 'we should proceed without delay with the construction of a first-class, modern hospital as a complete substitute for the Christie Street buildings."

The health minister said the Canadian government, in co-operation with governments of other United Nations, had set up a system of controls and priorities concerning hospitals, among which was the stipulation that no construction of a permanent nature may be approved during the war unless "absolutely necessary."

Mr. Mackenzie said officials, after a two-year study of the matter of abandoning Christie Street Hospital, had concluded it would take "at least two years to build and occupy a new permanent hospital of the dimensions required (approximately 1,200 beds)."

Germany Inflicts Terrific Damage

MOSCOW, Sept. 2 — (AP). — Germany has inflicted on the Soviet Union damage amounting to billions of dollars and on all other Allies only about half that much, Professor Eugene Varga estimated yesterday in a lecture, adding that the Russians would claim reparations to prevent the Germans from having a higher standard of living than the countries on which they inflicted the damage.

As a matter of economic necessity, said Varga, Hungarian former professor at the University of Budapest, reparations should be first paid to the Soviet Union and other countries which suffered occupation and then to Britain and the United States where the relief is not needed immediately.

He specified that Russia would not claim reparations as a punishment for the defeated Powers.

Severe Critic

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (CP)—Lee and J. J. Shubert, theatrical producers, said yesterday they have barred Louis Kronenberger, drama critic for the newspaper PM and Time magazine, from their theatres because of "unfair, unjust and cruel" reviews. Kronenberger said he will continue to attend open-night performances of Shubert productions by buying tickets.

Teachers Advised Salaries Top $1,000

TORONTO, Sept. 2 — (CP). — Normal School teachers have been told by the Federation of Women's Teachers' Association of Ontario that they need not apply for a position at less than $1,000 salary, it was revealed in educational finance convener H. Sheppard's report at the Association's annual meeting which began yesterday.

This figure was arrived at after a systematic survey of the minimum, maximum and annual increment of each city, town and village district, Miss Sheppard said.

She reported that as a whole salaries had increased, the average for cities being $1,595.76, for towns $978.09 and rural $933.64.

TORONTO, Sept. 2 — (CP). — Doug (Flip) Flewwelling, star athlete from Saint John, N.B., now stationed with the R.C.A.F. at Brandon, Man., won the discus and placed second in the hop, step and jump at the Manitoba track and field championships. He might have done better, given a pair of shoes that fit. Right after the meet, Flip wrote home to Saint John to say he planned entering another meet shortly and would his father please look around for a pair of running shoes, size 13 or 14. With dogs like that Flip is all set for the snowshoe races next winter—and never mind the snowshoes.

2 Teams Score All Runs In 9th Innings

Phyllis Bigelew's hard hit double to left field in the ninth inning broke up the tightest girl's softball battle of the season at the Bowl, last night, being the big factor in the 3 to 1 victory of Aircraft over Westclox in the first game of their best-of-three post-season series.

For eight innings it was a pitcher's battle between Norma Strickland for the Aircrafters and Marg. Watson for the Big Bens and not a run was scored. Aircraft staged a three-run rally in the first of the ninth and Westclox came back with a run in their half and had the tying counters on the bases when the last out was registered.

The pitchers worked steadily and effectively all the way through. Each allowed nine blows but each had the faculty of tightening up when hits would have meant runs and the result was a row of zeros on the scoreboard until the final frame when Aircraft tucked away the game.

It was a snappy exhibition all the way with both outfits doing some fine fielding. Marg. Hawthorne's jumping catch of a line drive from the bat of Phyllis Bigelow in the first inning was the defensive gem of the night.

The Westclox tihrd-sacker also led the hitters of both teams with a double and two singles in four trips to the plate. Phyllis Bigelow, Marilyn Low, and Irma Perdue each had two hits for the winners.

The Big Bens threw away two great scoring chances in the seaond innings when they came through with three solid hits and yet did not get a run over the plate owing to poor base-running.

Aircraft did not do much with the offerings of Marg. Watson in the early stages; in fact, she held them to two singles in the first five minutes. They threatened in several frames after that but could not push a run over until the ninth.

Annette DeCarlo opened the rally in that inning by drawing a walk. Audrey Patterson struck out but Irma Perdue singled on a line drive that Viola McLean almost snared with one hand. Phyllis Bigelow then slapped a double to left to send in A. DeCarlo and Irma Perdue. She reached third herself when Marg. Hawthorne dropped the ball in tagging her and scored a moment later as Viola McLean was tossing out Irene Stewart. Marilyn Low walked but Eleanor Craig flied to second.

Westclox was able to get back only one run. Marg. Hawthorne reached third when her fly to left was dropped and a wild throw followed. Eunice Armstrong struck out. Marg. Watson hit safely down the first base line, scoring Marg. Hawthorne but Doris Walker popped to second and Jean Castle flied to centre and the game was over.

By innings.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

One of the best softball attractions of the season should be the battle between the Coulter's team of the Danforth Senior League, Toronto, and the Westclox, champions of the local girls' loop at Riverside Park Saturday afternoon, with the game called at 3.30 o'clock. The Toronto girls, who are in the playoffs in their league have a strong well-balanced senior team and it will be interesting to see how the Big Bens shape up against that kind of opposition. Coulter's are going to spend the week-end in Peterborough so that fans who do not see them in action Saturday will have another chance Labor Day evening when they will meet the Westclox in a second game to be played at 6 o'clock. The Big Bens deserve the support of the fans for these two attractions which loom up as about the most interesting softball fare of the entire season. Expenses in the provincial playdowns will be heavy and the Big Bens are counting upon the receipts from these two fixtures to help them finance their expedition in search of the Ontario title. Westclox always play pleasing ball and the fans will undoubtedly welcome the two opportunities of seeing them perform against senior opposition.

The unfortunate climax to the local softball season may prove to be the impetus that was needed to start a revival of baseball here. Eddie Starr, Les Burton, Bun Kingdon and other former hardball players declare that after their recent experience they are not likely to be keen about coming back to the softball brand again and, in that case they might welcome a chance to revive the orthodox game. "We are going to play baseball next year," Peg Hurst, Oshawa Colts' catcher informed the writer Tuesday night "and I hear that down in Belleville plans have already been made for a ball team for next season. Kingston is already in line and if something can be done in Peterborough it might be possible to get the old Central Ontario League going again." Oshawa has Hurst, Red Jubenville, Dalton and a lot of the other former senior ball players still available as well as a crop of kids who have been paying junior ball in the Motor City.

A Sensational Play

When the Oshawa Colts were here Tuesday night they never stopped talking about a sensational play made by Red Jubenville, fast-fielding second base veteran in the last innings of Saturday's Oshawa City League final between the Colts and Oshawa Laundry. It must have been a honey. We notice that in his column George Campbell describes the Jubenville feat as one of the most colorful circus catches ever seen in Oshawa and says that the fans were still cheering Red's play when the game ended. Here is what happened according to the Oshawa story of the game. The Colts were leading 4 to 2 when Laundry went to bat in the ninth. Then this: "Keeler was safe to open the 9th when Whiteley fumbled. Cooper flied out to centre and Keeler was held at 1st. Then Johnny Weatherup, who had been in tough luck throughout, lined a screaming drive between Jubenville and Magee, towards right field. It loked like a sure bingle and the necessary blow for a last-minute Oshawa Laundry rally but "Red" Jubenville took one step, all he had time for, and dove headlong through the air, sideways, to spear the liner, about six inches off the ground. It was a circus catch of the highest order and the entire crowd stood and cheered him to the echo. That meant two out and Samanski then grounded to Jubenville and was thrown out at 1st base, to end the game and series."

Curling in summer is something new and it is characteristic of Jim Harkness, genial member of the Peterborough Curling Club who is at present in the north that he should find himself in the thick of it. A Northern Ontario contemporary has the following to say about it: "With E. D. Fox, of Toronto, secretary of the McIntyre Porcupine Mines Ltd. curling the first stone, district curlers last night opened Canada's first Summer Curling Bonspiel at the McIntyre Arena. The event, which has attracted more than 40 rinks from Timmins, McIntyre, Dome, South Porcupine, Pamour, Englehart and North Bay, will wind up the finals in both consolation and main events slated for Thursday evening. In the absence of R. J. Ennis, general manager of the McIntyre, at last night's official opening of the 'spiel, M. L. (Marty) Urquhart, assistant manager, officiated by introducing Mr. Fox. One of the province's veteran curlers, Jim Harkness, of the Peterborough Curling Club, is taking part in the event, curling with G. R. White's rink. Despite his presence last night, however, the White foursome was beaten, 6-3 by the W. Christensen rink, of Pamour."

They are certainly not tossing this Gentleman Jack Clayborne any pushovers. The Colored Comet will be back in the main bout at the Tunney grapple party at the Brock St. Arena Monday night and they have matched him with none other than Leo Numa, who is better known as the unmasked Red shadow. Now there is a nice little set up for the Ebony Flash. Wrestling as the Shadow, Numa beat all and sundry week after week until at last the world's champion Wild Bill Longsen caught up with him, defeated the hooded terror and his identity was finally revealed. Numa is huge, powerful, ruthless and clever. He can hand it out and he can take it and it would appear that the agile negro can look forward to a busy session when he tackles the former Mask. The Comet looked good against Katan and better against rowdy Dick Hogan but he is meeting a decidedly tough proposition in the powerful Numa. Matchmaker Tunney is apparently feeding the popular negro mat star to the lions for first he tosses him in against Killer Katan, next against the back-alley fighter Dick Hogan and now he asks him to meet one of the hardest babies in the profession. It has all the earmarks of a memorable brawl.

Of course "Shrimp's" greatest feat was leading the old Owen Sound Greys to a Memorial Cup championship."....There will be no Westclox-Aircraft game tomorrow night as the Big Bens will not be able to field a team that night....They were shy Aggie Anderson and Beryl Dobbin last night and several others will be missing Friday....Manager Pat Hayden has secured the services of Marg Selkirk and Marilyn Low of Aircraft for Saturday's game with Toronto Coulters to take care of any gaps through absentees....An Uxbridge rink carried off the Stratton Trophy here yesterday, winning the biggest rink event of the season....Harold Freeman's Peterborough rink was second....Cards only had to play eleven innings at Pittsburg yesterday to win two games....First they played the remaining two innings of a game started July 18 and stopped by the Sunday curfew, the score remaining 6 to 5 for the Cards and then they went on to grab off the second fixture 8 to 6.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 2 — (CP). — Britain's booming bloodstock market is continuing its upward trend and owners and breeders, eyes turned to post-war racing and export trade, competed keenly at the first Newmarket Sales of the year.

The National Stud, property of the British taxpayers, had the most successful and quickest public sale of its venerable history when four yearlings, in and out of the auction ring in nine minutes, brought an aggregate of $63,000. This was a record average for the stud.

The two-day sale's top price of $26,970 was paid for a chestnut filly by the Derby winner Blue Peter, out of Caretto. J. E. Ferguson, owner of a London plastic firm who dabbles in racing stock, was the purchaser.

Bidding on behalf of the Aga Khan, Trainer Frank Butters doled out the second-highest price—$13,485—for a colt by the noted Sir Foxhunter out of the French Oaks winner, Mistress Ford.

The Aga Khan, resident in Switzerland since the war began, sold four yearling colts and three yearling fillies. Best price of the lot came for a day by Dastur from a Blenheim mare. The colt was knocked down to Owner Jack Colling at $8,600. Seven yearlings bred by Edward Esmond, prominent owner in France before the war, sold for what was considered the high price of $40,545.

Stock of Fairway, sire of two recent Derby winners, Blue Pete and Watling Street, was in heavy demand. His filly out of Titanic went to Mrs. Betty Lavington for $9,200.

Turf followers recognize Sugar Palm, a five-year-old sprinter, as the fastest horse on British tracks. Owned by sportsman-Major A. Bonsor, he has galloped to five consecutive triumphs and beaten the best in the country.

Sugar Palm, unbeaten this season, put on his best show while winning his latest event—the five-furlong Sprint Stakes at Salisbury. Averse to descending hils at high speed, Sugar Palm was several lengths behind Linklater, one of Britain's smartest racers, after the first downhill stretch of a furlong. Forty yards from the finish, he still was a length behind. Then under the expert hand of Jockey Tommy Carey, Sugar Palm up and beat Linklater by a neck.

The Hon Catherine Macdonald-Buchanan stepped beside the Hon. Dorothy Paget and Mrs Betty Lavington as an outstanding turf figure by purchasing Lord Harewood's Newmarket Egerton estate that includes racing stables and a stud farm. The purchase emphasized her intentions to allow her turf enthusiasm to have full scope after the war.

Daughter of Lord Woolavington, under whose will she inherited around $13,000,000, Mrs. Macdonald-Buchanan has been in racing for several years and won the Derby with Owen Tudor in 1941.

Farmer and souvenir hunters replaced jockeys and bookmakers on the Old Lincolnshire Steeplechase course at Brooklesy. North Lincolnshire, when all equipment of the track, which had carried on for more than a century, went under the hammer. The course itself has been plowed up in keeping with the country's wartime program of utilizing all available land for crop-growing.

A handbell, used to announce upcoming races, was purchased by a souvenir hunter for $23, and an amateur rider bought the number board for $55.

Auctioneer Ronald Davy said at the sale's opening that "we hope to get going again after the war when we have put paid to Hitler's account."

Hopper Hurls Shutout Game Against Buffalo

By The Associated Press

A few hours after he was purchased yesterday by Pittsburgh Pirates, Jim Hopper went out and pitched a one-hit shutout for Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League.

It was only a five-inning game against Buffalo, weather forcing a halt in the top of the sixth, but Hopper was so impressive in winning, 4-0, that it was unlikely the Bisons would have scored in a regulation contest.

Hopper faced only 16 men, one more than the minimum. The lone hit off him was Otto Denning's single in the fifth.

Ed Klieman chalked up his 23rd victory of the season as Baltimore beat Newark, 4-2. It was the eighth straight setback for the Bears.

Montreal retained possession of fourth place by splitting a twin bill with Rochester. The Red Wings took the opener, 7-1 while the Royals took the afterpiece, 7-2, behind Bob Chipman's nine-hit pitching. Pitcher Ira Hutchinson and Outfielder Max Macon of the Royals were banished for fighting in the third inning.

The Syracuse-Jersey City game was postponed.

Finest Pistol Shot Alive

"TWO-HANDED HIP POSITION"

MAJOR PICKRELL'S PISTOL GRIP

Major Robert Pickrell, of the Winnipeg Grenadiers and world's champion pistol shot, pictured ABOVE, is teaching Canadian army officers how to shoot. He is chief instructor of the Small Arms School at Long Branch, Ont. Holder of three world's records for revolver shooting, he is probably the finest pistol shot alive.

He retired from competitive shooting in 1940 and since then has devoted himself to training Canadian officers and men to become first-class shots with revolver and pistol. A westerner, he has been stationed at the Pacific coast for two years and now comes east. For 11 successive years he held every major Canadian championship. Between 1928 and 1939 he won all U.S. senior titles but one. In 1935 he won three Canadian titles, 21 out of 22 state and provincial titles, the Scottish championship at St. Andrew's, Scotland, the British Empire championship and finally, at Rome, Italy, he won the world's revolver championship.

Soon to be introduced into the Canadian army is the "two-handed hip position," illustrated by Major Pickrell, ABOVE. In this odd-looking grip the pistol is held by both hands at waist-level in the centre of the body. By simply swinging on the hips and looking in the direction he is shooting a man can cover a wide swath of territory with speed and accuracy. The picture BELOW shows Major Pickrell's pistol grip.

81 Shutouts

CHICAGO (AP)—Statistics of the American League for the current season thus far show that league pitchers have twirled 81 shut-out games as against the season's total of 90 last year and 67 up to this point in the 1942 campaign. The hurlers are being blamed for the fact that only two batters are over .300, namely Luke Appling of Chicago and Dick Wakefield of Detroit.

London Loses

STRATFORD (CP)—The Nationals reversed the tables on London Army yesterday by winning 3-1 in seven innings in the second of the senior playoffs in the Inter County Baseball Association, the game being cut short on account of weather. London gave notice of intention to protest the encounter on the ground that Stratford had used both Max Samuely and Lefty Price, alleging violation of O.B.A. player permits.

Postponed Tilts Upset League Records

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

The business of picking up games in the National League at a given point and playing them to completion at later dates still is causing headaches for the figure filberts.

The senior circuit has had four contests in this category, it may be remembered, two of them protested games involving the Phillies and two others suspended games which were halted because of Sunday curfew laws in Boston and Pittsburgh July 18.

The protested games were entered in the standings at the time they were played, but when League President Ford Frick ordered the contests resumed later from the point of argument, the Phillies won the game they had been charged with losing to St. Louis Cardinals and lost the game they had been credited with winning from New York Giants.

Cards Take Verdict.

This called for corrections in the standing. The suspended games were not included in the standings at the time, but one of them was finished yesterday and, as it turned out, it might just have well been counted a legal game at the time it was recessed.

This contest was the second game of a double-header between the Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates which was halted after seven innings with the Redbirds leading 6-5. When the two final frames were run off neither team made a move and the July 18 score became the Sept. 1 score.

What did happen was that Rip Sewell of the Pirates, who had entered the contest in the seventh inning in a relief role and returned to the mound to complete the game, was charged with his seventh defeat against 19 victories. This now raises the question of whether Sewell had an 11-game winning streak in July, or whether it was broken at seven games on July 18.

Manager Billy Southworth, instead of resuming the game with George Munger, who was on the mound for the Cards when play stopped, used Mort Cooper to pitch the two final innings and hold onto the margin of victory.

Cooper Tagged.

But when Cooper was also chosen to start the regularly scheduled game that filled out yesterday's program, he was tagged for three runs on three hits in the second inning and relived by Murray Dickson.

The Cardinals subsequently rallied with Danny Lithwhiler hitting a homer and Martin Marion getting two triples to win 8-6 and Dickson received credit.

The other suspended game of July 18 involved Boston Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers and is to be finished September 13. This game was tied at 4-4 in the sixth inning when play was interrupted.

Only one other contest was played in the Major Leagues yesterday and in it Chicago Cubs took a slugging session from Cincinnati Reds 12-9 on Phil Cavarrett's three-run homer in e 10th inning. The Cubs made 22 hits and the Reds 14, including homers by Bert Haas and Estel Crabtree.

PITTSBURG ((AP)—The Pirates of the National League cut deeply into the playing ranks of the Toronto Leafs last night with the announced purchase of Pitchers Jim Hopper and Nick Strincevich and Infielder Lee Handley. Earlier in the day, the Buccaneers announced the recall of Outfielder Frank Colman, Shortstop Frank Zak and Pitchers Harry Shuman and Alf Jarlett from Toronto.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 —(AP) — Beau Jack, whose tastes aren't exactly conservative, admired manager Chick Wergeles' big, gaudy sedan so intensely that Chick and co-manager Bowman Milligan have decided to give it to the Beau if he regains the light-weight title from Bob Montgomery, September 10 ...... which is one way of getting a 12-cylinder gas-eater off your hands.

Philadelphia story.

Philly sport scribes tell this one in explanation of the break between Bill Cox and Bucky Harris— which ought to be forgotten about now.... Seems that Cox insisted that 17-year-old Bob Finley should be the club's regular catcher and Harris held out for Tommy Livingston .... Bucky argued that Lingston not only was more experienced, but that he was a better catcher and smarter than Finley.... "How do you figure that out?" asked Cox. "Lingston never went to college."

Boxing's newest twin act, Stanford and Stanley Tuckett, who look so much alike that you have to weigh them to tell who's who, op- trunks. So when they fought on the same card at the Lido Arena the other night, Stamford's bout had to be delayed until Stanley returned to the dressing room with the essential garb.

Farmers Must Produce More Col. Drew Reports

BRANTFORD, Sept. 2 — "Food production is our greatest basic industry. We've got to organize it. The Ontario Government will make every effort to make that organization complete," Premier George Drew told farmers from all over Brant County at a picnic sponsored by the Brant County Federation of Agriculture at Mohawk Park here. In Toronto on Thursday, he said, representatives of all the agricultural organizations in the Province would meet with the Government to "discuss putting food production on the most efficient war-time basis."

"The opinion that will be expressed will be the opinions of experts. I have every hope that the outcome of the conference will be successful," the Premier said.

He declared the wartime food production organization of Great Britain was one of the most amazing things of this war, and along such lines Ontario food production could be put on an efficient and business-like basis.

British Farmers in Control

"Decentralization and placing control in the hands of farmers who know production in their particular county have been the basis of British success," the Premier said. "County committees handle processing and marketing. I don't say that we should immediately adopt the plan but it holds many suggestions for us. I don't think we can apply any system of any other country here without some changes, but I do believe we can follow the principle."

Britain's county committees were volunteers and this was "infinitely better" than having an elected body in charge, he declared.

"The Farmers Union of Britain is consulted in whatever is done," the Premier said. He held that organization of farmers in Ontario was important not only for the protection of their town rights but also to ensure the maximum in food production, processing and marketing.

"The nearest approach to heaven for us, it seems, would be to live where there was none of these controls. Controls are not enjoyed by any one," he said. "The winning of this war will not end control of some sort or another. Only three systems of control could emerge from this war: First, outright ownership by the Government; second, Governmental control of production; and third, control by the people doing the work they know best how to do under regulations they can understand.

Sees Problems Continuing

"Don't think that the problems that confront you now — weather, manpower shortage and the rest— will solve themselves with the winning of this war. They won't. Canadians do not realize the demands that will be made on us when this war ends. Demands for food are not going to decrease — they are going to increase tremendously and overnight.

"Dangers exist behind peace itself, because those countries that have lost all principles of democratic government have lost all their ability to govern. There will be chaos when it comes to feeding the people. In addition, when the conquered countries, Norway, France and the rest, are set free the highly organized German food distribution system is going to collapse with the collapse of German power, and it is going to take a long time to organize food production, restore herds and flocks and produce enough grain. Nations like us are going to fit into the picture then," he continued.

"Only food-producing countries like Canada, the United States and Argentina will save the world. Food production will be one of Ontario's highest duties. We have got to raise the food and grow the animals to feed the starving people of Asia and Europe and save them from out-and-out anarchy. After this war the fields will still be there and farming will be the most solid occupation of all. Let us then get our food production organized on the most efficient and most successful basis," he concluded.

Alex McKinney, Brampton, president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, told the gathering that Ontario this year had had one of its worst years in the production of grain and would have to import two or three times more feeder grain. He said that it would be necessary within the next week or two to increase from 700 to 1,500 carloads per week the amount of feeder grain moved from the Lakehead into Ontario.

"Now or never, fly to Sweden or sink your ships. May God protect our king and country." Those that escaped reached the ports of Malmoe and Landskrona in Sweden bearing civilians and government officials.

Americans Give Suspension Bridge To Dominion

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C., Sept. 2 (Canadian Press)—A link in the friendship of Canada and the United States was added this week with the presentation to the Dominion of the 2,275-foot suspension bridge on the Alaskan Highway over the Peace River. The ceremony was complete with frills and color, marking official opening of the American-financed structure.

The opening was described as "symbolic as the first movement of cargo traffic on a large scale indicates just another link in the wide highway we can see to peace for the world," by Senator James C. Scrugham, Nevada Democrat.

Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, Works Administrator, termed the bridge "an important link in the armor of the North American continent."

Representatives of the British Columbia and the American Governments, Canadian and American Army officials and hundreds of workers and townspeople witnessed the ceremony.

Herbert Anscomb, Minister of Public Works for British Columbia represented Premier John Hart in receiving the bridge.

"I accept this bridge," he said, "in the name of the Dominion and Provincial Governments. It will be a binding link between the two great nations in the North American Continent."

W. A. Fallow, Alberta Public Works Minister, who represented the Province at the official opening of the highway last November at Kluane Lake, Y. T., acted in the same capacity Monday.

The Canadian Army was represented by Major A. Robertson, on the staff of Maj. Gen. W. W. Foster, Special Commissioner for Northwest Service Projects, and Major J. H. Mobberley of Winnipeg, who represents the Canadian Government on the Alaska Highway Civilians Control.

Mr. Anscomb and Senator Scrugham, head of a six-man Senate subcommittee making an inspection tour of the Alaska highway area, combined to manipulate the scissors cutting the red, white and blue ribbon stretching across the southern entrance to the bridge. Immediately after this ceremony a convoy of six material loaded trucks rumbled across the span and proceeded north.

Ceremonies were opened by Brig. Gen. James O'Connor, commanding officer of United States Northwest Service Command, who termed the opening "an historic threshold in the development of our Continent."

The bridge is the largest of a net work strung over streams and rivers in the path of the 1,600 mile Alaska Highway route. A steel structure with two 1 way 24-foot concrete traffic deck, it is a few hundred feet shorter than Vancouver's famed Lions Gate Bridge. It was built at a cost of $1,500,000.

It has a main span of 930 feet and two side spans of 465 feet each with two approach spans of 135 feet each. Steel girders tower 190 feet above the six-inch concrete deck which is 100 feet above the river level.

Dane Refuses

here last night a constitutional Government had ceased to exist in Denmark with the advent of the German military dictatorship.

His announcement was considered significant by Danes hoping to form an exiled Government affiliated with the United Nations because the 62-year-old minister is a personal envoy of the interned King Christian X.

(In London, the Danish Conservative Leader, Christmas Moeller declared the Free Danish Council was against setting up an "exile" Government at the present time."

("If the head of the State of Denmark (King Christian) had been outside the frontiers of the country our position would have been clear," Moeller said at a public meeting of the council yesterday. "When he could have set up a Government which would have the recognition of all.")

Pepless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet—you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and pepless.

Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They are world-noted for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

Wholesale Eggs Nears Ceiling

Canada Packers reported today an increase in the wholesale price of eggs to 49½ cents for the grade A dozen.

Over a period of six weeks or more the market has advanced four to five cents a dozen, and is now almost at the wholesale ceiling of 50 cents for the top grade. The retail limit is 55 cents.

This section of the produce market has been unsettled for some time. Montreal has usually quoted the higher level of prices, but at present Toronto is probably half a cent above the western price. Receipts of western eggs have a tendency to reduce the eastern quotations, but at present the market is said to be generally firm.

65,000 Germans Lost In Norway

LONDON, Sept. 2—(CP).— The Germans lost 65,000 men killed or disabled in their invasion of Norway in 1940, Rear Admiral Hjalmar Riiser-Larsen, chief of the Norwegian Air Force, declared to-day.

At the end of the campaign, the Admiral said, the Germans demanded that the Norwegians pay pensions to the widows and dependents of the Nazi soldiers killed or wounded in the invasion. Norway promptly agreed.

"I am surprised that you accept," said the German General who transmitted the demand.

"Not at all," replied the Norwegian official with whom the General was dealing. "Hitler announced that you lost only 1,163 killed and wounded. We can afford to pay pensions for them."

The Germans, Riiser-Larsen said, thereupon dropped their demands.

Spent 10 Months At Whitehorse

On a vacation trip from Whitehorse, Yukon, Stroyan Leith, Jr., made the Pacific leg to Edmonton at a 14,000 foot ceiling requiring the opening of oxygen tanks most of the way for the fourteen passengers, including two girls returning south to continue university courses.

Mr. Leith is a radio aviation technician with the Department of Transport, and has been absent in the Yukon for ten months, including the winter with its maximum low of 62 below zero.

"We left Whitehorse at 1.15 o'clock Sunday morning," he told the Examiner to-day "and rolled up the 985 miles to Edmonton in six hours. The pilot told us to sit tight and get ready for rough weather that would force him to higher air lanes. At 14,000 feet the main reaction was a feeling of constriction of your lungs as if they were being crushed inward."

Mr. Leith has a furlough of twenty-five days from Edmonton.

New Meat Order Clarifies Laws

The new Wartime Prices and Trade Board order which went into effect on Monday of this week consolidates and amends all existing wholesale and retail beef prices orders, it was stated to-day by W. E. Foley, local manager.

The order makes no change whatever in the Government policy as previously announced respecting maximum wholesale beef prices and floor prices, Mr. Foley said. So far as the purchase of beef by the general public throughout Canada was concerned, the new order had two principal objectives:

First, to ensure that any decline in wholesale prices will be reflected in correspondingly lower prices to the consumer; and second, to provide a standard system of cutting and pricing for retailers whereby consumers in all communities in Canada, except remote areas, will know from week to week the highest price per pound that may be charged in individual store concerned, for the desired cut of any quality of beef, Mr. Foley stated.

Mayor Hamilton Welcomes New V.O.N.

Ever since the establishment of the Victorian Order of Nurses in Peterborough His Worship Mayor Hamilton has taken a keen interest in the activities of the organization. Here he is seen welcoming Miss Helen Furlong of Ottawa, who comes to the city as the third nurse on the local staff.

Third Nurse Joins The Staff Of Victorian Order Of Nurses

Recently arrived in Peterborough to fill a vacancy on the staff of the Victorian Order of Nurses is Miss Helen Furlong of Ottawa, who comes here on her first appointment.

Miss Furlong, who was born and brought up in the capital, received her training at the Ottawa General Hospital and took the public health course at McGill University. For nine months she worked in a temporary capacity with the Victorian Order in Toronto, and now, appointed by the National Board of the Order in Ottawa, she takes up her position here to give of her training, her knowledge and her enthusiasm in the interests of the city's health and social welfare.

Miss Furlong has been in Peterborough only a short time, but it is long enough for her to have formed a definite impression of it. "The people are friendly and nice," she says, "grand to work with, and there is a real spirit of co-operation and appreciation of our Order's services."

Her interest in the kind of work she is doing now goes a long ways back, Miss Furlong said. Always interested in people, in finding out "what makes them tick" and why they are as they are, she has made quite a study of social problems and has belonged to various social clubs. She has done a lot of reading—she had senior maticulation before she entered hospital training—and is an earnest student of sociology and sychology.

It would not be fair to look upon Miss Furlong as a stranger in our midst, and it wouldn't have been correct to do so even on the day she arrived. As a Victorian nurse, she made a study of the place of her appointment before she came to take up her position, and is primed with facts and statistics that would be news to many a life-long resident. Before she ever saw Peterborough she could have given you a resume—and not a sketchy one, either—of the city's history; she could—and can—tell you such thing as the percentages of foreign-born and native-born persons. "I even learned the names of the streets," she said.

In her hospital training Miss Furlong learned how to care for the sick, and in her public health work she studied the aspect of preventive medicine with which the Victorian Order of Nurses so largely deals as it looks after the welfare of its community and the maintenance of general health. Prior to coming here, Miss Furlong also trained for a short time attached to schools and industries, and spend a period of four weeks doing Victorian Order fieldwork.

6 Farmers Hear Of Unit Plan

Six representatives of the farmers of this county were nominated to attend the rural conference in Toronto to-day arranged by the new Minister of Agriculture, Colonel T. L. Kennedy. They were Reeve M. H. Johnston, North Monaghan, chairman of the Peterborough County Agricultural War Committee; George Mullen, of Smith, president of the County Federation of Agriculture; Harry Reid, Otonabee, chairman of the agricultural committee of the county council in which he is Deputy-Reeve; Mrs. F. E. Birdsall, representing the Women's Institute as a director of the Federation of Agriculture; Gordon Hancock as president of the Crop Improvement Association, and George Elliott of Norwood, president of the County Cheese Producers Association.

A feature of the conference is expected to be a talk by Premier Drew on the county unit system adopted for wartime in Great Britain by which special authority was assigned to county agricultural boards for the purpose of bringing about the utmost efficiency and production from Britain's farm industry.

Thomas P. Manson, head of the system in Great Britain, will address the conference.

Cars Damaged On River Road

Two automobiles were damaged but no one was hurt in a traffic accident involving three cars on the River Road, just north of Peterborough Wednesday night.

R. McNaughton, R.R. 9, Peterborough, was driving his car north on the River Road and was making a left turn toward the river where Johnson Motors' employees were staging a corn roast.

Gerald Rylott, R.R. 7, was driving close behind and when the other car turned, slammed on his brakes, and came to a sudden stop and as he did so a third car, also northbound, and driven by Ralph Armstrong, 623 Armour Road, collided with Rylott's machine.

The latter car was badly damaged, two doors, the running board and fenders being smashed. Armstrong's car had the headlights and grill damaged.

Provincial Constable Price Morris investigated.

Permits for houses were issued from the office of City Engineer Parsons to W. J. Koster, to build on Sherbrooke street; J. E. Cooke, on Water street north; and Eric Hunter, McCannan avenue.

Fifty-seven permits, most of them for small amounts, totalled last month $38,462, and similar figures for August last year were 37 permits for $48,880.

Peterborough's total building values for eight months were $177,025 this year and $242,955 last.

The permit items last month were: 8 garages, $1,065; 3 dwellings, $10,500; 46 miscellaneous, $25,897. Total, $38,462.

And in August last year: 4 garages, $430; 10 dwellings, $37,700; 27 miscellaneous, $10,650. Total $48,800.

He has been missing for eight months, after a flight over Europe last December, and was listed as missing in February of this year. Down Their Alley

BERNE, Sept. 2 (AP)—The Italian press prominently displayed the entire speech of Pope Pius XII yesterday appealing for a worthy peace."

The Swiss Telegraphic Agency said today the broadcast appeared under such headings as "Give nations hope of dignified peace" and "Do not offend rights to life and honor."

The dispatch said the display was significant in view of the fact the Pope's words were published briefly, if at all, on back pages during the Mussolini regime.

Flight-Sgt. Max Graham, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Graham, 229 Edinburgh Street, was in a Halifax bomber in the massive raid on Berlin Tuesday night, which smashed the Hun capital to open the fifth year of the war. The big bomber carrying Graham arrived back without mishap.

HeavyMarketing Of Poultry In Wide Areas

Marketing of poultry is specially mentioned as a present activity along the rural front as reflected in the weekly report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Processing plants in Lambton are "very busy," each turning out 500 to 1,000 birds a day. Lennox & Addington comments that "chickens are going out as fast as they become fitted."

Most of the harvesting of the spring grains is nearing completion; 80 per cent in Grey; 95 per cent in Frontenac; 85 per cent in Perth county. Renfrew early sown oats are yielding 45 to 50 bushels to the acre, but Middlesex in the western area says oats are very light, as low as 10 to 25 bushels, with many fields being cut only for feed.

Pastures in Leeds are excellent, and the milk flow continues above normal. Many of the farmers in that country say they are having difficulty getting feed for hogs. Some grain fields are being cut with the mower, being too short to bind. Farmers are ordering heavily of western feed grain.

Corn, buckwheat and potatoes are generally flourishing with promise of high returns.

Hastings farmers are preparing for fall wheat an acreage considerably above the average. That is another fairly general prospect, and includes Peterborough county. At any rate fields that were left fallow this summer because the spring was adverse to getting in the crop. They have been getting midyear atention to check weed growth, and will be plowed again for seeding with fall wheat.

Halton farmers estimate their oats and barley as the most disappointing yield in the history of their county, a condition that points the cause of the heavy buying of western grain.

Gets Divorce

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Sept 2 — (AP)— Abuddy Baer, former heavyweight boxer, brother of former world's heavyweight champion Max Baer, and now a corporal in the United States Army, was sued for divorce yesterday. Ralpha Pearl Baer charges extreme cruelty and asks for custody of her two-year-old daughter and support for the child. A property settlement has been reached out of court.

Stall On Market Adds $13 For War Victims

Stall on the market made available to the Peterborough and District War Victims Fund may really be said to represent one of the better opportunities whereby the city and district may co-operate for the purpose of giving aid to the sufferers from air raid attacks over Britain.

Through it, the farmers from the surrounding country have an opportunity to help by donating produce from their farms, while those living in this urban centre play their part by purchasing what has been made available by the former in this manner, and the beauty of it all lies in the fact that every cent thus raised goes to help the fund and the objects it seeks to serve in the combined name of all who live in this district.

Last Saturday proved no exception to the rule for good that this one activity has done for the fund, once again Mrs. J. E. Parker of Norwood being in charge herself supplying much of the produce assisted by E. Haig who donated thimble berries, Miss B. Shearer who gave flowers, Mrs. V. Sweeting who donated a variety of goods, and a friend who left a basket of peppers.

From this Mrs. Parker realized the sum of $11.40, which was augmented by an additional $1.65 from sales made by Mrs. Sweeting later in the day, making a total of $13.05 as a result of this one day's effort on behalf of the fund. The Parker total for the fund has now risen to $1,098.80 as a result of this latest addiion to the resuls of their prevlous efforts.

This next Saturday, the stall will again be in operation, under the oversight of Mrs. Sweeting, and there will also be tickets sold for a draw on a silver dish and tray donated by Schneider's Jewellery Store for that purpose, where every attempt will be made to dispose of them to the best advantage to the fund in the interests of their donors.

It is some time since penny box at the N. D. Sidey Store at Bewdley has appeared in his column, due to the necessity for conserving gasoline, so the appearance of their $1.10 to-day is a reminder that it is still on the job to help in the humanitarium objects on which the fund has always based is appeal.

Model Team and Wagon.

C. F. Greenman of 570 Douglas Avenue has a model team and wagon, and to his daughter Lois goes the credit for the suggestion that he give it to the fund for the purpose of raising money, and so he is sponsoring the sale of tickets for a draw which will take place in a week's time.

This has every promise of proving quite a success, and it is hoped to have it on display at this coming Saturday's market where tickets will also be available for all who wish to procure them.

"Ever Try to Burn Glass and Stones?"

City householders are being asked this question today by operators at the Incinerator.

Glass, stones and similar refuse will not burn in your stove or furnace at home. And operators at the incinerator cannot make it burn any better in their fire. Such refuse, which is not garbage, just clogs the incinerator grates and is a big nuisance to the operators.

So the Incinerator men are suggesting, even pleading, that householders place unburnable refuse in containers separate from the garbage. Then it will be collected on the second collection each week by garbage men at the same time they pick up the ashes. It will go direct to the City dumps for disposal.

"That will be a big help to us" say the Incinerator operators.

Canadian Wood Helps Beat Hitler

Another dramatic chapter in the story of Canadian industry has been recorded in the Brantford plant of Cockshutt Moulded Aircraft, Ltd., in the making of wooden fuselages for Avro-Anson training bombers. Thirteen months ago the plant did not even exist. Picture shows the three sections of the fuselage in final assembly, for a plane which is playing a vital part in helping to beat Hitler. The Anson has gone further in substituting wood for various parts and fixtures than any plane made today.

U.S. Air Bases Close Enough To Raid Tokio

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2—(AP).—The United States now has air fields as close to Japan as the aircraft carrier Hornet was when it loosed the planes of Maj.-Gen. James Doolittle for the "Shangri-la" bombing of Japan last year, Lt.-Gen. John L. Dewitt said yesterday.

The General indicated he believed shuttle-bombing trips over Japan from the Aleutians to China with heavy four-engine planes would not be as difficult as the Doolittle flight, and when the question of supply at both ends of such a route is solved, such an enterprise becomes more likely.

Dewitt, of the Western Defence Command, who has just returned from the Aleutians where he witnessed the bloodless fall of Kiska to an American-Canadian force, said at a press conference that operations demonstrated the success of the old military strategy of getting behind the enemy to destroy him.

Future operations are matters which will have to be decided by the High Command, Dewitt said. He indicated, however, that he feels successful landings can be made by Allied forces in the Kuriles, which stretch toward Japan's northernmost stronghold at Paramushiro.

Paramushiro has been bombed by United States fliers at least three times during the last few months and development of bases in the outermost Aleutians makes it constantly more vulnerable.

He Wants To Do More

He lost two legs over Cologne, but Flight-Sergeant George Calver wants more than anything else to fly again, and it is very likely he will, with the help of his two brand new, lengthier artificial legs. Aircraft workers building Mosquitos were visited by Calver and Air Marshal W. A. Bishop recently and heard the story of Calver's adventures first hand. Here is Calver with Air Marshal Bishop just after the meeting.

New Zealanders Welcome Mrs. Roosevelt

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, Sept. 2 — (C Cable). — New Zealanders attending a civic reception today for Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt heard Defence Minister Frank Jones say that he had suggested to President Roosevelt while in Washington that the next Churchill-Roosevelt conference be held in New Zealand.

Referring to this, Mrs. Roosevelt said she had received the following cable from her husband: "I feel everything went very well at Quebec."

Mayor J. A. C. Allums of Auckland assured Mrs. Roosevelt that "so long as American sons and daughters are serving here we regard their welfare as a sacred trust."

He said the visit of the President's wife to the Dominion had "given us great pleasure." In reply Mrs. Roosevelt expressed hope for international unity after victory as a surety for a happier world, especially for young people.

Todays ceremony followed a reception last night at Rotorua where Mrs. Roosevelt was greeted by Maori tribal chiefs as the "Queen of a Great Democracy."

Six Small Boys Missed On Coast

VANCOUVER, Sept. 2.—(CP). — Fishermen and Provincial Police yesterday searched Howe Sound, some 10 miles northwest of here, for six teen-age boys missing on a camping expedition. One of three small sailboats in which they were travelling was found Tuesday overturned and adrift off Gambier Island.

Parents of the boys said it was possible the boat slipped its moorings during the night and was upset by the running sea. Lack of communications, however, made it necessary to conduct a search.

The boys, who left Vancouver Monday, included James Green, son of Howard Green, Progressive Conservative Member of Parliament for Vancouver South.

Creamery Trouble

GALT, Sept. 2 (CP). — Local creamery officials said today creameries in the Galt-New Dundee-Kitchener group are joining in protests by the Central Ontario group against the zoning of cream truck routes proposed by the Prices Board. A meeting of district creamery men suggested that placing of cream at the roadside for pickup would save more in gasoline and tires than the proposed zoning.

Newsprint Cost Climbs Again

NEW YORK, Sept. 2—(AP). — The second increase of the year in the price of newsprint in the United States became effective yesterday, lifting the basic cost to $58 a ton or 16 per cent. more than the price before the United States entered the war.

The latest increase, $4 a ton, was on top of a previous $4 rise granted last March 1. Both were granted by the office of Price Administration and the Canadian Prices Board.

A joint Canadian-American announcement in late July indicating upward adjustment was to compensate for increased costs to paper mills of obtaining pulpwood, the material from which paper is made. Major Canadian producers had asked for $6 more a ton, while in March the plea had been for an increase of $8 ton.

Aggregate paper costs of American newspapers, on the basis of latest consumption figures from the Newsprint Association of Canada, were boosted about $15,000,000 a year to approximately $215,000,000 by the new increase.

The $58-a-ton price is the "port price" for standard newsprint. "Super standard" newsprint will rise to $61.50.

48th Highland Unit Hard Hit In Attack

TORONTO, Sept. 2 (CP).— a letter to his wife and two young sons here, Pte. George Coomby, 27-year-old member of Toronto's 48th Highlanders, related how in one Canadian attack in Sicily only 25 out of the 140 men in B Company of the regiment came out unscathed.

The letter did not reveal the particular attack to which reference was made. It was written from a Canadian hospital in North Africa, where Coomby is recovering from a foot wound. He lost one of his toes when a piece of shrapnel went through his boot.

"One night our company was rapped by the enemy," Coomby wrote. "I believe everyone of us thought it was our last. They machine-gunned us all night...I have learned since coming to hospital that only 25 of the 140 men in the company came out of the attack unharmed."

Publishing a picture of the company, the Toronto Star said next-of-kin of all casualties in the particular action have been notified.

The Government "should also set a standard for food allowances," he said, adding that the Ontario government has just completed a survey of the food allowances for those on relief.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 2.—(AP). —A police detective to-day shot and killed a confessed rapist who had been twice wounded Tuesday at a police shot-up here by United States Coast Guard Lieutenant Commander whose little daughter had pointed him out with cries of "that's the man."

The dead man is William Stevens, 36, who confessed, police said, to at least five assaults upon young girls enticed to his car with promise of a ride and candy and then threatened with a knife.

Stevens was killed by a bullet fired into his chest by Detective Joseph Vigurie after he had been moved from police station to be taken to the detective's headquarters for further questioning.

Vigurie said Stevens tried to get away.

Big Canadian Bombers Raid Berlin

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 2 — (CP Cable) —Four-engined bombers of the R.C.A.F. bomber group joined the R.A.F. in rekindling Berlin's fires during the night as the war entered the new year.

As in the last major raid on Berlin, the Nazis sent swarms of night fighters up against the assault force and of 47 missing bombers, eight were Canadian. In the last massive raid on Berlin, on the night of August 23, the Canadian bomber group lost seven planes.

Berlin, because of its distance, is a job calling for the biggest bombers, so the Canadian group sent only its Halifaxes and Lancasters. It was not announced how many Canadian planes participated, but they would be enough to give the Canadian group good representation over such an outstanding target, while hundreds of other Canadians flew in R.A.F. planes.

Ground defences were comparatively ineffective, returning crews reported, but night fighters were most bothersome. Low clouds made visibility difficult but airmen said they could see Berlin fires spreading from large explosions. Officially the damage was classified as "great."

While the big bombers were going to the Nazi capital R.C.A.F. Mosquitoes carried out low-level operations against airfields and rail targets of Northern France.

36 Jap Planes Destroyed In Battle

By WILLIAM HIPPLE
Associated Press War Correspondent.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTH PACIFIC, Sept. 2 — (AP). —U.S. fighters battled 50 to 60 Zeros which attempted to intercept an American attack on Kahili airfield on Bougainville Island and destroyed 36 of the enemy planes, a spokesman at South Pacific Headquarters disclosed yesterday.

The air victory was achieved on Monday. American losses were "very light," the spokesman said.

(Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique reporting Monday's action said fighters strafed airdrome dispersal areas at Kahili, destroying eight enemy planes on the ground. There was no mention of 36 enemy planes destroyed in the air battle.)

The fight took place over Kahili Field, which is Japan's strongest and largest remaining airbase in the Northern Solomon Islands. It is being pounded daily.

At the same time the spokesman said 227 Japanese planes were knocked down during August in the South Pacific by planes and anti-aircraft defences. This was better than five times the American losses he said.

For the first time South Pacific Headquarters disclosed a new Japanese fighter plane, called Type 3, had been in action in the South Pacific area. One was shot down in Monday's raid on Kahili airdrome.

"We are seeing increasing numbers of the new type 37s," the spokesman added, "but so far there is no reason to believe they are greatly superior to the Zero."

69 Decorations Given In August

OTTAWA, Sept. 2—(CP).—The R.C.A.F. reported yesterday that 69 decorations were awarded to R.C.A.F. personnel overseas during August and seven to personnel in Canada— "the highest number of awards to be made in a single month since the outbreak of war."

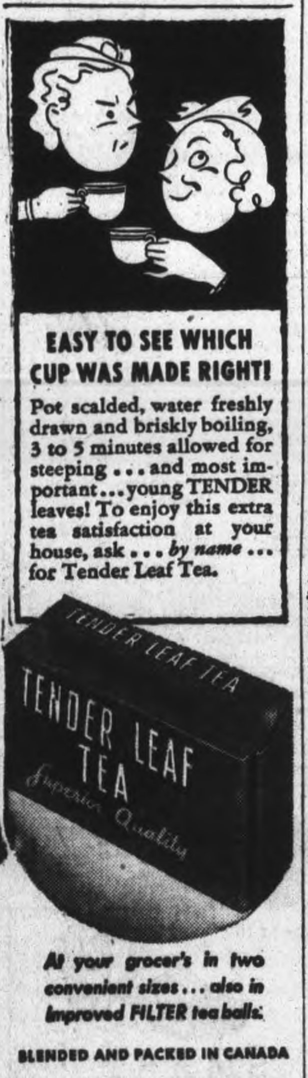
The highest monthly mark previously attained was 68 awards in June.

Included in the August total were one Distinguished Service Order awarded to Wing Cmdr. Lloyd Chadburn, D.F.C., of Aurora, Ont., and one Bar to the D.F.C., awarded to Sqdn. Ldr. V. C. McAuley, of Toronto.

Forty-six D.F.C.'s were included in the list; one of them won in Canada by Flt. Lt. F. C. Colborne of Dartmouth, N.S., in recognition of anti-submarine operations off the East Coast.

Twenty-two Distinguished Flying Medals were awarded to non-commissioned airmen for gallantry in the face of the enemy.

In Canada the award of two George Medals and four British Empire Medals was made during the month.



Fliers Discover Targets In Daily Routine

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

SOMEWHERE IN BRITAIN, Sept. 2 — (CP). — Pin-pointing targets on a map, jotting down notes, broadcasting concise reports and at the same time flying a Mustang at 250 miles an hour are the jobs a reconnaissance flier has to handle in the Tactical Air Force.

"Frankly," said Capt. Ken Dawson of Toronto, air liaison officer of one of the Canadian divisions, "I don't know how they do it. There's something almost superhuman, a sixth sense maybe, that makes pilots click the way these youngsters do."

Dawson and Capt. E. M. Clarke of Windsor, Ont., were handling reports from Canadian, British and Australian pilots co-operating with Canadian troops in a training exercise against a Polish armored division. In three days, Mustang pilots flew more than 100 sorties, spotting "enemy" positions for the Canadian command and relaying back whatever other information they could gather.

When war correspondents visited the liaison officers headquarters on the edge of a huge airfield, Dawson was studying reports just brought in by one of the pilots of what he had seen over a river the Poles were defending.

A Thorough Job.

The job was no sooner done than a pilot came in from a sortie over the enemy lines. He had important information about gun and tank positions and some 15 minutes after he had made his report Typhoons, representing light bombers on this scheme, were on the way to bomb.

It wasn't quite that simple and here is what happened from the time the Mustang pilot landed to the first Typhoon take-off.

Bringing his notes with him, the pilot came to Dawson's "office" in a camouflaged truck. He reported what he had seen, pin-pointing each position on the map before him.

"There were 40 tanks at this reference," he said, "and 25 here. None was moving and the Poles were just beginning to cover them with camouflage nets. Here was a six-pounder anti-tank gun; there was another 30 yards south. Six trucks were on this road at this point."

And so it went. A strong Polish position had been spotted accurately, by a pilot flying 250 miles an hour, 300 feet or less from the ground.

Dawson called the composite group headquarters, relaying the pilot's information. Some of it had already been received, for as he flew the pilot broadcast what he saw and the locations.

Group was impressed by the tank concentration and inside of five minutes a message came through to another truck a few yards from Dawson's, where R.A.F. officers were handling the bombing end of the T.A.F.

Pilots Hustle.

Eight Typhoons were to be sent to attack the positions. Pilots came hustling from dispersal to find their targets on a map propped up between the trucks. They discussed in a matter of seconds the way they would go in, then raced to their aircraft and took off.

To an outsider it seemed as though it would have been simpler and faster for Dawson to pass over his information to the R.A.F. officer in the other truck and have him send out the Typhoons, rather than wait for orders from group many miles away. The R.A.F. officer explained it this way:

"In operations an army commander has to fight two wars—one in the air, the other on the ground. If he hasn't got control of the air he's not going to be able to fight as he wants on the ground.

"For this reason the air situation has to be reviewed before planes can be allocated to ground jobs. A divisional commander may want six squadrons to attack a position, but if four of these are needed to maintain air superiority he can have only two."

Navy Minister Names V. Brodeur

OTTAWA, Sept. 2 — (CP). — Navy Minister Macdonald last night announced appointment of Rear-Admiral Victor G. Brodeur, 51, as commanding officer Pacific Coast, and his temporary replacement as naval member of the Canadian joint staff in Washington by Capt. V. S. Godfrey, 45, formerly Admiral Brodeur's chief of staff.

Comomdore W. J. R. Beech, 48, former commanding officer Pacific Coast, is proceeding on leave before taking up a new appointment, not announced.

A Navy spokesman said the raising of the Pacific Coast command from Commodore to Rear-Admiral status has "no signicance."

Admiral Brodeur, a native of Beloeil, Que., has had a long career with the Royal Navy and Royal Canadian Navy, more than 16 of his 33 years' service having been afloat.

Capt. Godfrey was born in London, England, and educated in Ottawa and at Royal Naval College, Halifax, which he entered at 14.

The law provides for application to the County Judge to have the premises closed for a term of one year following conviction for conducting a gaming house.

Clerics Decide Birthrate Much Too Low

TORONTO, Sept. 2 — Canada should open her doors to war refugees from Europe whose lives could be saved by prompt action, and face up to the responsibility of large-hearted admission of Jew or Gentile after the war, said Canon W. W. Judd, addressing delegates to the Canadian Malvern Conference in Trinity College last night.

The Church of England in Canada had taken the lead in this regard, Canon Judd said, adding that to arouse the good-will of Canadians toward European refugees was "a hard thing to do, even with Christians who go to church Sunday by Sunday. We in our secure Western world have become very complacent. Only those refugees who could pay their way have been allowed in. This in the face of the blood, death and agony in Europe today!"

Replacement Births

On the question of "keeping Canada British," Canon Judd said the maintenance of British stock in this Dominion depended not only upon immigration from the British Isles but upon the natural increase of people of British stock here. "The maintenance of a replacement birth rate is essential. We have failed in this. The people in Great Britain will not produce children to people Canada!" he said.

Referring to the 23,000 Japanese-Canadians removed from defense areas, Canon Judd deplored the attitude of various communities — "even Toronto the Good"—which denied help to the Federal Government in receiving these people. He pointed out that block settlement of these Japanese-Canadians could have been thus prevented and they could have been assimilated readily.

Traffic Toll Up

TORONTO, Sept. 2—(CP).—Mayor F. J. Conboy of Toronto, alarmed at the city's increased traffic accident death rate of 52 persons killed to date this year, compared with 35 in the like period of 1942, has asked Chief Constable D. C. Draper for a report on methods to combat the mounting death toll.

Search Burning Freighter For 30 Bodies

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Sept. 2 (CP)—Preparations were being made here today to search the still-smouldering Allied freighter, towed here Tuesday from 300 miles at sea, for the bodies of more than 30 of her more than 70-man crew, which an inquest here last night listed as "missing." Only three men aboard her survived a collision with another merchantman and a subsequent fire.

The inquest was held over the bodies of 34 of the victims which were brought ashore here two days ago. The hearing found that the men died of burns due to a fire on the ship caused by a collision at sea. Royal Canadian Navy witnesses testified no enemy action had been involved. There was no evidence as to the condition of the other vessel involved in the crash.

The three survivors of the sea tragedy have been taken to St. John's, Nfld.

Carried Ammunition

The smouldering ship, beached in a corner of this harbor, apparently carried ammunition, for from time to time the popping of explosive such as small arms ammunition has been heard by those on shore.

A representative of the ship's owners at the inquest, however, stated that the vessel was carrying a "general cargo."

Only three of the charred bodies brought in aboard the ship were identified last night. They were those of Pierre Trahan, Jr., Arnodville, La., and J. L. Baker and Charles E. Hicks, home addresses unknown. Identification was made by tags on the seamen. It was not known whether the three were members of the merchant navy in the ship's crew or whether they belonged to the 26-man naval gun crew the vessel carried.

The 34 bodies brought ashore were being kept at Undertaking establishments here. It was expected they would be buried at their port—likely without identification for the greater number of them.

Gestapo Using Gassing Vans

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 — (AP). — The Soviet-sponsored Free Germany National Committee on Tuesday night charged generals of the German army with responsibility for "mass murders and executions" which it said were perpetrated in Russia by Nazi Elite Guards and countenanced by the army.

One method used, said the committee in a broadcast beamed to Germany and recorded here by the United States Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service, was the "gassing van."

Such vans, it was charged, operated several months at Krasnodar, where "thousands of Soviet people were murdered by the Gestapo with approval and co-operation of the commander of the 17th Army, Col.-Gen. Reuff.

The "gassing vans" were described in a newspaper article written by a vice-president of the Free German National Committee, a Major Hetz, the broadcast said and quoted him as saying that one he saw at Smolensk was a three-ton truck fitted with an air-tight body to which exhaust gasses were piped.

"Twenty to thirty persons could be executed simultaneously," the broadcast quoted the article as saying.

BUSY MAN AT 72

W. J. Hyner of Suffolk, at 72, holds down 13 jobs.

SOON . . . BELLS WILL BE RINGING

throughout this vast Dominion . . . calling all young Canadians back to school.

In school will be taught not only reading and writing and how to calculate figures, but also: the history of this great country and the Commonwealth of Nations of which it is a member.

They, our Boys and Girls, safer from physical harm than the children on any other of the world's warring continents, will sit in peaceful classrooms, and will be instructed by thoughtful, cultured men and women.

By example and through the heritage of literature, Canada's children will learn about unselfishness and friendliness and the rights of their little associates.

And, in time, from out these schools will come a Young Canada reared and educated in the abiding tradition of Democracy and Freedom.

These, our very young people, are Canada's stake in the future.

To the school teachers of Canada has been given a task of inestimable worth and far-reaching consequence. At School Opening time we wish them happy and successful days in their great work.

Of Interest to Women

Variations On A Theme

By ALICE ALDEN

IT'S AMAZING to see the variations on the short-skirted after dark frock so important this season. Working with virtually the same trimmings—sequin, jet and lace—designers show tremendous versatility in their handling of the accents that mark this type of frock. This otherwise simple dress of black celanese crepe becomes a gala affair through the good offices of the necklace-neckline of black jet beads and sequins. Shaved ostrich trims the black velvet calot.

DOROTHY DIX

MOTHER HATES GIRL'S MATE AND TRIES TO PART COUPLE. No One Likes Such a Parent; Ignore Antics to Stop Her Abuse.

"Dear Miss Dix: I am 23 years old, married to the most wonderful man on earth, and have an adorable baby girl. But here is my problem: Mother did not want me to marry, but devote my life to her. So I did so without her consent. She has hated my husband ever since and has done everything possible to separate us. We have tried to be nice to her but when we do she always seems to get worse. What shall I do? Leave her completely alone and have people criticize me? Mother tells them I will not have anything to do with her. Or shall I be friendly and have her mistreat my husband?—Troubled Daughter."

ANSWER: What your mother needs is some wholesome neglect to bring her to her senses. She is acting like a spoiled child and should be treated like one. As long as your mother sees that she can make you and your husband miserable by throwing tantrums she will revenge herself on you for defying her and getting married by acting unreasonable. But if you will just ignore her antics and she sees that they are futile your mother will stop her foolish behavior, just as you can stop a bad child's howling by walking away and leaving it to cry alone. It takes an audience to make one's "mad" effective.

We always picture mothers as a species of human angels, tender and forgiving, putting their children's happiness before their own, and, thank God, most of them are that way, but there are devilish mothers as well as angelic ones. And we have all known plenty of cases of parents who deliberately ruined their children's lives to make them pay for daring to revolt against the mother's tyranny.

It seems incredible that a mother would go about smearing her children and trying to prejudice people by complaining that the youngsters were neglecting their parent, or failed to provide for her, but it happens very often. And many a mother who wanted to monopolize the earnings of a son or daughter and is infuriated at his or her marriage, never ceases bearing tales and stirring up trouble until she breaks up a marriage.

It is an appalling situation for children to be placed in, especially those who wish to do their duty by mothers, but they should meet it with common sense and object to their homes being broken up. Children should see that their mothers do not want for ordinary comforts of life, and then leave them alone, to stew in their own evil natures. These youngsters should not be influenced by any fear of what their mothsrs say about them. No one worth while will give such tales credence, for no woman is more repellent to everyone than a mother who turns against her own children.

"Dear Miss Dix: My husband and I have been very happily married until now. We have two small children. He told me the other night about a girl who works in the shop where he is employed, and to whom he is attracted. When I asked him if he was in love with her he said it couldn't be because he liked me more than anyone in the world, but he can't get the other girl out of his mind. He has never taken her out, or been alone with this girl. He is thinking of enlisting in the service. I told him not to run away from anything, that he should stay and face it, but he says that it is his plan to avoid something he does not want to happen. Please tell me what we should do.—Mrs. W. B."

ANSWER—"He who fights and runs away lives to fight another day," says the old rhyme, and this goes double when one is fighting against the temptation to engage in an illicit love affair. Then the only safety consists in flight. For there is nothing like absence to dispel an illusion and cure a man of an infatuation. So I think that your husband shows he is not only an honorable man but a very wise one by enlisting and getting away from a girl who attracts him before the affair goes further. Propinquity is the great matchmaker but separation is equally effective as a preventive. Not many men, even when they are genuinely in love, can keep their affections at boiling point when they are parted from a woman for a long time. And in a case like your husband's, when he is merely attracted to a girl it would almost certainly be out of sight, out of mind.

DEAR MISS DIX—My mother reared six sons and two daughters. Four boys are sergeants in the army. Another is in a defence plant, and the other, blind, doing war work. My sister's husband was lost at Luzon. She is a war widow with three small children. She is working saving war scrap and fat. I am waiting for a call to work in an airplane factory and, like my husband, buying war bonds. We have cousins fighting on all battle fronts. I wonder if Hitler thinks he can whip a country with families like ours MRS. H. P.

ANSWER—If he does the Nazi dictator has guessed wrong. And there are, thank God, plenty of families like yours. You have a right to be proud of your record.

DEAR MISS DIX—My sister, in her twenties, was engaged for three years to a young man who begged her to marry him before he went to camp. She refused as she wanted to wait until he returned. Lately she received word that he married a girl he met at a camp dance. But the problem is this: He gave my sister a diamond ring and $100 to keep for him until they were married so as to furnish their home. Now he writes, asking her to please send him the money. She wanted to know what what I would do if it were me. When I said I would return the ring and money she became angry. Now my sister says she will not give him back either. What is your view of this matter SISTER.

ANSWER—Good taste and even common honesty requires her to return both the ring and the money.

Winter Dinner Dress

Beige wool jersey is cut slimly and crusted with jet embroidery in a Paisley design. Black belt and black accessories for this New York creation.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE short dinner dress goes on, and in this model above, at least, it is ready for a fuel-short Winter.

The usefulness of a frock which is both warm and stylish has long been appreciated, but for after-dark doings it is still news. The woman who lives in the city, or in the wide open spaces, will enjoy a frock like this beige wool jersey and jet model . . and it's quite a find for the commutor stepping out in town, too.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

Dear Mary Moore—I got the recipe I am sending you out of a new cook book and you may have seen it, but I think it is so good I am going to send it anyway. My son happened to be home on leave and it was on our meatless day—but he said meat or not there was no place like home for food—and this was what he referred to:

Marguerite's Cheese Custard Pie (Contributed by Margaret Church)

Pastry: 1 cup pastry flour, 1½ tablespoons lard, 1½ tablespoons butter, ¾ teaspoon baking powder, 1-3 teaspoon salt. 3 tablespoons ice water. Work the lard and butter into the flour, baking powder and salt, and moisten just enough to make the dough hold togeher with the ice water. Roll out dough and line small pan or baking dish with it—dish should be 2 inches deep. Bake this crust for 20 minutes in hot oven of 450 deg. Fahr. Cool, and fill with the following cheese custard:

Cheese Custard: 1¾ cups top milk or cream scalded, 1 cup grated cheese, ½ teaspoon salt. ¼ teaspoon paprika, ½ teaspoon grated onion, a few grains cayenne, 3 eggs. Heat cream and cheese and stir until melted, then add all but eggs. Beat eggs and stir them in. Pour into the pie crust and bake in slow oven of 325 deg. Fahr. until custard is firm—about 45 minutes. Best served immediately with hot chili sauce.—M. Church.

Thanks, Mrs. Church. I call this pie Guiche Lorraine, but add 1 cup ground ham. Give again!

THE STARS SAY

BY GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, September 3

TODAY'S auguries are most auspicious for all well-directed efforts at putting the affairs and fortunes on a firm, secure and enduring basis. It might be wise to plan on some clever and far reaching programs for accomplishing this, despite several annoying and exasperating situations, as well as sudden or unexpected resistance of a strange nature or unforeseen circumstance. Withal, new tactics and approaches may best accelerate this stabilization program, which should mean increased possessions. The more personal side of things also may enjoy enhanced happiness and progress.

Those whose birthday it is are seen to have the good fortune of being able to place their future progress, possessions and purposes upon a firm and enduring foundation, promising security and independence for the future. This against some strange antagonism or influence of sudden and surprising appearance, best manipulated by patience and restraint rather than tempest and fury.

A child born on this day may have much stability and responsibility of character, with perseverance and splendid mentality.

Passementerie and Velvet

Black wool is cut for a coat of slim silhouette and warmly interlined. The trimming is black braid passementerie work with velvet inlays on round collar and wrist cuffs.

A CLOTH coat which can compete with handsome fur models in the Winter scene is not easily found unless it's a custom-made notion worked up between a master tailor and yourself. But occasionally one comes along from one of the important designing and manufacturing houses . . . a winner like the model above.

Chapter Plans Fall Activity

The September meeting of the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. was held Wednesday afternoon in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. with the regent Mrs. A. Leach presiding. During the business period the chapter decided to support the Corvette, "City of Peterborough" by filling ditty bags, and sending other comforts. Plans for the fall season were discussed and it was decided that bridge parties at the homes of members and a tea at the home of Mrs. Leach would be held on September 22, and that a rummage sale would be held early in October. A tea and bridge were also planned for October 27. Further announcements of these events will appear in the press.

Gathering Honors Huffman Family

A happy family gathering was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Clark, Lindsay Highway, on Friday evening in special honor of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Huffman and family of Peterborough, who were leaving to make their home in Toronto.

The early part of the evening was spent in games on the spacious lawn. Later all gathered in a circle while the Huffman family, seated in the place of honor, was presented with a large serving tray.

Milton Clark, in a brief address, expressed regret at their departure, but was confident that their community spirit and Christian ideals would be carried into their new field of service.

Mr. Huffman, in his usual pleasant manner, replied on behalf of the family, after which all joined in familiar songs. Following a delicious lunch several of the young people entertained in a half-hour of tricks and stunts. Finally all joined hands and the singing of Auld Lang Syne brought a very pleasant re-union to a close.

This Is Everybody's War

By MOLLY BROWN

One of the most important ways in which a child rounds out his education, and fills in the gaps left by formal teaching, is by reading. At least, it is if the child reads the right books, and reads them voluntarily. His formal education is framework that will fall to pieces if it is not constantly added to, protected, and polished by experience, and by the best reading that the literary world can supply.

It is important, therefore, what books a child reads during his formative years. Children whose reading has been confined to the comic strips, the pulp magazines and the "big little books" and others of that ilk, grow up with minds grown lazy, imaginations dulled, and vocabularies poverty-stricken. The trouble with this inferior type of literature is that it is dangerously easy to read, since it uses a limited vocabulary and never makes any call upon the mental capacity of the reader to understand it. These very qualities make it attractive to children, the majority of whom read for the story, rather than the literary quality. It is the taste for the literary quality, however, that stays with the child when he has grown up.

There are enough good stories, well-written, to supply the needs of any child, without his ever once turning to the enervating field of "pot-boilers." The reading of these books will not only bring the child a greater and more lasting pleasure than any other books, it will also build up in him a taste for the best in literature, and a standard by which to judge the books he reads later on. They will stimulate his imagination, and quicken his understanding because they are written with imagination and understanding and they will strengthen his vocabulary, because the men and women who wrote them were masters of the English language.

But if the child is to enjoy the full benefit of this reading, it should be done voluntarily. There is a kind of blight on books read because, for some reason or another, we have to read them. It makes it hard to concentrate on the reading matter, makes the hours spent on it lag interminably, and the story seem uncommonly dull.

Our educational system has managed to cast this blight on a good many standard works of English literature by placing them on the school supplementary reading lists, making them required reading to supplement the school courses in English literature. Thus the books which children might have read for pleasure, and in doing so, obtained unlimited benefits, have become nothing more or less than "homework."

However, children should still have a chance to enjoy the really good things in life, by discovering them before teacher waves a list in their faces and says, "You've got to read four of these before Christmas." If he cannot find them in his own home, then he should be able, under the wise and unobtrusive guidance of a good librarian, to find them on the shelves of the Public Library.

Unfortunately, in the boys' and girls' department of the Peterborough Public Library, even that pathway to delight and a liberal education has been blighted with the shadow of compulsion. Visitors to, and patrons of, the children's library, will find the standard English classics, and other great works of literature, interned in their own special corner of the shelves, and damningly labelled "Supplementary Reading." They don't circulate very freely, and no wonder! The authors whose works languish under this blight include Rudyard Kipling, Charles Dickens, Jane Austen, the Brontes and Sir Walter Scott. A world of delight, high romance, and adventure on the shelves of a public library, but blighted with the dictatorship of the schoolroom.

The Public Library is not an adjunct of the school, it is a separate institution, with a different, but equally important service to perform in the community, and its facilities should not be diverted to serve the purposes of the school, to the detriment of its own peculiar purpose. The library is a democratic educational institution, where children should be able to browse at will, exercising their own personal tastes, and developing their minds according to their own individuality, as opposed to the discipline of the classroom, where a child is compelled to receive the necessary rudiments of education. The classroom teaches a child to read; what he reads is, or ought to be, his own business. It is the business of a Public Library to see that he has at least the opportunity of choosing the best, and to offer him nothing that is useless or harmful.

Women Are Urged To Can As Much As You Are Able

By MARY MOORE

With the farmer and fruit shippers talking blue ruin about crops I hitched up my horse and shay and took a little turn around the countryside and found they weren't exaggerating.

The peach crop in the famous Niagara district and southwestern Ontario is about 30 per cent of the 1942 crop.

In the Okanagan Valley it is a shade better with a reported crop of 40 per cent of 1942.

Our peach - hungry population should can with tender care all the peaches we can lay hands on. I have just finished canning 24 quarts with the pits in. My jars are nearly all quarts and if the peaches are not cut they retain more of their vitamin content.

Canned Peaches (1943 Style)

Eight or ten peaches will fill 1 quart jar if halved. Three and one-half peaches fill 1 pint jar if halved. If peaches are left whole you cannot get as many in jar, but some time and vitamins are saved.

Scald peaches by letting them stand in boiling water 1 minute in wire basket. Lift out and peel and put in sterile jars halved or whole. Immediately fill jars to overflowing with boiling hot sugar syrup made by boiling together for five minutes 1 cup sugar to every four cups water. Put on sterile rubbers, lids and rings, stand jars in h-t water bath and after boiling point is reached process 25 minutes at boiling point. If fruit is processed in oven seal jars completely then turn back top ¼ inch. Place the jars 2 inches apart in a shallow pan of warm water on centre rack of preheated oven of 275 degrees Fahr. Heat should not fluctuate. Process at 275 degrees Fahr. in oven for one hour. Immediately on taking the jars from oven seal them completely. Tighten the lids again as the jars cool. Place jars on several thicknesses of cloth. Cool quickly, but avoid drafts.

The picture of tomatoes is 100 per cent rosy. They are plentiful; they are cheap; we need them (especially if the citrus fruits are going to be high in price) to give us our vitamin C and generous amounts of other vitamins; they can easy! Good old tomatoes!

Canned Tomatoes

(I have had letters from readers who protest about using tomato juice for pouring over whole tomatoes in cans. It might be of interest to many of you to know that it is unlawful to use anything but tomato juice for filling cans in canning factories when tomatoes are being canned.)

Select the less perfect tomatoes to boil down for juice. Scald tomatoes by letting stand in boiling water 1 minute, then peel and core them. Put into sterile quart jars halved or whole, and immediately pour over boiling hot tomato juice to overflow jars. Add 1 teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon sugar to each quart. (Add ½ teaspoon each sugar and salt to each pint.) Immediately put on sterile rubbers, tops and rings and seal. Process in hot water bath 25 minutes after boiling point is reached. If oven processed (see method under Canned Peaches) they require 45 minutes. Tighten seal and cool as directed for Canned Peaches. The sugar may be omitted.

Canned Plums

Since sugar is in such short supply you cannot risk canning sour plums, so wait until plums are thoroughly ripe to can them.

Plums rank with raspberries in being easy to can.

Wash ripe plums well, prick, pack in sterile jars, cover with boiling syrup made from 1 cup sugar to every 3 cups of water which has boiled five minutes. Seal with sterile rubbers, tops and rings. Process in hot water bath at once for 20 minutes after boilling point is reached or oven process as directed under Canned Peaches for 1 hour at 275 degrees Fahr.

Since there is still some rhubarb to be found and many of your jars might remain empty I would advise you to fill them with rhubarb canned by the simple cold water pack method. It works.

Cold Water Canning

This method works for RHUBARB, GOOSEBERRIES and for CRANBERRIES. Wash and cut small pieces young rhubarb and pack in sterilized jars. Place each jar under the cold water tap and let the water run through the rhubarb for 20 minutes. When time is up fill jar to overflowing and cover tightly with sterile rubbers, tops and rings. Screw lid down tightly. Gooseberries and cranberries may be canned by this rule. Keep product in cool dark place.

I do not usually give you unusual and off the record things like tomato paste, but this is such a good product for dishes that are meat substitutes that I am doing some down to use in the recipes I am going to give you next winter.

Italian Tomato Paste

Wash (but do not peel) and cut in slices 1½ pecks ripe tomatoes. Add 3 teaspoons salt, 1 large stalk celery cut up with its leaves, ¾ cup onion chopped, 1 clove of garlic minced, 3 tablespoons fresh herbs such as sage, thyme and dill, (or 1 tablespoon dried herbs), ¾ teaspoon peppercorns, 12 cloves, 1 2-inch stick of cinnamon. Simmer all these ingredients until the tomatoes are soft, stirring frequently. Then strain through fine sieve.

Simmer the pulp, having the kettle standing on an asbestos mat, stirring frequently, until it is reduced by about half which takes about 2 hours for heat cannot be high or it will burn. (The next step is the method the Italians use to store it and since it is quite effective you would be wise to follow.) Spread the paste to about ½ inch depth on moist plates. Cut the paste into squares to permit air to penetrate. Place the paste in sun to dry, or dry in a slow oven of 250 degrees Fahr. When the paste is dry roll it into balls. The balls may be dipped in salad oil. Store them in airtight jars or store the paste in layers in a tin box with waxed paper between the layers.

Chili Sauce

This quantity make about five quarts.

Wash, peel and quarter 3 dozen large tomatoes. Remove the seeds from 1 dozen sweet green peppers, and 1 dozen small hot red peppers. Skin 1 dozen large white onions. Mix the vegetables together and add 2 lbs. brown sugar, 1 quart vinegar, ⅓ cup of salt, 1 tablespoon each black pepper and allspice, 1 teaspoon ground cloves. Cook these ingredients slowly until thick for about 3 hours, stirring very frequently to prevent burning. Taste and add salt if desired. Seal in sterile pint jars and seal with sterile rubbers, tops and rings.

NOTE: Twelve of the tomatoes may be replaced with 6 peaches and 6 pears.

Please write to me before the season is on top of us for pickle recipes that you know you are going to want.

Price Control Ration News

The Women's Regional Advisory Committee, Consumer Branch, Central Ontario, Wartime Priecs and Trade Board, answers questions put to this paper regarding price control and ration regulations.

Q. I gave my grocer four meat coupons for a 2⅓ lb. veal roast. Shouldn't I have got three lbs.

A. As you think you should have received three lbs. of meat, we assume that your roast was a front or leg roll (boneless). In this case, four coupons would entitle you to three lbs. of meat. Since your roast was only 2⅓ lbs., you could have taken the other ⅓ lb. in any other meat listed in Group B on the meat coupon value chart.... For example, you could have taken ⅓ lb. ham (skinless, boneless) or ⅓ lb. side bacon (piece). If there was nothing you wanted in Group B, you could take 2-3 lb. of any meat in Group C or 13 oz. in Group D.

Q. My grocer charges 14c quart for milk. Is this correct? He also charges 15c for two bunches of half rotten celery. It is not worth that much.

A. This price for milk seems high. Of course it depends on where you live, whether you paid for the bottle, too, whether it is ordinary milk or a special grade. Ceiling price for ordinary milk in Toronto area is 11c without the bottle. In other centres the price of milk is usually lower than Toronto. Please send us particulars and name of the dairy. We will have the matter investigated at once and let you know if you are being overcharged. The price of fresh celery does not come under Wartime Prices and Trade Board Regulations. The only fresh vegetables on which ceiling prices have been set are onions and potatoes.

Q. Are peppers under a ceiling price? I have had to pay 10c for three.

A. Peppers are not under a ceiling price.

Q. A certain Coal Company has been cleaning our furnace for years at a charge of $2.00. As they have now discontinued the service they referred me to another firm who charged $3.00. Is there no ceiling or restrictions on the price of services of this kind?

A. Yes there are price restrictions on such services. You should not pay more for having your furnace cleaned by the SAME firm than you did in the basic period, September 15 to October 11, 1941. Each firm has its own ceiling price which is the same as they charged during the basic period. The firm which charged you $3.00 must have charged that in the basic period. However, if you have any evidence that they have raised their price, please send particulars to the nearest W. P. T. B. local office or to us and the case will be investigated promptly.

Please send your questions or your request for Price Ceiling Record Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices mentioning the name of this newspaper to:

Numa Billed To Meet Black Comet

An important wrestling match takes place in the Brock St. Arena here next Monday night. Gentleman Jack Clayborne who has made a great hit here with his starry mat work, has agreed to take on one of the best known mat stars, none other than the notorious Red Shadow. This mysterious athlete who was un-masked recently by World Champion Wild Bill Longson proved to be the sensational Seattle blond Leo Numa. Numa is a big powerful athlete who took to the mask role in order to get his match with the champion whom he claimed had been avoiding him. The blond bombshell from the coast will make his first un-masked appearance here for the Clayborne bout. In two matches since his unmasking Numa the Puma is reported to be wrestling much more effectively even than when he wore the spectacular red hood. The reason for this, he claims is that the mask had a slightly smothering effect on his wind but that now he is able to really give out with the super energy. Well if Numa is able to outenergize Gentleman Jack Clayborne, we want to be there. The bounding black athlete is one of the liveliest big fellows we have ever laid eyes on. In fact for a two hundred and twenty pounder the Ebony Flash is the highest jumper and kicker in the wrestling world.

Make Decorative Things Out of Paper

Smart Paper Things

If you ever need a special hat and bag for a particular occasion and feel that you can't afford to buy one—why not make one yourself? And make it out of paper too! Seems fantastic but it is really quite logical when you see how smart it looks in the illustration above.

There are many things you can make with paper—things that are really useful in a home—for instance, screens. A versatile folding screen can be the decorative keynote of your most attractive room. It is done by montage, which means to mount and put together.

And that is exactly what you do—you can put together your favorite magazine covers, for example, all over a screen in jigsaw-puzzle fashion.

Full instructions show how to make these screens and many other things are included in our 32-page booklet. Flowers, lamps, baskets, decorations are just a few of the smart things you can make yourself.

For your copy of "Making Decorative Things Out of Paper" send 15 cents in coin or stamps to the Examiner's Home Service Department. Be sure to write your name, address and name of booklet plainly.

"The Authority on Authorities"

TRY FOR BEST CONTRACT

AFTER YOUR partner has bid one suit, you have bid another, and you fear No Trumps because you have only one of the other two suits soundly stopped, it sometimes pays you to bid it, even if it is just a three-carder, in order to learn whether or not your partner can guard the fourth suit. That can occasionally get you into a sound No Trump game without too much risk, especially if the three-card suit you call is a minor

North: ♠ 7 4 2 ♥ A Q J 6 ♦ A K J ♣ 10 9 6

West: ♠ K Q J 6 5 ♥ K 7 2 ♦ Q 10 2 ♣ K 7

East: ♠ 3 ♥ 10 9 5 4 ♦ 9 6 5 4 3 ♣ 4 3 2

South: ♠ A 10 9 8 ♥ 8 3 ♦ 8 7 ♣ A Q J 8 5

(Dealer South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1♣	1♠	2♥	Pass
3♣	Pass	3♦	Pass
3 NT

South bid the No Trump game confidently, after his partner's diamond bid, knowing all suits were in shape. There was not much risk to the diamond call as, being a minor, it was highly unlikely South would support it, and it would be the key to a No Trump game if South could stop spades. At another table of the same duplicate, North, instead of 3-Diamonds, went to 4-Clubs and South to 5-Clubs.

After the spade K lead to the A, the No Trump declarer finessed hearts, then clubs to the K. West scored two spades, but South then got the rest of the tricks, making an extra for maximum score on the deal.

The club declarer did a beautiful job in vain, as his contract was not fortuitous. Winning the spade K with the A, he finessed the heart J, scored the A, ruffed the 8, the K dropping, finessed the diamond J, scored the A and K for a spade discard, led the heart Q and discarded another spade. West ruffed this with the club 7, scored his spade Q and led the J. East ruffed and South over-ruffed, then dropped the club K with the A and had nothing left but good trumps. Making his contract, this nevertheless was a case of love's labor lost, since he had no chance to outscore the No Trump man.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ None ♥ Q 10 8 6 5 2 ♦ J 2 ♣ Q 10 9 6 5

West: ♠ 10 8 6 4 ♥ 7 4 3 ♦ 8 7 6 ♣ 8 3 2

East: ♠ A Q 9 7 5 3 ♥ A K J ♦ A 10 ♣ J 7

South: ♠ K J 2 ♥ 9 ♦ K Q 9 5 4 3 ♣ A K 4

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

If East bids spades at the levels of one, two and three and then doubles South's 3-No Trumps, what suit would you lead in the West, and why?

CANADIANS INVADE ITALY

Reds Launch New Offensive Retake 550 Villages Kill 16,000 Huns In 2 Days

German Radio Admits Big Push Underway
Important Gains Believed Made
Entire Donets River Basin Is Objective

LONDON, Sept. 3—(CP).—The German radio announced today that the Soviet army had launched a grand offensive in the central Donets basin area of south Russia early this morning.

The broadcast failed to locate more precisely the reported push. The Russians have been driving forward in this area for several days, and yesterday announced important gains, including the capture of the cities of Voroshilovsk, Slavyanoserbsk and Lisichansk.

The German announcement said that "since the early hour of today the expected Russian attack in the central Donets has been in full swing. The Russians employed hundreds of heavy artillery batteries and fighter formations according to the principles of their well-known attrition tactics. There are as yet no further details about the course of this new large-scale action."

The Germans meanwhile fell back before other Soviet drives that cut the main Nazi rail link between the central and southern sectors 150 miles from Kiev and crashed into the Smolensk defence perimeter for a gain of six miles.

Five Red armies were engaged in the gigantic Soviet offensive, which threatened the entire German battle line on the Eastern front.

The speed of the Russian advance, which already has cracked the enemy's 1941 invasion lines, indicated that the Germans were retreating along the whole Southern front in an apparent attempt to get behind their Dnieper River defence system. Russian generals were giving them no rest, thowing immense forces of men and motorized equipment into the offensive.

Move Steadily.

Capture of the Ukraine stonghold of Sumy, 90 miles northwest of Kharkov by Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's command was announced personally by Marshal Stalin in an order of the day yesterday, while a communique told of the storming of Krolevets an Yampol on the important Bryansk-Kiev railway linking the Southern and Central fronts.

The Donets Basin drive yielded the cities of Voroshilovsk, Slavyanoserbsk and Lisichansk, while Budenovka, 20 miles from Mariupol, fell to the Red Army troops in their push along the rim of the Sea of Azov.

The Russian communique emphasized that the Germans were battling stubbornly all along the 600-mile front in their effort to get the bulk of their armies safely across the Dnieper.

Nearly 10,000 German dead were counted in yesterday's fighitng as the Soviet troops carried their advance through 250 villages and towns, many of them of strategic importance, for a 529-day bag of

Japan Has Lost One-third Fleet

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP).—Navy Secretary Frank Knox announced to-day that one-third of Japan's total merchant shipping, approximately 2,500,000 tons, has been destroyed.

Knox said this destruction of one of Japan's most vital war resources was chiefly accomplished by American submarines, although all United Nations' sea and air forces have participated in the sinkings.

Knox agreed with a questioner at his press conference that the enmy's loss of cargo tonnage was impairing the ability of the Japanese to exploit profitably their rich territories in the Southwest Pacific.

Whether this loss of tonnage was responsible for the withdrawal from Kiska Island in the North Pacific, and from islands in the Central Solomons in the Southwest Pacific, Knox said he did not know. But he added that those wtihdrawals certainly had been brought about by overseas communication difficulties.

In making the estimate of actual tonnage sent to the bottom of the China sea and Western Pacific by United Nations forces, Knox used figures which he said he could not officially confirm. Japan's estimated cargo tonnage at the start of the Pacifc war in 1941, was 6,368,891 tons.

The Japs have built or acquired in the interim an estimated 1,250,000 tons, to give a grand total of tonnage available or built of 7,618,891.

Destruction of one-third of this total would put the enemy's tonnage loss at 2,539,630.

Says Ross Munro Landed In Italy

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Sept. 3—(CP Cable).—Canadian military men here indicated today that Ross Munro, veteran Canadian Press war correspodent, had gone to Italy with Canadian landing parties from Sicily early today.

If this indication is borne out, it will be the fourth time that Munro has landed with Canadian troops on foreign soil.

In the summer of 1941 he accompanied a brigade of the Canadian 1st Division to Spitsbergen.

In August, 1942, he was with the troops who swarmed ashore for the battle of Dieppe, France.

Last July 10 he landed on the Pachino beaches of Sicily with the 1st Division, reporting the 38-day campaign to its conclusion.

EXTRA!

TORONTO—Officials at John Inglis Company here to-day said about 60 persons were taken ill shortly after eating lunch at the plant last night.

QUEBEC—The Trades and Lagress of Canada in annual convention to-day urged enactment of a National Health Insurance plan on a contributory basis at the next session of parliament.

Algiers Radio Urges Italian People To Oust Germans and Welcome Allied Units

LONDON, Sept. 3 (CP) — The United Nations radio at Algiers broadcast a special appeal to the Italian people today asking them ing in Southern Italy "as liberators in the same fashion their forefathers welcomed Garibaldi."

Broadcasting in the Italian language, a spokesman said:—

"Italians, on the threshold of this fifth year of war the forces of the United Nations are filtering into the so-called European fortress. Italians, remember the words of Mr. Churchill when he told you 'Italy is paying a terrible price for the Germans' war. Italy is becoming a battlefield. Germany is trying to keep the war as far from her soil as possible.'

"Italians, these were the words of Churchill on the eve of the Allied landing on the Italian Peninsula.

"The advance of the United Nations' forces is the logical and inevitable consequence of recent events. The people of Sicily already are enjoying the fruits of liberation.

"Italians, welcome the Allied liberating forces in the same fashion your forefathers welcomed Garibaldi.

"Out with the Germans."

Six Allied Armies Ready To Aid 8th Army's Attack

By H. M. PETERS—Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain's famed 8th Army—"a household word all over the world" in the words of its commander, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery—today spearheaded the Allied invasion of the European mainland. With it, and part of it, went Canadian troops, believed to be the battle-tested 1st Division which Gen. Montgomery described in Sicily as one of his "veteran divisions."

While the exact composition of the force landed on the toe of Italy from Sicily was not announced and presumably will not be until the operation is firmly established, observers felt certain that Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds of Kingston, Ont., had led his Canadian division into this action as he did in the 38-day successful Sicilian campaign in which the Canadians saw furious fighting.

Last April 10, before the conclusion of the Tunisian cafpaign, Gen. Montgomery said this of his 8th Army which had driven from the Nile valley to Tunisia:

"I doubt if our Empire has ever possessed such a fighting machine as the 8th army; you have made its name a household word all over the world.

Assuming the 1st Division is in the current action, it marks its third operation since it was taken overseas in December, 1939, by Maj.-Gen. (now Lt.-Gen.) A. G. L. McNaughton, its original divisional commander who now commands the Canadian Army Overseas.

The division has a Canadian tank force of at least two battalions attached to it. Also near the scene of action is the No. 5 Canadian General Hospital from Winnipeg, a self-contained modern hospital moved from Britain and set up in Sicily for the handling of casualties.

The composition of the 8th Army has been altered considerably since it began its westward drive from the Nile Valley last October. In size it has varied from four to seven or eight divisions, from 80,000 to 160,000 men, counting supporting and supply units.

5 Divisions

In Sicily it numbered at least five divisions, four British and one Canadian. Earlier, in Africa, there were included veteran New Zealanders and Gurkhas from India.

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's choice of the 8th Army for the initial operation meant that the Allied High Command still has six armies throughout the Mediterranean area ready to throw into action at the right moment.

In Sicily there is Lt.-Gen. George Patton's American 7th Army.

In Africa there are Gen. Sir Kenneth Anderson's British 1st Army, the American 5th Army under Lt.-Gen. Mark Clark, and Gen. Henri Giraud's French forces, newly formed and equipped.

And back of these there are the British 9th and 10th Armies in the Eastern Mediterranean, commanded by Gen. Sir William Platt.

Strong naval and air forces, commanded respectively by Admiral of the Fleet Sir Andrew Cunningham and Air Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder complete the picture of Allied strength now engaged against the underbelly of Europe.

Big Fortresses Smash At Paris

LONDON, Sept. 3 (AP)—American four-engined bombers attacked the Audron-Renault aircraft factory on the outskirts of Paris and an aircraft assembly plant at Meulan Les Mureaux, northwest of Paris, in a daylight attack today as Anglo-Canadian invasion forces stormed onto the Italian mainland, a joint Anglo-American communique announced.

In sun-darkening swarms, Flying Fortresses and Marauders swept across the channel under cover of swift-striking Thunderbolts.

Londoners got a view of part of the returning formations, approximately 150 Fortresses flying northward over the city as persons in the street stopped and cheered.

The Paris Radio said in a broadcast heard by The Associated Press that an "extensive raid" was made on the Paris region, adding that the main target was the left bank of the Seine.

The daylight attacks followed night blows by the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. against Axis airfileds and other targets in Northern France and the Low Countries.
